No. 12

A Happy New Year to you!

CLANTON, ALA

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XVI

CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 2, 1908

No. 12

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

One of the Rights We have, and Some We Have Not.

A Happy New Year to you!

Very reluctantly, I call your attention to the new rule of the Postmaster General, who says in the most unmistakable language that subscribers who are due more than one year cannot be supplied with their only county paper through the second class rate, the only way it has been possible to reach them.

He cheerfully says that they can be reached by the publisher paying four times as much to reach them, but as we are paying nearly double the price for paper, we cannot see our way to quadruple the price of mailage.

A Happy New Year! That is a beautiful wish; did it ever occur to you? It is an expression of the desire of those offering it that the new year may prove a happy one to you. The years that have passed may have been of an unsatisfactory nature to you, but your friends hope for you a "Happy New Year." What more can any one hope for?

New Year's night, or rather eve, was ushered in with the sound of church bells—a christian sound that reverberated on the ear with a responsive sound, and the noise of fire-crackers and bombs that sometimes disturbs the rest of the sleepers.

A New Year's hop was given at the Auditorium Wednesday night, a number of young ladies and gentlemen from Wetumpka enjoying the occasion. Dancing was kept up to an early hour Thursday morning.

With the close of the year the pool room has gone out of business, the patronage not being sufficient to pay the licenses and other expenses. We now have a dry town unenlivened by a pool room. We are truly good.

The first quarterly conference of the Methodist church will be held January 11 and 12, at Clanton.

Mr. A. C. Smith made a trip to Montgomery Thursday.

HUNTERS' LICENSES.

All hunters' licenses for the year 1907, expired Tuesday and those who hunt on or after January 1, 1908, must provide themselves with license for the new calendar year. Whether issued now or next December, the price of hunters' license is just the same. Sportsmen appreciating this fact have begun already to duly equip themselves for the pursuit of the wild members of the fur and feathered tribes during the ensuing year.

Robins are protected by the game law and cannot be killed at any time. These birds migrate to Southern climes and temporarily sojourn here during the winter and spring, they then repair to the North where they build their nests in orchards and near the habitation of man, and raise their broods. Up North they are valuable to the farmers and destroy tons of noxious weed seeds and injurious insects. They are there esteemed most highly as songsters, and are loved on account of their friendliness to man. The sensation experienced by those who dwell to the North, by the former slaughter of robins by the millions in the South, is about the same the people of this State would feel if our almost sacred mocking birds should migrate to Cuba in the winter and be killed almost to the point of extinction, and led to hogs by the natives as robins erstwhile were in the South.

The migratory game birds such as duck, geese, snipe, plover and woodcock are protected in the Northern states, and the South owes to the citizens up there a reciprocal obligation.—Montgomery Advertiser.

There is a number of people who are under an erroneous impression. They think that they never control enough money to start a bank account. In this they are mistaken. We solicit small accounts as well as large. And we handle the business of both with our best care. We believe that you ought to have a bank account, and we offer you our services.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Ensley, Ala., Dec. 27, 1907.
To the dear old Banner—As I hardly ever see anything in the Banner from Ensley, I thought I would say a few words, as I feel an interest in old Chilton.

I would like to say a few words in reply to Mr. L. H. Reynolds speech in Ensley a few days ago. It seems that Mr. Reynolds thinks we would have better times under Republican rule than we would under Democratic rule. Mr. Reynolds spoke of the good schools and school houses in the West, especially in Colorado. He said the government built the schoolhouses and paid the teachers. Well, that is all right, and that is under Republican rule, but he did not say one time that the white children and negro children were forced to go to the same school together. Now, dear people, I was in Colorado last April, and I want to tell you what I was forced to do. I was forced to ride in the same coach with negroes and I was forced to eat at the same hotel with negroes. The first I saw of the negroes coming in the coach, was in Springfield, Mo., I asked the conductor what it meant. "Oh," he said, "This is a Republican State," well, I said to him we don't have that in Alabama. So when I got to Lyman, Kansas I stopped for breakfast and went to the hotel. There were two black negroes sitting at the table with white men and ladies. That is under Republican rule. When I got to Pueblo, Colo., I found there, whites and negro on the street cars together; and whites and negroes all go to the same school and the same church all under Republican rule. Mr. Reynolds failed to tell the people of Ensley these facts, and does he tell the people of Chilton, his home people, that we may expect to see our children go to school with negroes? If we vote the Republican ticket and come under Republican rule we may expect to see our children going to church and school with negroes. I am not writing this with any reflection on Mr. Reynolds, but because I think it my duty. I wanted to tell the good people of Chilton what they may expect if Alabama is ever ruled by the Republicans.

Mr. Reynolds made a very nice speech in Ensley, about half of his audience were Greeks, and they were very cordially invited to join the Republican party. Well, I will close wishing the Banner and the people of old Chilton a happy New Year.

Sardinia.

Editor—Will you allow me space for a few words in your paper. Health of this community is very good at present.

Christmas came and gone, very quiet, some serenading, but all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Mr. Tom Klinner is back home from his trip to Autauga county.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell of Sumnerfield, visited friends and relatives here Xmas.

Mr. Jim Murr of Autauga county, visited Mr. Klinner Xmas.

Mr. T. B. Minor and family visited his brother, near Jones Switch Xmas.

Misses Zedie and Lula Deason visited Miss Canzadie Bone Christmas, reporting a fine time.

Mrs. Latham of Plantersville, visited her daughter, Mrs. Hase of this place.

Mr. Luck Seales has moved his family to Mr. Walter Roper's saw mill.

I think we will hear the wedding bells down the road before long.

We laughed ha, ha, 'till our sides did ache, at the music the serenader's did make.

Will close wishing the Banner success and a happy New Year to its readers.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

Many people seem to think that unless they can open a Savings Account with not less than $50.00 or $100.00, it is not worth the while to begin. This is not a correct position to take. If a person cannot open an account with more than $1.00, and really desires to get some money ahead, then he should begin with even $1.00. The first dollar saved and put in bank, is the initial step on the way to prosperity. "Great oaks from little acorns grow." As a rule, the person who "Puts off" the opening of a Savings Account until he has a large amount to deposit, is not likely to ever have a bank account. We solicit your account.

Vida.

The Baptist church and all who knew Mrs. Gains, will miss her presence, but she leaves a record worthy of sacred remembrance.

Some mistakes were made in the article written on the death of Mrs. Gains, which we beg to correct.

Mrs. Catharine Gains, age 73 years, died December 9, 1907, after a long, useful life. This good woman leaves nine children and many friends to mourn her departure.

She was the widow of Mr. Billie Gains, who died some years ago. They are now united to part no more.

We wish the whole Banner family and editor a happy New Year.

Mrs. IRA CAMPBELL.

If a cough once gets into your system it acts on every muscle and fibre of the body and makes you ache all over. It especially affects the intestines and makes you constipated, so in order to get rid of it you should not take anything that will tend to constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system. It contains no opiates—it is pleasant to take, and is highly recommended for children. 5 PERSONS PERISHED

Meat: Family Banned to Death
Near Boston, Mass.

HUSBAND, WIFE, 3 CHILDREN

Remains of the Fire Was Several Miles From the Center of the City, and Upon the Arrival of the Firemen,
the House Was a Mass of Fire.

Boston, Dec. 28.—Five persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the house of John Clark at Watertown, a suburb, early Friday.
A member of the Clark family was killed in the flames.

The dead are:
John Clark, his wife and their three children, John, aged 11; Philip, aged 8, and Doris, aged 2.

The flames had made great headway
when first discovered by a neighbor, about 1 o'clock.

The house was about 2 miles from the center of the town and by the time the firemen reached the scene,
the house had been burned almost to the ground.

The firemen were able to locate the bodies of the father and two boys, but the mother and little girl were not found until the ruins of the house had been sufficiently cleared to permit a more thorough search.

The house was valued at $5,000.

GYPSY CAMP ROBBED.

Following Bathing Celebration Thieves
Stole Large Sum.

New York, Dec. 28.—An entire gypsy camp is under arrest, from the charge of robbing a queen of the gypsy camp, who accuses them of having robbed her of $100.

Queen Doris is queen of a band of Hungarian gypsies camped on the edge of the city on the Bronx. Gus Stanley is king of a band of English gypsies camped nearby.

Queen Doris's daughter, and King Gus's son, have long been in love with each other and it was finally agreed between their royal parents that they should be married. Queen Doris was paying to King Gus $500 to bind
the bargain.

So, on Thursday night, King Gus gave a party in celebration of the marriage, and invited all of Queen Doris's followers to his camp. One girl was left to watch the Hungarian camp. During the evening a man and woman called at the camp to share their fortune told, and while the girl was busy with her fortune, someone stole the tent behind her and a bag containing Queen Doris's savings of sixteen years.

SHOT BY BIRMINGHAM CHIEF.

Andruff Became Unruly and Bit the Finger of the Chief of Police, Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 28.—Chief of Police James Merriam shot and fatally wounded a Macedonian man, Jim Andruff, while resisting arrest.

Andruff was arrested by the chief
on a trivial offense, and on the way to the station Andruff became unruly and in his efforts to escape bit the chief's finger in his mouth, biting it severely. The chief drew his pistol and attempted to strike the prisoner.
When Andruff seized it. In the struggle the pistol was discharged, the bullet passing through Andruff's neck, causing paralysis.

Gallant Confederate Dead.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 28.—A telegram from Staunton, Va., announces the death of Colonel Uriel L. Boyce, of Staunton, Va. Colonel Boyce was 25 years of age and was for many years a leading figure in Virginia.
When in Missouri he served with distinction in the Confederate army. Later he practiced law in Winchester
when the Shenandoah Valley railroad was projected he became its chief counsel and later president until the line was absorbed by the Norfolk and Western.

Judge Jones Injured.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 28.—Judge
Thomas G. Jones, of the United States court, was painfully hurt by falling from a car near his home on Thursday night. He stepped off and lost his footing in the dark. His shoulder is sprained and he will be laid up for several days. The case out of the railroad against the state laws was pending in Judge Jones' court.

Mail Pouch Stolen.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 28.—A mail
pouch with about 1,000 letters, containing holiday parcels of money, Jewelry, checks, etc., was stolen at Morrison Junction between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock on the evening of Dec.
27. The empty pouch was discovered in a box car Thursday at Madison.

Two Children Cremated.

Richmond, Tenn., Dec. 28.—The bodies of John Tillery, two miles from this place, was destroyed by fire Thursday and two children, a boy and a girl about two years of age, were found dead. They had been left alone for some time by the parents.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Trying to Turn Out Chimney, Her Clothes Were Ignited.

Washington, D.C., Dec. 28.—The news has reached Washington of the fatal burning of Mrs. Lucy Marshall at her home near Annapolis, in this county, nine miles east of here. Mrs.
Marshall was at home Sunday with her mother, and about noon she decided it would be a good idea to burn out the chimney, which had been clogged with soot.

She secured several newspapers with which to make the base in the chimney, and while sitting near the open fireplace the last newspaper, instead of being drawn up the chimney, for some reason fell back into her lap
a roaring ball of flames.

Her clothing became ignited and she was fatally burned before assistance could reach her.

CRIME WAVE IN NEW YORK.

Criminal Court Calendar Breaks All Previous Records, It Is Said.

New York, Dec. 28.—Although six criminal courts are in operation in New York, they cannot keep pace with the crime wave which has swept over the city during the last year.

The criminal calendar Thursday carried 1,271 cases, while a year ago there were on the calendar but 800 cases.

There are 223 prisoners in the Tomb, 230 awaiting trial and 139 awaiting the action of the grand jury. Thursday's docket broke all records in New York.

There has been considerable sickness among the criminal judges which may account in some measure for the slowness in trying criminal cases.

SON OF POLICE CHIEF SHOT.

Three Persons Under Arrest at Richmond, Va., Charged with Crime.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 27.—Barney
Dorman, a son of Chief of Police J.
W. Dorman, was shot and killed on Tuesday night.

The cause is not fully known. He was fired at nine times by three separate parties, the last two shots hitting him in the back of the head, and were fatal.

The three negroes, who are arrested in Stewart county jail, are George Green, 355 Simmons and Lee Robinson.

Barney Dorman had just returned home from Lloyd, Fla., where he has been engaged in the saw mill business for some time, to spend the Christmas here with his parents. He was twenty years of age.

PRICE OF WATER GOES UP.

Government Makes an Increase at Famous Hot Springs.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Hot Springs, Ark., says:
"An announcement was made Thursday that the United States would double the price for its heating hot waters
after the first of the year, and that all bath house leases would also be doubled. A protest will be sent to Washington. The hot water now is dispensed by the government at $30 per annum for each tub supplied. The bath house owners state that under the 'old' government now in force
they are unable to meet the raises.

Bitten by a Tarantula.

Rome, Ga., Dec. 26.—A negro man named John Jones was bitten by a tarantula while handling a bunch of bananas. The negro works for E.
Florence, who runs an Italian restaurant here, and was engaged in putting a string around a bunch of bananas.
He put his hand through the bunch, when a tarantula bit the man on the hand. Mr. Florence immediately took the negro down to a drug store, and the wound was cauterized.

All Records Broken.

New York, Dec. 28.—Although New York has passed through a period of severe financial depression the foreign business of the port during the year 1907 will break all records. The exact figures for eleven months and an estimate for December made by the customs authorities show that the year's business will reach $1,503,332, 902, an increase over last year of $110,127,325.

Award of Noble Prize.

Turin, Dec. 27.—Albert S. Michelson, the American consul here, was congratulated by the entire consular body and many distinguished citizens upon the awarding of the Nobel prize for physics to his father, Professor Albert A. Michelson, of the University of Chicago. The consul was much pleased at the kindly spirit shown and telegraphed an account of the manifestation to his father.

Masons Give Banquet.

Americus, Ga., Dec. 30.—The Masonic lodge of Americus Friday night held their annual election of officers, after which the several lodges united in a public installation ceremony. A banquet at the Pythian castle followed the installation of officers, many lodges gracing the occasion and enjoying the eloquent addresses of prominent speakers. The Masonic lodge of Americus are in excellent physical condition after upon the new year under brilliant auspices.

A SENSATIONAL STORY

Shanghaied Lad Relates His Adventures as a Sailor.

SEIZED AND PUT TO WORK

Claims He Was Shanghaied by Crew of a British Ship and Was Mistreated by Officials in Brazil to Whom He Applied for Relief.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 28.—Howard Ray, 15 years of age, on his way to San Francisco, hoping to find his home and his parents whom he left before the earthquake, told a sensational story of adventure as a sailor, of being shanghaied by the crew of a British ship, and of being mistreated by a United States consul in Brazil to whom he applied for relief, in the police station here, Friday night when he applied for lodging.

When thirteen years old, he said,
he shipped as cabin boy on San Francisco on the steamer Chilli, bound for Cape Town. As cabin boy and as ordinary seaman often performing the duties of a grown man, he worked his way in different ships to Sydney, Melbourne and many other ports, finally ending at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where he was seized with a desire to return home. He shipped on a boat bound for Norfolk, Va., and reached that point without adventure and was given his pay for the voyage and his discharge.

Walking through the streets of Norfolk, he says, he was seized by sailors from the British coal steamer Ti-tania, where he was kept for several days until the ship sailed. He was released and put to work as a sailor.
The ship was short of sailors and he was taken forcibly as a recruit. In the course of time, he again found himself in Rio Janeiro, where he appealed to the American consul. That official, the lad avers, gave him cruel treatment, hushed up the fact of his being shanghaied after several conferences with the British consul and finally refused to assist him to get back to the United States because he could not prove that he was an American citizen.

The British consul assisted him to New York. He stole his way to Altoona on freight trains, he says, and the officers there gave him transportation to Pittsburg. He hopes to be given help here and at other points that will take him to San Francisco. Whether he will find his parents there he does not know. He has heard nothing from them since the earthquake. Pittsburg authorities will probably give him some help.

STOLE TO SAVE FAMILY, HE SAID.

Chicago Postoffice Employee Arrested for Purloining Letter.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—John J. Healy, for twenty years an employee of the Chicago postoffice, and the father of ten children, was arrested Friday for the theft of a letter containing $4.
"I did not make enough to take care of my family," said Healy, "so I was being led away to jail. I took it for them."

When the detective reached Healy's house there was no coal in the stove and the place was damp and chilly.
There was little food and the ten children had asked for some, there would not have been enough to go around. Their clothing was old and worn.

The bureau of charities has been notified. Healy was unable to furnish bond and was lodged in the jail.
Healy has been receiving $1.00 a year. He is forty-eight years old.

MONEY CRISIS PASSED.

Scarcity of Cash No Longer Exists in New York City.

New York, Dec. 28.—The fact that a money crisis no longer exists in New York was shown Friday, says the Times, when the premium on currency dropped from 1 per cent to 1/2 of 1 per cent.

At the same time it was announced that there had been a decided drop in cable transfers. Lazard Freres, which banking house has been the largest importer of gold since the beginning of the recent flurry, announced that a large quantity of gold recently purchased in England for export to this country has been resold in London.

The decline in the premium on money, due to a lessened demand for it, has made the importation of gold unprofitable.

Bandits Easy Prey for Passengers.

Superior, Wis., Dec. 28.—A special train from the Great Northern passenger train leaving Superior at 9:10 o'clock Thursday night and arriving in Deer River at 2 o'clock Friday morning, was boarded by three armed men, who proceeded to hold up passengers. Some of the latter attacked the robbers, knocked them down, disarmed them and turned them over to the sheriff.

Elects Worshipful Master.

Columbus, Ga., Dec. 28.—J. J.
Kelly, one of the leading citizens of Columbus, has been elected worshipful master of Mount Vernon lodge No.
204.

REPRIEVE CAME ON SCAFFOLD.

Negro Made Statement, Preachers Had Prayed, When Reprieve Came.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 28.—Just as the black cap was about to be placed over the head of Henry Thaxter, a negro convicted of the killing of S. T.
Huntstucker, white, a year ago, a telegram was delivered to the sheriff who stood near the lever of the gallows in the jail yard here.

The telegram was from the governor of the state, and he ordered a suspension of the execution for fifteen days. The scene was most dramatic.
The prisoner lifted his hands upward and exclaimed: "My God!"

The negro had made a statement from the gallows, the negro preachers had prayed, and two verses of a hymn had been sung. George Conason had tied the prisoner's arms when a boy rushed up to the gate and handed the telegram to Chief Deputy Brown, who in turn cried out, "Hold, Colonel, wait a minute!"

Then the sheriff mounted the steps of the gallows and read the message aloud. All the prisoners in the jail gave a loud cheer, and the small crowd of spectators were dimmed as the prisoner was led back to the jail, weeping and crying.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Proof of Interest to Lawyers and the Strategic People.

New York, Dec. 28.—A decision which will prove of considerable importance to lawyers and strategic people has been filed by Justice Hough in the United States district court, in the matter of bankruptcy of Mrs.
Lizzie Carter-Payne.

Judge Hough decides that the ability of a player is not an asset that can be touched by creditors or a receiver in bankruptcy. The receiver took over the scenery and properties of Zana and Du Barry, in which Mrs.
Carter had been appearing, and demanded a share in the contracts on which she is to appear in "La Tosca" and "Fedora." Judge Hough orders the return of the property taken and rules that the receiver is not entitled to any interest in the contracts or in the salary she obtains for her work.

It is said the case will be appealed.

EYES WERE BUG OUT.

Terrible Tragedy Occurs at Railroad Station House.

Snowhills, Wash., Dec. 28.—Two men, named Miller and Carroll, entered a section house Friday night, which was occupied by seven Italians, and ordered them to hold up their hands.
The hold-ups then began shooting.
The Italians then attacked the outlaws with tools. After killing Miller, a carpenter, was driven through his head, an eye was stuck in his body several times, and his eyes were dug out. William Carroll, the other man, was also injured, but survived until the officers from the city arrived, when all were taken to prison.
Three Italians were wounded.

PREVENTED LYNCHING.

Strong Guard Protected Negro Who Shot Chief of Police.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 28.—A special from Harrisburg, Pa., says:
To prevent a threatened lynching, a strong guard has been placed about the town jail in which is confined Charles Reed, a negro, who on Friday shot and probably fatally wounded Chief of Police J. C. Smith, while the latter was endeavoring to arrest him.
After the shooting Reed was captured, after an exchange of shots, by a posse of citizens. He was rescued from the posse by the authorities, despite the demands of the citizens who desired that summary punishment be inflicted.

Oldest Living Yale Graduate.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 28.—The much disputed question as to who is the oldest living Yale graduate is decided by an official statement made by Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, secretary of the Yale corporation. He gives the honor to William Davis Ely,
a retired lawyer residing in Providence. He was a member of the class of 1836 and was born in 1815. Two alumni are older in years than Mr.
Ely. George T. Spencer, class '37, of Corning, N. Y., and Chester Datton, class of '39, of Concordia, Kans., both of whom were born in 1814.

Home Wrecked by Dynamite.

Brownsville, Pa., Dec. 28.—The house of B. Frediani, an Italian, was wrecked early Saturday morning by an explosion of dynamite. The entire front of the house was blown out, but neither Frediani or members of his family were injured. Recently Frediani received letters from an alleged black hand society threatening death if money was not paid the society.

Emphatic Denial Made.

Shreveport, La., Dec. 28.—An emphatic denial was made Thursday by the officials of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company that a strike was probable by their employees' union, also denied that any trouble was imminent. The heads of the railway also deny that there is any deal on looking to the absorption of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company by the Frisco system.

COLLISION IN A FOG

Three Persons Killed and Dozen Injured.

ACCIDENT NEAR CAMDEN, N. J.

Fatal Rear-End Collision Occurs on the Elevated Tracks of the Pennay via Railway—Fire Added to the Difficulties of Rescue.

Camden, N. J., Dec. 28.—Three persons were killed and more than a dozen others were injured in a rear-end collision on the elevated tracks of the Pennsylvania railway a short distance from the station in this city.
The cars were so badly smashed that it will be several hours before the exact number of persons caught in the wreck will be known. Fire added to the difficulties of the work of rescue.

The trains involved were the express from Atlantic City and the Pen-naboard accommodation train. These trains were due in the Camden station at 8:21 a. m. There was a very thick fog when the accident occurred.

The express train was made up of two baggage cars, one parlor car and three coaches and the accommodation train consisted of a combination car and four coaches.

Both trains, it is said, were running cautiously, as they approached the station. The engineer of the Pennaboard train, because of the fog, did not see the Atlantic City train. It is said, until he was close upon it.
He jammed the brakes down, but it was too late.

The trains came together with considerable force. The tender of the Pennaboard train telescoped the first car of its train, killing three persons and injuring at least four. The rear car of the Atlantic City express was wrecked. The wreckage immediately took fire from the locomotive and the police and fire departments of Camden were called into service.

The fact that the collision occurred on the elevated structure, made the work of rescue difficult. The rescuers could not reach the structure from the street but had to go to the wreck from the station at the foot of Market street.

All available help from the station and men in the railroad yards and shops were pressed into service and the injured were quickly taken from under the mass of wreckage and conveyed to the Cooper hospital and the West Jersey hospital.

The fire was extinguished before it reached the victims pinned under the wreckage.

LOVER FILLED WITH BIRD SHOT.

Senatorial Denouncement of Attempted Elopement at Albany.

Leesburg, Ga., Dec. 28.—B. W.
Adkins, an employee of the Lee County Journal, was filled with birdshot
in front of the home of Deputy Clerk
J. W. Morgan, a prominent citizen of this county.

The shooting came as the denoue-ment of an elopement planned by Mr. Adkins and Miss Nora Morgan.
It has not been clearly developed whether the father or the brother of the young lady did the shooting.

Just as Mr. Adkins drove up in front of the house the shot was fired. It was preceded by a warning cry from Miss Morgan.

The shot took effect in the face,
neck and shoulders of Adkins.
He returned the fire with a rifle, but his shots were without effect.

Rests on Mass of Garnets.

New York, Dec. 28.—That New York city rests on a mass of garnets is the discovery of Ralph E. Morgan, an English mineralogist, now visiting here. Mr. Morgan, while passing the subway excavation in Thirty-third street, stopped to look at the mass of rock thrown up and discovered a big garnet. He learned that the rock excavated was dumped at Sheepshead bay, and visited the dumping grounds.
There he found a number of excellent garnets. Garnets are, however, of small value and there is no present prospect of mining being carried on in the city to any great extent.

Says Killing Was Justifiable.

Flowers Branch, Ga., Dec. 28.—
Frank Fraser, a son of Squire Thos.
J. Fraser, of Clinchman district, Hall county, was shot and instantly killed
here by H. W. Bennett. Bennett readily surrendered to arrest and is now in Hall county jail at Gainesville.
He states that the killing was justifiable. Both parties are prominent young men of well known families.

Three Injured in a Fire.

New York, Dec. 28.—Three persons were seriously injured and several others burned and cut by broken glass in a fire in a six story tenement building in East One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street Thursday.

Fired Shot Through Head.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 28.—After firing one shot at the wife, Charles Kenner, a Louisville and Nashville switchman, killed himself by firing a bullet through his head. He was out of work and dependent.

EVERYBODY TO PAY LATE.

Order of Commission Barring Applies to Everybody.

Atlanta, Dec. 28.—On Wednesday, Jan. 1, 1908, there will be no free passes on steam boats, street cars or trolley carriers in Georgia, for the first order of the railroad commission prohibiting such will be in effect on that date.

The mails in Georgia, for the two days have been pending from those bulky little envelopes
the statement: "Resolved, that annual issued to you for the 1908, with the compliments of D. & Q. railroad."

There is not a loophole in the order, nor issued several months ago, cutting off the free transportation
all lines and of any character soever.

It applies just as truly to a car pass from the Terminal and Brookwood, on the street cars of Atlanta as it does to the pass from the Southern system
over the Southern system.

It cuts off all free passes, and other city employees, and time immemorial have been free, and the street car company perfectly willing to continue the practice. It cuts off all allied passes, and holds the issuance of free passes to those exceptions provided by the Georgia law guard to interstate transportation.

So far as Georgia is concerned
the word "pass" is to be eliminated from the dictionary of every day language. The telephone company is the management took this cover that system, and that after January 1, 1908, all free over this company's plant was out off.

Walking clubs have been out throughout New York, and will less become popular in Georgia.

ARM TORN OFF BY DYNAMITE.

Wreck of the Late Senator
E. Brown Badly Injured.

Camden, Ga., Dec. 30.—So heard from in this county that only one serious, and perhaps holiday casualty.

On the Savannah river, near Ground, Joseph B. Watkins, a few others were throwing bombs into the river, and un-derly. Watkins held in his the bombs or cartridges under his arm, and he was exploded in his hand, tearing his and forearm off and badly injuring his face and right arm. It much doubt of Mr. Watkins' life.

Mr. Watkins is a former late Senator Brown, being Joseph Emerson for him, and several relatives in Atlanta. He died and has several children.

POSTPONEMENT OF RATE.

Cases Postponed a Week on Account of Illness of Judge Jones.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 28.—The hearing on the application of the railroads for an injunction to the enforcement of state rate law has been postponed from Jan. 6 to because of the illness of Judge
Jones of the United States court.
Judge Jones had a fall from last week, and, though he is now well, he thought best to himself a week longer to regain strength.

KILLED GIRL AND SELF.

As Soon as Man Was Jilted
He Committed Suicide.

Arlington, Mass., Dec. 28.—
Edith M. Ashley, eighteen years of age, died Sunday night by inflicted Saturday night by her Samuel Stetson, twenty-one years of age, of Rockland, who killed
her immediately after shooting her.
Miss Edith said she told her that he must give her up and then shot her.

Stetson was a shoe worker.
Ashley was a member of the 1908 of the Arlington High school.

Claims Japs Mapped Portland.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 28.—Marry K. Lane created a sensation in an address before the National Guard association, when he stated that agents of the Japanese government had secured accurate maps of the city of Portland, and sections of every roadway leading to the city and various pipe lines which the city obtains from the city. Mayor Lane did not deny the presence of the agents
until their work was completed,
upon he transmitted the maps
to Washington and was asked for all the details of the operation of the alleged spy.

Maplesville.
Christmas was unusually quiet here. No doubt the financial crisis and shutting down of public works had something to do with it,
but Maplesville is a better town than it was a year ago, and with a few obstacles removed we would have a good, quiet moral village.
The two Sunday schools had a Christmas tree Wednesday night, and it lacked in decorations, and illumination was made up in the number of useful and pretty gifts.
Santa Claus was there with his wit and wisdom, giving pleasure to young and old, he went through the audience offering fruits to all that had not been served, so none would go away "empty handed."
another manifestation of his generosity was presenting two charming young ladies to two gallant young men; he having recently changed his state from single wretchedness, wished others to follow his example and "sip nectar from the cup of cannibal bliss." Master Leighton Parnell entertained a number of his friends Friday afternoon, refreshments were served and games enjoyed, the time passed rapidly away and Master Leighton was declared an ideal host.
Among the visitors to our town
during the holidays were, Miss Stacia Goodwin of Selma, Miss Cobb of Jemison, Miss Plant, Birmingham and Mr. Frank Kelly and wife of Selma.
A number of the farmers are holding their cotton for fifteen cents. We hope they will get it and will hail the day when Wall Street Speculators no longer put the price on this great staple of the South. AM.

 Editor Banner.—Please allow me
 to say a few words.

The Christmas season here was quiet but thoroughly enjoyed by everybody for there were many little social affairs to celebrate the arrival of the year, and Santa, who always brings so much happiness.

The entertainment at Mr. and Mrs. Westers Christmas night, was enjoyed by all who attended. A few of the guests were as follows:

Misses Effie Westers, Pearl Ward-leigh, Pearl Womack, Virginia and Mamie Harbin, Mr. and Mrs. C.
 C. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Davis,
 Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Mr. S. H.
 Mock, Messrs H. G. McPhail, Ed
 Broussard, Wesley Davis, A. S.
 Fellows and Ernest Lawler. The music was played by two darters, it was fine.

Mrs. Hynes and sister, Mrs.
 Brady, spent Christmas here.
 Several families have moved away from this place, this town is getting dull.

We regret to say that Mr. and Mrs. Parker will leave the 31st, for Louisiana, where they will make their future home, we wish them a good time.

Say! We would like to hear from Blue Eyes.

Will ring off wishing you all a happy New Year.

BLACK HAND DOOMED

Plans On Foot To Stamp Out All Such Organizations.

ALL MOVEMENTS HERALDED

Organization of Italian-Americans Will Appeal to Congress for More Stringent Immigration Laws.

New York, Jan. 3.—A plan, wide in its scope, to crush out the black hand, mafia and like organizations, has been devised by Joseph Petrosini, head of the Italian branch of the local detective bureau. Petrosini has established correspondence with heads of the police departments in Rome and other Italian cities and through them will endeavor to bring a brigand or blackmailer to the country for America. He has established similar connections with the police of Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Denver, San Francisco and New Orleans and many smaller cities. In this manner the local police will be kept track of the leaders of the gangs and cliques in this country. Petrosini is a strong proponent of the organization of a national body of Italian-Americans, which proposes to appeal to congress to pass an immigration law to cause a more careful examination of immigrants from Italy and South Italy.

Many undesirable citizens, men known as brigands in Italy and South Italy are permitted to enter America. They should be kept out. When they reach America they are adopted and made leaders by the unemployed. They then, and soon, are again in the old game of murder and blackmail. This can only be stamped out by driving as many of them as possible out, because the average citizen is afraid to tell of his persecutions.

YOUTH PAYS DEATH PENALTY.

Was So Light That His Neck Was Not Broken by the Fall.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 3.—Clarence Sturgeon has been executed. His extreme youth was the basis of many unavailing efforts to have him pardoned.

The execution was delayed and rendered extremely painful for those present by reason of a failure of the mechanism to work and a consequent delay of several minutes, while the condemned boy stood rigidly awaiting the end. Sturgeon was so light that he did not break his neck on the drop and was not pronounced dead until seventeen minutes.

Sturgeon, murdered Ira Bruner, a woman blackberry and Wilfred McMichael one year ago.

Sturgeon was only nineteen years old. He went to the scaffold with a calm and hypnotic trust which has been in his boyish face ever since he has been in jail. Even the last interview with his aged father and mother and farewells to his seven brothers and two sisters failed to affect him.

POISONED BY EATING CHEESE.

A Dozen Persons Are in a Critical Condition as Consequence.

Wharton, Ohio, Jan. 3.—A dozen people were seriously poisoned here by eating cheese and at least five of them are reported to be dying.

Those poisoned are: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell and three children; Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Order and two children; and the family of Thomas F. Evans.

Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Bell and children are dying.

BERLIN POLICE MAKE A RAID.

Seized a House in the Suburb of Charlottenburg and Arrested Seventeen Members of the Central Committee of the Russian Workmen's Party.

The raid was made under the Prussian law which forbids meetings of secret societies, and presumably was a result of information supplied by Russian political agents.

NO INQUEST NECESSARY.

Atlanta, Jan. 3.—Coroner Thompson, after a consultation with the county attorney, decided that under the evidence of the case an inquest over the body of Marian McEachern, sometimes known as Marian Evans and Marian Hall, was not necessary.

She was her second attempt at suicide. The woman was twenty-four years of age, and had almost perfect features.

TO DISPOSE RECEIVERSHIP.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 3.—A plan was made public here Friday whereby the receivership for the Westinghouse Machine Company may be dissolved and the business of the company returned to the stockholders. There seems no question of a doubt that the plan will be successful.

Bank of Bombay Refuses Rate.

Bombay, Jan. 3.—The rate of discount of the Bank of Bombay was refused from 5 to 7 per cent Friday.

A SENSATION WAS CREATED.

Mayor Refused to Advise Petrosini Was in Effect.

Columbus, Ga., Jan. 3.—A sensation was created in Columbus, Georgia, when the mayor of that city upon being notified by Mayor Browne, of Columbus, that prohibition now exists in this city, declined to advise the fact.

The Alabama law which provides for prohibition in Columbus was operative when the mayor of Columbus certifies to that fact, and when the Girard mayor provides the fact five days. The chain is complete to the last link but up to this hour the Girard mayor has failed to insert the advertisement.

Mayor Browne furnished him a certificate and in his reply to the letter Mayor Foster says:

"The paper furnished me by you says upon no duty to take any action whatever."

A profound sensation was created among prohibitionists of both cities by the Girard mayor's answer. The supposed defect in Mayor Browne's certificate has not yet been explained. Mayor Foster has left for Seattle, Ala., to seek legal advice.

Probate Judge Benton, of Russell county, Alabama, states that attorneys are preparing mandamus proceedings to compel him to issue liquor licenses for Girard.

STATE ANSWERS SUITS.

Railroads Hold That New Legislation Is Only a Development.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 4.—In answer made in the federal court the state says that neither the railroad commission nor the attorney general has any right to enforce state railroad laws, hence cannot be made parties to the suits brought to enjoin these acts by the railroads.

The state, therefore, takes the position that the old laws are repealed and the new laws are a development of the old laws and are not a new law. The state also says that the railroad laws are a development of the old laws and are not a new law. The state also says that the railroad laws are a development of the old laws and are not a new law.

CONFESSED TO FALSE ENTRIES.

Storrs' Confession Is Complete—$1,000,000 Falsely Entered on Books.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3.—Another sensational chapter was added to the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company scandal when H. L. Storrs, one of the bookkeepers of the company, broke down under a merciless cross-examination and confessed that the false entries in the books were in his handwriting and had been made under orders from J. Dallzell Brown, the imprisoned manager of the bank, and J. D. Robertson, the fugitive assistant secretary.

The confession made by Storrs was complete in every respect and established the fact that nearly $1,000,000 had been falsely added to the assets of the bank in order to deceive the state commissioners.

SHIPWRECKED SAILORS REACH PORT.

New York, Jan. 3.—Seven shipwrecked sailors, believed to be the only survivors of the crew of the sixteen of the Norwegian bark Germania, were brought to New York by the oil tank steamer Hohman, New York.

They were picked up in mid-ocean on December 17 in a terrible condition from exposure, eight days after their vessel had been abandoned. Another boat which contained eight men has not been found. The captain of the bark who remained on board until all the men found places in the small boats, went down with his ship.

CARELESSNESS NEARLY COST A LIFE.

Athens, Ga., Jan. 3.—Miss Fannie Arthur, of this city, came near losing her life by carelessness. She had been ill and was taking medicine prescribed by her physician. Her father gave her a dose of medicine out of a cup and as it happened this cup had been used for another purpose and had some carbolic acid left in the bottom. The small amount of carbolic acid that remained in the cup made Miss Arthur desperately ill and it required quick work to save her life.

FOUND WITH THEIR THROATS CUT.

Kington, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Irving Baker, his wife and four-year-old son, who lived at Liebardt, 20 miles south of here, were found dead in bed with their throats cut late Thursday night. From the appearance of the bodies it is believed that Baker killed his wife and child and then committed suicide. Baker was said to have recently run heavily into debt.

COUNTRESS SEEKS DIVORCE.

London, Jan. 4.—The Countess of Yarmouth, who was Miss Alice Thaw, of Pittsburg, has begun proceedings for the nullification of her marriage with the Earl of Yarmouth. The Countess of Yarmouth is a sister of Harry K. Thaw.

L. M. COLEMAN HANGED.

Lake Charles, La., Jan. 3.—L. H. Coleman, white, was hanged here for the murder of Deputy Sheriff William Shoemaker at De Quency, La., on October 24, 1906. Coleman killed Shoemaker when the deputy attempted to arrest him on a minor charge.

JAPS DAILY ARRIVING

Unexplained Gathering of Criminals at Vancouver.

MANY COMING FROM HAWAII

Paternal Government Cannot Do Anything to Prevent Japanese Coming to British Columbia—Charts Being Arranged.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 4.—A dispatch to the Oregonian from Vancouver, B. C., says:

The unexplained arrival of 200 Japanese at Vancouver Friday and the influx of 1,500 within the next month from Honolulu, are features of the Oriental situation in Vancouver.

The 300 came from the coast logging camps and some even from the American side of the boundary line. Friday night there was the usual crop of rumors that they came in view of the possible troubles of the Asiatic Exclusion League are much perturbed over the event.

Friday it was announced that at least 1,000 Japanese would come from Hawaii during the next three weeks. One steamer, already chartered, will leave Honolulu with 150 aboard for Vancouver next week. Chartered are now being arranged to carry others.

Time, too, all the accommodations of the steamer of the Canadian-Australian line have been secured six months ahead of the Japanese of Honolulu. There is room in the steamer for only fifty of each steamer.

Of course, technically, the paternal government cannot do anything to prevent the coming of these Japanese to British Columbia, for the Japanese are free will agents once they have landed in their passports at the islands, and there is really nothing to prevent them inflicting their presence on this outpost of Great Britain, thereby of Japan.

So far, no action has been taken by the British authorities toward the Japanese.

It is estimated that there are hundreds of Japanese in the Japanese section.

YOUNG MAN SHOT AT DANCE.

Difficulties Led to Gun Shot Over Their Rivalry Over Young Lady.

Washington, Ga., Jan. 4.—News has been received here from Stony Ridge, a small village in the western part of the county, that Roger H. Smith, a son of George H. Smith, was shot twice and seriously wounded by Hugh E. Collins, Smith's condition is very serious and he may die at any moment.

The difficulty between the two men is believed to have arisen out of a desire of both to marry the same young lady at a dance.

MY USED A BIT OF STRATEGY.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Dressed in the garb of a rabbit, Policeman Jos. J. Roach Friday evening dispersed a crowd of hoodlums in a short time before had stolen Rabbit Wm. C. Colby, pastor of the Bickur Chatham temple.

The policeman upon being told of the attack on the rabbit decided as a bit of strategy to don the rabbit's robe. Roach was promptly showered with missiles by the mob which he approached on the street. Angered at the attack, the policeman forgot his rabbinical costume and wielding his club with suddenness and vigor, put the surprised mob to flight.

ROMANCE BEGAN IN THE SURF.

New York, Jan. 5.—The marriage of Miss Marjorie Conley and D. Perry Wilson, just announced, was the result of another of the many romances that have begun in the surf.

Two years ago Miss Conley, who had come to New York from Louisville, Ky., to earn her own living, went to Atlantic City on her vacation. She was an expert swimmer, but one day, venturing outside the life lines she became exhausted and but for the aid of a young man would probably have drowned. The man was D. Perry Wilson, son of a wealthy railroad man of Lock Haven, a student of Lehigh university.

BYRCE TO BE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER.

New York, Jan. 5.—James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the New York bar association January 24 and 25. Mr. Bryce will speak on "The Methods and Conditions of Legislation." Joseph H. Choate will deliver his annual address as president of the association.

TUNNEL TRAINS READY FOR PUBLIC.

New York, Jan. 5.—The first trains under the East river to Brooklyn will be run some time next week, when the new tunnels will be opened for public traffic and will greatly lessen the congestion during the rush hours on the Brooklyn bridges.

PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 4.—A petition to voluntary bankruptcy was filed against the Long Leaf Lumber company, of Houston, Tex., by W. A. Bell, L. B. Menefee and E. G. Blemer, receivers, which an alleged indebtedness of $57,957.

LETTER WAS INTERCEPTED.

Negro Estimated That Witness Must Be Put Out of Way.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 4.—Standing under the shadow of the gallows, condemned to die for the murder of Samuel W. Hunsicker, Henry Thaxton has written a letter to his sister in which he intimates that it was necessary to put a white man out of the way to save him (Thaxton) from the gallows.

Thaxton was scheduled to hang on last Friday, but was given a reprieve of fifteen days in order to give some of his friends an opportunity to make good the statement that new testimony had been found. The letter in which he (Thaxton) tells his sister, Tilla Johnson, that a man must be gotten out of the way was intercepted by the sheriff's deputies, who have been instructed to guard the condemned negro carefully.

The man mentioned in Thaxton's letter as the one to be gotten out of the way is Jim O'Hear, who is said to have witnessed the murder for which Thaxton has been convicted.

Thaxton's sentence was commuted fifteen days in very dramatic fashion last Friday, a telegram arriving from the governor just as the sheriff was about to pull the gallows' trigger.

STORE ROBBED AT FOLKSTON.

Safe Blown Open, $200 and a Number of Other Things Taken.

Folkston, Ga., Jan. 4.—The iron safe in the store of H. J. Davis at this place was blown open and robbed. The store was effected by opening the front door with an ax.

The robbers secured a little over $200 in cash, a Winchester rifle, a pistol and about three boxes of cigars, nothing else in the store being molested.

The explosion was heard by several nearby parties, who rushed to the scene, but tarried too late to make a capture. Tracks indicated that there were three in the party and that they went north.

LIQUOR INTERESTS LOSE.

Clubs Promise to Keep "Lid" Down Hard on Sundays.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—What is claimed as a victory over the liquor interests was announced Friday by the Chicago Law and Order League in communications made public from five of the leading clubs of the city promising to slap the "lid" down hard on Sunday bars and "bust" in their club houses.

The Chicago, Chicago, Hamilton, Union League and University clubs it is said, have promised to "cut out or keep out" strong drink from their Sunday service to members or guests.

THEATRICAL MEN FORM ORGANIZATION.

New York, Jan. 5.—A new organization of the theatrical men was completed Friday known as the National Association of Theatrical Producing Managers. More than 200 members have already been enrolled.

The association is formed for the purpose of enabling the managers to work together for the good of all in such matters as the regarding railroad rates for theatrical companies. Practically all the well known producers in the country are included in the membership.

STOCKS FARM WITH PARTRIDGES.

Thompson's Mills, Ga., Jan. 4.—Jasper N. Thompson, proprietor of extensive farms in this section, has received two hundred Hungarian partridges, with which to stock his place. This will be the first shipment of these fine game birds ever brought to the state of Georgia. Much interest is being manifested in the experiment of attempting to stock the country with these game birds.

PEOPLE SELLING FOR EUROPE.

New York, Jan. 3.—Now that the financial flurry is over hundreds of people are sailing for Europe for the winter. Many of them were delayed because of the stringency in the money market, and the desire to remain at home until the financial horizon had cleared. Twelve great liners sailed Saturday and carried practically full passenger lists.

WILL TAKE OFFENSIVE ACTION.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—Viscount Aoka, the retired ambassador of Japan to the United States, who is on his way to the Orient, arrived here Friday night. He said that Japan was willing to restrict the emigration of her subjects but would consider as an offensive action any attempt on the part of the United States to exclude Japanese from America or American insular possessions.

RACING PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

New York, Jan. 4.—There is every prospect that the racing season on the New York tracks next summer will be an exceptionally good one. The big races of the spring meetings have been well entered and there is not a prominent horse on the turf that is not entered in one of the three big races.

POSSE AFTER CONVICT

Escaped Prisoner Killed Two Men and Wounded Another.

HE WENT TO WIFE'S HOME

After Altercation That Followed Fight Sheets and Kills One Woman and Dangerously Wounds Another—Wife Missing.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 5.—A special from Little Rock, Ark., says:

Posse of citizens are scouring the woods in the vicinity of Spence, Newton county, in an effort to apprehend Yates Sandridge, an escaped convict, who on Friday killed two men and wounded another.

Members of the posse declare Sandridge will be lynched if captured here. Sandridge after escaping from the state penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence for robbery, went to the home of his wife and threatened her life.

The woman sought protection at the home of another neighbor. Sandridge followed her to the neighbor's home and in an altercation that followed shot and killed the neighbor and Mrs. Overturn, and dangerously wounded Mrs. Rousemeyer.

Mrs. Sandridge cannot be found and it is believed, she has also been killed.

GEORGIA GETS A FLAT RATE.

Order Comes As Result of Conference of Governors Held in Atlanta.

Atlanta, Jan. 5.—An order establishing a flat rate of two and a half cents per mile for passenger travel on the railroads in Georgia, this arrangement to become effective April 1, will be issued in a short time by the state railroad commission.

This order will come as the result of the conference of governors held in Atlanta when Governor Glenn of North Carolina and Governor Comer of Alabama, met with Governor Smith of Georgia, and discussed transportation problems for a full day. It was known that the flat rate was largely discussed but no decision was given out. Since the conference negotiations have been in progress in practically all the southern states. The railroads, it is understood, are very anxious to reach an agreement which will give the same scale of rates in all of the southern states and there has been a concerted effort on their part to bring about such a compromise.

In Georgia the flat rate will mean an increase on several of the light standard lines over the rates ordered during the Taggart administration.

POLICEMAN FATALLY SHOT.

While On Hunt For Companion's Murderers, Meets Same Fate.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—While City Detective Wm. R. Mooney was lying on his death bed in Grace hospital, Friday, just after identifying the thief who shot him down on Thursday, another policeman was shot and fatally wounded by another thief under circumstances almost identical with the Mooney case.

The first of the two victims, Detective Mooney, died. The second victim was Patrolman Michael D. Callahan. While on the hunt for two companions of Mooney's assailant, he himself met the detective's fate.

Like Mooney, he accosted a little group of men on a street corner and inquired their business. Like Mooney his reply was from a revolver, and like Mooney, he fell with a bullet wound in his abdomen from which his recovery is considered impossible.

MEETINGS BEFORE COMMISSION.

Atlanta, Jan. 6.—Two public meetings of general importance will be held by the railroad commission in Georgia on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The first of these take place on Tuesday when the titling of C. A. Hunt, of Tusculum, Ga., versus the Western and Atlantic railroad, the property of the state is to be argued. It is expected the commission will issue the looked-for order putting a ban on graph courtesies. Attorney C. H. Chipley, of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, is at the Bell hearing that his company considered itself a common carrier and would observe order No. 1, anti-pass order.

GEORGIA ROAD PLANS

Will Ask Permission to Build Two of Its Local Lines.

Atlanta, Jan. 6.—The Georgia railroad commission, on Tuesday, Jan. 5, received a petition from the Georgia railroad commission, asking for permission to build two local lines in Georgia. This is the fourth time that the commission has received such a petition. The petition was received from the Georgia railroad commission, asking for permission to build two local lines in Georgia. This is the fourth time that the commission has received such a petition.

WANT HIM TO BUY

Shift to Make Tills Buy Money of Bonds.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 5.—Montgomery Light and Water Company bonds, also to be purchased from attempting to realize on the bonds as collateral for a loan of $100 to the same company.

The company refused to pay the purchase contract has been kept. It is alleged and Tills to buy, it is said, because of money. To remove the note to demand the equal of 15 per cent. It is said. The company willing to pay if Tills will prevent disposition of collateral. The court has remanded Tills until the case can be had.

The litigation in no way will the light company.

TWENTY-TWO PERSONS

Two Trolley Cars Crash Together.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6.—Twenty-two persons were injured last night in a collision of street cars on the West Savannah line.

The accident occurred when a large trolley car slipping sideways, plunged the car to the ground, rendering it invisible to the following small car, which crowded with passengers, crashed over the front of the small car, which was in the impact. Of the injured all save two were seriously and dangerously hurt.

A special car was sent hurriedly to the scene and all the injured taken to the office of the surgeon, where their wounds dressed. The injuries consisted of sprains, breaks and dislocations.

The Castle Comedy

Wilmington came over quickly to take the paper. He stood beside the table on the Frenchman's right to read it. May Percy, eager, anxious, had stolen to his other side. As Sir John read, her eyes questioned her lover's, but his quick smile of encouragement told her only to be brave and wait.

Sir John looked up from his reading. "Good! Good!" he cried. "We English can always fool you dull French spies. The government is awake."

"And, as usual, when awake it played the fool," broke in the Frenchman bitterly. "This, now—" He took the paper from Sir John. "It is safe to wager that 'French Percy' will fall in this, his last desperate undertaking, or, if he should get to the castle, will certainly be captured. The place is now being watched." The reader cast the paper down angrily. "Fool! Fool! That's what spoiled it."

"Spoiled it?" questioned Sir John. "Yes," blurted Dubarre, angry now clear through. "Spoiled it, I said. Send a man down here to watch, then publish stuff."

"What's this? What do you mean?" interrupted the slower Englishman, while even Mistress Percy began to show some signs of uneasiness.

"Mean?" ejaculated Dubarre. "I mean that while I fooled with a country bumpkin over his pastoral love affair because of this paper 'French Percy' slipped through my fingers."

Sir John fell back to gaze at him in angry, blank amazement. "French Percy gone!" he blurted. "All know you are the greatest liar!"

The other had recovered his temper by this time. Now he shrugged his shoulders.

"Only when it pleased me, I'm no more 'French Percy' than I am Captain Dubarre." And with his old mocking laugh he looked at the two astonished faces before him. May Percy fell away from him with a little cry of horror.

"What? What?" was all Sir John could mutter stupidly.

The self-confessed stranger drew himself up and bowed to them both deeply. "Jacques Fourney, the government's private emissary, at your service," he said.

"Jacques Fourney? Wellington's spy?" cried Sir John.

Mistress Percy looked for a moment at the Frenchman, fright and amazement in her eyes, then sank into the chair and buried her face in her arms upon the table. The stranger who appeared before them was a small case out of his coat pocket and extracted therefrom a bit of old paper, which he spread out and offered to the Englishman.

"Read this, sir, and change your mind." Then as Sir John glanced at it he added aloud, "Mistress Percy might like to hear."

The girl who had rooted in the man's arms so few minutes before heard Sir John read of her lover:

This is to certify that the bearer, Jacques Fourney, is a faithful, loyal and highly efficient officer in the British service. All soldiers and loyal subjects to whom he may appeal are hereby commanded to do everything in their power to aid him in whatever way he may desire, especially in the matter of the capture of the notorious outlaw and spy 'French Percy.' This order is to be considered a pass through all lines and is to serve as a requisition in case anything is needed by the bearer. All soldiers will see that it is duly honored. It will be shown only in case of grave necessity.

WILLINGTON, General Commanding.

Up and down, back and forth, before the door of the waiting chamber paced Captain Thornecliffe and Sir Henry Percy, laboring in earnest argument.

"You, Captain Thornecliffe, you have fought the French, you have bled for England, yet you give such counsel. I cannot understand it."

Captain Thornecliffe dropped his hand with light touch on the old baronet's arm before replying seriously: "And believe me, Sir Henry, that is the very reason I advise you to permit his escape. The fighters are not the haters, Sir Henry."

The older one shook off the restraining hand angrily.

"But," he protested, "this man humbled you and the British arms in outrageous fashion. Do you forget the shelling of the headquarters papers that early morning in the Spanish Pass?"

"On the instant flashed back the soldier's question, 'When came it the part of an English gentleman to bear malice against a gallant enemy?'"

Sir Henry's face grew hard at the reply. His hands began to clench and he was working fast in a characteristic rage.

"Your duty, Captain Thornecliffe?" "Will be in nowise evaded by letting this man go," broke in the soldier.

"He is counted one of the dangerous men in the French army."

"He is your cousin, a brave gentleman, here on private business and practically your guest," was the retort.

"He is an enemy to England, the minion of the Corsican spawn and practically a spy. Don't presume to teach me my duty, sir," roared the head of the Percys, advancing with threatening fist upon the soldier. But the man who had stood before the French Percy's sword did not fear the English one's anger. Instead—calm, contemptuous, serene—he faced the old man down.

"Your cousin disclosed himself to defend your daughter's honor, Sir Henry Percy, and, that done, he fought no more, though he might easily have got away. You seem to have forgotten that."

Sir Henry stood silent, overwhelmed with argument, too angry for coherent speech. With increase of the Percy stubbornness Thornecliffe's temper had been rising steadily; but now, fighting hard, he kept sufficient self-control to resume his quiet, convincing argument. He knew that behind that dog he guarded two men, his friends, enemies to the death, faced each other before the woman they both loved. The door of heavy oak led through no sound. What was going forward within he could but surmise, only he knew there would be a tragedy should Sir Henry in his present mood cross the threshold or any one from within come forth. And so for the life of a brave enemy he had come to love the gallant English gentleman fought hard with his friends.

"Sir Henry"—the question came forth sharp and straight—"If Colonel Latapie were not in love with your daughter would you wish to see him meet a felon's end?"

That shot struck home. The father's eyes opened wide.

"By my soul, Captain Thornecliffe, you take strange liberties!"

The soldier diplomat went on, unheeding the interruption: "And yet he is a brave gentleman and asked you for her fairly."

"Sir Henry—How do you know that?" roared Sir Henry, taken quite off his guard.

Thornecliffe tried hard not to show his triumph.

"Because," he said simply, "Latapie is a French officer and a Percy. Besides a man does not often throw away his life needlessly for a woman he does not love. And—and—as he said this the pleader watched the old baronet carefully—"he loves him much, Sir Henry."

Mistress Percy's father fairly exploded in rage and sorrow.

"What? What? My daughter—my little May—marry a Frenchman, a Johnny Croquet, a frog eater! Yes—yes—that is what the scoundrel asked me. I'll own up, Thornecliffe, I had decided to allow him to escape because he was such a good fellow, a family friend—after all, he is a Percy. You can't hurt the old stock, Thornecliffe, even with the weakening strains of the French blood. But marry May—my little May—take my only child over the water! Not that, Thornecliffe, not that. No one could ask that." The stern old voice trembled and broke.

A lump in his own throat, the soldier ventured to put his hand again, this time almost affectionately, on the shoulder of the older man.

"But why, old friend," he questioned gently, "merely because your cousin loves your daughter should you let the hangman's noose dangle over one branch of your family tree? Is that quite fair?"

The head of the house laughed aloud in sudden revulsion of feeling.

"I was mad, Thornecliffe—mad!" he cried. "The boy is a Percy. That was the reason. Do you think a Percy would give her up while he lives?"

Thornecliffe took a turn along the little passage and back again. It was the life of a brave man he wanted. The Frenchman must look out for his own love affairs, and besides his latent racial prejudice made the soldier feel that there was some justice in the father's words. Accordingly the pleader's next question was put carefully.

"Suppose—suppose, Sir Henry, Mistress May should marry Wilmerding? The Percys have two qualities—courage and honor. Your French cousin has proved that he possesses both. Marry her to Wilmerding tonight."

"Tonight?" murmured Sir Henry blankly. "I told him, Dubarre, Percy, that, but I did not mean it. Tonight?"

"Tonight," insisted Thornecliffe. "It must be tonight. The soldiers you sent for should be here now. Besides I recognized Wellington's spy, Fourney, in one of your French visitors yesterday. Now I know why he was here. Marry her to Wilmerding tonight, for not until she is married will the French Percy leave England. She will be safe from him then—and God help her!" muttered the soldier.

Sir Henry Percy drew a long breath of relief; then, with sudden feeling, gripped the soldier's hands—impulsively.

"Thank you, Thornecliffe—thank you. You have kept me worthy of my name. I'll start for Sir Harvey Johnston's at once and drive over tonight with the bishop. You—ah—you, with a wise nod, 'you arrange things. And—may the good God speed the boy!' he ended softly.

Within the waiting chamber the self-confessed spy stood laughing with cynical contempt at the girl he had won and the man he had conquered.

Mistress Percy, the proud gentleman, an overcoat at the disclosure of her lover, still sat beside the table, her face buried in her arms. Once she had looked up, but the sight of the contemptuous, sneering face of the spy bitterly baiting Sir John Wilmerding quickly brought her head down again.

The gentleman in disguise the girl had loved. Her hero cousin of Napoleon's guard, risking his life gaily in a gallant adventure and offering it gladly for her, she had adored. But this spy, by his own statement—this sneak, who laughingly confessed to trailing her here to gain for blood money and loudly regretted fighting for her because it might have cost him the price of 'French Percy's' life—she shrank from him in horror. Now at the thought of his kisses, at his every speech, the proud girl writhed with shame and loathing. There could be no mistake. She felt sure that now, for not even the reckless, desperate 'French Percy' could have dared the risk she had heard this man boasting take.

"I've fooled too long already with a country bumpkin over his pastoral love affairs. Call Captain Thornecliffe. He will identify Wellington's own hand. A nice thing it would be to report to the commander in chief that the assinine stupidity of a country militia officer allowed the most dangerous scout in the French army to slip through our fingers."

"By God," roared Wilmerding, snatching his pistol, "if it were not for the slight chance I'd kill you now!"

The spy laughed in his face. "And be hanged for it later. But I tell you the little chap of the pair here yesterday, the one with the gray eyes, was St. Croix. Now—impatiently—'call Thornecliffe.'"

Sir John walked over to the big door and knocked, and as he did so the spy stepped suddenly close to the table.

"Mistress Percy—"

A last unacknowledged hope shining in her eyes, she looked up.

"I'm sorry for the part I had to play with you."

A gasp, and the dark head sank again as the girl burst into shuddering sobs.

"Come, Hal, come. And you, too, Sir Henry. Come block this French trickster's game. The scoundrel claims now to be not St. Croix at all, but some spy—Fourney. See—the pass he has forged or stolen." And Sir John Wilmerding, at the door, thrust the paper into the hands of the astonished Captain Thornecliffe.

Dumb from amazement, Sir Henry Percy followed Captain Thornecliffe into the room. At the sight of his daughter sobbing over the table the old baronet was about to cry out, but the soldier, with a quick, warning grasp, restrained him. Smiling and easy, the spy bowed to them.

"What's this? What do you mean? Who are you anyhow?" blurted Sir Henry.

The prisoner bowed faintly a second time.

"As my pass reads—Jacques Fourney, Wellington's spy, at your service. Captain Thornecliffe should know that signature."

After one glance at the self-confessed Fourney the soldier had given all his attention to the pass. Now he looked up.

"It's genuine," he said. "There can be no doubt of that."

"And stolen, too, I wager," broke in Wilmerding angrily.

"It's scarcely possible, Jack. I saw this pass written in Spain. I recognize it by a crossed out word."

"And this fellow is—" gasped Wilmerding.

"He must be Fourney."

For quite a minute no one moved. The spy looked straight into the eyes of Thornecliffe and Thornecliffe straight into the eyes of the spy. But what each saw in the other was for those two only. Then impulsively the Frenchman thrust out his hand.

"Monsieur—Captain—"

Thornecliffe turned his back.

"I think," he said slowly, "your trail, Fourney, leads toward France. Sir Henry Percy, in accordance with that pass, will give you a horse. You may catch your man before he reaches the seaboard."

Bluebeard.

"Bluebeard" originated in France and was called the "Roi des Chevaliers de la Mort," the historic figure being a certain Gilles de Laval, lord of Rais. He was marshal of France in 1429 and though a brave and capable soldier was addicted to vice and violence, and from this fact was charged with the wholesale murder of young women, whose blood he used for the purpose of diabolical incantations. From these circumstances the web of the story is spun.

THE OLD AND NEW WAY

Some Important Facts Which May Prove Helpful.

Thirty years ago old-fashioned cod liver oil had to be forced down a patient's throat. Invalids couldn't take it, and children wouldn't. But the doctors prescribed it, and it had to be taken by force. Yet it cured people where enough could be taken into the system for it has ever been the greatest of all tissue builders and general reconstructors known to medicine.

We are now anxious to have every one know that Vinol is a new form of this very old and valuable remedy, containing in a concentrated form all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but by an extractive and concentrating process it is made without oil or grease, and it is as delicious to the taste as a fresh orange.

Vinol does not upset the stomach like old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions; its strengthening and healing properties are remarkable, and both doctors and patients are delighted with its action.

Many wonderful cures right here in Clanton have been effected by its use, and we ask all of our customers to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money, every time it fails to make rich, red blood, increase the appetite, cure stomach troubles, give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, run-down, tired and debilitated, or cure chronic colds, hacking coughs or bronchitis. He Met Shorty.

Nicknames are sometimes deceptive things, and they are sometimes extremely funny. I was in a small town not many miles south of Boston and, asking for a certain piece of information, I was informed by several that "Shorty" could give it to me, and he seemed to be the only man who could. Not knowing just who "Shorty" was, I made further inquiries and was told that he could be found in the store just across the square.

"Just ask for 'Shorty,'" I was told. "Any one will tell him to you."

I went over to the store as directed and looked vainly about for some one who might answer the name. Only one man was present, and he was almost a seven footer. After looking about a moment I started to leave.

"Lookin' for some one, stranger?" he observed.

"Yes, I'm looking for 'Shorty,'" I told him.

A broad grin overspread his face. "Guess you've got him," he murmured. "I'm your man."—Boston Traveler.

It is very important and in fact it is absolutely necessary to health that we give relief to the stomach promptly at the first signs of trouble—which are belching of gas, nausea, sour stomach, headache, irritability and nervousness. These are warnings that the stomach has been mistreated; it is doing too much work and it is demanding help from you. Take something once in a while, especially after meals; something like KODOL For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It will make your stomach do its work properly. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

The Huntsman's Mass.

Once every year, on St. Hubert's day, one may see hundreds of dogs in the Cathedral of Notre Dame at Brussels. At the huntsman's mass on that day the owners of hunting dogs take the animals to church with them, and for a short time the sacred edifice becomes a dog show place.

A writer in a Berlin paper. To lighten the effect all the worshippers attend in hunting costume and the bugle plays an important part in the musical service. When the last celebration took place a stranger in the city, who was staying at one of the large hotels near the place, strolled toward the cathedral and took with him a pet spaniel.

"Every dog has his day," he said, "and this is it." At the church entrance two pointers growled at the little dog and did it so fiercely that the little fellow turned and ran. He was coaxed back, but again driven away by another large dog. "The owner took the hint," says the writer, "and retreated to the hotel with his little pet, convinced that the big dogs looked upon the spaniel as an intruder, that he had no part in the St. Hubert's mass and that the day was not every dog's."

The Pure Food Law.

Secretary Wilson says, "One of the objects of the law is to inform the consumer of the presence of certain harmful drugs in medicine." The law requires that the amount of chloroform, opium, morphine, and other habit forming drugs be stated on the label of each bottle. The manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have always claimed that their remedy did not contain any of these drugs, and the truth of this claim is now fully proven, as no mention is made on the label. This remedy is not only one of the safest but one of the best in use for coughs and colds. Its value has been proven beyond question during the many years it has been in general use. INDIAN CORN.

Shrinkage of Yellow, White and Mixed Varieties Compared.
The experiment to determine the shrinkage of corn in the crib has been carried on three seasons at the Kansas experiment station. A summary of the results shows a shrinkage of 3.25 per cent for the first four months after the corn was placed in the crib, 5.15 per cent for the first six months, 6.80 per cent for the first eight months, 7.44 per cent for the first ten months,
and 8.62 per cent for the first twelve months. Yellow corn has given the greatest average shrinkage—namely, 11.81 per cent in twelve months, the most shrinkage occurring in the cribs of white corn, 8.48 per cent in twelve months, while the mixed corn (samples of many varieties) decreased in weight only 6.18 per cent during the first twelve months after being placed in the crib.

During the Winter Months.
The average result of all shrinkage tests indicates that when corn is crib-bed fairly dry and in good condition
the shrinkage during the winter months should not be over 5 per cent.
It should be observed, however, that in these experiments great care was exercised to prevent loss of corn by other than natural means.

Corn-feeding by the crib row method was begun in 1903. Nine different varieties were grown and used in 1905
as follows: Held Yellow Dent, Silver-white, Boone County White, Legal Tender, Hogue Yellow Dent, Hildreth, Mc-Intosh, Kansas Sunflower and White Injun.

Eighty acres were used for breeding corn and growing corn for seed-production in 1906, and 440 breeding acres were planted in separate rows of different breeding data. During the year the agronomy department has sold and distributed among the farmers of the state several hundred bushels of selected, well bred seed corn.

Results of Tests.
The difference in the yields from different ear rows has been very marked, varying in some tests more than 400 per cent. Comparisons made in 1906 between the high yielding rows seed and first grade seed selected from the general field gave results as follows: The Silverwhite high yielding rows seed plot yielded 52 per cent more corn and 24.8 per cent more first lar improvement in the grade and quality of the corn.

Alfalfa Meal in Commerce.
I. D. Graham in a report prepared for the bureau of animal industry states that a number of factories equipped with more or less expensive machinery have engaged in the manufacture of alfalfa meal on a commercial scale.

In order to accomplish this it is necessary that the hay be dried, and even then it is ground at the expense of great power. Hay as ordinarily made is not suitable for the manufacture of alfalfa meal because it contains too much moisture, which renders it exceedingly difficult to grind and most liable to spoil. The commercial article is made from selected alfalfa and mixed with sugar beet molasses in the proportion of 75 per cent alfalfa and 25 per cent molasses. The product contains from 15 to 17 per cent of protein and about 50 per cent of carbohydrates and fat. It is being used by numerous feeders in the preparation of their show animals of different breeds.

Cow Manure For Cotton.
We never expect to see the south a cattle country, but we do expect to see more and more attention given to this important feature of successful farming. We notice with pleasure that all of our best farmers are raising cattle more or less, and many are working to put this branch of their farm operations upon a better basis. We notice where cotton was fertilized with stable manure and especially with cow manure it has not suffered from the effect of drought, as has that where commercial fertilizer alone is used.—

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson II.—First Quarter, For
Jan. 12, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John 1, 13-24.
Memory Verses, 25, 26—Golden Text,
John 1, 25—Commentary Prepared by
Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1907, by American Press Association.]
The record of testimony or witness of John—for it is the same word—was wholly concerning Christ. When the priests and Levites asked, "Who art thou?" he had nothing to say of himself except that he was a voice in the wilderness preparing the way of the Lord and thus fulfilling prophecy.
We, too, are witnesses, and our testimony must be concerning Him who is the faithful and true witness (Acts 1: 8; Rev. 1: 5; Mt. 16). We do not bear witness to Moses or the prophets, but unite with them in bearing witness to Him, that through His name, whose ever believes in Him shall receive rem-ission of sins (Acts 2: 38). Moses attended three schools, the infant school at home with his mother, the school of Egypt till he was forty years old,
then a special school of God as a shepherd for forty years till he was eighty,
but even then, although he had long before turned his back upon the world and position which might have been his in Egypt, we hear him saying to God,
"Who am I that I should see thee?
Pharaoh?" The "Not I" was a very different one for some of us. Although John was very small in his own estimation, he was "great in the sight of the Lord," and in the spirit and power of Elijah he was the herald of Israel's Messiah. Had they but received him he would have been Elijah to them, and they would then have received Jesus as their Messiah, and the kingdom would have come (Matt.
21, 14-19).

Having rejected John and Jesus, too, the kingdom still awaits the coming of Elijah, and the second coming of Christ (Matt. xvii, 10-13; Acts iii, 20, 21). It would seem as if the time was very near, for the wisdom which is not of God has no use for the Christ of the Scriptures or His hearty indorsement of Moses and the prophets.
It might truly be said today to many a preacher and his congregation,
"There standeth one among you whom ye know not" (verse 26). They know Him not as the Saviour, for they think to save themselves by their own religiousness; therefore they cannot know Him as their Lord. As to His coming again, that is to them the height of folly and an idle tale.

Jesus, having returned from His wilderness conflict with the devil and his forty days of fasting, went to meet John at the Jordan to be baptized of
him. "When John saw Him he said,
"Behold the Lamb of God, which tak-eth away the sin of the world" (verse 29). This is the great cry which the world needs to hear now, for probably two-thirds of all on the earth have not yet heard of Him who takes away sin.
The title "Lamb of God" takes us back to Eden, where He Himself, by the shedding of blood, provided redemption clothing for Adam and Eve and taught them the way of approach to Him, then on to all the sacrifices commanded by God, all of which typified the great and only sacrifice that can take away sin, even the sacrifice of Himself. No shedding of blood of animals could take away sin, but He appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself, and after He had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever sat down on the right hand of God (Heb. ix, 26-28; x, 11-14). Then see in Rev.
v the Lamb in the midst of the throne, as it had been slain, but now omnipotent and omnipresent (having seven horns and seven eyes), and hear the song of the redeemed, "Thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred and tongue and people and nation,
and hast made us unto our God kings and priests, and we shall reign on the earth." Note also the song of the millions of angels. How wonderful the name "Lamb of God!" How great the kingdom and the glory! He is none other than the Son of God (verse 34). To Him God has given a name which is above every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come (Phil.
ii, 9; Eph. ii, 21). All who receive Him not only have the forgiveness of sins, but become children of God and joint heirs with Him of all His glory (Rom. viii, 16-18). His first two recorded utterances after He came in the flesh should be specially treasured and practiced by all His redeemed, "I must be about my Father's business" and "Suffer it to be so now" (Luke ii, 49; Matt. xiii, 35). The first covers all our service, and the second includes all the seemingly unnecessary things
we are called to do or bear for Him.
Only in the power of the same Spirit can we live this life and thus be His witnesses, preparing the way for His return, but as our Redeemer is the one who baptizeth with the Holy Ghost (verse 33) there can be no difficulty about our being thus baptized if we are only willing to live solely for Him.
For the first time in the history of the race since Adam fell the Spirit found in Jesus one without sin, who knew no sin and did no sin (ii Cor. v, 21;
i Pet. ii, 22; i John ii, 9).

John says, "That He should be made manifest to Israel, therefore am I come" (verse 31), and we should remember that our one great business here is to manifest His life in these our mortal bodies that others may see Him in us.

INDIAN CORN.

Shrinkage of Yellow, White and Mixed Varieties Compared. The experiment to determine the shrinkage of corn in the crib has been carried on three seasons at the Kan- sas experiment station. A summary of the results shows a shrinkage of 3.21 per cent for the first four months after the corn was placed in the crib, 5.16 per cent for the first six months, 6.90 per cent for the first eight months, 7.44 per cent for the first ten months, and 8.02 per cent for the first twelve months. Yellow corn has given the greatest average shrinkage—namely, 11.21 per cent in twelve months, the next greatest shrinkage occurring in the crib of white corn, 8.48 per cent in twelve months, while the mixed corn (samples of many varieties) de- creased in weight only 6.18 per cent during the first twelve months after being placed in the crib.

During the Winter Months. The average result of all shrinkage trials indicates that when corn is crib- bed fairly dry and in good condition the shrinkage during the winter months should not be over 5 per cent. It should be observed, however, that in these experiments great care was exercised to prevent loss of corn by other than natural means.

Conducting the corn row ex- periment was begun in 1903. Nine different varieties were grown and bred in 1903 as follows: Held Yellow Dent, Silver- ches, Boone County White, Legal Ten- der, Kansas Yellow Dent, Hildreth, Mc- Alester, Kansas Sunflower and White Injun.

Some eighty acres were used for breeding corn and growing corn for seed production in 1906, and 460 breed- ing ears were planted in separate rows in the experimental breeding field. During the past year the agronomy de- partment has sold and distributed among the farmers of the state sev- eral hundred bushels of selected, well bred seed corn.

Results of Tests. The difference in the yields from different ear rows has been very marked, varying in some tests more than 400 per cent. Comparisons made in 1906 between the high yielding rows seed and first grade seed selected from the general field gave results as fol- lows: The Silverchess high yielding rows seed plot yielded 32 per cent more corn and 24.8 per cent more first grade seed ears than the plot planted with first grade seed. The Hildreth high yielding rows seed plot yielded 10.36 per cent more corn and 40 per cent more first grade seed ears than the plot planted with first grade seed of this variety. There has been a simi- lar improvement in the grade and quality of the corn.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John 1, 13-24. Memory Verses, 25, 26—Golden Text, John 1, 28—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Starnes.

He Told the Witness. "The sermonist to get along must keep his wits about him," said an army official. "Under the most adverse circumstances he must not lose his head. Always he must be alert and ready, like—like—well, like a scientist I need to know."

"This scientist gave a scientific lec- ture in a church one night, and at the lecture's end he said, booming on his audience condescendingly: 'Now, if there is any scientific question that any of my friends would like to ask, I beg them not to hesitate. I shall be only too happy to answer any inquiry in my power.' 'An old lady in spectacles that gave her a severe, stern look rose and said: 'Why do wet tea leaves kill roaches?' 'The scientist didn't know they did, let alone the cause of the phenomenon. But, never at a loss, he replied: 'Because, madam, when a roach comes across a wet tea leaf he says, 'Hello, here's a blanket' and wraps himself up in it, catches cold and dies.'—Los Angeles Times.

Attractive Show. Here are a few selections from a circus poster recently displayed in Am- bala, India: "1. Some horses will make as very much better tricks. "2. The clown will come and talk with that horses, therefore the audi- ence will laugh itself very much. "3. Boys will jump and roll in the mud. "4. One man will walk on wire tight, be doing very nicely, because he is professor of that. "5. Then will come the very much better dramatic. "Notice.—No sticks will be allowed in the spectator, and he shall not mak- ing the smoke; also we don't make it only the fourth class. "N. B.—The circus is the very much better; therefore he come to see that."

THE MAN ON THE CORNER
One of the Lights No. 10, and Some No.
New Mot.

In this column last week appeared a notice to the effect that Col.
A. Collier had removed to Oklahoma, and to our surprise Saturday morning into the office came
Col. Collier, proving incontestably that he was still here. I regret very much having published the statement, but it was currently reported in the streets that he was gone and also read it in a Birmingham daily paper. I am glad to say Col.
Collier has not gone to Oklahoma, but remains with us to attend to his legal business as he has done for many years and I hope will continue to do so for a great many years to come.

Mr. Sternberger, of New York, presenting F. W. Devoe and co., a well known paint manufacturer of that city, gave us a flattering expression of opinion regarding the BANNER. He said it was part of his business to read all the contributors to the BANNER, and among the best that he saw he included
the BANNER, full of county news and of great interest to the public generally. It is encouraging to get such an opinion as this, and we heartily appreciate it.

Simpson-McDaniel.
Mr. Hugh M. Simpson and Miss McDaniel were married at
M. E. Church at 3 p. m.
Wednesday, Rev. J. F. Price officiating. The happy couple left in the 5 o'clock train for a visit to the groom's relatives at Hartsville and other places. We wish them a long and happy life together.

Sheriff Catts brought Rev. L. C.
Catts, a negro, from Anniston last Sunday and placed him in jail. He and a warrant in his office when he took possession, issued from the Circuit Court 1908, charging him with obtaining money falsely. Last week he saw a clipping from the Banner Hot Blast, where the Rev. L. C. Catts was to be tried for disturbing religious worship. He once notified the Sheriff to hold him until he came. He proved to be the right man and is now in jail. The Sheriff says he has heard some comments passed upon him catching the old cripple selling his paper. He says he is not aware of the existence of any law made especially for cripples, as they term allowing them to be supported the county and violate the laws
the lands, nor does he feel called on to go blind on any special basis for his benefit and not see him in the act. Why he has not taken others is simply because he has not been fortunate enough to find them in the act. But for them to be impatient, he may see something later on.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.
Many people seem to think that unless they can open a Savings Account with not less than $50.00 or $100.00, it is not worth the while to begin. This is not a correct position to take. If a person cannot open an account with more than $1.00, and really desires to get some money ahead, then he should begin with even $1.00. The first dollar saved and put in bank, is the initial step on the way to prosperity. "Great oaks from little acorns grow." As a rule, the person who "Puts off" the opening of a Savings Account until he has a large amount to deposit, is not likely to ever have a bank account. We solicit your account.

4 FIREMEN PERISHED

Most Spectacular Fire Occurs In New York.

Structure Destroyed—Fire in Fought by Half the Firemen of Manhattan. Loss $6,000,000.

New York, Jan. 11.—Four firemen went to their deaths Friday night when they responded to a fire that raged in the Parker building, a twelve-story business structure, occupying the block between East Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, on Fourth avenue.

Fought by half the firemen of Manhattan and apparatus that blocked the streets for blocks, the flames were never controlled, and only with difficulty confined to the building in which they originated. Floor after floor gave way and dropped to the basement, and beneath these and crumbling walls no less than thirty firemen were caught and either killed outright or seriously injured.

Firemen's Roll Called. When the fire had burned itself out and the firemen's roll was called, three men of engine company No. 72 and one from fire patrol No. 3 failed to respond. They were: Thomas Phillips, Thomas O'Connor, John Lynch and John Fallon.

Tim Hutchinson, of patrol No. 3, was removed, dying, to the hospital. Captain Wilson and Captain Garvin, of engine companies No. 24 and 72, who were injured internally, were among those dangerously hurt.

When the casualties began, the Florence hotel, which adjoins the burned building on Eighteenth street, was made a temporary hospital, where fire department physicians gave immediate aid to the injured. The monetary loss was estimated at $6,000,000.

The fire was one of the most spectacular, as well as disastrous, in recent years. From start to finish its course was marked by heart-rending scenes, sensational escapes and flames of heroic proportions.

With the first streak of dawn Saturday scores of firemen began the task of searching the ruins of the building at Nineteenth street and Fourth avenue for the bodies of the four firemen who were reported missing after the calling of the roll of the companies that took part in fighting the spectacular fire that destroyed the 12-story building Friday night, causing a loss variously estimated at amounts reaching $6,000,000.

The great building, burned almost like tinder. The fire in the upper stories gaining headway unchecked, as it was far beyond the reach of the fire department's great water towers.

HAD NARROW ESCAPES.

People Rescued from Burning Building in Sensational Manner.

Ashland, O., Jan. 11.—A number of persons were rescued in a sensational manner Friday night in a fire which gutted the four-story building of the Warren company. All of the inmates got out alive, but several were badly hurt.

The fire started from an explosion in the Reed furniture store on the second floor. The flames shot up to the second, third and fourth floors, which were occupied as living apartments by several families.

The only escape from these apartments was by an inside stairway and the elevator, and shortly after the fire started both of these were cut off by the flames.

Mrs. Kistler, who lived on the third floor, had to be taken out of a story window by firemen. Coming down the ladder she fell twenty feet to the sidewalk and was sent to a hospital badly injured.

A number of other persons were overcome by smoke, while several of them were more or less burned before they were carried out of the building to a place of safety.

HUMAN BONES ARE FOUND. Another Link in Chain of Evidence is Being Forged Against Bavari.

Florence, Colo., Jan. 11.—The finding of charred portions of human bones Friday in a cabin adjoining one in which he lived, added another link to the chain of evidence being forged by the police against Anton Bavari, the Italian charged with murdering Joseph Minichello and suspected of having foully dealt with two other fellow countrymen, as well as an Italian woman with whom he was living, all of whom have disappeared within the last month.

Mrs. Joseph Minichello, who swore to the complaint against Bavari on Friday, told the police of a quarrel her husband had with Bavari on the night of the former's disappearance, dramatizing her interview with the state's attorney.

"I believe Tony Bavari killed my husband on that night,"

SUIT OF OBERLIN M. CARTER Federal Judge Kohlsaat Has Decided that the Government is Entitled to $400,000 of Carter's Money Located by Marion Erwin.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Judge Kohlsaat, in the United States circuit court, has rendered a decision in favor of the government in the suit of Captain Oberlin M. Carter, formerly United States army engineer, charged with having defrauded the United States of $700,000 through conspiracy with Contractors Greene and Gaynor.

The court ruled that Carter was not entitled to the $400,000 in Union Pacific registered railroad bonds and other securities traced by the government to safety deposit vaults and banks in various parts of the country.

Under the decision the government will retain these securities and the famous case, which resulted in the conviction of Captain Carter and of Greene and Gaynor and the imposing of penitentiary sentences, is brought to a close.

Funds Tied Up in Suit. The funds of Captain Carter, which the government claims were proceeds of Carter's collusion with Greene and Gaynor, are tied up by suits pending in the federal courts of New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Georgia and Illinois.

By agreement all of these suits were consolidated and tried before Judge Kohlsaat in the United States circuit court in Chicago about a year ago. It is the claim of Carter that the funds in question were given him by his father-in-law, the late Robert F. Westcott, of New York.

The case grew out of the construction of certain river and harbor improvements on the coast of Georgia. The government prosecutors contended that the army officer and the contractors defrauded the government in the sum of $2,235,000 and that one-third of this amount, or about $750,000, went to Captain Carter. Special assistant to the United States attorney general, Marion Erwin, was assigned to the prosecution of the cases and after several years' work $400,000 invested by Carter in various states was traced and seized.

The hearing before Judge Kohlsaat extended over several weeks and scores of witnesses were examined.

Greene and Gaynor at the Federal Prison at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Jan. 9.—Benjamin D. Greene and John F. Gaynor, known throughout the world for the hard fight they made to keep out of the federal prison, after being charged and then convicted of embezzling $575,749.99 from the government, on the narrow contracts at Savannah, are in the federal prison, near Atlanta.

Wednesday morning they arrived to do a "four-year sentence," and before this sentence, when they had gone at once to prison after being convicted, they would now be walking out free men.

It is doubtful if Gaynor ever leaves the prison alive, as he is in a wretched health now and has been for some time.

The prison physicians made an examination of both, and the warden will decide what work they are to do, if any.

"All convicts work here," state Warden Moyer. "If their physical condition will permit. I am awaiting the report of the physicians on these two men."

FARMER'S UNION. Resolutions Adopted Before Adjournment—Politics Barred.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 10.—The mass meeting of the Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union, which convened here Tuesday, adjourned since the Thursday night after adopting the following resolutions:

"That any man holding office in the Farmers' Union who desires to run for any political office, either county, state or national, shall first resign his office in the Farmers' Union."

"That any man now holding an office in the Farmers' Union, and at the same time holding a political office, shall be asked to give up his political office or resign his office in the Farmers' Union."

REPORT ON COTTON

Number of Bales Ginned From 1907 Growth

IN COMPARISON WITH 1905 Census Bureau Issues Its Monthly Report as to the Number of Bales Ginned to January 1st—This Also Includes Sea Island Cotton.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The census bureau has issued a report showing that the number of bales of cotton ginned from the growth of 1907 to Jan. 1, 1908, was 9,955,427 as compared with 11,741,039 last year and $725,426 for 1906. This counts round bales as half bales. The number of round bales included is 179,391 for 1908; 255,506 for 1907 and 263,541 for 1906.

Sea Island included is 72,626 bales for 1908, and 54,275 for 1907, and 55,142 for 1906.

The number of active ginneries for 1908 was 27,276. The distribution of Sea Island cotton for 1908 by states is: Florida, 25,214; Georgia, 27,129; South Carolina, 11,285.

There were ginned 9,284,070 bales to December 13th last.

MADE BASIS OF LOANS. Money Was Borrowed on Life Insurance Policies During Panic.

New York, Jan. 9.—The extent to which life insurance policies were made the basis of loans during the stress of the recent financial panic is measurably revealed in the current report of one of the big life insurance companies, the figures showing that $0,000 policy holders borrowed a total of $85,000,000 from the company on their policies in 1907, a large proportion of the loans being made recently to men of considerable means who carry policies for sums ranging from $50,000 to $200,000.

The company was compelled by the terms of its policies to make the loans, some of which were the result of policy holders' inability to pay their premiums. These borrowed the money from the company to make the payments and keep in good standing. Borrowing for investment buying of stocks was another factor in the heavy demand for loans when the money stringency was at its height.

Insurance men say that many of the borrowers, undoubtedly tempted by the low prices of securities during the panic, obtained money in this way for stock market investments.

They Satisfy

Maybe you have been put to a great deal of expense and inconvenience by buying shoes that did not fit, did not hold their shape, did not wear well, or were likely to be torn on some of the shoes ripped and pulled off.

We have a line that will from the start, no "breaking in" necessary.

They will hold their shape, they are honestly made by experienced shoe makers in specialty factories.

Bound to wear well for a long time, and material is in every pair.

No chance for the soles to rip off for they are put on with a clinch fastening.

This is a shoe to answer to service and dress wear too.

They are made of box calf leather that polishes nice and wears so long.

You had just as well buy "OUR FAMILY" shoes, satisfaction and pleasure for every pair and pay no more than for the ordinary kind.

Editor Banner.—Will you allow me a little space to say a few words on this is a very lonesome Sunday morning. Health of this community isn't very good at present, as measles are raging. We are very sorry to say that Mr. Secar Ousley has been very sick with measles; he is much better now.

Arta Belle Chandler of this place paid a flying visit to Miss Della West; reports a swell time.

Mrs. J. A. Logan of Plantersville visited her daughter, Mrs. V. West, Sunday.

We hope the singing at Mr. Barrett's on the third Sunday afternoon will be a success.

Mr. Arthur Chandler of Fletcher visited relatives at this place Saturday.

Mrs. V. Chandler called on Mrs. Ophelia Ousley Sunday.

Girls, you had better learn how to make cigarettes, for your beau's hand might get sore, or he might get a splinter in his hand.

Miss Lela Logan and Mr. Jim Logan will spend the day with Misses May and Ola Walker to day; hope them a swell time.

We are certainly having some bad weather.

By the way, girls, this is leap year, you had all better get you a white horse and go riding. Hol hol! Misses Effie and Arta Chandler visited their aunt, Mrs. Sallie Chandler Tuesday; report a good time.

Miss D. C. was all smiles Sunday; guess Mr. J. J. was there.

Miss Arta Chandler received a present Sunday morning, and oh, let me tell you what it was—the cutest little comelia you ever saw, and oh how it did frighten her when she opened the little box it was in, but she was soon over her fright when she found out the pretty little creature wouldn't bite.

By the way, Cupid smiled on Mr. Rich Moore, Xmas and took one of his dear girls.

Say, we have a green hat in our town; cheer up, I think he is hard to catch.

Messrs. Fletcher Harris and E. Mathes were in our midst last Sunday.

Some more good news, the boy that wears the green hat came up the hill just now, but he went back running. I believe I'll set my cap for him, he is so handsome.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller went home Saturday morning.

The wedding bells are not ringing much down this way, we don't stand much hand.

Well, dearies, I know you are tired of such a sorry letter, so I'll ring off, hoping this will escape the waste basket. Best wishes to the Banner and its readers.

With the first sound of her father's voice Mistress May had sprung to her feet. The Percy pride, strong in all the line, leaped to her rescue. Throughout Thorncliffe's identification of the spy she stood straight, with head held high, facing her father, and, although now and then her hands at her sides moved nervously and at the end her mouth was trembling, yet the big black eyes throughout showed brave and firm.

"Dad," she began, and just at first the trembling mouth made the tones to shake ever so slightly, though the look remained steadfast—"dad, you must be surprised to see me here. I want to confess something to you, dad. I came because I thought that man—that spy—my cousin from France. And—and—oh, I loved him. If he had been my cousin St. Croix, dad—and now her voice was proud and full—"nothing could have kept me from marrying him. But a Percy can't love a blood money spy, dad, and if you and John will forgive me I'll—I'll—she ended it in a wild jumble of words and tears—"I'll marry John any time you say."

From Sir Henry there burst a great shining light of relief.

"Then tomorrow it is, coat," he cried, gathering the sobbing girl in his arms. "I'll bring the bishop over from Sir Henry's tonight, and your old dad's the happiest man in England."

Without so much as a glance at the father and daughter or at the man who had won the girl he loved the spy turned and walked from the room, and as the passed Captain Thorncliffe he muttered, "Merci, monsieur, but I had rather you had not so paid that little debt."

CHAPTER XV.

CERTAINLY it is most irregular," observed the bishop, "the masked highwayman waved his big pistol with a careless, deprecating gesture that sent a cold shiver racing to the very gouty toes of the fat prelate in the coach."

"But, worshipful sir, when a priest is so hard to meet, what is a poor devil of an outlaw bent on matrimony to do? Jack Ketch can't tie that knot."

Sir Henry Percy, seated beside his lord bishop in the coach, gave an involuntary snort of laughter at the armed highwayman's apologetic speech. With the robber's first dash from the dark shadows of the overhanging eaves beside the road Sir Henry had tried his pistol. The expert, but not the ball, came. "Lower well," exclaimed the baronet; then, realizing his helplessness, resigned himself to what must come.

When the postboys having been unseated from their horses, the highwayman in a hoarse voice demanded not money, but a simple exercise of the bishop's churchly office, the good warrenet chuckled loud in his sleeves and delight. Was not the bishop even when on his way to the castle to marry Mistress May Percy to Sir John Wilkes? One extra ceremony thrown in on the side could not hurt. Rather it would be just a breath of air to get the prelate in the morning. The bishop knew the service by heart of course, and it would take little time. Sir Henry had been a gay dog in his day, and the present adventure pleased him mightily. So, supremely content at the promised successful outcome of his own little schemes, the warrenet urged the bishop to quickness.

"It can do no harm, and perhaps it may do good," he said.

"Come, come, sir!" And now the outlaw's true bore shone command. He put his horse beside the coach and, thrusting an arm through the window, brought the big pistol very close to the bishop's head.

"My lord, we are wasting time."

Then he who daily kept noblemen in his anteroom begging for some slight service climb out with haste to marry an unknown gallow's bird to his wench on the country road at midnight. The postboys forgot their shaking fear at the sight.

"May I be witness, Sir Gallow's Chest?" chuckled the now gay Sir Henry.

"Yes, if you swear to be a true one and always to uphold what you see here," replied the highwayman in a hoarse, throaty voice.

"Upon my honor," replied the knight, laughing. "But the lady—show us the lady. What a story it will be for Thorncliffe and the others!"

A black shadow detached itself from the trunk of a tree, and a slender girl rode out. The clouds had thickened, completely cutting off the moon, so through the darkness the witnesses could just make out the indistinct outlines of a slender, graceful figure. The bishop offered his hand, and she sprang lightly to the ground. Her lover was beside her. A postboy, grinning, now held the horses.

And so beneath the dark shade of the overhanging eaves, under the eyes of the peeping stars, they were married. "John and Mary," the man in his hoarse voice gave their names, and at the strange coincidences Sir Henry Percy, the chief witness, almost forgot where he was. "John—Mary?" How the names thrilled his old heart! Tomorrow morning in the library at The Oaks he would hear the bishop call those names again, and he would answer. Yes, there was the sentence, "Who gives this woman to this man?" And, thinking of the morning, and what it meant to him, Sir Henry from the darkness called forth in his deepest voice, "I do, with all my heart."

The slender bride gave a little sobbing cry of joy.

For the rest of the ceremony her answers were nods and indistinct murmurs through happy tears. It was the most solemn service of the bishop's life.

"And would you like a certificate?" he asked when John and Mary had pledged their troth.

"Certainly," replied the gallow's bird groom.

By the dim light of the stars—for the highwayman in his first attack had snatched the carriage lamps—the certificate was made out and signed. Naught remained but to insert the full names of the contracting parties. The bishop held the goose quill poised expectantly. The old baronet was leaning forward in his interest.

"Put in," said the highwayman. "John Percy Latapie, vicomte de St. Croix, and May Percy, daughter of Sir Henry Percy, his wife."

Then, lighting the tapers that followed, the man rushed out with sudden boldness from behind the clouds to show the father and daughter standing face to face.

"Dad, dear dad!" Her arms outstretched toward him, her eyes big and soft with love, the wayward girl made her tender appeal. "Forgive me, dad!"

Sir Henry Percy stood white, silent, too dazed for speech.

"I could not give him up when he offered his life for me, dad."

"My little girl—married to a Frenchman?" The old man murmured it slowly, incredulously to himself.

The girl drew a step nearer, her husband's hand on the bishop's looking on.

"Not a Frenchman, dad, but Cousin Jack Percy's grandson, a Percy straight and true," she whispered.

"Her father seemed suddenly to come to himself. 'How dared you? How knew you I was not Pomey?' he cried. 'Is he a Percy?'"

The girl laughed softly. "Fie! I believe you saw it all the time. Captain Thorncliffe told Ethel and she told me," she said. "A lieutenant of cavalry rode up after you had started for Sir Henry's. He brought us the news that 'French Percy' had been shot by his men on outpost yesterday morning at daybreak and to proof showed a ring, the St. Croix seal, taken from the clothes of the dead man. I recognized it as the one M. Dubarre had sometimes worn. See, here it is!" She held the ring toward her father. "I had to keep the horrid big seal in my mouth all during the wedding to change my voice," she ended slyly.

"And you got away," questioned Sir Henry, still angry, but not knowing what to do.

She went on with the utmost meekness. "I had your pet hunter at the lodge gate, sir; a long cloak on the saddle, pistols and a dagger in the holsters—archly—I believe you promised 'French Percy' those? Cousin Jack Percy's grandson was waiting in our hut for me. And, dad, dad!"—she ended it with a tender rush—"we were so afraid we'd miss you and the bishop and after so much trouble I'd had spoiling your pistols too."

For the first time since the wedding St. Croix spoke.

"And had we missed you, Sir Henry. I should have been forced to go back of mine own accord to your gallow's, for I would not leave her in England except as my wife, and Mistress May would not come unless I promised you should see us married and give consent."

Sir Henry whirled on him.

"And you call what I give consent?" he impudently asked.

"The bishop heard you say, 'I do, with all my heart,'" looks in St. Croix's account.

"A trick!" roared Sir Henry—"a trick that no one but—"

"Jack Percy's grandson could have executed," finished May Percy for him. "Jack Percy's grandson—Jack Percy's grandson," he repeated musingly. For the first time the phrase seemed to take hold of him.

"And your son now, dad," whispered May Percy softly.

Her father glanced inquiringly toward the bishop.

"By the law of God and the church they are man and wife, Sir Henry."

With sudden impulsiveness, May Latapie, countess St. Croix, threw herself into her father's arms.

"And, dad, you can't hang your own son," she cried. "And he is going to leave me with you until the war is over and he can come for me again with honor."

In the clear, revealing moonlight, over the bowed head of the girl in his arms, the chief of the Percys studied the new heir to the line.

"Jack Percy's grandson," he muttered at last in unwilling admiration. Then the two involuntarily looked at the one both loved. The struggling Percy pride died hard. At last Sir Henry opened his arms. "Take her, boy," he said briefly.

THE END.

What She Said.

Bride—Oh, John, darling, I'm so glad you've come home! Cook is acting something awful—smashing dishes and tearing around like a lunatic! Do go and soothe her.

Groom—Why, sweetheart, what upset her?

Bride—Nothing at all—except that I told her you said she was a fierce cook.

—Judge.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Horse Notes.

Train your horse never to start off faster than a walk. It may some time prevent a serious accident.

A man who is in the habit of buying vicious horses when he can buy them cheap and by proper management unking good horses of them says, "No horse was ever born balky, but may be made balky by the driver."

If you are working in the woods skidding logs, don't have your horses sharp shod unless the ground is frozen hard and slippery. If you do, they will be quite apt to cut themselves turning around.

Which does your blacksmith do, fit your horses' shoes to their feet or their feet to their shoes?

Take a few minutes now and then to clean up your currycomb. You can't do good work with a comb all gummed up.—Farm Journal.

Lumpy Jaw of Cow.

For lumpy jaw (actinomycosis) of cattle the specific treatment is the giving of one and a half to two and a half drams (teaspoonfuls) of iodide of potassium, according to the size of the cow, dissolved in water and given once a day, says the Atlanta Constitution. In the course of eight or ten days there will appear the peculiar signs of the iodide, which consists in the skin becoming scurvy, weeping from the eyes and nose and loss of appetite. When these symptoms appear, you should stop the medicine for a few days and then begin again with the same dose. It will require from three to six weeks' treatment. Some cows do not respond to this treatment, but most of them do.

Worms in Horses.

The following is a simple standard treatment for most kinds of worms that infest the intestines of horses and mules: Morning and night for one week give as one dose one dram each of powdered copperas and tartar emetic and two drams of linseed for cottonseed oil. At the end of the week give a purge consisting of one ounce of spirits of turpentine and one pint of linseed oil. Repeat the entire treatment at the end of three weeks in order to catch any worms that may have been hatched from eggs. This second course is absolutely essential. In addition do not let your horse drink stagnant or pond water, the source of worms.—Atlanta Constitution.

Dairy Suggestions.

Keep a record of the breeding of each cow so you will know when she is due to calve and then allow her to go dry six weeks before calving.

The dairy bull should be fed like a working horse and should receive plenty of exercise. Work him in a staid power.

Clip the long hair off the udder and flanks and tail and wipe off the udder with a damp cloth before milking, and you will be surprised to see how much cleaner the milk will be.

Weigh each cow's milk with an accurate scales and test the milk with a reliable tester, and you will be able to see how many of your cows are paying for themselves.

Grinding Horse Feed.

Opinions differ concerning the advantages of grinding grain as feed for horses. For those out of the stable during the day and worked hard it is quite generally believed that all grains, with the possible exception of oats, should be ground, and for those at extremely hard work the ground grain should be mixed with chaffed hay. For idle horses oats or grain should not be ground, nor should hay or straw be chaffed. When animals have time to masticate their food thoroughly grinding is not necessary. When this is not the case grinding takes the place of mastication to some extent and increases the assimilation of their food.

A LONG LIFE

How to Conserve Energy and Prolong Life.

The time comes to everyone when the life forces begin to fail. It is a bitter harder to climb a hill or walk upstairs. Exercise is taken less vigorously or abandoned, and we feel that the end of active service is drawing near.

It is more than probable that we have been over-driving the machine of the body which will give out the any machine if overtaxed, and we should immediately take steps to change the gear, build up the strength and restore the life forces. To this end nothing equals our delicious cod liver and iron preparation, Vinol, which is far superior to all other tonics and cod liver preparations because it is made by a scientific, extractive, concentrating process from fresh cod's livers, combining with peptone of iron all the medicinal healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled.

Try it on our offer to return your money if it fails. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

It is very important and in fact it is absolutely necessary to health that we give relief to the stomach promptly at the first signs of trouble—which are belching of gas, nausea, sour stomach, headache, irritability and nervousness. These are warnings that the stomach has been mistreated; it is doing too much work and it is demanding help from you. Take something once in a while; especially after meals; something like KODOL For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It will enable your stomach to do its work properly. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

The Pure Food Law.

Secretary Wilson says, "One of the objects of the law is to inform the consumer of the presence of certain harmful drugs in medicines." The law requires that the amount of chloroform, opium, morphine, and other habit forming drugs be stated on the label of each bottle. The manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have always claimed that their remedy did not contain any of these drugs, and the truth of this claim is now fully proven, as no mention is made on the label. This remedy is not only one of the safest but one of the best in use for coughs and colds. Its value has been proven beyond question during the many years it has been in general use. JUST A VOICE

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 13, 1938.

Editor Banner.—As this is election year and I want an office I have been thinking for some time that it was time that somebody was getting busy and stir the people up. You know how anxious and restless a fellow feels when he wants an office and no one seems to be taking any interest in the coming campaign and this suspension of arms almost unbearable when he sits and sits and someone will suggest him for an office. I am too modest to come out and offer for an office unless some one will ask me to run, but I have stood the strain just as long as I can and keep silent, so I have decided to take a shot or two and see if I can get any one to ask me to run for some office. Someone may want to know what office that I can fill and I will make some statement about my qualifications. Like the young man that wanted to get into public business of some kind, my genius inclines to some office and I am called to all and qualified for either. What I want is an office and I must simply have it for the Democrats can carry Clanton this time and if you Democrats don't stand by me and give me an office I will turn Republican, and if I can't get you to elect me to an office I will get the Republicans to appoint me to one for I tell you I must have an office, for the panic has come and it is a case of meat and bread with me. Just A Voter said in the Union last week that he could not find the panic in Clanton only in the Democratic banks. I know that Just A Voter is an officer of some kind not to feel the panic and that is what has given me such a hankering after an office. Just A Voter may be able to pull the wool over the eyes of some ignorant people by calling the banks here Democratic banks but I should like to ask him if all the banks in the United States are Democratic? Where did the financial trouble originate? In the Democratic bank, no, but in the Republican banks of Wall Street and our little Democratic banks, as Mr. Just A Voter terms them, could not even get the money that they had on deposit in the Republican banks of Wall Street and hence, were forced to do as they have done, not as a result of Democratic principles, but as a result of the corruptible practices allowed high financiers by Republican principles.

Yes, you see since the panic is on and business is dull I haven't anything to do and I have studied up some on the financial troubles myself and Just A Voter is not the whole show in Clanton these days. Doesn't it tickle you to see these Republicans squirm and wiggle around and try to deny that there is a panic. Just A Voter says there is no panic because cotton will bring 11 cents and money is in the banks. There is always money in the banks but what good does it do the working man when he is out of employment and has no way to make his bread. If cotton brings 11 cents and everything that the man who makes the cotton has to buy is equally as high that is poor argument to show that there is no panic. This argument is in keeping with the Republican doctrine—that the whole world and the fullness thereof should belong to some Rockefeller, Rotschild or J. P. Morgan or another financial king and that all the other people should be subjected to these kings and slave away their lives in a sweat shop for them to grow richer and richer and to see when they realize an abnormal profit of the poor people they will close down their shops and leave them without work and make bread for the thousands of people who starve if they can not find employment and the way to make a living. A public rule it is not a panic, two little banks with a hundred thousand dollars in Clanton county is the cause they alone have a panic, they want to keep the money and loan it out at 14 percent interest. Oh, yes, that is all so here, but everything is all up in Republican Wall Street, the treasure of the United States is in the Wall Street, keep them from burning the Republican government. The banks have this money to loan out to any interest and then they out to other banks and people big interest. Yes, this is the thing to do, just make the Street financiers richer and government's money—that is the Republican doctrine. Yes, the thing to do is to let the nation issue the money and then let it at a big interest so that the get richer from the government poor people. It is good business to use the government's money to feel the nation and the big financiers and a panic is in the little Democratic banks of Clanton. Let the national treasury and try to move and buy the crop in the South so that the farmer will not be forced his cotton at less than its real value and then there is a panic in the public treasury of the States. Yes, they did the thing in not letting them money, for you know that it would let the old farmers money; no, that would never must align to Wall Street and the bankers and financiers do so that they can get their money, for it would not be given. Now, Mr. Just A Voter think that you have posed the people in a false position written in the third person own agreement. Long and unless you cease your wool pulling I expose you people that you have been deceiving. I only wait.

combined. It has proved very resistant, and its cost is small. The lined canal, in the vicinity of River Falls, Wis., shown in the cut, is lined in the same manner. The lining, however, being one-quarter to one-half inch thick, is plaster and is subject to rupture from burrowing animals and storm water washing out some of the lining. It is probable that this kind of lining would not resist the effects of a country subject to very heavy weather.

Asphalt road oil has been experimentally found very effective in retarding growth of aquatic plants. Lining with clay is said to be a preventive of seepage, but it does not resist vegetation.

Results of tests at the Vermont Experiment station show that soil sterilization is an effective means of preventing or controlling some of the enemies of greenhouse plants.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson III.—First Quarter, For
Jan. 19, 1903.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES

Text of the Lesson, John 1, 35-51.
Memory Verses, 35-37.—Golden Text,
John 1, 45.—Commentary Prepared by
Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In this lesson—"Behold the Lamb of God!" the words are omitted "which taketh away the sin of the world." The first, in verse 29, is suggestive of the look which gives life. Included in the forgiveness of sin, as when the Israelites bitten by the fiery serpent looked and lived (Num. xxi. 9; John iii. 14, 15). The second, in verse 36, is suggestive of the continued beholding of the saved soul by which we are more and more changed into His image (II Cor. iii. 18; Heb. xii. 1, 2). In the first we see Him as our teacher, while in the second He is our example, teaching us how to live here as His witnesses. Looking upon Jesus as He walks, we learn to walk as He walked (I John ii. 6; the walk included all our outward conduct. It is as when Gideon said, "Look on me and do likewise. . . . As I do so shall ye do" (Judg. vii. 17).

One result of John's testimony was that two of his disciples followed Jesus, and that was as it should be always. "A desire to have people follow us is not of God, but a desire to live that those who know us shall want to know and follow Him is the work of the Spirit. It was what John said that led these men to follow Jesus. How careful! the admonition to have done with foolish and corrupt communications and give ourselves only to that which edifies (Eph. iv. 29, 31, 32). The omniscient One sees everything, even though He seems not to notice. He turns to them with the question, "What seek ye?" a good question for each of us at all times, but specially when we go to the house of God. It is well if we can say with those Greeks, "We would see Jesus" (John xii. 20). In reply to their "Where dwellest Thou?" He said, "Come and see." Make a prayerful study of the "Comes," such as Gen. vii. 1; Isa. 4, 18, 20, 31; Matt. xii. 28, and all the ways through to Rev. xiii. 17, and remember His sorrowful "Ye will not come to Me" (John v. 40).

From chapter xix. 14, where the sixth hour is clearly d in the morning, we learn that in John's gospel time is reckoned as we now reckon it and not on Jewish reckoning, as in the other gospels. These two men therefore spent the day with Jesus from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. The result is that they at once set forth to bring others to Him. Andrew finds his own brother Simon and brings him to Jesus, and that was truly a good day's work as we consider what the Lord afterward accomplished through Simon Peter. Although John does not say so, it is probable that he brought James to Jesus about the same time. Many would think two hearers in a very small congregation, but consider in this case the great results. Think also of the day that the Lord had only one woman for His audience (John iv). And see in that case the great results. Consider Simon's new name and think of the new names given to Abram and Jacob, and then see Rev. ii. 17; iii. 12; Paul was a chosen vessel to bear the name of Christ to those who knew Him not and to suffer for that name's sake (Acts ix. 15, 16). This is our commission also in some measure.

Jesus goes Himself to find Philip, and why? Is there not an inference that Andrew and Peter had something to do with it in the fact that they belonged to their city? Can we not hear him saying, "Lord, there is a friend of ours in our city whom we wish you might find?" And so Jesus finds him and utters His constraining "Follow me." Then Philip finds a friend of his and tells him of the Messiah, and to the scornful question, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?" he responds with the "Come and see," and the rest of the chapter is the result. If the Lord Jesus had the full right of way in our individual lives and in our churches, there might be some reason for saying to those without, "Come and see." But, as it is, what do they see?

Jesus greets Nathanael with a word which leads to another, and then Nathanael exclaims, "Rabbi, Thou art the Son of God; Thou art the King of Israel" (verse 50). He saw and believed and bare testimony, for flesh and blood had not taught him, but the Father in heaven (Matt. xvi. 16, 17).

How many professing Christians to-day refuse to acknowledge Jesus as Son of God—that is, equal with God (chapter v. 18). And, as to looking upon Him as King of Israel, that would be folly indeed. But the word of God stands, and every purpose of the Lord shall be performed, and notwithstanding all the vain imaginings of people He will set His King upon His holy hill of Zion (Ps. ii. 6). "Greater things shall come of this" (verse 50) is a word which every true believer may appropriate, for all that we have as yet seen of the riches of His grace is as nothing to that which we shall yet see. Now, we have in the last verse of the chapter the first of the twenty-five double "verities" or "signs" of this gospel, taking us back to Jacob's vision at Bethel and up to the kingdom, when heaven and earth shall be in perfect accord, here is the significance of the ladder which Jacob saw—the Son of Man Progress.

"My wife knew nothing of house-keeping to begin with, but she's learning fast."
"That's encouraging."

Swiss Naval Wars.
References to the Swiss navy are usually jocular, but it is none the less a fact that ships of war once sailed and even fought on the waters of the lake of Geneva. The great fleet was that of the Duke of Savoy, who at the beginning of the fourteenth century maintained a number of war galleys armed with rams and protected by gunnery and propelled by a crew of rowersmen varying in number from forty to seventy-two. These vessels belonged Verroix and even blockaded Geneva. But Geneva also had a fleet which helped in the capture of Chillon in 1536, and when the Bernese annexed the canton of Vaud they, too, had their flotilla. Their largest vessel was the Great Bear, with 64 oarsmen, 100 rowers and 150 fighting men.—Westminster Gazette.

A Surprise For St. Kilda.
The inhabitants of the lonely Isle of St. Kilda were astonished one winter some years ago at the appearance of a great blood red, conical object floating on the wild Atlantic billows to the westward of the island. With much difficulty the derelict was brought to shore, and as the St. Kildians had never before seen such a queer looking thing and could make no guess as to its purpose or place in the scale of created things they indulged in wild visions of its valuable nature. But when the factor came across on his yearly visit from the neighboring but distant island of Great Britain he identified it as a great iron buoy which, it subsequently appeared, had broken away from its moorings in New York harbor and drifted in the gulf stream across the Atlantic. It had taken two years in its passage.

Occasions do not make a man either strong or weak, but they show what he is.—Thomas a Kempis.

Same Old Reason.
"I've played the ponies to my grief year in, year out, day after day."
"Then why do you keep at it?"
"Well, I've got a good thing for to-morrow."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Soap Bubble Parties.
Soap bubble parties are most interesting for all sizes and ages. Good clay pipes and castle soap and bowls enough to go round are the needful things; also a room which will not be hurt by a sprinkling of soapuds, and, one thing more, the smaller the child the bigger the apron to cover him.

A little glycerin in the lukewarm soapuds will make the bubbles brighter and more durable; and if a thick shawl is spread on the floor they will bounce upon it like transparent balls.

A bubble tournament is great fun. Arrange sides, with leaders, of course. Let one side step forward in a line, with pipes and bowls; then the leader starts and sees how many bubbles he can make with one dip of his pipe. Each of his followers does likewise, while some one not in the game keeps the score. Then the other side takes its turn, and the side which blows the greatest number is the prize winner.

There are many different ways of enjoying this pretty pastime, and science has discovered several methods of heightening the colors in the bubbles before bursting.

Progressive Peanut Party.
This is played exactly as all other progressive games—viz., partners are chosen, tables found and score cards provided. In the center of each table there is a bowl containing a hundred peanuts (in the shells) and a long new hatpin for each player.

Before being seated each guest has the right hand securely tied down to the side by a ribbon or fancy cord. There is a bell at the head table. When the hundred nuts have been speared from the bowl, the bell is rung, cards are punched according to the score and the game proceeds.

To choose partners have cards for the boys bearing this jingle:
From sticking your neighbor refrain,
Take care, kind sir, take care,
In counting your loss or your gain,
Play fair, kind sir, play fair.

Write the same for the girls, only instead of "kind sir" put "pretty maid."

Animal Intelligence.
Recently a mare and colt belonging to a Wisconsin farmer were turned out in a pasture where there was a swamp. After a day or two the colt got mired. When the mother realized that he was beyond her help she galloped to the house and neighed and by her conduct showed that something was wrong. The farmer's wife followed her to the field, saw the situation and then got her husband and other help to extricate the colt.

In Michigan not long ago a calf got caught in the fence, and its mother galloped half a mile to where some men were at work to let them know it. There is no doubt that animals of a kind can talk to each other, but it has been proved a thousand times over that all domestic animals depend upon man when in trouble.

The Cow Saved Him.
The sons of a New Hampshire farmer routed a fox out of his den a few days ago, and their two dogs ran him a mile. Reynard made for a barnyard and upon reaching it ran directly up to a cow and stood between her front feet. When the dogs came rushing up the cow went for them and tossed one over the fence and badly gored the other. When the boys arrived she refused to let them enter the barnyard. The fox hung about her until he got good and rested and then went his way. The cow couldn't have mistaken the fox for a little calf, and just why she took up his battle so promptly is a matter to puzzle over.

A Topsy Turvy Concert.
A group of singers stand in a row close together behind a curtain with just their heads showing. The curtain is stretched across the stage or in front of wherever the exhibition takes place.

After a verse, or, better still, right in the middle of a verse or line, the heads all disappear, the song continues, and in a moment all the hands are shown where the heads were dressed in all shapes and sizes of shoes and slippers with gay stockings. After a few bars of music the heads are again shown.

Just For Fun.

Billiards must be an easy game, for it's mostly done on cushions.—Philadelphia Ledger.

They War on Each Other.
What a pugnacious community it is that inhabits the sea! All the creatures in it live on each other, and the whole extent of that vast body of water is a slaughter house, where the strong prey on the weak constantly. There is no other way for them to sustain life, but doesn't it seem queer that nature should have ordained such a state of things?

Only a Picture Book.
When Uncle Bob came home from town, this is the book he brought.
I s'pose I ought to like it—I really s'pose I ought.
It's full of lovely pictures of animals and birds.
They're bright and gayly colored, but there aren't any words!
And on I said (I'm sure I hope it wasn't said).
"Uncle, they've left the stories out; this book is not made right."
And uncle only laughed and said, "Why, you can't read, my dear!"
But I know "cat" and "dog" and even those words aren't here!

He conquers twice who restrains himself in victory.—Syrus

EXTRA CURRENCY IS Provided For by the Aldrich Financial Bill.

SUM OF ABOUT $500,000,000

Amendment by Senator Bailey—Democrat—Join With Republicans in Advocacy of Most of the Features of This Bill, It Is Said.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—After two sessions of the senate committee on finance the members of the committee were in possession of fair ideas of what shape the Aldrich financial bill will be in when it is reported next week. There will be no more meetings of the committee until Monday, when the various amendments which have been gradually evolved through the general discussion of the bill during this week, will be incorporated in the measure.

It is stated to be practically certain that the limit of extra currency which the bill provides for will be raised from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Most of the members of the committee believe that this figure is not too high for a time of emergency when a heavy issue of currency notes is demanded on security of the prescribed sort, and under the described tax.

The tax on the emergency issue will not, it is believed, be placed higher than 6 per cent, which the bill now provides.

An amendment offered by Senator Bailey reducing the required population of a county or municipality, whose bonds are to figure in a currency issue from 20,000 to 10,000, is expected to receive the support of a majority of the committee and according to reliable report will be adopted. This will permit smaller towns of just as great an age and of commensurate prosperity with the larger towns to participate in the benefits of the measure.

A democratic member of the committee asserts that the minority as a whole is not in favor of a bill providing a currency based on security of government bonds, but being unable to prevent a favorable report on such a measure, they are making it their duty so far as lies in their power to make it as effective a measure of that nature as possible, and they are, therefore, joining with republicans in advocacy of most of the features of the Aldrich bill.

KILLED FATHER WITH AX.

Deplorable Family Tragedy Occurs at Davidson, N. C.

Davidson, N. C., Jan. 17.—A brutal murder was committed here Thursday morning, when Ezekiel Gregory, a farmer, over sixty years of age, was killed with an ax by his son. The murderer fled, accompanied by his wife, but both were arrested near Mooreville, N. C.

The substance of the story gathered from the daughter of the dead man was that following an altercation in regard to raising the son went from the house into the yard and defied his father to cross a line drawn with the blade of an ax in the earth. The father crossed the line, a blow was heard, and the daughter rushed out to find her father prostrate.

The injured man did not recover consciousness. Gregory is in jail in Charlotte.

BOOM FOR HAYWOOD.

Boise, Idaho, Man May Be Socialist Candidate for Presidency.

New York, Jan. 17.—William D. Haywood, who was recently acquitted on a charge of murder at Boise, Idaho, is in New York, having arrived Thursday night.

He was received with enthusiasm by the New York socialists. He will confer with Eugene V. Debs, presumably regarding the move to make Haywood the socialist candidate for the presidency at the next election. Debs was the socialist candidate at the last presidential election.

Vardaman To Publish Paper.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 17.—Governor James K. Vardaman has made a definite announcement concerning his re-election upon the sea of journalism when his term as governor of Mississippi expires. Within the next ten days, the governor declares, the first copy of his paper will appear. It will be printed at Jackson and will start as a weekly pending the working out of plans for a daily.

Dogs as Policemen.

New York, Jan. 17.—The three Belgian hounds and the American Air dale, which have been for some time undergoing training in the duties of policemen, have about finished their education and within a few days they will be put on post in the outlying districts. They will be the first dogs ever used by the New York police.

Wants Biennial Sessions.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 17.—W. F. Slater, representative from Bryant county, and candidate for senator from the first district, will introduce a bill at the coming session of the legislature providing for biennial instead of annual sessions.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

THURSDAY.

The senate has passed a joint resolution reducing from $24,400,000 to $11,655,492 the war indemnity of the United States from China, growing out of the Boxer disturbance in 1900.

Cardinal Sallusti, formerly papal delegate to the United States, has been nominated protector of the Sisters of Loretto, or the Friends of Mary at the Foot of the Cross, whose mother house and novitiate are at Nerima, Maricao county, Kentucky.

The Wisconsin Anti-Prohibition association has completed its permanent organization. An aggressive campaign is promised throughout the state.

Owing to a decrease in business all division superintendents of the Michigan Central railway have been ordered to lay off as many employees as business will permit.

The Maple Leaf mills, belonging to the Hendley-Shaw company, at Kenora, Ont., were burned Thursday. The loss will reach $1,000,000, insured.

Daniel J. Sully, who engineered the most gigantic cotton corner ever attempted some years ago, and who failed for something like $2,000,000, is reported to have again entered the market.

FRIDAY.

Another suspected case of yellow fever has been discovered at Santiago. The new case is a Spaniard of three years' residence.

Abraham J. Blader, of Chicago, who conducts 776 restaurants in the downtown district, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the district court, pledging his liabilities at $234,723 and his assets at $2,515.

James R. Keene has reported to the Jockey Club the death of his famous broodmare Ben-My-Chere, dam of a number of well known horses, including Chap and Belle, the only American-bred horse that ever won the Oaks of Epsom, England, cup.

Owing to an attack of gout the pope has been reluctantly obliged to suspend his audiences. He was visited Thursday by his private physician, Dr. Petacci, who insisted that the pontiff go to bed, and to take the patient concerned.

Archduke Ferdinand, grand duke of Tuscany, is dead. He was the father of Countess Montenegro, formerly the Princess Louise, and the divorced wife of the present King of Saxony, and who last year was married to Signor Tosello, a musician.

SATURDAY.

Colonel John L. Handley, supreme vice president of the Fraternal Union of America, died of appendicitis at his home in Denver, Colo.

Pope Pius was visited Saturday morning by his physician, who found him in better health, but the physician insisted that the pope continue to rest.

The James Donovan company, shoe manufacturers of Everett, Mass., have assigned for the benefit of creditors. The assets are placed at $300,000 and the liabilities at $180,000.

The currency commission of the American Bankers' association met in Chicago Saturday. Improvement in the nation's currency system was the keynote of the conference.

Saloon keepers in New York are much excited over the threatened raise of $1 a barrel in the price of beer, although one prominent brewer has stated that there will be no increase.

Wm. J. Bryan leaves soon on an extended tour. Mr. Bryan will visit Chicago, Covington, Ky., Nashville, Tenn., Birmingham, Ala., and Washington, D. C. At Washington Mr. Bryan will attend the banquet of the Gridiron club.

TEXAS NEXT.

"Lone Star State" After a Seat on the Water Wagon.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 17.—At a conference of the leading prohibitionists of Texas here it was decided to ask the next legislature for a prohibition amendment prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the state.

A primary campaign will be begun at once with a view of electing members to the legislature friendly to prohibition.

Fatal Fire at Scranton, Pa.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 18.—Two girls were killed and seven others seriously injured in a fire Friday in the building occupied by the Imperial Underwear factory. About two hundred girls were employed in the building and there was a panic when the alarm of fire was sounded. Florence Watrus was caught in the burning building and she met a horrible death in the flames. Marie Buckley, with a number of other girls, jumped from the fire escape, and broke her neck.

Dies of Ptomaine Poison.

Atlanta, Jan. 17.—The young son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Rice, of 210 Grant street, died Thursday morning after a short illness. The deceased was only four years of age, and came to his death, so it is thought, from eating some food which contained ptomaine poison.

Judge Simmons Dropped Dead.

Oakark, Ala., Jan. 17.—Judge John W. Simmons dropped dead here while sitting in a chair. He was for years probate judge of the county.

MINERS Faced DEATH

Forty Men in Catsburg Mine Have Thrilling Experience.

WERE GIVEN UP FOR DEAD

For Hours They Battled Through the Dark Windings for Distance of Several Miles, Momentarily Expecting Death from Suffocation.

Monongahela, Pa., Jan. 18.—Escaping death by cremation or suffocation, or being blown to pieces by an explosion, forty miners employed in the Catsburg mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, made their way through the dark headings for a distance of seven miles and finally reached the open air.

No Lights to Guide Them.

Without lights to guide them, and given up as dead the men battled for five hours with fire, and when they reached the surface their faces were blackened, clothes were torn, and they were severely bruised from stumbling in their flight for safety.

Fortunately, the mine contained very little gas or another mine disaster would have been recorded in western Pennsylvania.

The mine was fired some time during the day by a blow out shot and when the fire was discovered at 9 o'clock Friday night by the forty men, all escaped to the surface though the Monongahela entry was cut off.

Momentarily expecting an explosion with its horrible consequences, the men started, panic-stricken, for the entry at Chaffert, seven miles distant. In their frenzy they stumbled and fell but only to jump up again and continue their mad rush for safety.

Men Sobbed Like Children.

The experience was probably the most frightful a body of coal miners has ever had. When the men reached the surface at 2 a. m. Saturday morning, a majority of them were sobbing like children. A large force of men are brattling the part of the mine which caught fire and it is believed the damage will be small.

PHOTOGRAPH POLICE FORCE.

Order Issued by Police Commissioner Bingham of New York.

New York, Jan. 18.—The entire police department of the city will be photographed. Orders to this effect were Saturday issued by Police Commissioner Bingham. A complete photographic record of the force is desired for convenience in identifying patrolmen against whom complaints may be lodged.

Another order issued by the commissioner, abolishing long leaves of absence, will have the effect of keeping up numerical strength of the force during the summer months, when the commissioner believes more men are needed to protect the empty residences of wealthy New Yorkers as well as to deal with a possible recurrence of the "crime epidemic of last summer."

DEADLY WOOD ALCOHOL.

Three Sailors Dead, Two Totally Blind from Drinking It.

Vallejo, Cal., Jan. 18.—John Hart, of the cruiser St. Louis, died here from the effects of wood alcohol, surreptitiously taken. He is the third victim in a week to succumb to the poisonous drink; two other sailors are totally blind from the same cause and five others may never again be fit for active service.

Harry Wilson and James T. Hayes are the other two bluejackets who are dead from the drink.

The men procured the wood alcohol from a quantity of linoleum cement which they softened by pouring water on it.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Nude Body of Former Kansas Editor Found Near Railroad Tracks.

Syracuse, Kans., Jan. 18.—George Satterthwaite, until three months ago managing editor of the Wichita, Kan. sas, Eagle, was found dead near the railroad track two miles east of here Friday.

His body was nude and investigation shows that he had left his clothes two miles away and walked in the cold and snow to the place where his body was found. Satterthwaite's father is owner of the Douglas, Kans., Tribune.

Preacher May Accept Call.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 18.—Rev. John S. Bunting, now an Episcopal minister in Greenville, Del., is in Macon looking over the field at Christ church with a view of accepting the call which was recently extended him. It is believed by the vestry of Christ church that he will accept, and much interest is being manifested in his coming.

Much Tobacco Prey of Flames.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 18.—Fire, which totally destroyed the Julius Marquette warehouse Saturday, has caused a loss of between $100,000 and $200,000 to tobacco which was stored in cases. The fire originated of mysterious origin.

FIVE FINE WATERY GRAVES.

Ice Breaks Up Party of Men, Six Persons who formed a skating party at the Jintona reservoir, near here Wednesday night, five were drowned. They are John Luxner, George Cochran, William Fuller and Elizabeth Palmer.

Miss Palmer and George Cochran started towards the center of the reservoir, but had not gone far when the ice broke and they were thrown into the water. As the other members of the party passed, horrified, at the spot, two heads reappeared above the surface. Cochran, supporting the girl with one hand, was clinging to the broken edges of the ice with the other in an instant a human chain was formed by the other four, who clasped hands with Ar. Lew. Mack, the only survivor, at the end of the line nearest the shore.

Just as a hand was being reached out to grasp Miss Palmer, there was another crash of ice. Frank Cochran and Luxner and William Fuller, also gone down, the four left giving way under their combined weight. Mack was obliged to dash to shore. Helpless to save, he saw his companions of a few minutes before go to death. He heard a scream and a choking sound, saw uplifted hands above water for several seconds, and then all was still.

At a late hour none of the bodies had been recovered.

WORK OF "BLACK HAND."

Attempt Made to Blow Up Family of Italian in New York.

New York, Jan. 16.—An explosion which the police lay to the "Black Hand" occurred at an early hour on Thursday morning in a tenement house in East Twenty-ninth street, shattering the front of the building, breaking windows in nearby buildings, and almost causing a panic in the wards of Bellevue hospital, which are located on that side of the hospital towards the buildings where the explosion occurred.

The explosion seems to have been directed toward the family of Pietro Onarato, a coal dealer, who with his wife and three children live in the building. Onarato states that, December 15th, he received a letter signed "Black Hand" in which he was directed to take $1,000 on the grave of a certain Italian in a Brooklyn cemetery within a month on penalty of being killed with all his family.

No one was seriously injured in the building.

FERTILIZER TRADE IS DULL.

Falling Off of About 15 Per Cent Compared With Last Year.

Atlanta, Jan. 17.—Trade in fertilizers this year indicates a falling off of about 15 to 25 per cent as compared with last year, according to information received at the state department of agriculture.

Representatives of fertilizer manufacturers who have called at the department of agriculture state that the trade was never duller than now, and there is no hope in the outlook.

The falling off in the demand for fertilizers is attributed to the scarcity of money, and also to the fact that vigorous movements have been organized by the Farmers' Union and others looking to a curtailment of the cotton acreage during the coming year.

Colony of Northern Farmers.

Americus, Ga., Jan. 16.—Twenty-seven northern farmers traveling together have arrived here with the intention of purchasing farming lands and instituting a colony among themselves. They are thrifty, sturdy farmers and will prove a valuable acquisition to Sumter county. Several landowners here are interested in the movement instituted to bring northern farmers here to settle, and other considerable parties will follow shortly.

Bank Officials Under Bond.

Durango, Colo., Jan. 16.—Charged with having received deposits after they knew that the Colorado State bank was insolvent, four of the officers and directors were on Wednesday arrested in attachment suits brought against them by John English. Those arrested are D. N. Freeman, W. C. Chapman, Frank Eldredge and Evan Hampton. They were released on bonds.

Established New Record.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Frank Sullivan, swimming director of the Illinois Athletic club, has established a new professional record for remaining under water, staying in the bottom of the tank for three minutes. The former mark of 2:20 was held by Finney, an English swimmer, and was made several years ago at Philadelphia.

Death Penalty for Two.

Carrollton, Ga., Jan. 17.—The jury has returned a verdict of guilty in the case of the state versus Wes Summerlin, charged with the murder of Jehro Jones, of this county, on November 29. The court sentenced Charles and Wes Summerlin to be hanged on February 14.

Sunday Games for Mobile.

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 16.—The general council has unanimously adopted a petition presented by several hundred citizens praying for Sunday baseball in this city.

WALSH FOUND GUILTY

Was President of the Defunct Chicago National Bank.

WAS GUILTY ON 54 COUNTS

Penalty Under the Law for the Crime For Which the Former Bank Official Is Convicted Is Imprisonment for Not Less Than Five Years.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—John R. Walsh, president of the defunct Chicago National bank, was Saturday found guilty of misappropriating the funds of that institution.

The jury reached an agreement shortly after 3 o'clock Saturday morning, but the verdict was not announced until after court reconvened at 10 o'clock.

The penalty under the law for the crime for which Walsh is convicted is imprisonment for a period of not less than five years. It does not permit of the substitution of a fine for the prison term.

Walsh was found guilty on fifty-four counts.

The original indictment contained 152 counts. Demurrers were sustained as to thirty-two counts which left 120 upon which the jurors were required to pass.

Walsh was present in the courtroom and received the verdict with little show of emotion. On the contrary one of the jurors, Elbert Palmer, of Harvard, Ill., burst into tears as he took his seat in the jury box and was so overcome during the proceedings that he was scarcely able to answer the clerk when asked if the finding represented his view as to the guilt of the defendant.

The charge against Walsh grew out of the closing in 1906 of the Chicago National bank, of which Walsh was president, and its allied institutions, the Home Savings bank and the Equitable Trust company.

Walsh was accused of having loaned funds of these institutions aggregating some sixteen millions of dollars, on fictitious and insufficiently secured notes of nearly a score of struggling enterprises which he himself had founded and practically owned. Many of the notes, it developed at the trial, were signed, without authority, in the names of various employees of Walsh.

The directors of the bank testified that they were not consulted by Mr. Walsh as to the making of these loans and that they knew nothing of them. Twenty-six of the notes were described as "memorandum" notes and they formed one of the chief features of the trial. They represented more than $2,000,000.

The defense took the ground that all the Walsh enterprises were built up in order to save and protect original loans made by Walsh in good faith.

GIRL HELD AS SLAVE.

Was Kidnaped by Chinese from Her Parents in Cincinnati.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 18.—Florence Livingston, 16 years old, is in the hands of the police, having been captured in a raid on a house occupied by Lee Ping in the Chinese quarter.

The girl says she was kidnaped from her parents in Cincinnati when she was nine years of age and since that time has been held by the Chinese as a slave, frequently passing from the hands of one Chinese to another in different parts of the country. She says she was not allowed to write to her friends, and finally even forgot the name of the street on which she lived. She could tell the police nothing about her parents, she now speaks Chinese fluently.

CRUSADE AGAINST BRYAN.

German Editor of New York Would Prevent Nebraska's Nomination.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 18.—Herman Ridder, of New York, and Mrs. Ridder spent Friday in Savannah. They will next visit Jacksonville, being on a tour of the principal cities of the south. Mr. Ridder said that the object of his trip is a crusade against Bryan.

He is doing his utmost to prevent his nomination for the presidency on the democratic ticket. He will interview all of the leading editors of this section, and seek to induce them to declare against Bryan. "Eastern democrats," he says, are opposed to Bryan.

Big Tobacco Shipment.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 18.—A Madisonville, Ky., dispatch says that the 1906 pooled crop of tobacco in Webster county has been sold to English parties. The tobacco is being loaded for shipment and will be sent to New Orleans and from there to Liverpool. The purchase consists of 236 hogheads and will make a train of sixty cars.

Chamber Commerce Elects Officers.

Athens, Ga., Jan. 18.—The Athens chamber of commerce has elected the following officers for the coming year: President, M. G. Michael; first vice president, John D. Moss; second vice president, W. A. Mallory; secretary, T. W. Reed; treasurer, J. C. Jester.

LYONING AT BIRMINGHAM

Method Men Strive to Negate Racial Body with Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 18.—The Birmingham chapter of the Lyons, a negro organization, met here Sunday night for a session. The negro body was organized in Birmingham in 1904, and has since that time been active in promoting the interests of the colored race.

Franklin shot and killed a white man, A. C. Paulk, secretary of the Lyons, in the city of Birmingham. The Lyons had been caught in the Birmingham chapter, and the Lyons had been caught in the Birmingham chapter, and the Lyons had been caught in the Birmingham chapter.

The Banner.
Published at Clanton, Oklahoma, every Tuesday.
Subscription price, $1.00 per year in advance.
Single copies, 10 cents.
Entered as second-class matter, October 3, 1906.
Postmaster: This publication is published weekly.
Address: Clanton, Oklahoma.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
This is to again call your attention to the new ruling of the Postmaster General which went into effect January 1, 1908, but the time has been extended to April 1, 1908. The Postmaster General announces that subscribers who are more than twelve months in arrears cannot be considered legitimate subscribers, and refuses to carry their papers at the second class rate. Under these circumstances we very respectfully ask that all subscribers who are due us for more than a year's subscription, will kindly settle their back dues, so that we may continue to send them The Banner. If it is not convenient to pay in advance we will cheerfully give you one year's credit but back dues must be paid up by April 1, or the paper must be discontinued. The Postmaster General's ruling must be obeyed.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has declared the two-cent rate unconstitutional.

Hon. William Jennings Bryan is the guest of the city of Birmingham today (Thursday) and a great crowd will enthusiastically greet the coming presidential nominee of the Democratic party, and the probable next President of the United States.

ONE of the Republican executive committees held a meeting at the court house, Clanton, last Friday, and enjoyed a fine time generally. C. H. Scott was endorsed for member of the national committee, and the sentiment appeared to be in favor of the nomination of Secretary Taft for President.

State Superintendent of Education, Harry C. Gunnells, is calling the attention of the county school superintendents of the State to the law regarding the election of the county superintendents which becomes effective in time for the holding of elections for superintendents next fall.

This law entirely changes the mode of selecting the county superintendents of the state, and puts it directly into the hands of the people. Heretofore these offices have been filled by appointment, in many cases, as well as by election. The terms of office have been made from two to four years in length, but under the new law all this is changed.

The law provides that elections for the office of county superintendents shall be held every two years, and that the term of office shall extend from July to July. Under the terms of the act many county superintendents will lose some of their time, but others will gain, as they will hold over until the elected superintendent's office goes into effect.

Chilton County Singing Convention.
The minutes of the last meeting of the Chilton County Singing Convention are now ready for distribution and can be obtained on application to JAMES FRANKLIN, Secretary, Thoraby, Ala.

A CASH OFFER.
The Banner has made a special clubbing rate with The Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the regular subscription price, $1.00. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer; $1.00 cash for both papers. Everyone should take their home paper first for the local news, and then a general weekly for the news of the world. These two papers make a strong combination. Both papers $1.00.

THE BANNER FOR COUNTY.
We are again the first issue of The Banner Weekly that the citizens of this city and section have taken the occasion of a big mass meeting to discuss the proposed state campaign in behalf of the adoption of the amendment to the state constitution, passed by the legislature, enabling sections of the state possessing not less than 600 square miles area, taxable values to meet the expense of the county government and a population to entitle them to a member of the legislature, to pass upon the question of establishing for themselves their own county government. There are certain limitations embodied in the amendment. One, that the contributing counties shall not be reduced below the constitutional area, nor to a less population than will entitle it to one representative in the legislature nor shall the boundary line of any new county formed now within less than seven miles of any established courthouse.

The people of the Bessemer district are deeply interested in the adoption of this amendment. For nearly nearly a score of years they have been seeking the formation of a new county, possessing as they do the full constitutional area, with a population now entitling them to two or more members of the legislature and a taxable wealth ranking sixth in the state. Those Bessemer people ask no special favors, only a right that all citizens possess or surely should possess, that of local self-government. This amendment is not special to their interests. It puts all the sections of the state and the people upon a perfect civil equality. The matter of establishing new counties is left to the vote of the people, those directly interested. Just where it should belong.

In the general election on amendment to the Constitution a majority of all votes cast must be voted on the amendment. Hence the concern of the Bessemer section of the state in inducing all citizens to vote on the question. They have no concern about the timeliness, justice and principle embodied in the amendment commending it to every good citizen's judgment.

SOUTHERN COTTON ASSOCIATION.
Alabama State Division President's Office
Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 14, 1908
Dear Sir:—County meetings for the purpose of organizing or re-organizing local branches of the Southern Cotton Association, and electing delegates to the Annual Convention of the Alabama Division to be held in this city, February 5th and 6th, have been called to be held at the county sites of the various counties on Wednesday, Jan. 29, at 11 o'clock.
Please do what you can to make the meeting a success. Go to it. Encourage others to go. And get others to get others to go. The work of the Association has proved of too great value to permit now of its being neglected.
The railroads will probably give a one fare rate to the Convention to be held here on Feb. 5th and 6th. Would like to have you present.
Yours very truly,
W. H. SEYMOUR,
President Ala. Div.

Keen Interest Centered in the Staging of Lew Wallace's "Ben-Hur"
In Birmingham, January 27-28-29.
Secured history, reports dramatized, and scenes of great interest to all who give it attention, for where one man can acquire knowledge by reading, ninety nine or more are willing to study by the eye and ear combined, and will retain instruction thus received more vividly than from the written page. General Wallace's great book "Ben-Hur" is beyond doubt a most interesting volume, but how infinitely more impressive is the actual presentation of these deeds set down. The series of word pictures pertaining to Christ's life in this dramatization are most ably selected from the novel by William Young, but the play is by no means a picture of the life of the Redeemer. The salient earthly points of the novel, not the strictly religious, are what the dramatists selected and for that reason "Ben-Hur" is full of common interest regardless of belief or creed.

Art and invention joined hands in making Klav & Erlanger's new and greater production a marvel of the stage. The thrilling interest of the story is intensified by the wonderful mechanical contrivances which make possible the presentation of such striking incidents as the chariot race with its twelve fiery steeds, the sinking of the Roman galley and the rescue, the appearance of the Star of Bethlehem, the vision in the Vale of Hinnom and the miracle on the Mount of Olives. The character of Gen. Wallace's mighty biblical romance is thoroughly maintained notwithstanding the magnitude of the scenic settings. Keen interest is centered in the staging of "Ben-Hur" at the Jefferson Theatre for three nights, Jan. 27-28-29 with a special matinee on Wednesday, Jan. 25. R. S. Douglas, manager of the Jefferson Theatre, will give special attention to all orders for seats through the providing remittance accompanies same. Seats will be placed on sale Thursday, Jan. 23. Prices will range from 50c to $2.00.

Oak Grove
Here we come again with our weekly report from our thriving community, Oak Grove. Our society was called to order by Vice-President Miss Leslie Davis. Roll was called by Secretary, Miss Myrtle Durbin. Among some of the best recitations was the "Night before Xmas," by Ethel Sutley; a rather humorous recitation by Miss Lizzie Smitherman; Song, "My old Kentucky home," sung by the school; a number of short speeches by smaller children. Meeting was closed by singing "Home, sweet home." Among our visitors were Misses Ester L. Shaw Verla Skipper Nettie Allen; Mr. Johnson and little son, R. B., and John Davis.

We have been having some very beautiful weather for the past few days. Miss Pearl Bledsoe spent Sunday with Mr. W. E. Skipper's family. The singing at Mr. Moriah Sunday was attended by a large crowd, although it was not known by all the class. Mrs. Rose Foshee and daughters, accompanied by Miss Sudie Johnson, all of Jemison, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. R. C. Skipper's family. Mr. J. D. Sutley and family were at Mr. W. H. Martin's Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb spent Saturday at Mr. W. H. Shaw's. Rev. R. M. Honeycutt filled his regular appointment at Providence, Sunday. The singing at Mr. W. H. Shaw's Sunday night was attended by several of the Rocky Mountain boys and also some of the Dry Valley boys. Among the girls were Misses Verla, Ola and Annie Skipper and Cassie Northcutt.

Mr. George Cobb and sister, Miss Lizzie, visited Shelby, Sunday. Messrs. Ed Martin and Cleve Watson, accompanied by Misses Ester and Ora Shaw, visited relatives and friends of Pleasant, Saturday and Sunday and report a nice time. We are sorry to say that Mr. W. E. Skipper's two youngest children are very sick with measles. We are glad to say that the kind men of this community have finished the telephone line since we last wrote and it is a great help to us. Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Manns of our community have moved to Kona, where they will make their future home. We are sorry to say that the Sunday school and prayer meeting is not revived yet, but we hope it will as spring opens up. Hoping to see this all in print, we will ring off until next week. ANNIE SKIPPER, Reporter. ORA SHAW, Asst. Reporter.

Falouts
Editor Banner—Will you please let me have space to say just a little, as this morning I am so much like summer time has come? Well, I just want to say a few words in regard to Smutty Face of Plantersville. Say, Smutty Face, the girls of this place have been practicing cigarette making a good while and don't you believe that they can't make them, and they can smoke them when they are made. It is a very easy matter for you girls to make cigarettes if you beaus will put the tobacco to you. So I will not say any more about them because I do not use them very much. Mr. Tim Logan walked in Saturday; he has been out in Missouri and reports a very dull time. Miss Ida Logan was a pleasant guest of Mrs. W. A. Logan, Monday. Mr. W. A. Scarbrough was pleasant guest of Mr. A. P. Powell the past week. Say, girls, aren't you all glad that good old summer time isn't very far off? It will soon be fishing time and I guess I can give some good news about Buster Boy fishing. Messrs. A. P. Powell and W. O. Logan made a flying visit to Mr. John Ashkins Saturday last and enjoyed their trip greatly. The plow boys are singing their songs slowly. Come again, Smutty Face, give us all of the Plantersville news, if good or bad, it will do. Say, Violet, we sure were glad to hear your good news; we thought frost had killed Violet, but we are sure glad that we were mistaken. It looks as if old Parkwood would open her eyes and speak out loud, but guess she has gone deaf. I will ring off, thanking the Editor for his kindness. Success to the Banner. BUSTER BOY.

Lawley.
As it has been some time since we heard from this place, thought I would write. Health of this community is good at present. I will say something about our school. It is getting along nicely under the management of P. G. Maness; he is a great teacher for the debate and bull game with all of the pupils which will all do. It is not a book school at all but a writing school. The paper factors will have to hurry up if it keeps it in paper. We are going to have a debate on Friday evening on city life and country life. Mrs. P. G. Maness and Mrs. Ella Charting made a pleasant visit to Mr. Ellis Wednesday. Messrs. Sam McGee and Robert Hall visited Mr. Klinger Wednesday night. Mr. A. K. Klinger and wife made a visit to Mr. John Ellis Wednesday. I will say no more for this time. Best wishes to the Banner and its many readers.

ALABAMA STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

A QUEER TREE
The Tumbo is a Monstrosity of the African Desert.
The mature tumbo is a tree with a trunk about two feet long, shaped much like an inverted cone. Almost all the trunk is below the surface of the ground, the visible part rarely exceeding a few inches. But the remarkable feature of the stem is that it is often fourteen feet in circumference and becomes more or less a two lobed shape. The stem looks more like a great mass of "the burned crust of a loaf of bread," to quote Dr. Weitzsch's letter, than the trunk of a tree. The underground portion becomes greatly elongated, and its continuation is the top root of the plant. This goes down several feet in its effort to get the few drops of water that the arid conditions of the country permit. There are never more than two leaves about the seed leaves, drop off, and very curious leaves they are. Starting from a groove on opposite sides of the depressed mass, they stand straight out on both sides of the plant. They are often six feet long and two feet wide and usually split into ribbons that undulate over the ground in a way strikingly suggestive of the tentacles of an octopus. With its great ugly body and its tentacle-like leaves it is no wonder that it has been the most remarkable plant novelty of the last century. The flowers are borne in scarlet cones on a cymose inflorescence coming from the crown of the trunk. Tumbo balsam belongs to the joint fir family, or gnetaceae, and is known only from Portuguese West Africa to Damaraland. This is a region that seldom gets any rain, and desert conditions prevail almost completely, except for the sea fogs. The tumbo is thus a desert plant par excellence and it is only by a close approximation of these very arid conditions that we can cultivate it.—New York Botanic Garden.

Very Neighborly.
"Good afternoon," said Mrs. Nagg, with icy politeness, to her next door neighbor. "Would you mind not looking out when my visitors are passing? It makes the place look vulgar." "Thought they were broken men," replied Mrs. Snapp pleasantly. "You and your sister, or charwoman, or whatever she is, are not the kind that men visitors run after much, are you?" "Better than some people whose 'usins' have run away from them," observed her neighbor. "What do you mean, ma'am?" "I name no names; their 'usins' may be in prison or they may not. 'Are you seen my doorman, by the by?' I missed 'em yesterday." "When I become a thief, ma'am, I'll steal something that's clean." "Well, I must go," said Mrs. Nagg cordially. "I wish I could stop, but I've got to call on a lady." "And so, of course, you feel awkward. Going to ask for a place as cook, perhaps. Well, I shan't keep you, ma'am. Good evening!"—London Sketch.

He Wanted a Rest.
There was not even standing room in the car, but one more passenger, a young woman, wedged her way inside the doorway. Each time the car took a sudden lurch forward she fell helplessly back into the arms of a large, comfortable man on the back platform. The third time it happened he said quietly, "Hain't you better stay here?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

While times are dull and on a standstill I thought I would write to the dear old Banner, that always gives our minds employment to read. We think that the Twin Tree mill will start up now in a few weeks; it will please the minds of all that are in hearing of the whistle.

Mr. Ed Ensign gave his mill and friends a pleasant call Monday. The meal in this neighborhood seem to be getting better.

Mrs. Goodman, the therman has been very ill with fever.

Mrs. Emma Charles has been visiting her son at Vi in this week.

Mrs. T. Mills has carried her daughter, Miss Willie, to Selma with a broken leg.

We are expecting our town to be presented with a new postmaster sometime soon.

Well, I will ring off by saying good luck to the Banner.

Metrist 32.

Dear Editor—Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to our school at this place. We have 96 pupils on roll and all have been attending very well up to the present but I think the number will soon thin us out. Prof. J. W. Moore is an excellent teacher and all that are not attending are missing a golden opportunity.

Some of the young people from Clanton attended the singing at Shiloh Sunday night and report a nice time.

Rev. J. M. Parrish filled his regular appointment at this place Saturday and Sunday.

We had quite a number of visitors Sunday. Come again one and all, we are glad to have you with us. The pastor opened the doors of the church and we were glad to see Mr. Wash Parrish and wife give him their hand.

Mr. Jim Buelock led to the marriage altar, Miss Virginia Easterling, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Easterling. We wish the happy couple many pleasures and a long and happy life together.

LITTLE SWEETHEART.

Do you have backache occasion ally, or "stitches" in the side, and sometimes do you feel all tired out without ambition and without energy? If so, your kidneys are out of order. Take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They promptly relieve headache, backache, weak back, inflammation of the bladder and weak kidneys. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Personal.

Mr. J. W. Littleton, of Siluria, was in town last Thursday.

Mr. Oliver of Verbena, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. J. R. Holley of Route 6, was one of our pleasant callers Saturday.

Mr. W. T. Franklin of Route 1, was in town Monday.

Mr. W. W. Jones of Route 5, gave us a pleasant call Tuesday.

Mr. W. T. Hynd of Jemison, was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

In the county court Monday some gypsies were fined $62.25 for telling fortunes without license.

Married.

On Wednesday evening, January 22, at five o'clock, Mr. W. E. Vank and Miss Jennie Jones were happily united in the holy bonds of matrimony, at the residence of Mr. J. C. Jones, brother of the bride, Rev. J. F. Price performing the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left on a bridal tour to New Orleans. We wish for them all possible happiness.

THE MYSTERY OF SLEEP.

No Man Knows When the Moment of Unconsciousness Comes.

There is a remarkable fact connected with sleep which must not be overlooked. The sleep of a human being, if we are not too busy to attend to the matter, always evokes a certain feeling of awe. Go into a room where a person is sleeping, and it is difficult to resist the sense that one is in the presence of the central mystery of existence. People who remember how constantly they see old Jones asleep in the club library will smile at this, but look quietly and alone even at old Jones and the sense of mystery will soon develop.

It is no good to say that sleep is only "moving" because it looks like death. The person who is breathing so loudly as to take away all thought of death causes the sense of awe quite as easily as the silent sleeper who hardly seems to breathe.

We see death seldom, but were it more familiar we doubt if a corpse would inspire so much awe as the unconscious and sleeping figure—a smiling, irresponsible doll, flesh and blood, but a doll to whom in a second may be called a proud, active, controlling consciousness which will ride his bodily and his mental horse with a hand of iron, which will force that body to endure toil and misery and will make that mind, now wandering in paths of fantastic folly, grapple with some great problem or throw all its force into the ruling, the saving or the destruction of mankind. The corpse is only so much bone, muscle and tissue; the sleeping body is the house which a quick and eager master has only left for an hour or so.

Let any one who thinks sleep is not a mystery try to observe in himself the process by which sleep comes and to notice how and when and under what conditions he loses consciousness. He will, of course, utterly fail to put his finger on the moment of sleep coming, but in striving to get as close as he can to the phenomena of sleep he will realize how great is the mystery which he is trying to fathom.

The Age of Discretion.

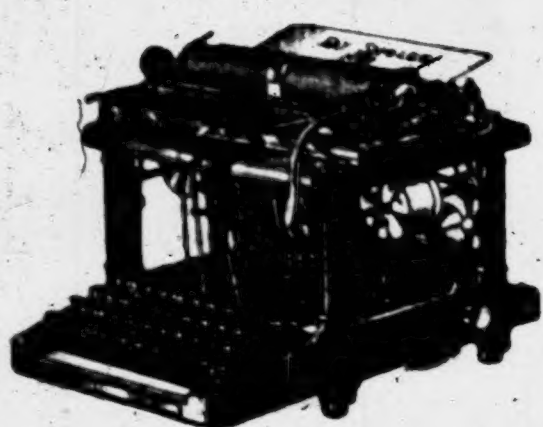

"At just what period would you place the attainment of discretion?" asked a friend of Speaker Cannon.

"Generally speaking," answered Uncle Joe, "I should say that a young fellow has reached the age of discretion when he removes from his walls the pictures of actresses and substitutes therefor a portrait of his wealthy bachelor uncle."—Lippincott's.

Her Revenge.

A woman entered a railway train and happened to take a seat in front of a newly married couple. She was hardly seated before they began making remarks about her, which some of the passengers must have heard. She turned her head, noticed that the bride was considerably older than the bridegroom—and in the smoothest of tones said:

"Madam, will you please have your son remove his feet from the back of my chair?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

With best wishes to the Banner.

"Bijou"

Lascasadas, Panama, Jan. 18

Editor Banner—Will you please allow me space in your paper for a few words and that is this: I am going to the hospital at Aucon for operation, and if the Canal is not heard from any more you will know I have reached my destination.

The total excavation during the month of December was 2,200,539 cubic yards; for the first time on record the two million cubic yards was not only reached but passed. Of the 2,200,539 cubic yards excavated 2,096,542 were taken from the Canal prism, 1,317,938 by steam shovels and 777,607 by dredges; all classes of work is progressing nicely and even the ladies take a hand in the inspection of the work as they had a special car to carry them through the Canal.

I witnessed a terrible explosion in the Canal a few weeks past, it was supposed by some, that it was an old charge left by the French, and was struck by a steam shovel and four men were killed and eleven seriously injured, also one poor Spanish woman and child was killed at least one-quarter of a mile from the explosion.

Gold Hill, which is the highest point on the Isthmus, which was to have been tunneled, caved in last week and will cost Uncle Sam about half a million, which we do not like the looks of as the Old Man uses us fine we have the best of board and quarters; good enough for himself, and now if you never hear from me again I will let someone else tell you about how it happened.

Respectfully,
G. C. Lowe.

In its Native Element.

His clothes were spotted with dirt and grease, but a bright bunch of flowers adorned the lapel of his coat.

"What do you think of this?" he asked, proudly tapping his bouquet.

"Where do you think I got it?"

"Don't know," admitted his friend, "unless—Why, maybe it grew there."

Clanton, Jan. 23, 1908

Editor Banner—Will you please give me space in your paper to reply to last week's letter, who appeared in the Union on Jan. 9? He signs "Forsaken." Now, hear, Mr. Voter, you are not forsaken by all. I stand ready to help all, especially a man that can't see a panic when it is in knee pants. Say, where were you on the 5th day of December, 1907, when the largest bank in the West busted, the one Uncle Sam kept his dough in? On Dec. 4, 1907, the Republican papers said the banks of that city were as solid as Gibraltar. Was that a Democratic bank, or not, or do you know one from the other? The first bank that failed in New York last spring, what was it, or do you know? Now, say, Forsaken one, is it not a fact that they all busted to a certain extent and the big Republican banks led the way? Go with me to New York City for one minute where over 150,000 idle men can be found; in December 1904 deaths traceable to the panic, 25,000 being fed by the hand of charity. In New Orleans there are more idle men than ever before in the history of New Orleans. There is said to be more unemployed men in the United States today than ever before. In California last week there was shipped 2500 Mexicans back to Mexico on account of no employment. In 1893 when you got work the wages were small, 90c to $1.00 in cash. Today if you succeed in getting work the wages are from 90c to $1 in scrip. How's that, Rub? Say, you have just got one thing to boast of, and that is the soup in '93 was thin with one or two beans in bottom, it's the same soup today with the beans guaranteed under the Pure Food law. Take a little more of that patent medicine you have stored away, get well, look around and see if you are not mistaken; go to the bank and ask for your deposits in cash. ANON

IN MEMORIAM.

On last Thursday morning at 7:55, death, the grim destroyer, visited Pratt City and claimed for his own, our esteemed friend, J. J. Grant. He was apparently in good but was taken ill suddenly and lived only 45 minutes, he regained consciousness for a few moments before the end and said, "Where is my children? tell them to be good I must leave them now." He was a Confederate veteran and was 66 years old 23rd day of last July, he was a kind and indulgent father, a steadfast friend and was ever ready to assist his fellow man. He was a farmer resident of Clanton and won many friends for his ever ready kindness and cheer.

His remains were brought to Coopers and laid beside his devoted wife, who preceded him only two years ago, there to rest in peace. The services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Swindall of East Lake, and was very impressive.

He leaves seven children to mourn his loss. Our sympathies are with the stricken ones and to them we will say: cheer up, though the future looks dark and gloomy, remember God doeth all things well, and father and mother are with the shining angels waiting to be re-united. A FRIEND.

"Use Royalties."

One day while on a hunt with a number of royal guests the old kaiser grew tired and decided to go home quietly. Two of his guests, noticing this, accompanied him. They had walked along the road some distance when a farmer with his wagon overtook them. One of the gentlemen asked him to take them along. The farmer consented, and the three climbed into the wagon.

Curiosity soon got the better of the countryman, and turning to one of the gentlemen he asked:

"And who might you be?"

"I am the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg."

"Good!" cried the farmer, laughing. And turning to the second gentleman he asked, "And who are you?"

"I am the king of Saxony."

"Why, this is getting better," said the farmer. Finally he turned to the third.

"Well, and who are you?"

"I am William, emperor of Germany."

"Well, this beats all!" said the countryman. "And now let me introduce myself. I am Frederick the Great! And now get along," he said, hitting his horse. "You must please a little in honor of us royalties!"

enjoy reading your letters; my face is still smooty.

Mrs. Mattie C. visited Miss Oph elia Ousley, Sunday eve.
A crowd of girls went sweet gum hunting Sunday and sure got lots of gum.

Shoults

Editor Banner—I take the pleas ure of writing a Shoults letter as I have been a silent reader for over a year. We are having some very cool weather, but the farmers will soon be looking for sweet spring time so they can go to work in the field. So I guess I had better change my subject as I have been reading in the Banner about whis key being voted out of States and towns, think we had better vote this out in our community as it is getting worse and worse. I think it is just as bad though as it can be when they go to hauling molasses
by the 40 and 50 gallon barrels.
How many saw the ten gallon keg of molasses going to the still Saturday evening? I think when they are hauling molasses around publicly it is getting down pretty fine. Say, brothers, are we going to let these old blind tigers stay in our community and bring it down to the dogs when there are so many children suffering for the molasses, and then taking every dollar and spending it for whiskey when the dear ones at home are needy? Say, brothers, there has just got to be something done with the blind tigers near Shoults, for it is just bringing our boys down to de struction and shame. Brothers, are you going to allow whiskey to be made at your door and sold to your boys and see them drunk and cursing and sending their soul down to hell. Brothers, let us wake up and see what is going on in our community and fight against the work of the devil, and if we do our duty I think we will have a better time. Best wishes to the Banner and its many readers.

BIO LEX.

Editor Banner—Health here is good at present.

I thought that after January the st whiskey would go dead, but it seems like it is plentiful. It seems like the men that haul cross ties get more whiskey than money. I think they have a friend in Jimson, as he would not sell it. I know it comes from Jimson, for it comes right home every time that they take a load of ties. It comes by quarts and pints, and if it isn't stopped somebody will have to go in front of the grand jury.

Well, I will close for this time
with best wishes to the Banner.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.
The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, prin cipally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him
with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and con tentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

Editor Banner—Please allow me
space in your valuable paper to say a few words. Health of this com munity is not good at present, there are several cases of measles.

Mr. Mack Seal killed two fine
hogs Friday; one weighing 367,
the other 284 pounds and he got 250 pounds of lard.

THE HOUSEWIFE
Lambert and O'Brien.
Lambert and O'Brien will be better known as the most useful of all housewives. They are the ones who keep the home in order, and who are the backbone of the family.
The Housewife is a woman who is not only a good cook, but also a good manager. She is the one who keeps the household accounts and who sees that everything is in its proper place. She is the one who makes the family happy and who is the source of comfort and joy to all who are near her.

The Meekest Man.
"Which of you children can tell me who was the meekest man?" asked a Sunday school teacher.
None of them raised a hand. Finally little Johnny Flimptop raised his hand above his curly head.
"There," said the teacher, "you ought all to be ashamed of yourselves. You great big boys have been coming to Sunday school for months and months,
and here is little Johnny Flimptop, poor little fellow, he never has had any advantages, and has only been coming to Sunday school for the past two weeks, and yet he knows more about the Bible than all the rest of you. I become perfectly discouraged when I think of it. I come here every Sunday and tell for you, and yet you can't answer so simple a question as what is the name of the meekest man in the Bible. Just look at little John ny there, holding up his hand, while you hang your heads. You're a good little boy, Johnny, and your teacher is proud of you. Now speak up good and loud and tell these great big boys who was the meekest man. Speak up, Johnny."
"Please, ma'am, may I go out?"

A Historic Pig.
It was a single vote cast in a town
election in Rhode Island, in 1811, which led to the declaration of war with England in 1812 and later result ed in the election of General Jackson
as president.
In the spring of 1811, at the annual election in Rhode Island, in one of the towns the voting between the parties had been for years very close, not more than a majority of one or two votes. The polls closed at 6 o'clock, and a Federal farmer, delaying voting
until late in the afternoon, hurriedly crossed his fields to reach the polls.
In passing his last fence he found one of his valuable pigs fast between the rails and stopped to get it out.
Succeeding finally, he started on a run for the voting place, but when within 100 feet of it the town clock struck 6, and the polls closed without his vote.
The result was that a Democrat, or war representative, from that town was elected by one vote. When the general assembly met a few weeks later a Democrat, or war, United States senator was chosen on joint ballot
by one majority.
In 1812 the declaration of war with England was carried in the United States senate by one vote. General Jackson was nominated as major gen eral and confirmed by one vote on Jan. 8, 1815. He commanded the army at the battle of New Orleans, gained a victory, became a popular military hero and as his reward was elected and re-elected president of the United States, turned out all the Whigs, re moved the deposits, vetoed the national bank bill, and all on account of that pig in Rhode Island that got fast in a rail fence.

Lincoln to McClellan.
President Lincoln once wrote the fol lowing letter to General McClellan when the latter was in command of the army. General McClellan, as is well known, was so careful not to make mistakes that he made little headway.
My Dear McClellan:
If you don't want to use the army, I should like to borrow it for awhile. Yours
respectfully,
A. LINCOLN.

Alma's Story.
Many interesting statements are told of Alma's story, but few are more striking and have been less repeated than the following, which Lord Oxford said to re late:
Barnet was once dining with the Duchess of Marlborough after the great battle of Blenheim. In the course of conversation, speaking of Marlbor ough's great qualities, great services and great fall, Barnet compared the duke with Belshazzar, the great Ro man.
"But how is reason," exclaimed the duchess, "could so great a general be abandoned?"
"Ah, my lady, do you know what a curious business of a wife he had?"
The hearers, to the good Barnet's surprise, were confused and dumb struck with the force of the parallel he discovered in the case of the Roman and the Englishman.—St. James' Gu sette.

A Caustic Reply.
A gentleman once said to a barrister,
"That was a very good sermon of your father's today." To which he replied:
"Yes. He must have cribbed it from some one." But the father overheard this remark and reminded him that the Bible says, "The or knoweth his owner and the ass his master's crib." This caustic reply silenced the barrister.—

The Spanish Royal Standard.
The Spanish royal standard is most complicated. The red and yellow of the Spanish flag is said to be derived from this occurrence: In 1378 Charles the Bold dipped his fingers in the blood of Geoffrey, count of Barcelona, and drew them down the count's golden shield in token of his appreciation of the latter's bravery. The shield, so marked, became part of Aragon,
and its arms were taken by that king dom. New to the royal standard: In the first quarter or upper left hand part of the flag are the arms of Leon and Castile, the lion and the castle.
The second quarter is taken up one half by the arms of Aragon, one-half by the arms of Sicily. The upper third of the third quarter—directly under the first—shows the Austrian colors.
The lower two-thirds is divided be tween the flag of Burgundy and the black lion of Flanders. The upper third of the fourth quarter shows the checkers, another Burgundian device, while the lower two-thirds is shared by the red eagle of Antwerp and the golden lion of Brabant, and on the top of all this are two shields, one showing the Portuguese arms, the other the French fleur-de-lis. Considerable of a flag that.

Don't Take the Risk.

ops into an attack of pneumonia,
but give it the attention it deserves

Square Bullets.
In 1718 an Englishman, James Puc
kle, secured a British patent for what seems to have been an attempt at a breachloading rapid-firing gun. An original feature of the invention was the use of two different breech plates,
one for square bullets, to be used against the Turks, and the other for round bullets, to be used against Chris tians. It is curious to find two oppos ing tendencies in the same invention—first, the desire to construct a gun that should be more effective because more destructive, and second, a desire to recognize certain ethical distinctions in its use. If a round bullet was too good for a Turk, a square one was too bad for a Christian.—London Chroni cle.

Stereotyping.
It is claimed that stereotyping was known in 1711. It was practiced by William Ged of Edinburgh about 1730.
Some of Ged's plates are to be seen at the Royal Institution, London. A Mr.
James attempted to introduce Ged's process in London in 1735, but failed.
Stereotype printing was used in Hol land during the last century, and a quarto Bible and a Dutch folio Bible were printed there. It was introduced in London by Wilson in 1804. Since 1850 the durability of stereotypes has been greatly increased by electrotyping them with copper or silver.

The Cure.
Professor W. E. Grass, author of the "History of Primitive Love," at tended in the course of a lecture in Bos ton to the modern cynical view of love that prevailed. "Remember once hear ing a bricklayer and a plumber discuss love," he said, "I told the bricklayer, that if you are terribly in love, the way to cure yourself is to run away. The plumber shook his head and sneered.
"That will cure you," he said, "provided you run away with the girl!"

Short and Out.
"Where is Mr. Middleman?" asked the caller at the broker's office.
"I think he's out on a little matter of wheat," replied the bright clerk.
"Out long?"
"Certainly not. If he had been long, he would have been in. It's because he was short that he's out!"—Philadel

RETIRE BUSINESS MAN
FAVORS NEW THEORY

E. H. Lambert, of Everett, Massachusetts, Believes Stomach the Seat of Life.

One of the most interesting state ments made recently concerning the much discussed Cooper theory, that has spread over the country during the past year, is made by E. H. Lambert, a retired business man, whose home is at 115 Francis Street, Everett, Mass.
Mr. Lambert has this to say in con nection with Cooper and his the ory: "Some time ago I read an ar ticle about this man Cooper, in which he claimed that stomach trouble was directly responsible for most of his disasters.
"He went on to say that, although his medicine did nothing but get the stom ach in sound condition, it would, in many cases, remove kidney and liver trouble and various other ailments.
He argued from this that the stomach was the seat of all disease, and that the cause of the disease he has had with his medicines was due entirely to this fact.
"I am now fully convinced that this theory is correct, and believe Cooper has a really remarkable medicine, judging from my own experience.
"I have been a sick man for five years. These years I was told by a physician that I had Bright's dis ease of the kidneys. I have treated constantly to this trouble with out results. After reading the article I have mentioned, I purchased some of this man Cooper's medicine. I have been astonished by what it has done for me. I was relieved to some extent within 24 hours. Today my health is better than for five years, and so far as I can tell, my kidney trouble has disappeared.
"My wife, who had stomach trouble
for some time, tried the preparation
after noting its action in my case,
and her improvement is fully as mark ed as mine. She now eats heartily three times a day without any distress whatsoever. Her nervousness has also left her. I certainly believe this man's second is fully justified, as he un doubtedly has a wonderful medicine."
We will gladly describe the remark able record made by the Cooper med icine to all who wish to know of them.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

This is to again call your attention to the new ruling of the Postmaster General which went into effect January 1, 1908, but the time has been extended to April 1, 1908.

The Postmaster General announces that subscribers who are more than twelve months in arrears cannot be considered legitimate subscribers, and refuses to carry their papers at the second class rate.

Under these circumstances we very respectfully ask that all subscribers who are due us for more than a year's subscription, will kindly settle their back dues, so that we may continue to send them The Banner.

If it is not convenient to pay in advance we will cheerfully give you one year's credit but back dues must be paid up by April 1, or the paper must be discontinued.

The Postmaster General's ruling must be obeyed.

In presenting the name of Senator Philander C. Knox as a candidate for the presidency, the Republicans of Pennsylvania feel that not only have they a candidate who fills all the requirements of that high office, but that Pennsylvania is entitled to the honor of providing the candidate. In respect to population and wealth, the Keystone State has long ranked second to New York alone among the members of the Union, yet from the inauguration of the government under the Constitution of 1787 down to the present day it has never had a fair share of the highest federal offices. It is true that Pennsylvania has had five Justices of the United States Supreme Court and three Speakers of the House of Representatives. She has had six Secretaries of the Treasury, four Secretaries of War, four Postmasters-General, eight Attorneys-General, two Secretaries of the Navy and one Secretary of the Interior. She has had eight United States Ministers to Russia, six Ministers to Great Britain, four Ministers to Austria, two Ministers to France, two Ministers to Italy and one Minister to Spain. She has had, however, only two Secretaries of State, but one Vice President and one President, whereas New York has had six Secretaries of State, nine Vice Presidents and no fewer than five Presidents. Seven natives of Virginia and five natives of Ohio have occupied the White House. The same thing may be said of two natives of North Carolina.

The State Democratic Executive Committee is called to meet in Montgomery February 7, and is the signal for the opening up of the campaign of 1908. A President, nine Congressmen and several other officials are to be elected this year.

It is well worth while to pay your poll tax before Feb. 1. This is an important election year when every man desires to vote. Pay your poll tax!

A CASH OFFER.

The Banner has made a special clubbing rate with The Montana Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the regular subscription price, $1.00. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer; $1.00 cash for both papers. Everyone should take their home paper first for the local news, and then a general weekly for the news of the world. These two papers make a strong combination. Both papers $1.00.

1907-1908 BALE GINNING

In January 16, 1908, the total amount of cotton in the United States ginned for the growth of 1907 to January 16, was 10,337,607 bales as compared with 12,176,199 bales for the same period last year and 9,989,634 bales for the same period in 1906.

The total number of active ginneries was 27,370.

In this bulletin round bales are counted as half bales. The number of round bales included is 187,563 for 1908; 258,717 for 1907, and 270,669 for 1906.

Sea Island included: 80,187 for 1908; 56,326 for 1907, and 104,710 for 1906.

WOMEN AND EDUCATION.

President Thomas of Bryn Mawr College, in her address at the recent Quarter-centennial meeting of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae held in Boston, gave some amusing reminiscences, showing how great a change has taken place in public opinion as regards the education of women. Dr. Thomas said that when she went to study in Germany, after graduating from Cornell her mother's friends never mentioned her name. "I was thought to be as much of a disgrace to my family as if I had eloped with the coachman. Now women who have been to college are as plentiful as blackberries on summer hedges."

The president of Harvard college when he visited Bryn Mawr a year after its opening, and found that our students were governing themselves and going away for a night or for a weekend as they saw fit, said to me: "If this continues, I will give you two years to close Bryn Mawr College." From that time to this, Bryn Mawr College students have had free and unrestricted self-government, and have proved that women of the age of our mothers when we were born are old enough to govern themselves. Student self-government is now working well in eleven colleges where women study and in, I believe, destined to spread to all other colleges for women.

SOUTHERN COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 14, 1908
Dear Sir:—County meetings for the purpose of organizing or re-organizing local branches of the Southern Cotton Association, and electing delegates to the Annual Convention of the Alabama Division to be held in this city, February 5th and 6th, have been called to be held at the county sites of the various counties on Wednesday, Jan. 29, at 11 o'clock.

Please do what you can to make the meeting a success. Go to it. Encourage others to go. And get others to get others to go. The work of the Association has proved of great value to permit now of its being neglected.

The railroad will probably give a one fare rate to the Convention to be held here on Feb. 5th and 6th. Would like to have you present.

Yours very truly,

No. 1, Bureau A.

The Maintenance of Earth Roads.

We may recognize the value of hard and durable roads in all parts of the country, but still the fact remains that for a long time to come the majority of the roads will be composed of earth. Furthermore, it is about nine months out of the year, the earth road, if properly cared for, is reasonably satisfactory. For many agricultural districts, it is the only road available. Hence, these communities should set themselves seriously to work to learn the best methods of maintaining earth roads and of getting the maximum service for them. Prosperity comes to the country to a great extent through the prosperity of the farmers. This fact strongly suggests the importance of giving the earth road every possible care and attention in its location, drainage, construction and maintenance.

An earth road composed of water holding soil should be exposed to the sun and air as freely as possible, as comparison between the shaded and sunny portions of such a road will easily indicate. This should be accomplished by clearing a sufficient amount of trees and undergrowth away from the road. It must be remembered, however, that sandy and gravelly roads require moisture, and in these cases some shade should be retained. Furthermore, trees are beneficial along river banks and on steep grades subject to washing.

Drainage is one of the most important points to consider in connection with an earth road. The majority of earth roads in all mountainous and hilly districts have too much drainage. Occasionally a road will be found with five ditches, three in the middle made by horses' hoofs and by wheels of the vehicles, and two on the sides. All well constructed earth roads are supposed to have no more than two ditches, one on each side of the traveled roadway. Keep the water out of the middle of the road by giving it a crown or elevation in the center of 7 1/2 inches above the top of the inner slope of the ditch for a 20 foot road, and where the hills are a little steep make the crown 10 inches. With a crown of about one inch to the foot from the center to the sides, the ditches which are often built across the road on steep grades to deflect the water will not be needed. Instead of carrying water across the road in open ditches, tile or concrete drains should, if possible, be provided. They should have sufficient capacity and fall to carry the maximum amount of water that is expected to flow through them at any one time. The capacity is increased in proportion to the fall or grade; for instance, 12 inch pipe laid on a one per cent grade will carry 1,800 gallons per minute, while the same pipe laid on a two per cent grade will carry 2,500 gallons per minute. Furthermore, a culvert laid flat will soon fill up, while one having a good incline will keep itself clean.

In the maintenance of an earth road, avoid the mistake of changing the natural order of things. Naturally the soil is found on top and the clay on the bottom. If this order is reversed in constructing a road the result will be less satisfactory than if the soil be left at the top of the road, for soil makes a better surface to a road than clay. If the road bed is largely clay to start with, it will be well to place sandy soil or clean sand on top. A covering of 6 to 10 inches of sand upon clay that persists in breaking up into deep mudholes will usually be satisfactory, and if sand enough be added, this clay will cease to make mud. If the roadbed is composed of sand it can be improved by an application of clay.

The rule for a serviceable earth road, then, is as follows: Make ditches on each side and keep them open; haul sand and gravel upon sections needing this treatment; use a road machine and a split log drag judiciously (a full description of which will be contained in a later article); follow the "stitch in time" rule and give an earth road the same careful persistent attention you would give your prize acre, factory or store, and it will pay as large a profit in proportion to your individual outlay.

Louise

As we have not seen anything from this community in a long time I will write a word or two. Since Dec. 24 there has been no deaths in this part. On that day little Bonnie Walker, the infant babe of Mr. C. T. Walker and wife, was buried at Pleasant Hill church. She was only sick a few days with pneumonia and was only nine months old. She is now resting in the arms of our Savior.

The measles are surely raging all over the country. Poor little Rosie Hall, who was burned so bad on Dec. 31, is very slowly recovering, but we are very glad that she is as well off as she is.

Mr. Will Sael has moved his family from the Shepherd mill to Mississippi.

Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. Rena Mize, Grandma Mize and Mrs. McGehee all spent Sunday with Mr. Carlton Hall's family.

Mr. Neely Burnett and family have been visiting relatives at Sheppard's mill.

Mr. William Williams and wife spent Saturday night at Mr. C. T. Walker's.

Mrs. Mattie Maness and Mrs. Ella Chastain spent three days with Mrs. Sallie Ellis.

Mrs. N. C. Head of Georgia is on a visit to her son, Mr. Ben Head.

Mr. Eugene McGee and wife went to Maplesville Saturday.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

Postmaster Dudley desires to call attention to the practice of some patrons of rural delivery of placing loose coins in their boxes each time they desire to dispatch letters instead of supplying themselves with postage in advance of their needs.

This practice imposes undue hardship on rural carriers in removing loose coins from the boxes and delays them on the service of their routes. The postmaster, therefore, urgently requests that patrons of rural delivery provide themselves and keep on hand a supply of stamps consistent with and in advance of their needs. It is also very desirable that rural patrons place in their mailboxes small detachable cups of wood or tin in which to place coins, when necessary, in purchasing supplies of stamps.

THE AMERICAN GENTLEMAN.

Wednesday evening there appeared on the streets of Clanton "The American Gentleman," a life-like picture of whom we give below. He afforded a great deal of speculation to our citizens, but he was only advertising the Hamilton Bros. shoes, which are sold here by E. M. Pinchard & Co. The visit was especially enjoyed by the small boy, who evidently thought the American Gentleman was quite the thing.

Two Republican Bodies Called.

Republican politics took a lively air yesterday by the issuance of calls for meetings of the State Executive Committee of both factions. The first call was issued by Joseph O. Thompson, chairman of the original committee, Tuesday morning, which was followed Tuesday night with a call by Julius W. Davidson of the Davidson faction.

In Loving Memory of Mrs. Smith.

On January 24, the dear loved brother, Dave Smith, taken from him his loving wife, Eliza Smith. She was a devoted mother, a loving husband, three sons, a daughter and a large number of friends and relatives to miss.

Her remains were brought to the Nebo church for the funeral services, which were opened with a prayer by Bro. M. Barnes. Bro. F. A. Gibson presided at the reading of part of the chapter of Corinthians. The service was closed, her remains were interred in Mt. Nebo cemetery to await the resurrection.

She joined the M. P. Church at Pleasant Grove in early life and has lived a consistent Christian ever since.

Weep not, dear friends, for we loved one departed, far we assure that she is at rest in angels above where there is no sorrow. Dear friends, remember that these are builded by God has laid upon you. I think it hard to die before we learned to live, but death to those who have conquered such the grave is but a laying of all burdens, a rest from while yet their works of unselfishness do follow the fruits and blessings. May reaved ones ever look forward put their trust in One the superior to any earthly friend. Our deepest sympathy goes to the bereaved ones in their grief.

A Woman's Reason.

Peter Penon was not much in love with Miss Mabel, but very anxious to marry her. He had met her at a dance and the time and the place and the extraordinary beauty of the girl had done their fatal work, though he had called several times before he had found her alone. Before becoming necessary for adopt an expedient and would cost as little as possible. Peter Penon was extremely in expeditious. Miss Mabel was not far from the part. He was more effective for his part a walk in that verdant locality. "Will you," he managed in one evening, "take a walk with me."

Billy and Betty.

By ALLEN LYNN.

Copyright, 1917, by C. N. Latta.

He was hardly conscious of her intrusion at first, she fitted so well into it all with her soft gray calico and chestnut hair. They were on the brow of a slope that dropped rapidly down into the valley, and she passed and threw her hand above her eyes with a quick motion, which he recognized as expressing anxiety and hope. He could see her face plainly from where he lay, and he could read in the glances which flashed from point to point something of the terror of their owner at not finding what she sought.

"What is it, Miss Betty?" he drew as with a slow, muscular movement of his body he threw himself upon his feet and moved forward to her side. "Can I be any help?"

"Oh! It's you, Billy? Thank God! Hurry! Hurry! Pap's knocked down by a tree an' being crushed. I couldn't lift it."

"Where?" asked Billy tersely. "To Possum Flat. He was chopping a bee tree, an' it fell 'fore he thought. Please, please do hurry!"

Billy nodded reassuringly. Possum Flat was three miles away by a circuitous path around craggy points and up and down declivities or one mile by going straight over the ridge and meeting a precipice by crawling out on a branch for twenty feet and sliding down the tree trunk for thirty feet more. Billy wondered if Betty had come by this route. But as he sprang up the slope he swung his hand toward the circuitous path, knowing full well as he did so, however, that the girl would do exactly as she pleased, for that was her way.

Possum Flat was the wonder and chagrin of all the mountain side, for was it not the climax of brassy industry? They all had their truck patches, but beside Possum Flat their patches were as barren fields to a land of milk and honey. Jake, the father of Betty—as he was called in contradistinction to another Jake of the same name, who was father of Meg—grew potatoes that stood him from October digging to the May planting. His onions and cabbages were always above family needs and flowed over into envied sales for ready money, and, to cap it all, behind his cabin was a four acre field that every fall showed green with sprouting shoots and every spring grew heavy with swaying, golden headed wheat. No wonder he had two mules and a buckboard "kerridge," a "peazzer" in front of his cabin and a kitchen with real window glass windows behind! And no wonder he carried his head high as the mighty man of the "hillers" and looked askance at the valiant "pore trash" youth that dared to raise eyes to his daughter. But of unambitious, care free Billy he had not even thought as an object of suspicion.

So now, after that stalwart youth had removed the heavy tree trunk from his body and had lifted and borne him to his bed in the cabin as gently as a bird down, where it would be handy for Betty. She thought of her and the girl and, in spite of her present, looked on doing the lifting herself, and he brought the big, curvilinear pole and swung it in both the cabin and the barn. Betty looked at the four acre lot in lowering parallelism.

It was the novelty of seeing a woman as stout that was pleasant. He had no sisters, and his mother had long been dead. It was just the novelty and the neatness and contentedness of it all he liked. And this idea, if his thoughts took such definite form, remained with him for a month—until the invalid began to hobble about on crutches—when suddenly the truth came home to him as had her beauty that day on the ridge. Billy was in love.

Betty noticed the change in him at once, and her face grew puzzled, but only for a little while. Then an odd twinkle of humor came into her eyes as though she understood. And mingled with the humor was a tender, flickering light which had been gaining strength in her eyes these past few weeks, a light which Billy had not yet seen.

As he entered Jake looked up with angry impatience, and Billy raised a hand defensively before his face, but the invalid was not thinking of that.

"Heard anything 'bout wheat to-day?" he grumbled. "Goin' down, of course."

"Goin' up," Billy answered promptly. "A man hollered to me from the side o' the hill this mornin' an' said 'twas seventy'."

"Seventy?" Jake grabbed his crutches and rose tottering to his feet, but sank back, with a snarl of mingled rage and pain. "Seventy cents, an' I've got ninety bushels. Don't the old back? By the time I'm out ag'in I'll be down to fifty, like 'twas last year, an' that'll be a clean loss o' $18."

"Can't I go, pap?" suggested Betty. The gloomy face cleared slightly, then lowered. He loved the profits of his industry, but not so much as he loved Betty. It was thirty miles to Staunton.

"No, ye can't," he snarled. There was a brief silence. Then Betty said:

"There's Billy, pap. He's mighty strong and willin'."

The face darkened, then grew lighter. Evidently the idea, at first scorned, was being tolerated. That meant Billy was making giant strides forward during these few weeks.

"I—dunno," doubtfully. Billy saw his opportunity and rose to it like a man—a man of industry. He was developing rapidly.

"I'll take it down all right," he said confidently. "I've sold wheat to Staunton afore. But maybe it'll be worth while to hold back till you're out ag'in."

Jake snorted. "There's more fallin' than risin' in wheat," he snarled. "I've found that out. I reckon ye'd better go, an' mind, I want ye to get it all down by tomorrow. Seventy cents! Yes, ye must get it all in tomorrow."

Billy's head was whirling. But there was Betty looking at him confidently, and her father already beginning to lose some of his newly acquired confidence. He must brace up.

"All right," he answered as steadily as he could. "The mules can carry half on the long waggin, an' I'll borrow Tom Stuart's mule an' Ike Coyner's hay waggin. That'll take the other half. I can keep an eye on him. Oh, yes. We'll get on fast rate."

Jake nodded approvingly. It was a good plan. "Seventy cents," he admonished warningly. "Try an' get it."

After the wheat was loaded the next day Billy entered the cabin for a few last instructions. Before leaving he contrived to draw Betty into the back kitchen for a moment.

"Say, Betty," he began, "I—I—say, would ye mind me buyin' a ring to Staunton, a gold ring for you an' me?" She looked at him quickly, understandingly, her face flushing. She could not remember a single one of her married acquaintances who had been given a gold ring.

"Why, no, I wouldn't mind, Billy," she said simply. "I'll be real glad."

"An—an—would ye mind speakin' to your pap 'bout it while I'm gone, Betty? It might be a good time now. I'm a totin' his wheat."

"No, no, I don't mind," she said, watching him from the doorway until the heavy wagons rumbled out of sight. Then she went to her father. "Pap," she announced abruptly, "Billy's asked me to marry him."

"Ap' you?"

"I've said yes," composedly. Jake controlled himself with a mighty effort. With Betty he must be diplomatic.

"Well, ye know best," he grimaced affably. "But ye know how 'tis with Billy. Ye'll have to wait till he's saved to keep ye. I don't reckon he's saved enough to buy a runt pig yet."

But Betty smiled to herself contentedly. Was not Billy the best natured and the best looking man on the slope? And had he not promised her a gold ring out of the plenitude of his riches? So she said softly:

"I won't go ag'in ye, pap. Don't ye fear. We'll wait till ye say 'yourself that Billy's able to keep me.'"

But, curiously enough, at that very moment Billy was wondering dismally how he would be able to contrive the purchase of a gold ring with the 25 cents which represented the accumulation of his twenty-five years.

They expected him back by the end of the third day. It was the afternoon of the sixth when he returned. As he dismounted young Sam and attended to his mules there was a look of beatific joy upon his face, which remained there until he opened the cabin door and saw the expectant face of Jake.

Then he whistled and staggered to the nearest chair. "Ye poor boy! What Billy under-ly. 'Ye've plumb lost out.' 'Did ye get the 70 cents?' demanded Jake capriciously.

Billy gasped and tried to collect his thoughts. What did they want him to say? It was about the wheat, wasn't it? He had almost forgotten that unimportant matter after the gold ring took possession of his mind. He remembered the wheat had been taken to the storeroom of a big flouring mill and that he had told a clerk he would be back later and attend to its sale. Then he had hurried away in search of a job hauling with the mules and had carried sand two days for $6 and had bought the gold ring. Yes, that was it, and he had given Sam the 25 cents to pay his fare to a cousin's at Fisherville to get him out of the way for the two days. That was all—only he had forgotten to go back and sell the wheat.

"Did ye get the 70 cents?" demanded Jake for the second time.

Billy felt that it was a crisis with him, and he drew a long, hard breath. Then his gaze steadied.

"Ye see, it's this way," he said, "signs are for risin', an' I ain't sold yet. Ye might just as well have 75 or 80 cents as for anybody else. But I'll go down"—he was about to say "to once," but restrained himself, for that might betray him; he added instead—"In a few days an' see how the risin's comin' on."

Under ordinary circumstances the invalid would not have controlled his astonishment and wrath, but this was an extraordinary opportunity, and Jake, the father of Betty, was nothing if not diplomatic. So he forced himself into a semblance of composure.

"Well, it's your lookout, Billy," he said significantly. "I ordered ye to sell, an' of course I'll hold ye responsible for all fallin' from the 70 cents. Mind that!"

It was a very miserable Billy who went out to attend to the evening chores. He had half a mind to rush back to Staunton and remedy the evil before it grew worse. He imagined all sorts of fallings—to 60 cents; 50, perhaps 40; to a life of toil spent in atoning for the carelessness; to the probable loss of Betty. But he stuck it out until the third morning. Then he left the cabin with steady, confident strides, which, however, changed to frantic haste as soon as he was beyond view of Betty in the doorway.

But the mills of the gods sometimes turn out unaccountable grist. Every moment since Billy had been told from the hill that wheat was "goin' up" the mills of the Chicago pit had been grinding out good flour for his chaff.

The west had been scoured, the markets of the world invoked and the many tongued lines of telegraph brought into the game. And all had redounded to the honor and glory of Billy of Possum Flat. When he returned to Possum Flat at the end of one short twenty-four hours his face was again expressive of beatific joy.

Going straight to Jake, the father of Betty, he handed him a roll of bills. "The risin' was even better than I 'lowed on," he said nonchalantly. "I sold for $1.10 a bushel. Ye see, there was signs o' breakin', an' I 'lowed I'd better not hold on any longer."

There are varying signs of wonder, chagrin, incredulity and satisfaction, but the mingling of them all which gathered on Jake's face was of the kind that cannot be put into words. He gazed at the money, at the strong, handsome figure before him; at Betty, smiling a few feet away, and bowed his head in surrender.

"I reckon I might 'a' been mistook, Betty," he said submissively. "Billy'll be able to keep ye, sure 'nough."

He knew. "Now, Willie," said the bad boy's mother, "it's time ye realized the futility of struggling against the inevitable. Do you know what that means?"

"Ye'm," replied the boy promptly. "It means they ain't no use ye washin' my face an' hands, 'cause they'll 'only get dirty again.'—Philadelphia Press.

It is very important and in fact it is absolutely necessary to health that we give relief to the stomach promptly at the first signs of trouble—which are belching of gas, nausea, sour stomach, headache, irritability and nervousness. These are warnings that the stomach has been mistreated; it is doing too much work; it is demanding help from you. Take something once in a while; especially after meals; something like KODOL For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It will enable your stomach to do its work properly. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

A Dubious Compliment. "It looks well, but I am afraid it is dubious," said a financier, speaking of a proposed scheme. "Yes, it is dubious. It reminds me of the Turkish pasha and his wife."

"A Turkish pasha lay dying. He summoned to him the youngest and fairest of his forty-six wives and said to her in a low, weak voice:

"Put on your richest costume, your most brilliant jewels. Deck your hair with pearls and brighten your finger tips with henna."

"The young wife blushed. Even in her grief she was flattered. "And why, my lord," she said, "do you desire me to make this sumptuous toilet?"

"So that death when it comes," the man replied, "seeing you so beautiful, may perhaps carry you off instead of me."

Physical Geography. The following answer was recently given in a geography examination in reply to the question, "From what direction do most of our rains come?"

Most of our rains come straight down, but some of them come sideways.

A Safety Match. "Papa, what is a safety match?" Mr. Hechpeck (looking carefully to see if his wife is within bearing)—A safety match, son, is when a baldheaded man marries an armless woman!

The Pure Food Law. Secretary Wilson says, "One of the objects of the law is to inform the consumer of the presence of certain harmful drugs in medicine."

The law requires that the amount of chloroform, opium, morphine, and other habit forming drugs be stated on the label of each bottle. The manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have always claimed that their remedy did not contain any of these drugs, and the truth of this claim is now fully proven, as no mention is made on the label. This remedy is not only one of the safest, but one of the best in use for coughs and colds. Its value has been proven beyond question during the many years it has been in general use. IF HENRY

The death angel visited Mr. Dave Smith last evening at 4:30 o'clock and away his beloved wife, Mrs. Smith, has gone her long suffering patience. She has suffered time out on this earth and gone to rest with Jesus. She was in her 70th year.

She leaves a husband and children and a host of friends who cannot bring her back to earth. You can go to her. We have all that was in our power for her, but it was in vain. She pressed her willingness to leave her loved ones, and then to prepare to meet her relatives. She joined the church at Pleasant Grove when she was twelve years of age and has been a consistent member ever since. We will miss her, but our hearts are in heaven's gain. What a thought it is that "God gives God takers away." He does things well and we ought to grieve over what He does. Not, dear husband and children, for your loved one is at rest. Remains were placed at Mt. Pleasant cemetery, the burial services conducted by Rev. F. A. G. God bless and watch over dear husband and children. Show them the right way, straight and narrow path.

IMPROVING STOCK.

Invaluable Process For Cattlemen and Horsemen.

By J. S. CRITTON.

Improvement of the class of stock the grazing lands is becoming more and more important. The man who is running his stock in isolated or contemplative as doing in the will find it necessary if he is to be successful to carry that class of stock that will net him the greatest return. This statement holds equally for the outside range. In fact, are only two methods whereby a man who expects to continue running his stock on the public domain meet the existing conditions successfully. One is the raising of sufficient feed to carry his stock through

MUCH SOFT CORN.

Too Poor For Commerce and Will Be Fed on Farms.

Much question having arisen as to the condition of the corn crop, which the completion of husking has revealed, the American Agriculturist, after an independent investigation upon this point, reports in part as follows: It is the almost universal testimony of the correspondents in the important corn states, and particularly in the Ohio and Missouri valleys, that the quality of the crop is even poorer than was believed a month ago. Completion of husking emphasizes the fact that the grain this year is unusually immature, soft and full of moisture and that it is not of a quality to insure its safe keeping.

Heavy Farm Feeding.

The comparatively high prices ruling having led some to the opinion that a larger part of the crop would be marketed in commercial channels than usual, the returns upon this point in a decided majority of cases were that more than the ordinary percentage of this year's crop would be fed upon farms. This is accounted for by the poor quality of the crop, which renders a large part of it unavailable for commercial purposes, by the liberal supply of hogs and cattle for feeding purposes and by the fact that on account of its inferior nutritive value a larger amount than usual must be fed in order to accomplish the same results.

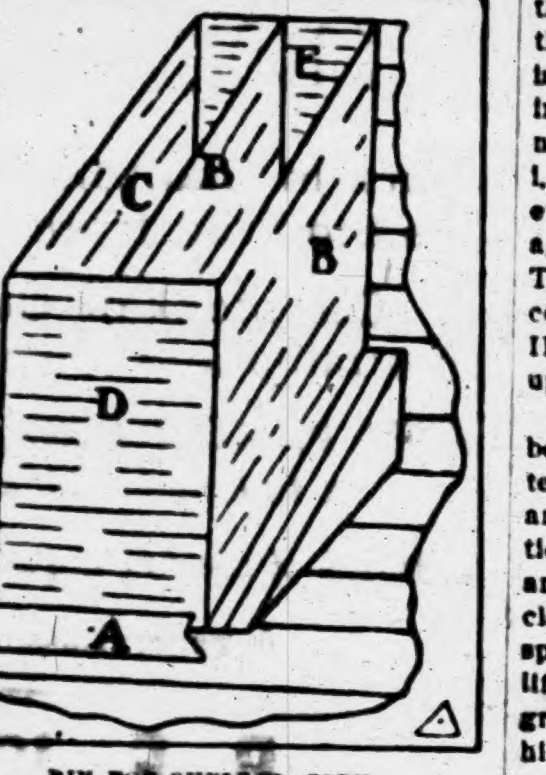

Fortunate Districts.

On the other hand, in a good many localities, particularly in Kansas, Missouri and the more southern part of the belt where the crop dried out better, the present disparity in price between corn and fat hogs and cattle makes the sale of corn more attractive, and there are indications that it will be sold close and animals carried over for future feeding. This tendency, however, apparently is about offset by the fact that animals already fitted for market are being held and further fed because of the recent low prices for fat stock.

CORN BIN.

An Arrangement Suggested For Storing Shelled Corn.

Storage for shelled corn is a condition that does not have to be provided for in some sections; but, as it seems to be rapidly coming to the front in others, R. H. Mitchell sends to Country Gentleman the accompanying illustration of an arrangement to meet this need, submitting it for what it may be worth.

As may be seen, it is a bin with a slanting floor, having cracks perhaps an eighth of an inch in width, divided into compartments by hollow partitions. A trough, A, makes it convenient to shovel up the corn. The partition B, the end C and the sides D and E should also be slats an eighth of an inch apart. The divisions B could be made of two inch furring strips nailed on both sides of the same for battens.

The width of each compartment would have to be determined by experiment, but probably eight inches would be about right. Of course the depth and height would be a matter of convenience.

Tests With Barley.

At the Montana experiment station the average results of a two years' test with twenty-three varieties of barley showed that Guy Mayle, a dark tereped hulled variety, gave the largest yield. New Zealand, a two rowed high grade brewing barley, stood second. The hulless varieties produced the largest quantity of feed. The two rowed varieties gave much larger yields than the six rowed varieties, and in the six rowed sorts large yields of grain were associated with large yields of straw. The average results show a yield of 1.25 pounds of straw for each pound of grain in the two rowed varieties, 1.31 pounds of straw to each pound of grain in the six rowed varieties and one pound of straw to each pound of grain in the hulless barley. Early maturing varieties gave in general light yields.

Alfalfa Yields.

In co-operative tests with farmers at the Maryland experiment station the reports received show yields ranging from two and a quarter to seven tons per acre. One farmer reported a yield of five tons per acre on a field of six-year-old alfalfa sown twelve years ago. The results of inoculation tests showed the value of using alfalfa and sweet clover soil for this purpose. Of the farmers reporting 122 had good stands at the time of making their reports, while 36 had been unsuccessful. Of the successful parties 91 used manure, 66 lime, 57 commercial fertilizer, 39 commercial fertilizer and lime, 52 manure and lime, 33 manure and lime and commercial fertilizer, 7 a nurse crop, 41 soil inoculation, and 82 seeded in the fall.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson V.—First Quarter, For Feb. 2, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John iii, 1-21. Memory Verses, 14-16—Golden Text, John iii, 16—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1907, by American Free Association.]

Four of the great words of the gospel and the epistles of John are life and light and love and believe, the first three referring to God and what He is and the last showing how He and all that He is and has become sure. Jesus Christ, the Son of God, is the living manifestation of this life and light and love, for it is all seen fully in Him, and when we receive Him we become the manifestation of this life and light and love to others. This is the teaching of the Scriptures; but, oh, how believers fail in the manifestation! Chapter II tells us in the closing verses that while at the Passover many believed in His name when they saw His miracles, yet He did not believe in them because He knew them and knew what was in them.

The word "commit unto" of verse 24 is just the word "believe" of verse 23 and elsewhere, and thus we have in chapter I, 12; II, 24, two definitions of believing which mean to "receive" Him or "commit unto" Him.

According to the revised version, these two chapters are connected thus: "He Himself knew what was in man. Now there was a man." So we have in Nicodemus a sample man and in chapter IV a sample woman. The samples are about as different as they could possibly be, the one being outwardly as good as possible and the other as bad as possible, yet the first "must" be born again, and even such as the last "may" be born again. This gospel is written that, receiving Jesus Christ as the Son of God, all such may have life through Him, for "He that hath the Son of God hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life" (chapter xx, 31; I John v, 12). The question of life or death in the Scriptures is not one of existence, in the body or out of the body, although that is sometimes referred to, but it is a question of knowing God by being vitally connected with Him or not knowing Him (John xvii, 6; Tit. I, 16). The flesh or carnal mind, however cultured or religious, is enmity against God and never can be changed. There must be a new creation, which comes by a new birth (Rom. viii, 7; II Cor. v, 17) and not by any patching up of the old nature.

Nicodemus was evidently one of the best of men and stood high in the esteem of his fellows, being a ruler among them. He had also a conviction that Jesus was no ordinary man and acknowledged that His works declared that God was with Him in a special manner. It is not learning, but life, that saves, and Jesus, seeing the great need of this man, at once tells him of it. Many in dealing with such a one today would assure him that he was a Christian already and needed nothing but continuance in the things he already knew. Strong emphasis on the necessity of the new birth was never more needed than now, for all who are not saved are condemned, lost, dead in trespasses and sins (verse 18; Luke xix, 10; Eph. ii, 8-9).

All have been stung by the serpent (sin) and are as truly perishing spiritually as the Israelites were physically. They saw in the brazen serpent on the pole the likeness of that which caused their death in the place of death. They did not need to understand it, but they did need to look upon the brazen serpent as they were commanded, and every bitten one who looked lived. In Jesus on the cross we see Him in the likeness of sinful flesh, made sin for us, bearing our sins in His own body. And the soul that believes that God so loved him that He gave His only begotten Son that he should not perish, but have everlasting life, that soul thus receiving Him is not condemned, but has everlasting life and shall never perish. This is the new birth, receiving into us a life that was never there before, even Christ, who is our life.

Nicodemus was a moral, religious, intellectual man, but only a natural man, and therefore talked somewhat foolishly concerning these spiritual things, for to the natural man the things of the Spirit of God are only foolishness (I Cor. ii, 14). That he became enlightened that night or later and became a true child of God and disciple of Jesus we infer from John vii, 50; xii, 38; the only places where he is mentioned except in our lesson.

Being born of water and the Spirit is fully explained by putting four texts together—Jas. I, 18; I Pet. I, 23; Eph. v, 26; and John vi, 63. The expression "the Son of Man which is in heaven" (verse 13) may be placed with I, 18—"the Son which is in the bosom of the Father." While on earth He was in a sense still in heaven, and now at the Father's right hand He is with us all the days. The three double "verities" of verses 3, 5, 11, emphasizing the necessity of the new birth and of being taught by the Spirit, should receive special attention; also the "musts" of verses 7 and 14, and others to be looked up. Some one has said: "As to my views, I find two facts are always uppermost—my Bible and my Saviour, my Bible because it reveals my Saviour, and my Saviour because He interprets my Bible." There is nothing reliable concerning things unseen but the Word of God, but that is infallible and forever settled in heaven (Ps. cxix, 89).

No Come Back at Him.

"Many ministrations," said a New York charity official, "are hampered, and we do well to reduce their requests for help. What countless days, though, they sometimes give us in return. I remember the case of a farmer's wife who refused a tramp a night's lodging. 'Well, then, ma'am,' said the tramp, 'would you mind if I slept in that big window there behind your barn?' 'No,' said the woman, 'you may sleep there if you like.' 'One thing more, ma'am,' said the tramp, 'before I say good night. Will you please have me called at 4 o'clock sharp? I want to catch the cattle train to market.'"

Italian Diet.

The low resisting power of the Italian, even among the more favored classes, to the assaults of disease has long been ascribed to the profusion of the well high farinaceous and leguminous fare on which he subsists—the call on the heart in the later stages of pneumonia, for example, too often finding inadequate response from the defect of the muscle forming constituents in the diet of the patient. —London Lancet.

Time and the Man.

Some one may suggest that if Cromwell and Napoleon Bonaparte and Blum and George Washington and Abraham Lincoln had not appeared to do the work they did others would have arisen equally capable of doing it, though perhaps in a different way. To this suggestion there are two answers. One is that it is pure conjecture. The other answer is that history shows us many occasions when the great man was needed, and when the need of him was acutely felt, and yet when he did not appear. The greatness of some men is largely due to favoring conditions. Other men, perhaps more brilliant, achieve less than their powers seemed to promise because they were not quite in key with their own age. Perhaps they were ahead of it.—James Bryce in Pall Mall Gazette.

Geography.

Motion of the Sun.

Owing to the revolution of the earth the sun seems to make its daily circuit around us, which of course is not the case. But the sun is revolving about its center quite as truly as the earth is. It was one of the conceptions of that most remarkable man, Sir John Herschel, that the whole solar system had a motion in space and was advancing toward a point in the heavens near the star Hercules. Sir John's conception—as bold an idea as ever entered the human mind—is now generally accepted by astronomers, and the opinion is quite universal among them that the entire system is tracing out a curvilinear path in space, a course around some mighty center, probably at Hercules.

Some Theatrical Jokes.

In a performance of "The Lady of the Lake" the actor who took the part of Roderick Dhu was known to be in pecuniary difficulties. When Roderick gave the line, "I am Roderick Dhu," Fitzjames responded, "Yes, and your rent is due too." On the production of a piece called "The Spy" the early scene showed that it was going to prove a failure. As when at a certain point a character had to rush on and shout, "Five hundred pounds for the spy!" the author, who was concealed behind a rock, arose and cried, "It's yours—copyright, patents, tip and points!" That was the end of the performance.

The Corner Days.

Some of our country folk like to take note of what they call the corner days—the 20th of March and the 20th of September when the sun crosses the line and the day and night are of equal length and the 20th of June the longest day of the year and the 20th of December the shortest. After the 20th of June they say, "When the day grows shorter, the weather grows hotter," and after Dec. 20, "As the days begin to lengthen the cold begins to strengthen."

Levi Beetle, a noted old weather prophet, who used to watch the weather from his eyrie on Beartown mountain, southern Berkshire, Mass., made prophecies which were greatly prized. He made his prophecies from a study of the winds, the clouds, and stormy days for ten days each side of the corner days and multiplied them by 3 to tell the weather for each succeeding quarter, and he made some marvelous guesses. Facing a Waterpost.

What it means to encounter a waterpost in the south seas is described by Boatswain Grimshaw: "First of all, a black trunk, like an elephant's, began to feel blindly about in midair, hanging from a cloud. It came nearer and nearer with uncanny speed, drawing up to itself as it came a colossal cone of turbulent sea until the two joined together in an enormous black pillar some quarter of a mile broad at the base and probably a good thousand feet high, unflinching as it did the clouds and the sea below. Across the darkening sea, against the threatening copper crimson sunset, came this gigantic horror, waiting for troughs of torn up water in a veritable dance of death. Like some blind, bent and and creaking, leaning to fall and shatter our little ship."

I have used them for several years and I never use any other." For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala. H. H. H. H. H.

At the Country Club.

By TEMPLE BAILEY

Copyrighted, 1917, by M. M. Cunningham.

The four women were debating the merits of the Country Club. Somewhere out in the October afternoon were four men who made up the friendly coterie, but the women, on account of the coolness of the day and the charm of the big fireplace, had elected to stay away from the club.

Three of the women were not young, although the signs of age had been modified by careful grooming and a little great massage. Mrs. Amesbury, the youngest, looked young with her sunny hair and her shining hair and her grave and serene smile.

But Tressie Stuart was young and therein lay the difference that made Mrs. Amesbury uneasy. One might give the lie to age by a touch of the lips and a smile, but there was no quality in Tressie's laugh, a light in her eyes, a buoyancy of spirit that separated her from the older women and cast the light of contrast upon their beauty.

"Tressie," Mrs. Amesbury said, "stop forming around the room. You make me nervous."

"Oh, do I?" Tressie's apology was immediate. "It's something in the air. I think. These fall days make me feel like a young colt. I want to be out of doors, and here we are drinking tea by the fire, like a lot of old tabby cats."

"We are a lot of old tabby cats," Miss Angela Amesbury agreed cheerfully. Unlike her sister-in-law, she did not aspire to youthfulness. Having steered herself safely out of a somewhat emotional gilded into a calm old maidish, she was prepared to claim all middle-aged privileges, and tea drinking at the Country Club was an indulgence that appealed to her comfortable soul.

"You are the only kitten in the crowd, Tressie," she went on. "Run out and meet the men. They must be coming in by this time."

"Angela," Mrs. Amesbury reproved her. "Tressie can't go without a chaperon."

"Why not?" Angela asked bluntly. "Two of the men are her uncles, the third is your husband, and she has known Junior Mason since she was a baby."

"Oh, well," Mrs. Amesbury shrugged her shoulders. "You know we don't think alike on such matters."

"No, thank goodness," said Miss Angela. And then the hitherto silent Aunt Georgia Stuart, who was officially Tressie's chaperon, interposed. "Tressie always does as she pleases. Mrs. Amesbury and Mrs. Amesbury, with another shrug of her shoulders, gave up the argument and poured herself a second cup of tea.

And so it happened that as Junior Mason came up the elm walk toward the Country Club, with the dull orange of the sunset behind him, he saw hurrying to meet him Tressie Stuart in scarlet coat and stiff brimmed hat.

"I should have died if I had stayed in there another minute," she told him. "Can't we walk somewhere before dark comes? This air is like wine."

"It's awfully muddy," he stated dubiously. "In this path under the trees. The other men are coming around by the road, but this was the shorter way, and I wanted to get a few minutes with you before the whole crowd began to pile piffle."

"Don't be slangy," Tressie admonished.

"Well, you wouldn't call their small talk conversation, would you? It's piffle piffle, and Mrs. Amesbury is the worst of the lot."

"I am ashamed of you," Tressie scolded. "To criticize your elders."

"Mrs. Amesbury wouldn't thank you for calling her anybody's elder. She considers herself the leading juvenile of the Country Club. That's why she's jealous of you."

Tressie stared at him.

"Junior," she said severely, "I didn't know you could be so critical of a woman."

He had the grace to look uncomfortable.

"She's made me so unhappy about you, Tressie," he blurted out at length. "About me?"

"Yes, when you were away all summer and didn't write to me once."

Tressie's eyes were on the sunset. "No, I didn't write," she said after a pause.

"Why not?"

"Mrs. Amesbury said—that there was another girl, Junior."

"What?"

"Yes. She said you were paying devoted attention to a little Kentucky singer."

"Oh?" Junior swung up his head. "And she told me you were going to marry old General Barnes?"

"Who told you?" Tressie demanded.

"Mrs. Amesbury."

"Well, of all things!" Tressie's cheeks were flaming. "And you believed her, Junior?"

"Well, you believed about the Kentucky girl."

For a moment accusing brown eyes met accusing blue ones, and then they both laughed, the joyous laugh of youth that has come into its own again.

Life, Junior, we must have some regard for convention.

Then let us go in through the French windows and sit on the cushions before the fire. They will see us come in, and we can talk with dignity."

The alcove was opposite the fireplace and gave a full view of the three women at the low wicker tea table. Mrs. Amesbury was peering at Tressie.

"You see dear Junior, it is a great temptation to the girls. Now even Tressie."

Tressie in concentration gazed and there was wrath in her eyes.

"I don't mind her," Junior whispered. "I know I love her for myself."

Tressie looked at Junior and said, "Who told you that I love myself?"

"Please don't take it for granted. You might be wrong. I don't know."

"You might be right," Tressie said. "You might be wrong. I don't know."

There is a number of people who are under an erroneous impression. They think that they never control enough money to start a bank account. In this they are mistaken. We solicit small accounts as well as large. And we handle the business of both with our best care. We believe that you ought to have a bank account, and we offer you our services.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

A Last Bank Note.

A friend of mine, writes a Scottish correspondent, recently saw a piece of paper lying on the street. He picked it up. It was a one pound note. Some men might have pocketed it, with a smile of satisfaction. My friend, however, honestly handed it over to the police. A short time afterward he discovered that he himself had lost a pound. He thought over the matter and remembered that before finding the note he had been standing on the edge of the pavement for some time. He slowly dawned upon him that the pound he had found was his own and that he had drawn it from his pocket unconsciously. He went back promptly to the police station and explained the circumstance. The officer in charge only shook his head and smiled incredulously. "Very clever," he said, "but—oh—it will scarcely do." If my friend cared to call back at the end of six months, he was informed, he would get the pound if in the interval it had not been claimed. During this time of waiting he is inclined to meditate as to whether honesty is always the best policy.—London P. T. O.

Lawley, Route 1.

Editor Banner—I want to come again to ask for a space in your valuable paper.
The 1th of this community is not very good. Nearly all the people have grippe and we hope for a speedy recovery to them all, and also we have a few cases of measles. Mrs. Nancy Head from Georgia is visiting friends and relatives in this community.
Miss Bessie H. visited Miss Lena Walker Saturday night.
The rain last Friday kept us from having our debate as there was only a few pupils at school.
Messrs. Morgan, Eli and Tom Sewell have returned home from Mississippi. What is the matter boys? You didn't stay long.
Mrs. Bessie Lawrence spent a few days at Lawley last week with her mother, Mrs. Shoults.
Mr. Alex L. Latham and Jack Collins from Lawley visited Mr. Henry Latham Sunday.
Mr. Oscar Shoults spent Saturday night at Mr. W. M. Lawrence's and that's the first time he has been down since Mr. moved, but he was only cow-hunting.
I think there is some girls on Route 1 that would like for the assistant mail carrier to carry the mail more than he does.
I guess I had better ring off before I wear out my welcome.
DIAMOND IN THE ROUGH.

Vermont.

Dear Editor—Will you please allow me space in your paper to say a few words. Health of this community is good at present except the measles.

We are having some mighty bad weather on the poor farmer.
Messrs. John Minor and Pos y Adams and their families visited Mr. G. W. Sansons family in Autauga county last Saturday and Sunday and reported a nice time.
Misses Isabella and Pearl Minor visited Misses Ella, Gerlie and Hilda Kline Sunday last.
Mr. Jim Owens has moved his family into this community; we are glad to have them with us.

Our school will be out the first of March. I certainly hate to see it out for we have a good teacher and we will hate to see her leave us as she has a sweet smiling face and seems to love all of her scholars. Our school has been mighty small for the last month on account of the measles.
A FRIEND.

NOTICE

County and District Sunday School Officers.

A very important meeting of District and County officers of the Sunday School Association will be held at Clanton in Judge Reynolds' office, Tuesday morning, February 11 at 10 o'clock. It is earnestly desired that all District Presidents, Vice Presidents and Secretaries will be present.
A. HORN, President.
M. Gibson, Secretary.

Oak Grove.

Failing to make our report last week, here we come again, having very little news of any interest. Though our meeting was discontinued last Friday afternoon until Friday, Feb. 7. Two visitors were only present last Friday, Miss Durbin and Dr. Manuel Northcutt, of Rockymount. Our new officers for this month are Mr. Earn Cobb, President; Miss Ora Shaw, Vice-President; Miss Ethel Sutley, Secretary.

Our school is moving along nicely notwithstanding the measles are having somewhat of a way in our community. Mr. John Martin's family is suffering from this malady.

Rev. Price preached an excellent sermon to a large crowd last Sunday afternoon.
Mr. W. H. Killingsworth has moved from Kalona to Jenison, where he is engaged in the mercantile business. We are sorry to say his wife is very low with grippe.

Many of our young people attended singing at Mr. John Bledsoe's Sunday night and reported a nice time.
Miss Pearl Bledsoe spent Sunday afternoon with her friends, Misses Verla, Ola and Annie Skipper.

Mr. Bill Daniel spent Saturday night with his friend, Mr. Willie Shaw.
Miss Maud Northcutt spent Monday with her friend Miss Ola Skipper.

GERTRUDE DUBBIN, Reporter.

PUBLIC ROADS MEETING.

A meeting of the citizens of Chilton county will be held at the Court House, Clanton, on Monday, Feb. 10, 1908, for a discussion on working the public roads of the county.

When you get the best of a bargain, its cunning,—when the other fellow gets the best of it, it's cheating.

Stanton.

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to dear old Stanton. The health of this community is reported to be very good at present, except a few cases of measles.

We are glad to see the farmers of this community making such rapid progress towards another crop.

Glad to see so many of the girls calling on the boys so promptly at the appointed hour; guess they have waked up to the fact that leap year comes only once every four years, and if they go to see the boys no one really cares.

We are having some real cold weather at the present. But hope to see the warm sunny days of spring following it.

The school of this community is very good.

Rev. Dr. Cleveland will preach at the Baptist church the fourth Sunday in February; hope the people of this community will give him a large attendance.

Miss Eunice Milam of Riderville paid Miss May Cox of Stanton a flying visit last Thursday.

Well, I must bring this to an end, hoping to see it in print soon. Wishing success to the Banner and its many readers.

A LOVING COMPANION.

THE Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove. I want you to climb up into the belfry and station yourself at the small trapdoor over the center of the church and open it just enough so you can distinctly hear every word I say and still not make yourself seen by any one in the congregation. About the middle of my sermon I shall repeat the text, "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove," and you are to lower a live snow white dove, which I shall give you, down through the opening, and it will flutter through the air and be the means of making a deep impression on my hearers, who will readily see its connection with the text."

On Sunday morning Patrick departed with the dove, even himself deeply impressed with the great originality of the young minister, who had come to them "highly recommended." They were all affection, and not a sound was heard except that which proceeded from the mouth of the eloquent speaker.

The middle of the sermon was reached, and the text was slowly and distinctly repeated, "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove." The reverend gentleman lifted his eyes slightly, expecting to see the beautiful symbol of purity and peace hovering over the heads of his hearers.

But no dove. Pat had evidently forgotten the cue or had failed to hear the minister at the important moment. So the text was repeated, this time a little louder, "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove." He arched his eyebrows a little higher, but no dove greeted his vision. He began to grow impatient, and the third time he repeated at the top of his voice, "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove." This time his eyes looked straight up as if in prayerful attitude, and he was rewarded, not by the graceful sway of the dove through the air, as had expected, but by the grimy, frightened face of Pat, who, in the agony of his failure to carry out his part of the plot, blurted out:

"Say, yer reverence, yer reverence, the cat ent up the Holy Ghost. Shall Ol' sind down the cat?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Asking His Pardon... While Beckmann, the great comic actor, was playing at Berlin his friends persuaded him one day to imitate Frankel, the journalist and critic. He did it both in looks and manners so well that at the close of the act the audience called for Frankel. The offended critic brought suit, and Beckmann was sentenced to the presence of plaintiff's pardon in the presence of witnesses at the plaintiff's house. At the appointed hour Frankel, surrounded by his family and a number of friends, was awaiting for the penitent. At last the door opened, Beckmann put his head in and asked:

"Does Mr. Mager live here?"

"Oh, no," replied Frankel, "he lives next door."

"Ah, then, I beg your pardon?" said Beckmann, who, having thus done penance, retreated quickly.

Answered in the Course of Business... "Doctor," said he, "before you put the lid on my conversation will you answer a question?"

"Yes," said the dentist, selecting a square piece of rubber and snipping it with his scissors.

"Do people chew more on one side of the mouth than the other?"

"Sure."

"Which side?"

"The inside," replied the dentist, snipping the rubber over the patient's lips. —Lippincott's.

If Jackson Was Alive... In opposing a resolution in the Missouri house of representatives, which provided for an appropriate Jefferson City celebration of the anniversary of the memory of Andrew Jackson, Representative Murphy of St. Louis spoke.

"Present day Democrats," declared Mr. Murphy, with fine fervor, "have little in common with Andy Jackson. And if Andy Jackson was alive today, Mr. Murphy earnestly concluded, 'he would be glad he was dead.'"

Just Think of It... When the opportunity and his wife left the train at Washington, on their return from Baltimore his wife discovered that her umbrella, which had been entrusted to the care of her husband, was missing.

"Where's my umbrella?" she demanded.

"I'm afraid I've forgotten it, my dear," weakly answered the congressman. "It must still be in the train."

"In the train? And to think that the affairs of the nation are entrusted to a man who doesn't know enough to take care of a woman's umbrella!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

HON. S. B. HERMAN IS WELL AGAIN

Noted Oregon Statesman Restored to Health on Recent Eastern Trip.

Hon. Shiffr B. Herman, distinguished statesman and legislator of Oregon, who was recently on an eastern trip, is among those strongly in favor of L. T. Cooper, in the discussion over Cooper and his medicines, which has raged for the past year in cities visited by the young man on his educational campaign, as he calls them.

Cooper was explaining his new theories and medicines to Boston people during the Oregonian's visit to that city, and in a recent interview Mr. Herman said: "My trip east accomplished more for me than I ever before. It has actually been the means of restoring my health. While in Boston I heard a great deal about this man Cooper and his medicines, and one morning I talked with a Boston banker who told me that he had been relieved by Cooper's medicines after ten years' chronic dyspepsia. For the past twenty years I have been a fearful sufferer with nervous dyspepsia. It has been so bad that it all but forced me to resign from the legislature."

"I was feeling wretchedly that morning, and I made up my mind to try the medicines," he said, looking at the medicine bottles on a table. "They had been unable to help me in the past, and I was sure I believed this Cooper medicine could help me more than it could bring a dead man back to life. I really don't know why I bought it. It was like a drowning man clutching at a straw."

"To make a long story short, it has been astonishingly successful in my case. Today I am enjoying a good stomach and perfect health for the first time in twenty years. I can eat heartily without the slightest inconvenience afterward. I have a fine appetite, and sleep well. I am no longer moody and depressed, and my nervousness has entirely disappeared."

"Any man who has chronic dyspepsia owes it to his family to try this medicine."

In all our experience as druggists, we have never seen anything to surpass the famous Cooper preparations.

HARRY K. THAW "NOT GUILTY"

WHITE'S SLAYER TO BE CONFINED IN ASYLUM

JURY'S LONG DELIBERATION

It is said that Thaw and his attorneys are convinced that he will be able to win his way out of the asylum.

New York, Feb. 1.—After having argued and battled all night, the jury in the stuffy little jury room adjoining the chamber of the criminal branch of the criminal court, the Thaw jury yesterday morning warmly welcomed their release from confinement, having arrived at a verdict, which was that Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, was not guilty on the grounds of insanity, and he will be confined in the asylum for the criminally insane at Matteawan.

Thaw has seemed reconciled to the fact that the best he could hope for is a term of confinement in an asylum. He is convinced, however, and so are his attorneys, that he would be able to win his way out of an asylum in a short while, as the facts he stood last year when arraigned before a commission in lunacy, were quite convincing in his present ability to prove his soundness of mind.

WANT HIM TO STEP OUT.

Liberals and Socialists Ask Removal of Lieutenant Governor.

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 1.—Important steps will be taken within the next few days in the effort to cause the removal from office of Lieutenant Governor Dunsmyth.

The Liberals have joined the Socialists in the provincial legislature and on Monday will ask the house, now sitting at Victoria, to petition the Dominion government to remove Dunsmyth. The Victoria Colonist, the oldest newspaper in British Columbia, formerly owned by Dunsmyth, is demanding that the lieutenant governor step down.

RUN STARTED ON BANK.

Home Bank of Brooklyn, a State Institution, Suspends Business.

New York, Feb. 1.—The Home Bank of Brooklyn, a state institution, which has been run as a business since 1906, was closed today.

The Home Bank is a small institution, located in South Brooklyn. It has a capital of $100,000, and a surplus and undivided profits amounting to $23,170. Its closing is without warning on the general financial situation.

The deposits, which formerly averaged about $500,000, have been reduced greatly since the October panic.

Montgomery Fair Debt.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 1.—At a meeting of the state fair committee, charged with the duty of settling up the debts of the association, $14,000—about one-third of the indebtedness—was represented. The holders of these claims agreed to take bonds of the association at par. It is expected that the others will be willing to make the same arrangement.

Preparing for Eventualities.

Tokio, Feb. 1.—At a sectional committee meeting of the diet, M. Oishi, acting against whom were Japan's military preparations directed. Minister of War Terashima replied, saying that they were not directed against any one nation, but against eventualities on the Pacific where Japan has a long coast line from Sewallen to the state of Oregon.

To Hold Farmers' Institute.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 1.—Commissioner of Agriculture J. A. Williams, has agreed with Prof. Dunsmyth of the Alabama Farmers' union, to hold a holding a number of farmers' institutes and will send along experts to make addresses in the various counties. They will begin some time in March.

American Woman Murdered.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Anna E. Elkins, one of the first American school teachers to go to the Philippines, was murdered on the island of Luzon Jan. 29, according to a dispatch received at the bureau of insular affairs today. No details were given. Miss Elkins was a native of Indiana.

Bench Show Records Broken.

New York, Feb. 1.—Records in number of entries are broken for the Westminster club show, which will open in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 11. A total of 2,000 dogs has been entered, a larger number, it is believed, than has ever been benched in this country or elsewhere.

G. O. P. GETTING BUSY

Republicans Will Put Out Full Force in Georgia. Atlanta, Feb. 1.—It is now practically an accepted fact, say persons in thorough touch with Republican affairs in Georgia, that when the state election comes in October next there will be a full Republican state ticket in the field ready and anxious for the votes of Georgians "who favor justice to every interest and to every individual and who oppose oppressive and discriminating laws," said by the active movement to now exist.

For some days past there has been a quiet, quickened step by leading members of the G. O. P. from various sections of the state within the federal building, but an unusual caution has been observed by all coming and going, not one of the recognized party members yielding in the slightest to importuning pressure for information.

Still, however, the old saw that a secret ceases to be a secret after more than one holds that secret, is again verified and it is now declared that a full state ticket will be named when the next state republican convention is assembled.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

Considerable Development Toward Increasing Textile Equipment.

Baltimore, Feb. 1.—Reports to the Manufacturers' Record during the past week indicate considerable activity toward increasing the textile equipment of the south.

Contract has been awarded at $23,700 for the construction of a mill at Weldon, N. C., for the production of twenty 34 and 38 cotton yarns. Construction has begun upon a 5,000 spindle mill at Lenoir, N. C.

At Blacksburg, S. C., will be erected a mill of 5,000 spindles and 120 looms to manufacture cotton cloth. The structure will be 160 feet wide by 200 feet long, and there will be a warehouse and boiler room, the total floor space of the building being 32,200 square feet.

A knitting mill at Spartanburg, S. C., is preparing to install equipment for spinning its own yarn and a mill at Rockledge, S. C., will add 5,000 spindles to its present equipment. Other important industrial plans are under way in various southern states. Several new railroads are projected.

FLORIDA HOTEL BURNED.

Tourist Resort at White Springs Laid in Ashes.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 1.—The Hamilton hotel, a tourist resort on the banks of the Suwannee river at White Springs, Fla., was completely destroyed by fire Friday.

The house was crowded with winter visitors and many had to be carried from the burning hotel. All cottages and outbuildings on the hotel property were also destroyed.

The Hamilton was the largest hotel at White Springs. The estimated loss is about $100,000. The fire was caused by a defective electric light wire from the hotel plant.

Man's Slayer to Hang.

Atlanta, Feb. 1.—The supreme court has refused to grant a new trial to Andrew Johnson, the convicted murderer of Policeman J. A. Manier, which means that Johnson must hang on a day to be set by the court. Under the original sentence Johnson was to have been hanged on Friday, Jan. 3, but that sentence was superseded by his appeal to the supreme court. It will be ten days before remittitur from the supreme court reaches the superior court, and the latter will have to set a new date for the execution of Johnson. It is probable, therefore, that he will be hanged early in March.

Supreme Court Justice Race.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 1.—It is understood here that Sen. John Lusk, of Marshall, will enter the race for justice of the supreme court. He was a floor leader in the senate and one of the right hand men of Governor B. Comer. Both Justices Simpson and Harrison will also ask for reelection. It is also well known that Judge John A. Billore, of Oadesden; J. J. Mayfield, of Tuscaloosa, and possibly A. D. Sayre, of Montgomery, will be in the race.

Student Burned to Death.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 1.—From the ruins of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house at Cornell university, which burned Friday, were taken the charred remains of J. S. Kieble, of Minneapolis, a junior in mechanical engineering. It is supposed that Kieble was on his way to an upper floor to save "Ted" Seelye, of the Cornell Cross Country team, who was known to be an occupant of a room there. Seelye, scantily clad, escaped to a balcony porch and down a ladder.

Files Bankruptcy Petition.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 1.—Portus B. Wear, former president of the Wear Commission company and prominent on the Chicago stock exchange, has filed a petition of involuntary bankruptcy giving his debts as $1,055,647.71 and assets at $385,567. He states that the major portion of his indebtedness was incurred in signing notes of companies of which he was an officer.

SITUATION IS CRITICAL

Russians Causing Trouble on the Russian-Persian Frontier.

PEOPLE IN STATE OF TERROR

European Residents Have Barricaded Themselves in Their Homes and Applied to the Russian Consul for Protection—Rebel Forces Increasing.

Odessa, Jan. 31.—A dispatch has been received here from Jula, on the Russian-Persian frontier, saying that the situation at Tabriz is extremely critical.

The revolutionaries are in possession of the town, and their number is constantly increasing.

Bands of insurgents march through the streets of Tabriz, looting and terrorizing the people.

The government has no control of the situation.

The European residents have barricaded themselves in their houses and have applied to the Russian consul for Cosca's.

The victory of the Caucasus has ordered Russian troops to Jula to be in readiness for any emergency.

URGENT DEFICIENCY BILL.

Measure is Passed by the House Carrying Over $23,000,000.

Washington, Jan. 31.—The urgent deficiency appropriation bill was passed by the house Thursday. The total amount carried by it is $23,664,450, or $10,000 less than as reported by the committee. The largest single reduction was that of $300,000 in the clothing fund of the army.

When the session was resumed on Thursday only a few pages of the bill remained to be disposed of. Included in these was a provision for the appointment of thirty-four additional policemen for the new house office building. Chairman Tawney urged the provision because of the necessity for protecting such costly government property and of guarding the reputation and honor of the members.

Mr. Mann, of Illinois, opposed the provision, and it was stricken out on a point of order after considerable discussion.

FIRE AT GIRARD, GA.

Dr. Brigham, a Prominent Physician, Loses His Life.

Augusta, Ga., Jan. 31.—Dr. G. F. Brigham, one of the most prominent physicians of this section, lost his life in a fire Thursday which destroyed eight stores and residences at the small town of Girard, near this city.

In attempting to recover his medicine case and some valuable papers, Dr. Brigham went back into the burning house with J. W. Houston. The doctor was caught by the falling timbers and burned to death, while Mr. Houston had a very narrow escape.

The loss by the fire is estimated at $15,000, with insurance of $5,000.

Found Valuable Jewels.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Some time ago Paymaster Maupin, of the navy, while traveling in France, found a letter bag containing valuable jewels. They were turned over by the state department, which, through its agencies abroad, has ascertained that a Spanish countess is advertising for its return. Instructions have been sent to the department's representative at Madrid to take such steps as will establish the identification of ownership.

Tight Lid in Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 31.—That the reform laws of Alabama are to be extended still further in Birmingham was evidenced by the announcement from the sheriff's office that in future all city and sewerage works will be closed on Sunday. This is provided in the new laws, but it is only now to be enforced. This action is in addition to stopping Sunday golf and forbidding all social card parties at clubs, hotels or other public places.

Estill Estate Appraised.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 31.—The report of the appraisers of the estate of the late J. H. Estill was made Thursday. It shows the total value of the estate to be $643,000. The principal item in this schedule is the Morning News, which is valued at $400,000. The debts against the estate amounted to upwards of $100,000.

West Virginia for Bryan.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 31.—William Jennings Bryan was unanimously endorsed for the presidential nomination at a joint caucus of the democratic members of the West Virginia senate and house of delegates Thursday afternoon, and a telegram informing him of the action was sent to Lincoln, Neb.

Statement of Lunacy Commission.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 31.—According to the nineteenth annual statement of the state commission in lunacy, presented to the legislature, the total number of committed insane on October 1, 1907, was 28,099—13,937 men, 15,162 women. The net increase for the year in all institutions was 793.

6 KILLED IN STORM

Cyclone Laid Waste Farming Section in Mississippi.

MUCH PROPERTY DAMAGED

Wind Tore a Pathway Nearly a Mile in Width, Partly or Wholly Destroying Every Building in That Area. Dead Animals Marked Its Path.

Wesson, Miss., Feb. 1.—Six persons were killed outright by a cyclone which laid waste a strip of farming country three-quarters of a mile wide and several miles long just north of here Friday.

Three persons were probably fatally injured by the cyclone, and many others were slightly hurt, when their houses were blown down. A negro who arrived here about dark brought news of the storm and an appeal for aid.

The cyclone struck about 4 o'clock p. m. For a distance of twenty miles in a northerly direction the wind tore a pathway nearly a mile wide, partly or wholly destroying nearly every building in this area. Scores of dead farm animals littered the cyclone's track. The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Maddox was blown almost completely off the premises and Mrs. Maddox's spinal column was broken. A negro was found fatally injured in the debris of Robert Littleton's farm house. The cotton gin and store of Ras Matthews were almost wholly destroyed.

Surrounding towns not in the direct path of the storm suffered damage during the few minutes of the cyclone's duration.

At Georgetown buildings were blown down and at Hazlehurst two sawmills were destroyed, many fences and several small buildings were blown over.

Center Point reported much damage but no loss of life.

Martinsville, which was just on the edge of the storm, escaped without serious damage.

Men in carriages are driving through the cyclone district offering aid to the storm sufferers.

GLOVER IS HANGED.

He is First White Man Executed in Richmond County in 70 Years.

Augusta, Ga., Jan. 31.—The first white man to hang in Richmond county in seventy years was legally executed in the county jail yard here Friday morning.

The drop fell at 10:15 o'clock, eastern time. Arthur P. Glover was the victim, and he paid the extreme penalty for murdering Maud Dean.

Hanson in the King mill here on Oct. 19, 1904.

Practically every resort known in the modern science of law had been tried to save the condemned man, but at last the majesty of the law could not be evaded and Glover went to his doom on the gallows.

Only a small and select crowd witnessed the execution, the doctors, the executioner, a few friends and a couple of newspaper men formed the circle that watched the prisoner walk calmly on the trap that swung him into eternity. He was looking far better than when he was imprisoned almost two years ago, and his tread was as fearless as could be.

The story of his crime and the steps taken to escape the penalty is a public story. On the day of the crime he walked into King mill and approached a helpless woman operative, pulled a large pistol from his pocket and deliberately shot her five times, two or three of the shots being fired after she had fallen. He was a skilled marksman and even the four shots would have proven fatal. The poor woman died almost without a tremor in a pool of her own life blood.

SWALLOWED KNIFE.

Remarkable Accident to a Child in Banks County, Georgia.

Waynesville, Ga., Feb. 1.—News has reached here from Red Oak, a little place in Banks county, of a strange accident to a little boy. Ralph, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Barber, who while the mother was out of the room, got a case-knife down in his throat and swallowed the knife. Mrs. Barber rang the farm bell for her husband, but as he did not answer to the house, she started to the field after him. Upon her return she found the child had succeeded in leaving violently, ejecting the knife from his throat.

This remarkable accident is vouched for by the best authority. How the child could have sheathed nearly six inches of an ordinary-sized knife in his throat is a marvel.

Chapter House Damaged by Fire.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 31.—The chapter house of the Berzelius secret society of the Sheffield Scientific school was gutted by fire Friday. Loss estimated at $10,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Statement of Banks.

New York, Feb. 1.—The statement of the clearinghouse banks for the week shows that the banks hold $40,526,735 more than the requirements of the 35 per cent reserve rule.

PORTUGAL KING IS ASSASSINATED

Don Carlos, While Riding in Carriage, Is Shot to Death.

CROWN PRINCE ALSO KILLED

While Royal Family Were Riding in Carriage, Band of Assassins Broke Through Guard and Poured a Fusillade into the Vehicle—King and Crown Prince Shot Three Times.

Miraculous Escape of Queen, Who Tried to Save Life of Crown Prince.

Lisbon, Feb. 1.—King Carlos of Portugal, and the crown prince, Luis Philippe, were assassinated Saturday, and the city is in a state of uproar. The king's second son, the infant Manuel, was slightly wounded, but Queen Amelia, who strove to save the crown prince's life by throwing herself upon him, was unhurt. A band of men waiting at the corner of the Prado do Comercio and the Rua do Arsenal, suddenly sprang to ward the open carriage in which the royal family were driving to the palace, and, leveling carbines which they had concealed upon them, fired. The king and crown prince, upon whom the attack was directed, were each shot three times, and they lived only long enough to be carried to the marine arsenal, near by, where they expired.

CARLOS I.

Queen Risked Own Life.

Almost at the first shot the king fell back on the cushions, dying, and at the same moment the crown prince was seen to half rise and then sink back on the seat. Queen Amelia jumped up and threw herself toward the crown prince in an apparent effort to save his life at the cost of her own, but the prince already had received his death wound. The police guard fired upon the assassins and succeeded in killing three of them.

The royal family were returning from Villa Viçosa, where they had been sojourning, and were on their way from the railway station to the palace. A strong guard was in attendance, because of the recent uprising in the city, and the discovery of a plot to assassinate Premier Franco and overthrow the monarchy. But the band of murderers had selected the most advantageous spot for the commission of their crime, for they were concealed from the eyes of the police until the carriage had wheeled into the Prado de Comercio, a large square.

Fusillade of Shots Fired.

Before any of the guards were aware of what was happening, the assassins leaped to the carriage and instantly a fusillade of shots rang out. In a moment all was terrible confusion, the king and crown prince being shot down without the slightest chance to save themselves. Police guards sprang upon the regicides, the number of whom is somewhat uncertain, and killed three of them and captured three others. One of these committed suicide after being placed in prison. It is charged that one of the murderers was a Spaniard named Cordova.

The bodies of the king and the crown prince were removed from the marine arsenal in two closed carriages to the royal palace, the Paço das Necessidades, the late residence of the king, escorted by municipal guards, mounted.

The news of the assassination swept through the city like wild-fire through grass, and half the populace is panic-stricken, not knowing where the next blow may fall. There is the greatest dread for the future of the country, which seems on the verge of being plunged into the throes of a revolution with all its attendant horrors and bloodshed.

Three Bullets Struck King.

An examination of the wounds of the king, who was already dead when he reached the arsenal, showed that three bullets had found their mark. One wound was situated at the nape of the neck, the second in the shoulder, and the third, which was the fatal wound, severed the carotid artery. The crown prince, who was still breathing, but who died almost immediately after admission to the arsenal, had suffered three wounds in the head and chest. Two bullets had hit Prince Manuel, one on the lower jaw and the other in the arm.

The cold-blooded murder of a king is a thrill of horror throughout the world, even among those who have been working politically for the overthrow of monarchies. The assassination of a monarch is a dramatic and a dramatic end of the reign of a monarch.

Manuel Presumed Dead.

Lisbon, Feb. 1.—Manuel, the crown prince's second son, was presumed dead. The crown prince's second son, the infant Manuel, was slightly wounded, but Queen Amelia, who strove to save the crown prince's life by throwing herself upon him, was unhurt. A band of men waiting at the corner of the Prado do Comercio and the Rua do Arsenal, suddenly sprang to

A GOOD BUSINESS FOR SOME-ONE.
Every year there are thousands of fruit trees sold in Clanton county. The bulk of this trade could be handled by a local fruit tree dealer—say at Clanton. "Everybody goes to Clanton," which gives a man there a decided advantage. The trees could be sold at 10 to 15 cents, and the dealer could afford to sell "as good as the best" at that price. This would mean a saving of 50 to 75 per cent to the buyer, not merely in price, but quality considered. For as stated the dealer could afford to sell as good trees as are grown at these prices. Fruit trees are usually bought at 25 to 35 cents a tree.
Not only would this mean a great saving to the buyer, but there is a handsome profit still for the dealer. If he could control the bulk of the country trade it would mean many dollars in his pocket.
The capital needed for the business would be small, and by a little judicious advertising a good man could control the trade. Who will take advantage of it?

TOBACCO CROPS.

Good Selection and Improved Handling of Plants.

By W. H. SCHREFFLER, tobacco expert, Kentucky Experiment Station.

The importance of good seed in every crop has been demonstrated so often that every farmer should know that it pays him well to plant only the best. Tobacco is no exception to this rule. Light, chaffy seeds that are low in vitality give us plants that are weaklings with slow growth. Various schemes for separating the light from the heavy tobacco seed have been suggested, but the most thoroughly practical method is by means of a piece of apparatus introduced by the bureau of plant industry and a current of air which is generated with the foot bellows, as shown in the cut. The air passes through the rubber tube, then through the valve, which can be regulated to admit of the passage of the desired amount of air to accomplish the best separation. The air passes up through a piece of half inch iron tube, thence through a larger glass tube and out at the top, carrying with it the light, chaffy seed. At the base of the glass tube, which is about an inch in diameter and five or six feet long, is a metal joint which has a piece of fine wire gauge in it to prevent the seed from falling into the valve below. Using about an ounce of seed for each charge, only a few minutes are required to separate a considerable quantity.

This piece of apparatus can be made by most any mechanic, or it can be purchased from any chemical supply house. Every community should own one of these machines for the benefit of its farmers.

Improved methods of handling the crop is a topic of such magnitude that we deem it expedient at this writing not to go into detailed discussion of this phase of the subject.

Although the white burley and dark tobaccos are different types, the same general methods employed in the state for handling the crops are similar. It is desirable and usually the custom to select a piece of virgin soil for a seed bed. During the winter or early spring it is heated to a depth of two or three inches by burning brushwood or similar material on it to kill any weed seeds that would germinate and hinder the growth of the young tobacco plants. After the plot of ground is cool it is then dug up, slightly raised into beds, raked and put in good condition for the seed.

Although the cultural methods and mechanical manipulations of seedling, transplanting the beds, transplanting, cultivation and housing are adjusted to suit each locality, they are all carried out on the same general plan. There is often from two or two and one-half times as much burley tobacco set on the ground as is put on the same area in the dark tobacco district.

Bitter Rot of Apples.
It is well known that the bitter rot of apples is due to a specific fungus. This fungus grows on developing apples, beginning at any time during the summer or autumn when the conditions are favorable after the fruits are formed and until after they are ripe, and it lives as a parasite in the bark of apple tree limbs, usually in localized areas called cankers. It does not occur upon the leaves.

The fungus lives over winter in woundlike spots called cankers on the limbs of the apple trees, and from these infection may start the succeeding season. Not infrequently the location of a canker can be made out by the spots beneath it on the growing fruit caused by spores washing with rainwater from the former on to the surfaces of the apples. The area of such infection in a well fruited tree frequently takes the form of a cone with its apex upward at or beneath the limb canker. The water carrying the spores does not descend perpendicularly because of the interference of the foliage; hence the wider area of infection below.—Illinois Experiment Station.

Corn and Emmer.
In some experiments with two-year-old grade steers it was found that a pound of corn was equal to one and a quarter pounds of emmer. Where the corn and emmer were mixed half and half by weight the relation was about the same, with a small increase in gain in favor of the mixture. With hogs it required seven to eight pounds of emmer as against about five pounds of corn to produce a pound of gain.

A Satisfactory Herd.
Choice cows can seldom be bought at reasonable figures, unless it be at a dispersion sale. The owners know their worth and will not part with them! This being the case, the only way we can get a satisfactory herd is to raise it. This is not only more satisfactory, but it is much more economical.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VI.—First Quarter, For Feb. 9, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John iv, 1-42. Memory Verses, 21, 26—Golden Text, John vii, 27—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Let us remember in every lesson in this gospel just why the Spirit wrote it (chapter xi, 31) and note the desired end in verse 42 of our lesson. "Now we believe and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world." The witnesses have only to bear faithful testimony to Him, and the Spirit by whom we witness will care for His own word and make it to accomplish the purpose of God. We must know Him as the Bridegroom, the one to whom the Father hath given all things and the Spirit without measure, the Messiah of Israel, who will surely fulfill all that is written of Him and in due time bring the kingdom (Mt. 26-30). All who truly receive Him have life, but on all others the wrath of God abideth.

In the daily life of every fully surrendered child of God there is a "must needs go" for every step and a "need be" for every event (verse 4; 1 Pet. i, 6), that the plan of God may be wrought out and the individual fitted for the service of the kingdom.

Sychar and Shechem and Jacob's well take us back to Gen. xli, 6; xxxiii, 18-20; Josh. xxiv, 32, and set us thinking of many things in the purpose of God, some fulfilled in the past and some yet to be. We have an illustration of the fulfillment of those words of Jacob in Gen. xli, 22, "Joseph is a fruitful bough over the wall." As Jesus sits by Jacob's well He is very near to the place where Joseph's body lay buried, and he reached over the Samaritan wall that day to find this woman and through her many others. There is a larger fulfillment to be seen in the future, and also of that other saying of Jacob's, "From thence is the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel."

According to John's way of reckoning time, the hour when Jesus sat thus on the well would be our 6 in the morning, the same as in chapter xix, 14, for it was not unusual for Him to rise a great while before day. His true humanity is seen in His being wearied and thirsty and hungry in His longing for fellowship of those whom He had chosen and in many other ways. He was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. While the disciples went to the city to buy meat He was left alone, and then cometh this woman, never dreaming that this was to be to her the day of all days in her history, the day when she would meet her Creator and Redeemer and receive Him as her own. But He who notes a sparrow's fall had foreseen it all. In last week's lesson we saw His divine wisdom in dealing with a moral, upright, religious man, and now we see the same wisdom in dealing with this sinful woman, for this man receiveth sinners.

He began by asking of her a favor, and each of His seven sayings has in it a fulness like the fulness of God, for "in Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily" (Col. ii, 9), and some of that fulness is manifest in every word of His. Water is a topic which leads us from the river in Egypt to the river of Rev. xxi, and even in the restoration story of Gen. i, we find on the second day waters above and waters below, as we do also in Jer. 14, 13. But here we have most fully the water of earth and the heavenly living water, which when received becomes in the true believer a well of water filling him and refreshing others. The remarks of the woman in reply to the Saviour's sayings are about as foolish as were the words of Nicodemus, for she, too, is only a natural person, seeing things with natural eyes. After He interested her in this water, of which she had never before heard, He then began to show her herself, or, as S. D. Gordon says in his "Sychar Revival," to show her the underside of the plank where were all manner of slimy, creeping things. She began to be uneasy under such searching and would fain turn the conversation, but He held her until He said to her, "I am the Messiah" (verses 25, 26). Then, having seen Him and heard Him, she went to tell others, "Come, see a man, . . . the Christ." Thus she believed, and many others because of her testimony, and many more because of His own words to them, for because of their entreaties He abode with them two days. Andrew brought Simon, Philip brought Nathaniel, this woman brought others, but what of those who never seem to bring any or even care to? By the Spirit the ambition of Paul was "by all means to save some," "not seeking his own profit, but the profit of many, that they might be saved" (1 Cor. ix, 22; x, 33).

The disciples were surprised that the Saviour seemed no longer to be either hungry or thirsty, and His reply must have perplexed them: "I have meat to eat that ye know not of. . . My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me, and to finish His work" (verses 32, 34). He is still saying to us verses 32, 34, but have we ears to hear, or are they dull of hearing? Are we coveting the fruit unto life eternal, fruit unto holiness, fruit unto the glory of God, fruit that may abound to our account (verse 36, Rom. vi, 22; vii, 4; Phil. i, 11; iv, 17), or, although saved, are we still given to minding earthly things?

Lesson VI.—First Quarter, For Feb. 9, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John iv, 1-42. Memory Verses, 21, 26—Golden Text, John vii, 27—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Let us remember in every lesson in this gospel just why the Spirit wrote it (chapter xi, 31) and note the desired end in verse 42 of our lesson. "Now we believe and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world." The witnesses have only to bear faithful testimony to Him, and the Spirit by whom we witness will care for His own word and make it to accomplish the purpose of God. We must know Him as the Bridegroom, the one to whom the Father hath given all things and the Spirit without measure, the Messiah of Israel, who will surely fulfill all that is written of Him and in due time bring the kingdom (Mt. 26-30). All who truly receive Him have life, but on all others the wrath of God abideth.

In the daily life of every fully surrendered child of God there is a "must needs go" for every step and a "need be" for every event (verse 4; 1 Pet. i, 6), that the plan of God may be wrought out and the individual fitted for the service of the kingdom.

Sychar and Shechem and Jacob's well take us back to Gen. xli, 6; xxxiii, 18-20; Josh. xxiv, 32, and set us thinking of many things in the purpose of God, some fulfilled in the past and some yet to be. We have an illustration of the fulfillment of those words of Jacob in Gen. xli, 22, "Joseph is a fruitful bough over the wall." As Jesus sits by Jacob's well He is very near to the place where Joseph's body lay buried, and he reached over the Samaritan wall that day to find this woman and through her many others. There is a larger fulfillment to be seen in the future, and also of that other saying of Jacob's, "From thence is the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel."

According to John's way of reckoning time, the hour when Jesus sat thus on the well would be our 6 in the morning, the same as in chapter xix, 14, for it was not unusual for Him to rise a great while before day. His true humanity is seen in His being wearied and thirsty and hungry in His longing for fellowship of those whom He had chosen and in many other ways. He was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. While the disciples went to the city to buy meat He was left alone, and then cometh this woman, never dreaming that this was to be to her the day of all days in her history, the day when she would meet her Creator and Redeemer and receive Him as her own. But He who notes a sparrow's fall had foreseen it all. In last week's lesson we saw His divine wisdom in dealing with a moral, upright, religious man, and now we see the same wisdom in dealing with this sinful woman, for this man receiveth sinners.

He began by asking of her a favor, and each of His seven sayings has in it a fulness like the fulness of God, for "in Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily" (Col. ii, 9), and some of that fulness is manifest in every word of His. The Mangolds' Valentine.

By ELLIS GRANT.

Copyright, 1937, by Frank Lockert.

“THERE'S nothing against the Mangolds as I know of,” the jolly storekeeper at the Rock Prairie settlement remarked, “but it's plain they don't amount to much.”

“That's so,” spoke up one of the settlers who were warming themselves by the fire at the store on an early February evening. “They make the two little fellows do all the work. I've never seen the father anywhere.”

“Neither have I,” said the storekeeper. “They come here in September. The first we see of 'em was noticing the white topped camper's wagon standing on the section of government land near the cabin that the Blazgs boys left when they found the land wasn't first class. The two boys have been here for a few things and always paid for what little they got, but they wouldn't talk much. I guess they're pretty hard up, and I've thought I'd go over and see 'em, but I never got to it.”

The other men agreed with this history of the family and remarked that they, too, had thought of going to see the family, but had never carried out their purpose.

AT LAST THE PAINT LIGHT IN THE CABIN SHONE ACROSS THE PLAIN.

One had passed the cabin about a month before. He had seen a woman through the window, but nothing more was known of them. They were evidently the one family of delinquents in a prosperous community of settlers.

“Yes,” said the storekeeper. “Plows'll be going next week, though the nights are kind of chilly yet.”

“Buttoning up their heavy coats, the settlers mounted their ponies and rode homeward together.

“There's the two boys now,” remarked Squire Gillett when they had ridden two miles or more across the brown prairie. Looking off to the west, they saw two small boys mounted on large, rawboned work horses, their outlines distinct against the sunset sky.

The two boys were jogging along slowly and in silence. Their slender forms seemed oddly in contrast with the size of the horses they were riding. They shivered in the raw evening air. Heavy clouds were coming up in great black masses from the northeast.

“We must hurry, Joe,” said one of the boys, “or we'll get wet.”

“I suppose so, for our coats aren't quite waterproof,” said the other.

“Say, Clive,” Joe went on after a moment's silence, “don't you think it's been a pretty lonesome winter?”

Joe nodded three or four times rather ruefully.

“I shall be glad enough when spring comes,” he continued, “for then papa can get out of doors and see all the folks.”

“He's pretty sick, don't you think?”

“Yes, Joe, but mamma says he's feeling better, and if we're brave, strong boys he'll get well again.”

“But the plowing! Can we do it all?”

“Do it! We've got to do it, and there are only a few days left before the time will be up, and if we don't have it done we shall lose the claim. It's too bad the harness broke this afternoon, but if the storekeeper has some straps we'll be all right.”

The horses had started into a gallop, and the boys bobbed awkwardly in their seats. Over the swells, down the grassy slopes they went and then, with a still faster pace, whirled down another declivity and crashed through the dead sunflower stalks and tumbleweeds that covered the bottom of the slough.

They had gone but a few yards here when the horses suddenly stopped and went the young riders sliding forward to the animals' shoulders and manes.

The object which had stopped them was a large and dilapidated “prairie schooner,” which stood at the side of the track. The horse which had been attached to it lay dead upon the ground.

A camper had been started beside the wagon, and near it, his hands holding his head and his knees on his knees, was a despairing and unattractive man.

He did not look up until the boys called to him, and then he raised a worn, anxious, hopeless face.

“Anything the matter?” Joe asked.

“Yes, something's the matter,” it was the little one. He motioned toward the wagon.

“Sick?” asked Joe.

“Yes, and maybe dying. I've come for days from the west, calculating to take the child home to the old folks in Missouri, but the little codger couldn't stand the journey.”

The boys slipped to the ground and by the light of the fire approached the back part of the wagon. They drew aside the cover and let the freight light into the interior.

A child hardly more than a baby was moaning on the bed of straw within.

“Can't we help you?” asked Joe anxiously.

“I don't know. I've tried to find a doctor, but I don't seem to make out. Maybe the folks are afraid of me. Anyhow they don't seem to want me around, and now I've clean lost my way.”

“I'll tell you what we'll do,” said Joe. “We'll take you home. Papa can doctor people.”

“But the harness, Joe?” said Clive.

“That's so. I forgot it. Well, I'll tell you—you drive home with the man, and I'll go to the store. I ain't afraid.”

In a few minutes the emigrant was on the road toward the Mangold cabin with Clive, while Joe, his courage just a little weakened by the appearance of the still darkening sky, was riding rapidly in the other direction.

“My goodness, who's this?” exclaimed the storekeeper as he was putting up the blinds of the lonely prairie store for the night. He could hardly believe his eyes when the young rider presented himself.

“And you've come all this way alone?” he asked when he had heard Joe's story. “Well, my boy, you must be a good one. Look here! I'm going home with you.”

He put on his overcoat and wrapped a shawl about the slender boy's shoulders.

“Come,” he said, picking up a bundle which Joe thought was certainly too large to contain anything more than the plans of harness, “let's go.”

Together they mounted the horse, and through the falling rain the two rode on mile after mile, the steady swish of the horse's feet through the dead grass being the only sound to break the stillness of the night.

At last the faint light in the cabin of the Mangolds shone across the plain, and a few moments afterward the storekeeper and the boy had entered the house.

“I tell you what,” said the storekeeper the next evening when a group of settlers had gathered about his fire, “it wasn't a pleasant sight. There was the baby moaning and suffering, while the little woman was trying to comfort it. Over in the other corner was Mangold himself.”

“The old man, eh?” said the squire.

“He's sick, boys—pretty sick. He's been a kind of doctor in the east, but was ordered out here for his health. He hasn't been able to go about any since he came, and his brave little wife and the two boys have looked after everything.”

“Yes. And, besides that, out of all of us they were the ones to take care of the camper. The poor fellow was about discouraged, and it was a good thing we found him.”

“I tell you what,” said the storekeeper the next evening when a group of settlers had gathered about his fire, “it wasn't a pleasant sight. There was the baby moaning and suffering, while the little woman was trying to comfort it. Over in the other corner was Mangold himself.”

“He's sick, boys—pretty sick. He's been a kind of doctor in the east, but was ordered out here for his health. He hasn't been able to go about any since he came, and his brave little wife and the two boys have looked after everything.”

A DELICIOUS OPENING HERE.

Recommend it to the People of Clanton.

At this season of the year there is hardly a man, woman or child in Clanton who does not need a medicine to purify and enrich the blood, to induce an appetite, to promote digestion and create strength, and we are safe in saying we have never sold anything in our store equal to the cod liver preparation Vinol for this purpose.

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions is because it is made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cod livers, combining with peptonate of soda, all the medicinal, healing and body building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a spring medicine and a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak run-down persons, and after sickness, Vinol is unexcelled, and you know what you are taking.

Mrs. Rose Lavigne, of Burlington, Vt., writes: “Vinol is the best spring medicine I have ever used; it creates an appetite, purifies the blood and takes away all feeling of lassitude.”

We could go on quoting from hundreds of such letters, but simply ask the people of Clanton to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if they are not benefited. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

PROGRAM

of Teachers' Institute, to be held at Hethel, Feb. 14 & 15, 1938.

FRIDAY. Devotional exercises. Welcome address, J. N. Dennis. Response, J. W. Moore. Organization.

2:30. Business session.

Mr. S. B. Groves desires to announce that in place of the “Illustrated talk on Japan” for which he is scheduled at the Teachers' Institute, Friday evening, Feb. 14th, at 7 p.m., the Rev. G. W. Chalfant, D. D., of Pittsburg, Pa., will give a “Travel Talk” on Oriental countries and peoples. Dr. Chalfant's long and varied travels in China and Japan, his keen powers of observation and the opportunities he enjoyed for meeting many of the leading men of these nations, together with his splendid abilities as a speaker enable him to entertain and instruct in an unusual degree the audience privileged to hear him.

A distinguished U. S. Senator, a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, after hearing Dr. Chalfant in Brooklyn, N. Y., remarked to a friend that he had learned more of the actual conditions and problems of the Far East from this address than from all the consular reports, deputation addresses, etc., which had been presented to his committee during the years considerable term of he had belonged to it.

This address is offered to the Institute as a generous contribution to the endeavor now being made to improve the meetings generally and make them more interesting and profitable to all the members.

Save Money by Buying Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

You will pay just as much for a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as for any of the other cough medicines, but you save money in buying it. The saving is in what you get, not what you pay. The sure-to-cure quality is in every bottle of this remedy, and you get good results when you take it.

Neglected colds often develop serious conditions and you buy a cough medicine you want to be sure you are getting one that will cure your cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy always cures. Price 25 and 50 cents a bottle. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Horn, Floraby.

How Tea Lead is Made.

Tea lead for lining tea chests is superior at least from the standpoint of cheapness to any other metal. According to an article in the Brass World, the method practiced by the Chinese in the manufacture of tea lead is to press molten lead between two flat stones. The excess of lead is melted in an iron kettle by a direct fire underneath. Rice paper is carefully smoothed down over the surface of the stones to supply a nonconductor of heat and thus prevent the chipping of the lead. The stones are now placed flat upon the ground and the tapper one tilted a short distance, with one edge upon the lower stone. In other words, the stones are spaced like a ladder full of melted lead is now in between the stones, and the lead is quickly dropped. The lead is rolled out until only a thin layer of lead remains on the stones. The lead is then rolled out until only a thin layer of lead remains on the stones.

Tea lead usually runs from 1/16 inch in thickness.

Experience has shown that no requirements of farmers and

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Lesson VII.—First Quarter, For
Feb. 16, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John iv, 43-54.
Memory Verses, 48, 50—Golden Text,
John iv, 50—Commentary Prepared
by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1907, by American Bible Association.)
Life is one of the great topics of this scripture, and it is very manifestly
the topic of this lesson, for three times we have the saying, "Thy son liveth"
(verses 50, 51, 53). In Him was life,
eternal life, made manifest, and He
came that we might have life and have
it more abundantly (John i, 4; x, 10;
I John i, 2). He that hath the Son bath
life, and there is no life apart from
Him. This life is for the body as well as the soul, for in due time, at the resurrection of the just, all the redeemed shall have immortal, incorruptible bodies like the glorified body of our Lord (Phil. iii, 20, 21; I Cor. xv, 51).
Meanwhile as temples of the Holy Ghost we may know His power in quickening these mortal bodies far beyond that which the majority seem to believe, yet if he sees fit to permit infirmities and thence to the flesh, to continue even though we are, as far as we know, fully yielded to Him, it must be that greater honor shall be brought
to Him and greater blessing for time
and eternity to us.

There are some of us to whom the expression "after two days" or "the third day" (verse 43, chapter ii, 1)
seems always to point the resurrection
and the kingdom and to suggest the things that shall then be. Compare
Gen. xii, 4; Hos. vi, 2; Luke xiii, 32,
and other passages.

The Galileans, having seen His wondrous works at Jerusalem, welcomed
Him to Galilee, but after His resurrection He said, "Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed"
(chapter xx, 29). Peter said to those
to whom he wrote, "Whom, having not seen, ye love; in whom, though now ye
see Him not, yet believing, ye rejoice
with joy unspeakable and full of glory"
(I Pet. i, 8).

Jesus returned to Cana, where He had made the water wine and manifested forth His glory, and we would like to know with whom He sojourned.
Was it with those whom He had honored with His presence at the marriage
or with Nathaniel? Who were the happy ones privileged to have Him in their home? We cannot tell, but this
we know, that we can have Him dwell
in us continually (John xiv, 23; I Cor.
vi, 16; Rev. iii, 20).

In the family of a certain nobleman
at Capernaum there was anything but
comfort, for a beloved son was sick,
even at the point of death. The father had somehow heard of Jesus, and he went himself to Cana to bring Jesus
back with him to heal his son. Sickness of the body is much more of a reality to most people than the sickness of sin in the soul, but to our Lord
the sin sickness is the worst. When
the man was brought by his friends
and let down through the roof into Jesus' presence, He first healed the soul
and then his body. A whole body containing an unsaved soul is on its way
to the perishing of both soul and body
in hell (Matt. x, 28), but a saved soul
in any kind of a body, even that of a leper, insures a perfectly whole body
in due time (John vi, 39, 40).

The Saviour tested him as to whether
he needed a sign to make him believe, but the father has only one cry,
"Sir, come down, for my child die"
(verse 49). When we have just one great burden on our hearts, our prayer
is very apt to be prevailing prayer.
Consider the "one thing" of Ps. cxvii,
4; Phil. iii, 13, and see the persistency
and victory of the woman of Matt. xv,
21-28. Without going with the man Jesus said to him, "Go thy way; thy
son liveth" (verse 50), and the man
ceased his importunity, and believing
the word that Jesus had spoken, he went his way (verse 50). The case is not unlike that of the centurion of Capernaum, who also was quite content with a word from Jesus. Possibly this father and the centurion were friends. The communication of our faith becomes effectual by our acknowledging what he has done for us (Philimon 6), and when we have seen
for ourselves something of His power,
"We cannot but speak the things
which we have seen and heard" (Acts
iv, 20). It was on the next day that the father reached home, and the servants met him with the good news, and
on comparing notes they found that
just at the time when Jesus said the word the fever left the boy—"I am or
p. m. on the preceding day. He is always the same and no respecter of persons. Where is our faith?"

This man, believed, and his whole house. Is there some power manifest that affects the household? How simple it seems! One who is worthy of most absolute confidence speaks, and
we believe what He says and act accordingly. "If He said, and shall
He not do it? or, hath He spoken, and
shall He not make it good?" (John xviii, 19). However, unluckily the thing
may seem, it matters not. We may say
as Paul did in the storm of sea, "I believe God that it shall be even as He said" (Acts xvii, 31). Take the following words as counsel and simply believing, say the words: "John i, 12,
a child of God; Rom. ix, 10, born of the life and shall never perish; I John i, 12,
all sins forgiven; Isa. xlii, 25, shall never be remembered; Isa. xlii, 12, held by the right hand; I John iii, 1, I shall be like Him; Rev. iii, 21, shall sit on His throne; Rom. xv, 12, filled with joy
and peace in believing."

PORTABLE HOG HOUSE.
two center runners are fourteen feet long, so that they may extend out two feet at each end of the house. Across these outer-ends we spike 2 by 4 or 2 by 6 pieces to hitch to. The floor should be of good oak boards, but need not be very tight. The sides are matched lumber, and the roof should be as light as possible. We have used felt paper for roofing for five years, but the kind we used became leaky in about two years, and now we have four or five houses to re-roof. We expect to try galvanized iron or tin. The uprights or studding are 2 by 2 placed two feet apart, except that there are 2 by 4s placed at each side of doors.
Doors are fastened shut by means of strong wooden buttons, each held by a spike.—Olin H. Dobbins in National Stockman.

Lime Corrects Acidity.
Most cultivated soils possess a slightly acid reaction. This is generally due to decomposition of the remains of plants in the soil forming organic acids. On wet soils this condition is more noticeable than on dry soils.
The sour humus and organic acids are not only unfavorable to the growth of nitrifying ferments and the root tubercles of leguminous plants, but also are likely to dissolve iron and other compounds which are poisonous to microbes and crops. Water culture experiments have shown that slightly acid solutions are favorable to the growth of plants, and, while most soils possess this character to a slight degree, yet any excess of soluble acid
in the soil would be highly detrimental.
While most of our cultivated crops seem to need a slight acidity, it is probable that they have the ability to create this condition to a sufficient degree through the medium of the solution sent out by their roots. This being the case, it would seem that the aim should be to keep soils in a neutral or slightly alkaline condition so as to favor the growth of root tubercles of the legumes and the desirable soil ferments.

Liming is excellent for correcting any excess of acidity and is probably the most effective and economical substance for bringing about these other desirable conditions.—H. J. Patterson.

Farm Scales.
"I consider that a farm of 100 acres a good scales would be worth $50 to $75 a year, possibly much more. I use scales mostly for weighing stock, hay and grain. There are times when I use scales every day," says a writer in Farm and Home. "In feeding stock
you may take a small bunch of cattle or hogs and by weighing each day both stock and feed you can tell just what the gain is per pound of feed. You may change the feed and see which gives the greater gain if you keep a record of your feedings while making the test. The scales are the only way to determine profit or loss in feeding stock."

Progress of the Sugar Crop.

Why We Should Not Go.
"I have," said the young man, "that partial conviction of the truth is in
me. If it is, I am, feeling a whisper
right now, and I'm a divinity student
too. That is what I am trying to do.
I don't tell that I am studying theology. If I did I wouldn't find it so easy to hold this job. I'm one of the down-on-his-knee students who has to work his way through college. One of the first things I learned when I began to look for a position was that the average employer of labor has no use
for the divinity student. Somehow every man engaged in business holds the opinion that a young fellow who is studying for the ministry lacks backbone, and he is afraid to trust him
with important duties.

"After I had ingeniously explained
my circumstances to about two score of employers and had been turned down
by all of them I got wise. I am working now. The boss doesn't know I am pegging away nights on church history. If he did the chances are he'd discharge me, not because he has any grudge against persons or church history, but because he, like everybody
else, would think I hadn't pluck enough
to earn my salary."—New York Times.

Trap of the Ant Lion.
We read of the tiger traps in India—
great pits dug in the ground and covered lightly with plant bamboo. The tiger steps upon the false top and before it can retreat is precipitated into
a trap. Walking along a sandy road,
look for tiny circular pits sunk below
the surface and then sit down and
watch an exciting episode in the life
of the little still hunter which has dug
the pitfall. It is invisible, and for some time the whole affair seems lifeless. Then an ant comes blundering
along and without warning topples

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Lesson VII.—First Quarter, For
Feb. 16, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John iv, 43-54.
Memory Verses, 48, 50—Golden Text,
John iv, 50—Commentary Prepared
by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1907, by American Bible Association.)
Life is one of the great topics of this
scripture, and it is very manifestly
the topic of this lesson, for three times we have the saying, "Thy son liveth"
(verses 50, 51, 53). In Him was life,
eternal life, made manifest, and He
came that we might have life and have
it more abundantly (John i, 4; x, 10;
I John i, 2). He that hath the Son bath
life, and there is no life apart from
Him. This life is for the body as well
as the soul, for in due time, at the
resurrection of the just, all the re-
deemed shall have immortal, incorrup-
tible bodies like the glorified body of
our Lord (Phil. iii, 20, 21; I Cor. xv, 51).
Meanwhile as temples of the Holy Ghost we may know His power in quickening these mortal bodies far beyond that which the majority seem to believe, yet if he sees fit to permit infirmities and thence to the flesh, to
continue even though we are, as far as we know, fully yielded to Him, it must
be that greater honor shall be brought
to Him and greater blessing for time
and eternity to us.

There are some of us to whom the
expression "after two days" or "the
third day" (verse 43, chapter ii, 1)
seems always to point the resurrection
and the kingdom and to suggest the things that shall then be. Compare
Gen. xii, 4; Hos. vi, 2; Luke xiii, 32,
and other passages.

The Galileans, having seen His won-
drous works at Jerusalem, welcomed
Him to Galilee, but after His resurrection He said, "Blessed are they that
have not seen and yet have believed"
(chapter xx, 29). Peter said to those
to whom he wrote, "Whom, having not
seen, ye love; in whom, though now ye
see Him not, yet believing, ye rejoice
with joy unspeakable and full of glory"
(I Pet. i, 8).

Jesus returned to Cana, where He had made the water wine and manifested forth His glory, and we would
like to know with whom He sojourned.
Was it with those whom He had honored with His presence at the marriage
or with Nathaniel? Who were the happy ones privileged to have Him in their home? We cannot tell, but this
we know, that we can have Him dwell
in us continually (John xiv, 23; I Cor.
vi, 16; Rev. iii, 20).

In the family of a certain nobleman
at Capernaum there was anything but
comfort, for a beloved son was sick,
even at the point of death. The father
had somehow heard of Jesus, and he went himself to Cana to bring Jesus
back with him to heal his son. Sickness of the body is much more of a
reality to most people than the sickness of sin in the soul, but to our Lord
the sin sickness is the worst. When
the man was brought by his friends
and let down through the roof into Jesus' presence, He first healed the soul
and then his body. A whole body containing an unsaved soul is on its way
to the perishing of both soul and body
in hell (Matt. x, 28), but a saved soul
in any kind of a body, even that of a leper, insures a perfectly whole body
in due time (John vi, 39, 40).

The Saviour tested him as to whether
he needed a sign to make him believe, but the father has only one cry,
"Sir, come down, for my child die"
(verse 49). When we have just one
great burden on our hearts, our prayer
is very apt to be prevailing prayer.
Consider the "one thing" of Ps. cxvii,
4; Phil. iii, 13, and see the persistency
and victory of the woman of Matt. xv,
21-28. Without going with the man
Jesus said to him, "Go thy way; thy
son liveth" (verse 50), and the man
ceased his importunity, and believing
the word that Jesus had spoken, he went his way (verse 50). The case is not unlike that of the centurion of Capernaum, who also was quite content with a word from Jesus. Possibly
this father and the centurion were friends. The communication of our faith becomes effectual by our acknowledging what he has done for us (Philimon 6), and when we have seen
for ourselves something of His power,
"We cannot but speak the things
which we have seen and heard" (Acts
iv, 20). It was on the next day that
the father reached home, and the servants met him with the good news, and
on comparing notes they found that
just at the time when Jesus said the
word the fever left the boy—"I am or
p. m. on the preceding day. He is always the same and no respecter of
persons. Where is our faith?"

This man, believed, and his whole
house. Is there some power manifest
that affects the household? How simple it seems! One who is worthy of
most absolute confidence speaks, and
we believe what He says and act accordingly. "If He said, and shall
He not do it? or, hath He spoken, and
shall He not make it good?" (John
xviii, 19). However, unluckily the thing
may seem, it matters not. We may say
as Paul did in the storm of sea, "I believe God that it shall be even as He said" (Acts xvii, 31). Take the following words as counsel and simply believing, say the words: "John i, 12,
a child of God; Rom. ix, 10, born of the
life and shall never perish; I John i, 12,
all sins forgiven; Isa. xlii, 25, shall
never be remembered; Isa. xlii, 12, held
by the right hand; I John iii, 1, I shall be like Him; Rev. iii, 21, shall sit on His throne; Rom. xv, 12, filled with joy
and peace in believing."

Why We Should Not Go.
"I have," said the young man, "that partial conviction of the truth is in
me. If it is, I am, feeling a whisper
right now, and I'm a divinity student
too. That is what I am trying to do.
I don't tell that I am studying theology. If I did I wouldn't find it so easy to hold this job. I'm one of the
down-on-his-knee students who has to work his way through college. One of the first things I learned when I began to look for a position was that the
average employer of labor has no use
for the divinity student. Somehow every man engaged in business holds the opinion that a young fellow who is
studying for the ministry lacks back-
bone, and he is afraid to trust him
with important duties.

"After I had ingeniously explained
my circumstances to about two score of
employers and had been turned down
by all of them I got wise. I am working now. The boss doesn't know I am
pegging away nights on church history. If he did the chances are he'd discharge me, not because he has any grudge against persons or church history, but because he, like everybody
else, would think I hadn't pluck enough
to earn my salary."—New York Times.

Trap of the Ant Lion.
We read of the tiger traps in India—
great pits dug in the ground and covered lightly with plant bamboo. The
tiger steps upon the false top and before it can retreat is precipitated into
a trap. Walking along a sandy road,
look for tiny circular pits sunk below
the surface and then sit down and
watch an exciting episode in the life
of the little still hunter which has dug
the pitfall. It is invisible, and for some time the whole affair seems lifeless. Then an ant comes blundering
along and without warning topples
over the edge and begins to slide down for life and seems about to make its escape, when, lo, the sand grains heave upward at the bottom and with a jerk are hurled like a miniature catapult at the ant, knocking it over and rolling it to the bottom. The ant lion, for such it is, now seizes its prey and after sucking its juices casts the dry body away and mends its pit against the coming of another victim.—Chicago

The Banner.

Published by J. M. POPE, at the Banner Building, Clanton, Ala., every day except Sunday and holidays.

Subscription price, $1.00 per year in advance. Single copies, 5 cents. Entered as second-class matter, March 1, 1908, under post office number 100, Clanton, Ala., and for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in act of October 3, 1917, authorized on July 1, 1918. Postmaster: J. M. Pope.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

This is to again call your attention to the new ruling of the Postmaster General which went into effect January 1, 1908, but the time has been extended to April 1, 1908.

The Postmaster General announces that subscribers who are more than twelve months in arrears cannot be considered legitimate subscribers, and refuses to carry their papers at the second class rate.

Under these circumstances we very respectfully ask that all subscribers who are due us for more than a year's subscription, will kindly settle their back dues, so that we may continue to send them The Banner.

If it is not convenient to pay in advance we will cheerfully give you one year's credit, but back dues must be paid up by April 1, or the paper must be discontinued.

The Postmaster General's ruling must be obeyed.

It is urgently requested that every member of the Democratic Executive Committee attend the meeting called for Saturday, February 29, at Clanton. There are several measures of importance to be considered, and a full committee is required for their deliberation.

It is suggested that the new beats hold mass meetings at some central place and select a committeeman to represent them. These selections to be acted upon at the earliest possible opportunity.

By unanimous vote, the Committee on elections of the Michigan Constitutional Convention has reported the woman suffrage recommendation back to the convention. Chairman Watson of this committee declares that the women shall have a square deal.

The saddest hour in the life of the newspaperer is when he sees one of his jokes come true. From time untold it has been the custom of the newspaperer to write semi-occasionally about the man who stayed in bed while his clothes were being washed. In this electrical age this can now be easily done. In St. Louis there is a laundry which specializes on hurry work. The clothing is washed and wrung by motor power, dried with electric fans and electric heaters and ironed by electricity. The whole operation takes less than a half hour.

A CASH OFFER.

The Banner has made a special clubbing rate with The Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the regular subscription price, $1.00. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer; $1.00 cash for both papers. Everyone should take their home paper first for the local news, and then a general weekly for the news of the world. These two papers make a strong combination. Both papers $1.00.

Many Sleepless Nights, Owing to a Persistent Cough. Relief Found at Last.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J. Hayner, editor of the Burley, Colo., Bulletin. "Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial results. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was indeed marvelous. After three doses the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since." This remedy is for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Korn, Thorby.

FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Washington, Feb. 18 (Special). Some very significant facts, gratifying to the friends of Senator Philander C. Knox, Pennsylvania's candidate for the presidency, are shown by the Chicago Tribune poll of presidential preferences. This poll covers practically every state and aggregates 5793 votes.

Senator Knox stands practically fifth in the first choice vote, being next to Cannon and ahead of Fairbanks. This can be justly regarded as a most encouraging showing, in view of all the facts. While the largest vote for Senator Knox naturally comes from Pennsylvania, he is voted for in seventeen other states, and almost every one of these is a republican state. It is well known that Senator Knox's candidacy is not promoted by organized effort, as is that of some others. Every vote for the Pennsylvania is a tribute to his availability and fitness.

There is still more significance, however, in the vote for second and third choice. It shows that he is a distinct favorite after the leaders. He is strong in Ohio, which is naturally for Taft, and in New York and Illinois, both of which have favorite sons for first choice. In Michigan, New Jersey, Virginia and West Virginia Senator Knox also shows up well, and he gets votes for either second or third choice from every state except Nevada. It is obvious for these figures that if an organized canvass had been made he would have been among the leaders in the poll.

But the proposition of Senator Knox is one of greater advantage as it is. There is never any certainty that the leader, or any one of several leaders, in the preliminary canvass will be the nominee when there are contestants. The battle between leaders is full of danger, and leaders have to give way at the crucial moment when the convention seeks a candidate in no way involved in the scramble for delegates. It is pure availability, free from every antagonism, that is then required. Who better meets that demand than Philander Chase Knox?

It is in the highest degree gratifying to every Pennsylvanian that every vote for Senator Knox in this poll has been given unsought and as a tribute to his character, ability and availability which is attracting the attention of all interested in the large field of presidential politics.

Woodman of the World.

From Sovereign Escort H. F. Simrall of this city we learn that the advance figures of the Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World show 1907 to have been the most progressive year in the history of this organization. The membership on January 1, 1908 was 392,000. On January 1, 1907, it was 330,720. The net gain during the year was 61,280 as compared with 56,128 for 1906. The receipts during the year were $6,944,020.27. The expenditures for death losses were $3,272,789.30; for monuments, $232,753.40; for disability claims $9,250. The total emergency fund and cash on hand the first of this year was $5,702,013.71. The Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World is enjoying an extraordinary growth. Its increase in assets is keeping pace with it.

Nineteen hundred and seven was the banner year for Woodcraft in Alabama. Fifty five hundred applications went in from that state last year. Two hundred thousand dollars was paid to beneficiaries last year. One hundred and forty new camps were organized, bringing the number of members in Alabama on January of active camps to 400. The number 1st, 1908 was nearly 12,000.—Columbus (Miss) Dispatch.

Editor Banner—I haven't bothered you in a long time, so I hope you will bear with me once more. You seem to have a great number of correspondents from this section, which of course is alright.

There is much sickness in this country. All of Mr. Maness' family have been sick, but are better now.

Mrs. F. M. Crim is expected to die.

Mrs. Ella Chastain is slowly improving.

Mrs. Mary Mize spent Tuesday with Mrs. Maness. She is looking better than usual.

The Sheppard Lumber Co. seems to be uncommonly well.

Rev. Mr. Martin filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

Our school closed two or three days on account of our teacher's sickness, but we are booming again.

By the way, I don't think our reporter meant any harm, when, whoever it was, said that it was a paper and ball school. That is all so. Every pupil has to write and play ball. We have a pen and ink exercise to be done at home every day. Then all lessons are gotten up by pencil. But it also is a book school. If you could just see the books we have to study and some of us get mighty tired I tell you. My, how we have to study. We play ball about 1 hour and 40 minutes every day and all pupils must play. There is no sitting in till evening to make up for lost time and sorry lessons. You never saw a school like this one. The teacher umpires everything and so we have no trouble. Mr. Maness does everything right. May he teach for us many years to come. So I will ring off.

Polly's Ruse.

A Washington Story
By FRANK H. SWEET.

Copyright, 1917, by Frank H. Sweet.

ONE blustering spring day in 1781 three young men were the only passengers in the northbound mail stage which ran three times a week between New York and Boston. Could Caleb, the jolly driver, have known the business of each of the travelers he would have had interesting gossip indeed for the people along his route.

The straitlaced appearance, spectacles and bookish air of the tallest of the trio marked him a person. The second, whose hair was fiery red, appeared like some merchant's apprentice. Such might also be the third, though his clothing was homespun and his manner more like that of a country youth.

This last passenger during the first part of the journey through Connecticut remained inside the coach with the others. But after leaving Hartford he sat outside with the good-natured driver, who was quite ready to reply to questions about the country.

The two inside threw off their reserve when the contrived looking youth forsook their company.

"My glasses hurt my eyes," said the seeming preacher, removing his spectacles. "Now that the bumpkin has left us you can tell me your errand. I was astounded to see you get aboard at New York, Crane."

"He whom you are pleased to call the 'bumpkin,' my sagacious friend," said the red haired Crane, "is none other than the special express of Mr. Washington with a message from headquarters."

"Surely you are jesting!" said the clerical looking man.

"But I am not," rejoined Crane. "Yesterday this precious rascal had a long conversation with his chief in his marquee and then prepared for the journey. I was ordered to follow this fellow and if possible learn his mission. Follow him I will, therefore, if it takes me a thousand leagues."

"I do not envy you your task," said the other, rubbing his eyes. "I was never made for this sort of business, but you were. I was very comfortable in camp when I received orders to deliver a letter in Boston."

Meantime Caleb, the driver, had given his agreeable questioner much information, and the two were fast friends when Springfield was reached, where Caleb was to stay till next day.

Caleb's off leader needed shoeing. The blacksmith shop was across the river. Thus Caleb could say truthfully, "My good sir, no trouble at all," when his new acquaintance asked the way to the old Boatman's tavern, where lived young Mistress Polly Day, whom the courier said he wished to see.

In less time than it takes to tell it Washington's young subaltern had delivered into Miss Polly's shapely little hands the precious packet bearing the private seal of the commander in chief of the Continental army. This letter was not unexpected by Polly. Indeed, her brother, commonly called "Captain John," on leaving his home for Boston a few days earlier had explained at much length what was to be done in case such a package should be delivered to her.

"Any message the general may wish to send me," said Captain John, "he will embody in a letter written to you, Polly. I have told him how patriotic you are, and he is willing to trust much to your sagacity. You must find some safe means of getting the message quickly to me. Remember to send me the whole of the letter the general sends you. On that portion of it which is left white a secret message for me will be written in a peculiar ink, visible only when brushed over with a certain liquid."

"What liquid?" said Polly, who had her share of curiosity.

"Never mind, Polly. I have a vial of it. You should write me a good sisterly letter. Send the more important message in some safe hiding place or by some trusty hand to which you can reliably attach. But make the right one so slight that it cannot be easily discovered if your letter should chance to fall into the enemy's hands. Adieu! I will be back again in a few days."

With that Captain John disappeared. Washington's messenger, having partaken of some of the sparkling cider and incomparable gingerbread with which Polly's larger was always supplied, made his bow and departed to cross the river and return to his command.

Then Polly fairly flew to her little room, where she read with eagerness the following letter:

Newbury, N. York, 24 March, 1781.
To Mistress P. Day.
In behalf of the Command of which your Brother Capt. Day is an esteemed Member, I beg to express the pleasure his Company has found in the frequent evidence of your Loyalty and Handiwork which have been sent to us. Hardly less than the warm blankets and the hose furnished by you and your Thoughtful Friends, your own most savory loaves of Gingerbread are worthy of special mention. Permit me to remark that those who aid in making the lot of my soldiers happier in their camp-life are conferring a special favor upon Tr. Most Obedt. Hble Servt., G. WASHINGTON.

At this time two strangers, one elderly, the other middle aged, were guests at the old river tavern where Polly lived with her Aunt Nancy.

When Washington's messenger arrived, they had been two weeks under Aunt Nancy's hospitable roof. They had announced an intention to go to Boston by the following morning's coach, and Polly's first thought was to ask one of them to carry her brother's message.

But the more she thought of it the more she distrusted the austere strangers.

"No, no," she said to herself, "it would not be safe. But I see Caleb's roan horse at the blacksmith's. I will get him to carry my little box of gingerbread to John in Boston."

She started through the garden gate, and there she met in the narrow path the elder of the two guests of the tavern.

"Mistress Polly," he said quickly, "I have sadly torn the sleeve of my topcoat. If I might make bold to ask your service, will you mend it for me before I go?"

"Certainly, good sir," she replied. "I shall be glad to do so as soon as I return from an errand to the blacksmith shop." And on she went.

"Caleb," she said with almost deference as if she were talking to Washington himself, "I want to send a box of gingerbread to my brother John in Boston by tomorrow's stage. If he cannot be found at Uncle James Daggett's inn on Market square, you must put it into his hands yourself, remember."

Caleb gladly consented, and after a few minutes' chat Polly tripped back across the field.

His eyes were not the only pair that watched her as she went. Their entire conversation had been overheard by a young man with red hair who had come by the last stage from New York.

"Oh, if I only had more time to think what is best to be done!" thought poor Polly as she sat down to write to her brother.

Her face reflected the gravity of her thoughts as she fulfilled her promise of mending the torn topcoat in the twilight that evening. Both of the two strange guests were present, and so was Aunt Nancy. For some moments the elder guest watched her deft fingers in silence. Then, fixing his eyes upon her face, he said quietly:

"I hope the young man who came today brought you no bad tidings?"

"Oh, none at all!" said Polly quietly.

"I will tell you why I asked," he went on after a moment's pause. "To-night from where I sit I have twice seen a young man about the same age of the one who called today approach the rear of the house as if looking for some one. Does he look for you?"

Polly started perceptibly. A response was on her lips when—crash! down came an earthen bowl in which a plant was blooming. It had been knocked from some upper window, and its fragments scattered close to the doorstep in the hard, smooth garden walk.

"Polly Day! Who's in your room?" cried Aunt Nancy.

The older guest started up the stairway and reached the upper landing just in time to see a slender young man half run, half slide, down the long sloping rear roof.

After the premises had been thoroughly examined and the still excited old lady had been led back to her seat Polly held up a small, square parcel which the intruder had dropped as he sprang from the roof.

"See!" said Polly, holding up the package. "The man only tried to get the box of gingerbread that I had all ready to send to Brother John by tomorrow's coach. Poor man! Perhaps he was hungry."

Caleb called bright and early the next day for his two passengers and the parcel. The neat little package for Captain John Day was stored carefully away in the leather stage box upon which the driver sat. The red headed man sat by Caleb on the box.

"Major, what think you of the outside passenger?" said the younger of the two guests.

"I did not observe him closely."

"He is Crane."

"What? Crane, the spy? Surely you are deceived. But, no; now I understand."

"What do you mean?"

"It was he who tried to steal Miss Polly's gingerbread."

When Captain John Day received word from his uncle that a man with a parcel awaited him at the inn in Market square, Boston, he lost no time in appearing.

The face of Caleb was a useful one as he looked, the captain the sister's portrait. He had seen a red headed young man on the box with him as far as Worcester, and then his passenger had unexpectedly departed. What had become of him he did not know. But after Worcester was passed he had discovered that the box of gingerbread had been tampered with.

Captain Day merely thanked Caleb for his pains and took the box.

He found within the torn wrappings only a few crumbs of gingerbread, but there were two written messages. One was scrawled on the torn wrapper of the box itself, and the other was Poi-

"BOONDS! JAMES, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT?"

ly's letter, but there was no sign of any communication from General Washington.

The scrawled note on the wrapping paper bore neither date nor signature and read as follows:

The Exigencies of War demanded that I should open your precious Box; and the cravings of Appetite constrained me to eat up the Uncommonly good Gingerbread baked by your most Charismatic Sister, Mistress Polly. The least I can do is to send you her letter, since there is nothing in it I can use.

The idea of my taking several days' journey into the interior simply to learn the information that Mr. Washington had written a Note of thanks to a girl! But he was right about the Virtues of the Gingerbread! Never was there better! A thousand Thanks! A thousand Praises! And Farewell!

Polly's letter was mainly a diary of small events at the tavern since her brother's departure. There was much unimportant information about the state of Aunt Nancy's health, and then Polly said:

There must be much Want in the country about for a poor young man, half starved, no doubt, tried vainly last night to steal my box of Gingerbread, made for you. There have been two fine Gentlemen staying at the tavern, and that reminds me that you will have Pleasure in learning that your little sister is improving much in the Art of Needlework. I wish that you might see the nice Bit of Sewing that I had the Honour of doing upon the Top Coat of the Elder of these Two Gentlemen, who have both gone to Boston by this stage. It was in the Sleeve of his Top Coat, near the Shoulder, and he declared when it was done that it was impossible to discern where the Rent had been.

If you should chance to meet this Gentleman, I trust that you will examine this piece of my Handiwork; and do not fail to send me by the Hand of Caleb any article of Apparel that you may wish me to mend against your Return.

Nothing in this innocent note had excited the smallest suspicion on the part of the wary spy. But when Captain John Day read it he made haste to ascertain where the two gentlemen were.

After a refreshing night's sleep and a hearty breakfast at the inn the two gentlemen, the major and his companion, prepared to stroll on Boston Common. As the weather was cold, the younger of the two, called James, brought down their topcoats.

His comrade, the major, unfolding his, uttered an exclamation of surprise and anger.

"Zounds! James, what do you think of that?" he said, pointing to a slit, evidently made by a sharp knife, in the topcoat near the shoulder.

The young man examined it closely. "I should say," said he, "that you had been completely outwitted and doubtless made a convenience of by the little maid at the tavern in Springfield. See! Here she sewed the rent you had in the garment, and the cut of this knife goes straight across it!"

"The mint had concealed some message in the sleeve!" said the other. "Her brother, the rebel captain, has been at this house."

"Without doubt, and his majesty's officer has been the emissary of the rebel commander!"

Polly soon received from Newport a letter from her brother John containing these words:

Your Gingerbread, which I doubt not was very good, never arrived. Only by the kindness of the Enemy's spy did your letter reach me at all. Your plan of sewing the General's message to me into the very clothing of a British officer in disguise and up parole was indeed a most ingenious one. I managed to secure the Paper without other trouble than cutting the cloth. Four women's wit, I verily believe, did save your Brother's Life.

A small sealed packet, addressed to "Mistress P. Day, Boatman's Tavern, at the Ferry, West Springfield, Mass., arrived about a month later from New York. It contained a quaintly engraved locket bearing a miniature portrait of the donor, George Washington. The message with it read simply:

In token of the Commander's appreciation of a valuable Service, faithfully and successfully performed.

EMINENT PHARMACISTS

Everywhere Acknowledge the Superiority of Vinol.

If one person more than another should know the value of a medicine it is the retail pharmacist.

For this reason such a testimony as the following should be convincing.

C. A. Patterson, the leading druggist of Charleston, W. Va., writes: "I have used Vinol for every member of my family, and have never been disappointed in the results. It is a pleasure to sell a remedy that gives such universal satisfaction."

Mr. Chas. E. Rogers, druggist of Elkton, Ky., writes: "I consider Vinol one of the best remedies in my store, and sell more of it than any one medicine. I have also used Vinol in my family with excellent results."

Mr. J. F. Bradley of New Brunswick, N. J., writes: "It is a pleasure to recommend the cod liver preparation, Vinol, as it gives such splendid satisfaction. As I have used it in my family, I can recommend it from experience."

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions is because it contains all the medicinal, body building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers with all the useless oil eliminated and peptonated-iron added.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, weak women, delicate children, after sickness and for all pulmonary troubles, Vinol is recommended by over 5000 of the leading druggists of the United States. Your money back if it fails. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

Dear Editor:—Please allow us a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words. Health of this community is not very good.

The farmers have been trying to get ready for farming but the weather has been so bad the can't make much out of it.

The school at Vermont school house is progressing nicely under the care of Mrs. Etta Mae Apperson. Our school will not run much longer and we will have to see our dear teacher leave us for we all love her because she is so good and kind to her pupils. We are expecting to have a nice time celebrating Washington's birthday.

Well this is leap year and everybody keeps writing about the girls starting to see the boys. I think they must be bad off for the girls to come to see them. I think the weather is too bad for the girls to go anywhere, so the boys will have to excuse the girls for not coming to see them.

Miss Rosie Minor visited her cousins, Misses Isabelle, Zedie and Pearl Minor, Saturday.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. Etta King is on the sick list.

We are glad to say that the measles have about died out of this community.

We will ring off with much love for the dear old Banner and its many readers.

Training the Young Vines—Lam. Short Pruning.

Remember to send me the whole of the letter the general sends you. On that portion of it which is left white a secret message for me will be written in a peculiar ink, visible only when brushed over with a certain liquid."

"What liquid?" said Polly, who had her share of curiosity. "Never mind, Polly. I have a vial of it. You should write me a good sisterly letter. Send the more important message in some safe hiding place or by some trusty hand to which you can reliably attach. But make the message so slight that it cannot be easily discovered if your letter should chance to fall into the enemy's hands. Ad- dress it to Uncle John, that's his name, against Boston."

With that Captain John disappeared. Washington's messenger, having partaken of some of the sparkling cider and incomparable gingerbread with which Polly's father was always supplied, made his bow and departed to cross the river and return to his commander.

Then Polly fairly flew to her little room, where she read with eagerness the following letter:

Newburg, N. York, 13 March, 1781.
To Mistress P. Day.
In behalf of the Command of which your Brother Capt. Day is an esteemed member, I beg to express the pleasure his Company has found in the frequent evidence of your Loyalty and Handwork which have been sent to us. Hardly less than the warm blankets and the hose furnished by you and your Thoughtful Friends, your own most savory leaves of Gingerbread are worthy of special mention. Permit me to remark that those who aid in making the lot of my soldiers happier in their camp-life are conferring a special favor upon Tr. Most Obedt. Hble Servt., G. WASHINGTON.
Comding.

At this time two strangers, one elderly, the other middle aged, were guests at the old river tavern where Polly lived with her Aunt Nancy.

When Washington's messenger arrived, they had been two weeks under Aunt Nancy's hospitable roof. They had announced an intention to go to Boston by the following morning's coach, and Polly's first thought was to ask one of them to carry her brother's message.

But the more she thought of it the more she distrusted the austere strangers.

"No, no," she said to herself, "it would not be safe. But I see Caleb's roan horse at the blacksmith's. I will get him to carry my little box of gingerbread to John in Boston."

She started through the garden gate, and there she met in the narrow path the elder of the two guests of the tavern.

"Mistress Polly," he said quickly, "I have sadly torn the sleeve of my topcoat. If I might make bold to ask your service, will you mend it for me before I go?"

"Certainly, good sir," she replied. "I shall be glad to do so as soon as I return from an errand to the blacksmith shop." And on she went.

"Caleb," she said with almost deference as if she were talking to Washington himself, "I want to send a box of gingerbread to my brother John in Boston by tomorrow's stage. If he cannot be found at Uncle James Daggett's inn on Market square, you may learn there where he is. You must put it into his hands yourself, remember."

Caleb gladly consented, and after a few minutes' chat Polly tripped back across the field.

His eyes were not the only pair that watched her as she went. Their entire conversation had been overheard by a young man with red hair who had come by the last stage from New York.

"Oh, if I only had more time to think what is best to be done!" thought poor Polly as she sat down to write to her brother.

Her face reflected the gravity of her thoughts as she fulfilled her promise of mending the torn topcoat in the twilight that evening. Both of the two strange guests were present, and so was Aunt Nancy. For some moments the elder guest watched her deft fingers in silence. Then, fixing his eyes upon her face, he said quietly:

"I hope the young man who came today brought you no bad tidings?" "Oh, none at all!" said Polly quietly. "I will tell you why I asked," he went on after a moment's pause. "Tonight from where I sit I have twice seen a young man about the same age of the one who called today approach the rear of the house as if looking for some one. Does he look for you?"

Polly started perceptibly. A response was on her lips when—crash! down came an earthen bowl in which a plant was blooming. It had been knocked from some upper window, and its fragments scattered close to the doorstep in the hard, smooth garden walk.

"Polly Day! Who's in your room?" cried Aunt Nancy.

The older guest started up the stairway and reached the upper landing just in time to see a slender young man half run, half slide, down the long sloping rear roof.

After the premises had been thoroughly examined and the still excited old lady had been led back to her seat Polly held up a small, square parcel which the intruder had dropped as he sprang from the roof.

"See!" said Polly, holding up the package. "The man only tried to get the box of gingerbread that I had all ready to send to Brother John by tomorrow's coach. Poor man! Perhaps he was hungry."

Caleb called bright and early the next day for his two passengers and the parcel. The neat little package for Captain John Day was stored carefully away in the leather stage box upon which the driver sat. The red headed man sat by Caleb on the box.

"Major, what think you of the outside passenger?" said the younger of the two guests.

"I did not observe him closely."

As he looked, the outside passenger's package. He had seen a red headed young man on the box seat with him as far as Worcester, and then the passenger had unexpectedly departed. What had become of him he did not know. But after Worcester was passed he had discovered that the box of gingerbread had been tampered with.

Captain Day merely thanked Caleb for his pains and took the box. He found within the torn wrappings only a few crumbs of gingerbread, but there were two written messages. One was scrawled on the torn wrapper of the box itself, and the other was Pol-

"SOUNDS! JAMES, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT?"

ly's letter, but there was no sign of any communication from General Washington.

The scrawled note on the wrapping paper bore neither date nor signature and read as follows:

The Exigencies of War demanded that I should open your precious Box; and the cravings of Appetite constrained me to eat up the Uncommonly good Gingerbread baked by your most Charming sister, Mistress Polly. The least I can do is to send you her letter, since there is nothing in it I can use!

The idea of my taking several days' journey into the interior simply to learn the information that Mr. Washington had written a Note of thanks to a girl! But he was right about the Virtues of the Gingerbread! Never was there better! A thousand Thanks! A thousand Pardons! And Farewell!

Polly's letter was mainly a diary of small events at the tavern since her brother's departure. There was much unimportant information about the state of Aunt Nancy's health, and then Polly said:

There must be much want in the country about, for a poor young man, half starved, no doubt, tried vainly last night to steal my box of Gingerbread, made for you. There have been two fine Gentlemen staying at the tavern, and that reminds me that you will have Pleasure in learning that your little sister is improving much in the Art of Needlework. I wish that you might see the nice Bit of Sewing that I had the Honour of doing upon the Top Coat of the Elder of these Two Gentlemen, who have both gone to Boston by the stage. It was in the Sleeve of his Top Coat, near the Shoulder; and he declared when it was done that it was impossible to discern where the Rent had been.

If you should chance to meet this Gentleman, I trust that you will examine this piece of my Handiwork; and do not fail to send me by the Hand of Caleb any article of Apparel that you may wish me to mend against your Return.

Nothing in this innocent note had excited the smallest suspicion on the part of the wary spy. But when Captain John Day read it he made haste to ascertain where the two gentlemen were.

After a refreshing night's sleep and a hearty breakfast at the inn the two gentlemen, the major and his companion, prepared to stroll on Boston Common. As the weather was cold, the younger of the two, called James, brought down their topcoats.

His comrade, the major, unfolding his, uttered an exclamation of surprise and anger.

"Zounds! James, what do you think of that?" he said, pointing to a slit, evidently made by a sharp knife, in the topcoat near the shoulder.

The young man examined it closely. "I should say," said he, "that you had been completely outwitted and doubtlessly made a convenience of by the little maid at the tavern in Springfield. See! Here she sewed the rent you had in the garment, and the cut of this knife goes straight across it!"

"The mix had concealed some message in the sleeve!" said the other. "Her brother, the rebel captain, has been at this house."

"Without doubt, and his majesty's officer has been made the emissary of the rebel commander!"

Polly soon received from Newport a letter from her brother John containing these words:

Your Gingerbread, which I doubt not was very good, never arrived. Only by the kindness of the Enemy's spy did your letter reach me at all. Your plan of sewing the General's message to the inside of the very clothing of a British officer in disguise and on parole was indeed a most ingenious one. I managed to secure the Paper without other trouble than cutting the cloth. Your woman's Wit, I verily believe, did save your Brother's Life.

A small sealed packet, addressed to "Mistress P. Day, Boatman's Tavern, at the Ferry, West Springfield, Massetts," arrived about a month later from New York. It contained a quaintly engraved locket bearing a miniature portrait of the donor, George Washington. The message with it read simply:

EMINENT PHARMACISTS

Everywhere Acknowledge the Superiority of Vinol.

If one person more than another should know the value of a medicine it is the retail pharmacist. For this reason such a testimony as the following should be convincing.

C. A. Patterson, the leading druggist of Charleston, W. Va., writes: "I have used Vinol for every member of my family, and have never been disappointed in the results. It is a pleasure to sell a remedy that gives such universal satisfaction."

Mr. Chas. E. Rogers, druggist of Elkton, Ky., writes: "I consider Vinol one of the best remedies in my store, and sell more of it than any other medicine. I have also used Vinol in my family with excellent results."

Mr. J. F. Bradley of New Brunswick, N. J., writes: "It is a pleasure to recommend the cod liver preparation, Vinol, as it gives such splendid satisfaction. As I have used it in my family, I can recommend it from experience."

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions is because it contains all the medicinal, body building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers with all the useless oil eliminated and peppermint-iron added.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, weak women, delicate children, after sickness and for all pulmonary troubles, Vinol is recommended by over 5000 of the leading druggists of the United States. Your money back if it fails. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

Dear Editor:—Please allow us a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words. Health of this community is not very good.

The farmers have been trying to get ready for farming but the weather has been so bad the can't make much out of it.

The school at Vermont school house is progressing nicely under the care of Mrs. Etta Mae Apperson. Our school will not run much longer and we will have to see our dear teacher leave us for we all love her because she is so good and kind to her pupils. We are expecting to have a nice time celebrating Washington's birthday.

Well this is leap year and everybody keeps writing about the girls starting to see the boys. I think they must be bad off for the girls to come to see them. I think the weather is too bad for the girls to go anywhere, so the boys will have to excuse the girls for not coming to see them.

Miss Rovie Minor visited her cousins, Misses Isabelle, Zadie and Pearl Minor, Saturday.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. Etta King is on the sick list.

We are glad to say that the measles have about died out of this community.

We will ring off with much love for the dear old Banner and its many readers.

Falakto.

The health of this community is not very good.

Miss Ressie Harris is very sick again.

The report that girls in Falakto make cigarettes for the boys is a mistake for girls in this "city" are scarcer than hens' teeth.

The young ladies from other points are cordially invited to call on us while making their leap year visits.

I would like to hear from the Two Little Ragpickers again.

Ah Sweethearts! I should have said I suppose Smitty has had a face wash if it has rained there like it has here. So let us hear from you.

TESTING SEEDS.

Convenient Germinators That Will Meet All Requirements.

For the ordinary planter the well-known "dinner plate" test, made with two soup or dinner plates and one or more moist strips of sterilized cotton goods, preferably cotton flannel,
will be found to answer all purposes.
The cotton strips are sterilized in boiling water to destroy spores of molds and other fungi present, folded twice upon themselves and placed in one of the plates. The seeds are now laid between the folds of cloth so as not to touch each other, and the second plate is inverted over the first, this forming a moist, aerated and more or less sterile chamber. The cotton strips must be kept well moistened, but not saturated, preferably with water that has been sterilized by boiling, and allowed to cool before using. Two or three lots of seeds may be tested in the generator at one time, but each should be continued in a separate cotton strip and numbered to avoid error.

Another Good Method.

When, however, it is desirable to make several germination tests at one time or when many varieties are to be tested, instead of duplicating the plate germinators already described, the writer found the following germinator, suggested by Dr. Volney Spaulding, formerly of the University of Michigan, to be superior. A deep granite bread pan six or eight inches wide was obtained in which was kept about one-fourth inch of water. Cotton flannel strips of any convenient length, two or three yards, and of the width of the pan, were tucked crosswise at intervals of five inches. Short galvanized wires about an inch longer than the width of the pan were inserted through these tucks and gathered together, thus forming the cotton strips into numerous folds or loops which were suspended in the pan above the water by means of the supporting wires. The ends of the strips being left sufficiently long to touch the water in the pan, the PAN GERMINATOR.

[For testing several varieties at once.] entire piece of cloth composing the loops, in which the seeds are placed, is kept uniformly moist.

The cloth should be moistened before beginning the experiment and, it is needless to add, sterilized.

A definite number of seeds taken as they come from an average sample are counted out for each germination. For seeds in rather small lots, as garden seeds, fifty to a hundred will answer, while for the cereals, grasses, clover and others used in extensive cultural operations about 200 should be used and the tests duplicated when any doubt exists about the results. The tests should be examined from day to day and the sprouted ones removed and counted, the number being recorded on a sheet of paper.

The length of time required for germination is dependent upon several factors, chief of which are moisture, temperature, vitality and varietal differences, six to ten days being sufficient for most kinds. When tests are made during the winter or early spring months, at which time it is usually most convenient, the germination should be conducted in a moderately warm room so that the temperature will not fall below 50 degrees F. at night and remain between 70 and 80 degrees F. during the day. In the case of alfalfa and certain others of the clover family a small percentage of the seeds will remain apparently sound
at the close of the germination test.
Allowance is usually made for these,
one-third being counted as viable—i. e., capable of growth. Cauliflower, cabbage, turnip and beet seeds of poor stock—i. e., run out—are just as viable as those of good stock. The only means of remedying this defect is to use selected home grown seeds or to buy the best stock of reliable seed houses.—J. J. Thornber.

The Spanish Peanut.
The Spanish peanut is a plant that can follow either early crops of hard-less barley or Dwarf Essex rape, and by this plan the soil can be kept busy
the year around, and at the same time
the productive capacity will be gradually increased, says a writer in Southern Cultivator.

It matters not how attractive the price of cotton may be later on, the farmer who is lured into neglecting planting crops needed at home will be sure to come out a loser, and diversification ought to be the motto of every individual, no matter if some folk are going around crying out that the south cannot make too much cotton. It is best to take no chances.

Reeling the Land.
Where an area of land has been very severely overgrazed in the past it will be absolutely necessary that it be very carefully pastured for the first two or three years. The native grasses and forage plants must have a chance to regain their former vigor and to go to seed. A very large number of stockmen advocate resting the land—that is, keeping all stock off for a period of three or four years. That this remedy will bring about the desired results has been definitely proved in numerous instances.—J. S. Cotton.

Celery and Celeries.
There is a special turnip rooted form of celery known as celeriac, which produces a large root and very small leaf stems. This is more suitable for cooking than the common celery.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VIII.—First Series, For Feb. 23, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John 1, 1-12.
Memory Verse, 2, 9—Golden Text,
Matt. viii, 17—Commentary Prepared
by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1907, by American Bible Association.]
The Lord had appointed feasts for Israel in which they might draw near to Him and in which He might specially reveal Himself to them and bless them. A full record of these is found in Lev. xxi. These feasts had become feasts of the Jews rather than feasts of the Lord (John 1, 13; v. 4;
vi. 4; vii. 2), in which they relied upon their outward devotion to Him rather than on His undeserved mercy; hence His saying, "Go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy and not sacrifice" (Matt. ix, 13; xii, 7). He came to bestow the mercy of God, not to demand sacrifices from them as if they must pay Him for all He did for them. We are all as helpless in the matter of salvation or of service as was the sick and dying boy in last week's lesson to obtain health or his father to give it to him. Here in this lesson is another illustration. There is a pool whose waters at certain seasons are troubled by an angel and become possessed of healing properties which are exhausted by the first diseased one who steps in. About this pool lay a great multitude of impotent folk waiting for the moving of the water. They are a constantly disappointed crowd, for only one of the multitude can be healed. The next must all wait for the next scramble, and only the least helpless stands any chance whatever, and a wholly impotent person had no chance at all of obtaining health from that pool. The condition of the impotent represents the condition of all by nature, without strength, ungodly, sinners, enemies (Rom. vii, 6-10), but what is represented by the pool, by which some one with a slight ailment was healed, is not quite so clear, for there is only one way of salvation, and He is a Saviour for sinners, not for righteous people who think they can do for themselves. Jesus came to these porches by that pool
one day and saw there a truly impotent man whose trouble had already lasted him thirty-eight years. Noticing how matters stood, He said to him, "Wilt thou be made whole?" The man's reply, "Sir, I have no man to put me into the pool," shows his helplessness. All he could think of was the pool and a man to put him in. The pool he could see, but the man to put him in he had not yet seen, and when there might be a possibility of his being healed by that pool who could tell?
Yet in his helplessness he continued until this day, when a seemingly ordinary man asked him this question and then added, "Rise, take up thy bed and walk" (verse 8), a wholly impossible thing for him to do, and yet he did it, for immediately he was well and strong and took up his bed and walked. A thirty-eight year trouble gone in a moment! Compare the miracle wrought upon the man who was over forty years old by the same Jesus risen and ascended through Peter and John (Acts iii, 2, 8; iv, 22). Splendid healings! Why not more of them?
But what about all the rest of the multitude that day? Sometimes He healed all. Note His own remarks about only one widow and only one leper out of the many in the days of Elijah and Elisha (Luke iv, 25-27), and so we are dumb while yet we trust Him fully and rejoice to sing, "As for God, His way is perfect" (Ps. xviii).

The Jews accused the healed man of breaking the Sabbath. He fell back upon the command of the One who healed him, but he knew not and therefore could not tell who He was until he met Him in the temple and heard another message from Him.
Then he made it known that Jesus had healed him. After this the Jews did persecute Jesus and sought to kill Him because, as they said, He had broken
the Sabbath and also made Himself equal with God by calling God His Father. Instead of rejoicing in the great deliverance granted to the impotent man and giving heed to the words of his deliverer they have only hearts for their own affairs, their law, their Sabbath, their authority, and whoever does not submit to them must be broken to pieces.

Contrast God's treatment of the One in their midst whom they knew not.
The Father loveth the Son, hath committed all judgment unto the Son, showeth Him all things that Himself doeth" (verses 20, 22). They were professing to honor a God of their own imagination, not the God who brought them out of Egypt into the land of promise, for He was in their midst,
but they were so blinded by their pride and self righteousness that they could not see Him.

Contrast His humility and emptiness with their pride: "I can of mine own self do nothing. I seek not mine own will" (verse 30). See how He looks upward to the resurrection of just and unjust at the beginning and end of the coming hour (verses 28, 29), the present age being the hour when those who are dead in sin may hear His voice and live (verses 25, 26). He can wait and be patient with the foolish ones who know Him not, for the kingdom is His and all power in heaven and earth, and in due time it shall be seen by all that God hath made Him Lord and Christ. He is the Fountain of Living Water, and pools are not necessary (John 1, 13; Ps. xxxiii, 9).

One of These Things.
Paul James, a son of an old Californian, was a popular character on the Boston and Maine railroad, making daily trips between Boston and Plymouth. One day several years ago while collecting fares he encountered a man under the impression of liquor who would not show a ticket. After reasoning in vain with the passenger Mr.
James said, "Now, see here, you'll have to do one of three things—give me a ticket, pay your fare or get off and walk."

"You've (hic) got to do one of three things," was the reply—"but less (hic), keep yourself (hic) or bust."

His Nerve.
Speaking of a Wall Street operator, a broker said: "The man's nerve is amazing. It shocks me. It reminds me of a money lender to whom a friend of mine, a great rider to hounds, once resorted."

"You," said the money lender to my embarrassed friend, "I will renew your note, but only on one condition, directly, that during the next paper chase at Lemox you scatter from your bag these 5,000 pink slips bearing my name and the words, 'Money advanced on easy terms.' Is it a go, sir?"

Suffering a Dollars Saved.
E. S. Loper, of Martilla, N. Y., says: "I am a carpenter and have had many severe cuts healed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It has saved me suffering and dollars. It is by far the best healing salve I have ever found." Heals burns, sores, ulcers, fever sores, eczema and piles.

Sheep Manure Valuable.
There is no other animal kept under cover during the winter that will make more or richer manure for its live weight or for the feed consumed than the sheep, writes a correspondent in National Stockman. It has been common experience that sheep kept during the nights in a well ventilated shed with a floor space of ten square feet per head if duly littered with short litter in which there is no risk of estangement will leave a solid mass of the richest manure in the very best condition for use in the spring, and at the same time by the use of plaster liberally scattered on the floor there will be no disagreeable odor from it, while the sheep will be in perfect health. The sheep's manure is next to that of possibly in availability.

Test For Oil Meal.
Professor Wolf of the Wisconsin station gives the following simple method of telling the difference between new and old process oil meal: "Pulverize a small quantity of the meal and put a level teaspoonful of it into a tumbler;
then add ten tablespoonfuls of boiling water to the meal. Stir thoroughly and leave to settle. If the meal is new process meal, it will settle in the course of an hour and will leave about one-half of the water clear on top.
Old process oil meal will remain jelly-like."

Simple Remedy for LaGriffe.
LaGriffe coughs are dangerous as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the coughs but heals and strengthens the lungs so that no serious result need be feared. The gastine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Up-

"Well?"
"That housemaid making dabs at the furniture and never hitting it looks awful natural to me."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

STOMACH ACNE

You have more or less trouble with your stomach, your bowels and your liver—everybody does. And when these delicate and easily-disordered organs do get out of order, they are the worst things in the world to you. If you took the right kind of care of them, you wouldn't suffer, but you don't.

The only way you can correct the trouble you do have and prevent these parts from getting out of order is to use

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

Everybody knows that PEPsin is good for the stomach, but in combination with certain plant drugs by DR. CALDWELL'S formula, its natural value is highly increased.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPsin
is the best thing in the world for correcting and curing all forms of stomach trouble—you'll say so when you try it.
DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPsin
can be obtained in both dollar and half-dollar sizes at all druggists, and your money will be refunded if it fails to benefit you.

Saw Her Chance.
"No man shall ever kiss me except my future husband," said the girl as she was about to leave the gate.
"Suppose I agree to be your future?"
"Why, then, I'll kiss you," she said eagerly. And she did.
Her mother was informed that he had proposed, and the old lady called on him the next day to arrange matters, and before he knew it he was eternally locked. It was a very mean advantage, but a bird in the hand is worth two on the garden gate.

A Smooth Tongue.
"No, Mr. Smith," she said gently, but firmly, "I can never be your wife." Then he struggled to his feet and said in broken tones: "Are all my hopes to be thus dashed to pieces? Am I never to be known as the husband of the beautiful Mrs. Smith?" This was too much, and she succumbed.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol for Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest over 3,000 grains of food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Pleasant Grove.

Editor Banner—Please allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words. Health of this community is very good at present.
Say, boys, this is leap year, the girls must come to see us.
Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jackson were pleasant visitors to Mr. E. F. Jackson's Sunday.

Plantersville, Route 2.

Editor Banner—Will you allow me a space in your valuable paper to say a few words.
Mrs. Alice Ramsey spent last week with her mother, Mrs. R. P. Kendrick.
Health of this place is good except a few cases of measles.
We are very glad to see some good weather.
Say girls, I think you who smoke cigarettes had better be at some better business. The mail carrier of Route 2 says he never gets to Plantersville with less than 25 post cards. I guess some of the girls get plenty of cards to satisfy them.
Mr. Walter K. sold his buggy horse last week.
Girls, you had better begin to get about or the boys will beat your time.
Mr. W. K. visited kin folks at Jones last Sunday.
Well, I guess I better ring off for this time. With best wishes to the Banner and its readers.

"No Devils There Are But Men."

BY ENOS FRATUS.
The devil's in the community yet. And the sots had better rise up and get. There are plenty of church spies, preachers and equires.
And prophets and sires.
Yet the sots had better rise up and get. The devil's in the community yet.
At church, my sire, plenty of shouts are heard.
But this means naught and is quite absurd.
This shows the ignoramus.
And is quite erroneous.
Oh! it is infamous.
It means but naught and is quite absurd.
But bet you in church no lack of shouts is heard.
The devil's in the community yet.
You'd better rise up, old sot, and get.
In these auspicious times,
When poets make their rhymes
And we worship at intelligence's shrines Better rise up, old sot, and get.
You devil that's in the community yet.

Shoults.

Editor Banner—Please allow me a short space in your dear old paper to say a few words. Everything is getting along very well in this community.

I want to say a few words in regard to the young peoples' sociables and parties. In times I have heard that the boys were the leaders of the parties, but now I don't think so. Dear boys and girls, are you going to set such examples for the younger ones to follow hereafter? But I don't think the girls are in fault so much, it is simply mothers and fathers in fault. I know some girls that joined the church last summer and were baptized and now they will go six miles to a dance and wouldn't go one hundred yards to their church. It is not the dancing that is so much harm, but it is the result it leads to. Why don't we get up a good singing leader and go there and learn some good songs that will do us some good and make life merry and happy. So boys and girls, which side are you going to take, good or bad? Some boys and girls say it is no harm to dance, and I am going to have some fun. Soon their names are off of the church book and then you are satisfied. Dance on, girls and boys, the old bad boy is good for you all. I will stop for this time, with success to the Banner and its readers.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER
of the Signs He saw, and Some He Saw Not.

A malignant fate attends the effects of the anti bachelors to debate important question whether the bachelors shall take unto themselves or get out of town. On these rare occasions the time has been for the debate at the court house both sides are primed ready for fray. But each time the weather has sent us a deluge of rain,
a postponement, and bachelors are yet at liberty, although how long it is hard to say. The date is now set for to night (Sunday) weather permitting, it is devoutly to be hoped that fates will be propitious and let the question be settled.

The bachelors are in suspense;
they know what to do, and I feel
to put an end to the agency,
one among them would have nerved to say "No" if any young man should pop the question point to them to night. It is leap year and the opportunity is very rare. Announcements of approaching weddings will be putting in the Banner free, gratis for nothing. Who'll be the first to take advantage of this offer?

The steel bridge over Yellow-

Oak Grove.
We would think our little society dead or at least our reports but far from it we are alive and well.

Coming to there being no school Friday week before last, we had meeting of the school society.
Our teacher and two of her pupils, Ora Shaw and Annie Skipper, added the teachers' institute at Clanton. All report a fine time, especially the moonlight drive Friday night after the heavy torrents of rain.

Our school celebrated Washington's birthday Friday afternoon.
The national songs, America,
Dixie, the gem of the ocean,
and with Dixie and sketches of the life of Washington, his of our flag, its emblem and order. Many parents and visit-ers were present. Our school room draped in the colors red, white and blue.

Most all of our school was permeated the pleasure of meeting and hearing the Governor's lecture at Clanton Saturday night. This was a great day. The interest and enthusiasm of the people was something marvelous. We are proud of such a Governor as Hon. R. B. Comer.
Our worthy State Auditor,
Mr. Brandon.

The health of our community is better than has been for some time.
We regret to say that Mrs. J. E.
Dobson is very sick but we hope
she will soon recover.

Our school will continue to grow and our new parties have arrived from our last writing. A son at Richard Cobb's and a fair little daughter at Mr. O. O. Low-my's.

Mr. Manuel Northcutt of Rocky-mount spent Saturday night with Abb Martin.
The singing at Mr. Moriah Sunderland's was attended by a large crowd and the singing was very good.

Mr. Arthur Bledsoe of Talladega County home now on account of his being very sick and will return at home for several months.
We are glad to say Mr. Cleveland who has been sick is now to be up.

Miss Ethel Satley spent Friday night with her teacher, Miss Nellie Dobson.
Looking to see this in print we are off for this time.

Lawley

As it has been so long since I wrote anything to the Banner, I thought I would give a short reply to Mr. Latham's letter from Birmingham. Now, Mr. Latham, you asked what had become of the Latham generation at Lawley.
There are several generations of them here, but I don't know what ones you are speaking of. If you were trying to scrape up kinfolks in this part, you should have given some particular name of Latham so that I could give you more information about them. My name is Latham, but don't guess we are any kin as my people are all in Oklahoma, and I would have gone too if I could have held out to walk out there.

It seems that Big Ike's letter has very much impressed your mind.
Can't hardly tell whether you are on the tiger's side or Big Ike's.
Guess that you would like to be on the tiger's side for a little while as Birmingham is so dry, and then you would be ready to destroy him with Big Ike. It may be that Big Ike has laid away a supply and wants to kill the tiger so the rest can't get any.

Everybody is very anxious for the weather to open up so they can get to work. There has been very little plowing in this part of the world yet. Guess I had better close and see if this reaches Mr.
Latham of Birmingham. A. D. L.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready
to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him
with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

OVER 40 LIVES LOST

Fatal Accidents Near Berkeley, Cal., and in England.

POWDER WORKS EXPLOSION

Ten Tons of Dynamite Let Go Which Shook the Bay Region Around Berkeley Like an Earthquake—Flames Followed Explosion.

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 21.—With a force that shook the entire bay region like an earthquake, the packing house of the Hercules powder works at Alameda, 14 miles north of here, blew up on Thursday and in the explosion four white men and twenty-four Chinese were killed.

Ten tons of dynamite went up in the terrific blast, shattering the sheds to dust and splinters.

W. M. Sullivan, foreman of the packing house, was blown to atoms at his post of duty.

Manuel Enos, Joseph Grace and W. A. Rodriguez were the other white men killed.

The twenty-eight dead included every man who was at work in the packing house.

Flames burst forth in the ruins following the explosion, and threatened the gelatine house, where two scores of girls were at work.

A panic ensued, and many were cut by flying glass and crushed and trampled in the mad rush for the doors.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, Feb. 21.—Fourteen miners lost their lives by an explosion in the Glebe pit in the village of Washington Thursday night.

There were fifteen men in the mine at the time of the accident, and only one escaped.

Shortly before the explosion occurred 500 miners ascended from the pit.

MAY ACCEPT INVITATION.

Non-Partisan Dinner To Be Given In Honor of Governor Johnson.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—Governor Johnson Thursday night sent his reply to Congressman F. C. Stevens, at Washington, in answer to an inquiry whether the governor would accept an invitation to a complimentary non-partisan dinner in his honor to be given in Washington.

Governor Johnson says that he knows of nothing that would take him to Washington before May 14, when he will attend the conference of governors called by President Roosevelt to discuss the conservation of the natural resources of the country. If in the meantime he should find it necessary to go to Washington, he would be pleased to accept the invitation.

FATAL MINE ACCIDENT.

Ice Fell Down Shaft, Killing Two Men Outright.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 21.—While the miners were being lowered into the Stanton mine of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company Thursday a large quantity of ice in the shaft fell, striking the hood of the cage and demolishing it.

Two of the men were killed outright, one died on the way to a hospital and three others, it is believed, will die from their injuries.

GAVE ELABORATE RECEPTION.

American Minister at Madrid Entertained Spanish Grandees.

Madrid, Feb. 21.—W. M. Collier, the American minister to Spain, gave a specially elaborate reception Thursday night.

The American legation was sumptuously decorated and the affair was attended by the Spanish nobility, members of the diplomatic corps, members of parliament, military officials and Spanish grandees.

Department Changes.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The postmaster general has appointed Charles A. Conrad, of Kentucky, to be chief clerk of the postoffice department to succeed Merritt O. Chance, of Illinois, recently appointed auditor of the treasury department for the postoffice department. Robert H. Prender, of the District of Columbia, has been appointed chief clerk of the office of the fourth assistant postmaster general to succeed Mr. Conrad.

Cashier Gets Three Years.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 21.—Alex B. Butt, cashier of the wrecked People's Bank of Portsmouth, Va., Thursday pleaded guilty on three of the twenty-two indictments against him, and after making restitution to the depositors to the extent of $37,000 on the total shortage of $252,066, was sentenced by Judge Bain to three years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $7,184.

Killed on a Trestle.

Albany, Ga., Feb. 21.—A white man who was run down Wednesday night on the trestle leading to the Atlantic Coast Line bridge across the Flint river here, whose identity was a matter of mystery until identified at last as Augustus Hurst, was many years ago sheriff of Thomas county and a terror to desperate criminals.

DETECTIVES LONG CHASE.

Pursued Man Across Continent and Then Back Again.

New York, Feb. 21.—The arrest here Thursday night of James A. Baker, charged with killing S. Y. Hutchinson, a telegraph operator at Clarington, W. Va., and robbing the railway station at that point, came after a chase to San Francisco and back to New York, which was participated in by Postoffice Inspector Kincaid and Detectives Rigor and Moss, of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The officers say that Baker, whose name is in Columbus, O., confessed to the killing of Hutchinson, Dec. 9, and to the robbery of a number of postoffices and railroad stations.

The officers say that Baker is of good family and is an amateur at robbery. They believe that he began his systematic looting of small postoffices and express offices only in November last. He has worked, they say, under a number of aliases, among them "J. C. Cole," "C. C. Rogers," "J. H. Young," "H. C. Wilson" and "R. C. Noel."

It was while asking for mail at the New York postoffice under the latter name that he was arrested.

The detectives say that they have discovered that under the latter name he is engaged to marry a girl of good family in Pittsburg whose name they refuse to divulge.

CROP MAY BE SHORT.

Early Fruits and Vegetables Damaged By the Blizzard.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21.—Early fruits and vegetables, mostly intended for shipment to the north, have been badly damaged by the cold weather of the last two days, which arrived on the gulf coast simultaneously with the blizzard in the north.

Reports from southern Mississippi and Louisiana are that strawberries, which are in bloom, have been injured, and that lettuce, radishes and peas have also suffered. Peach, pear and orange trees escaped because the buds had not yet opened. Long Beach, Miss., which is on the gulf shore, reported ice half an inch thick.

MOTOR CAR PLANT BURNED.

Loss of $300,000 at Dayton, Ohio, Covered by Insurance.

Dayton, O., Feb. 21.—The plant of the Dayton Motor Car company with its contents was destroyed by fire on Friday morning. The loss is estimated at $300,000, covered by insurance. While the cause of the blaze is not known, it is supposed to have been due to spontaneous combustion. The flames made rapid progress, and the entire local fire department battled for many hours before subduing them.

Ten newly finished automobiles, valued at $3,000 each, were consumed.

Railroads to Reduce Wages.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 21.—A special to the News from Bristol states that the Southern railroad has ordered a reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of all employees in Bristol effective March 1. The Virginia and Northwestern will also cut 10 per cent on March 1. The Norfolk and Western, which has granted two voluntary advances of 10 per cent within the past two years, has not yet made a reduction.

Aero Clubs to Meet.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Delegates from over twenty aero clubs throughout the country will meet in Chicago Feb. 22-23, when the Federation of American aero clubs will be formed. Many of the aeronautical celebrities in the United States will be in attendance. An informal dinner will be tendered the delegates at the Chicago Automobile club at which a number of addresses will be made.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

The comptroller of the currency has issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business on February 14 last.

William Handy, a South Carolina, was hanged at Easton, Pa., for the murder of Policeman Shuman, of South Bethlehem, last summer.

President Pullman, of the National League of Baseball clubs, announces the release by Pittsburgh to Atlanta (Southern league) of Thomas Philbin.

Sam W. Small, one of the best known newspaper men in the United States, has gone back to editorial work, and is now the leading writer on the Cairo Evening American, published at Cairo, Ill.

Announcement has been made that on Feb. 29 the Southern Brewers' association will meet in New Orleans to discuss the campaign in favor of prohibition now general throughout the south. The conference is expected to last several days.

Brigadier General Francis S. Dodge, U. S. A., retired, who was awarded a medal of honor by congress for distinguished gallantry at the battle of White River, in Colorado, in the Indian campaign in the sixties, died at Washington, D. C.

William H. Johnson, a negro, was hanged at Philadelphia for the murder of his wife, whom he shot eighteen months ago because of jealousy. After the drop fell Johnson struggled so violently that he kicked his shoes off and they dropped several feet from the gallows.

$100,000 FIRE LOSS

Serious Blaze Occurred at New Orleans, La.

BUSINESS AREA THREATENED

Julius Weiss Buildings, Common and Varities Streets, Were Gutted—Occupied Principally by Law and Real Estate Firms.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21.—Fire which broke out here Saturday morning for a time seriously threatened a large part of the city's business district.

The Julius Weiss buildings, on Common and Varities place, where the fire originated, were gutted and several adjoining buildings were slightly damaged.

The Weiss buildings were occupied principally by lawyers and real estate firms.

The loss is estimated at $100,000.

TOWN IS FIRE-SWEEPED.

Russellville, Ala., Is Visited by Severe Conflagration—Loss $40,000.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 21.—The entire eastside of the business section of Russellville, Ala., in the northwest portion of the state, was destroyed by fire at 1 o'clock Saturday morning. The bank building is the only building left standing.

The Commercial hotel, valued at $6,000, the stores of Douglas, Wilson and McIntosh, two barber shops and the Clark building, went down in ashes. The loss is estimated at $40,000, with $10,000 insurance.

SENATOR LATTIMER'S FUNERAL.

Delegations from Both Houses of Congress Attended.

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 21.—The funeral of the late Senator Asbury Churchill Lattimer, who died in Washington Thursday, was held in the Methodist church at Belton, near here, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. R. L. Holdroyd, pastor of the deceased, officiated. The floral tributes were numerous, among the most conspicuous being the one sent by the immigration commission, and the one sent by the guests of the Congress hotel, Washington.

There were present funeral delegations from congress and both houses of the South Carolina legislature, besides representatives from various commercial organizations in the state.

REFORMS FOR MEXICO.

Will Be Especially Made in Financial Questions.

Mexico City, Feb. 21.—Mexico is on the eve of great financial reforms. Jose Yves Limantour, minister of finance and public credit, has been in negotiation and in conference with the leading financial, commercial and banking men of the republic for several weeks.

The result of these conferences has been declared in a circular which has just been issued by the department of finance, making an exposition of the aims and desires of the government and calling a conference of banking men in the near future to devise ways and means for the reform of the public credit system.

Boston Sculptress Dead.

Boston, Feb. 21.—Miss Harriet Hosmer, the sculptress, died Friday at her home in Watertown after an illness of three weeks. Miss Hosmer was born in Watertown in 1830 and spent most of her life in the art centers of Europe, returning to her old home a few years ago. Marble statues modeled by Miss Hosmer stand in many of the leading cities of Europe and the United States.

Belmont's Daughter Asphyxiated.

New York, Feb. 21.—Mrs. William Profit Burden, who was Natica Rivera, daughter of O. H. P. Belmont and a society favorite in New York, Newport and Washington, was found dead in bed at her Fifth avenue home Friday. Death, the coroner decided, was accidental and due to gas poisoning.

Refuse to Call Whisky Election.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 21.—The county commissioners have refused to call a special prohibition election on the grounds that the petition sent in by the anti-saloon people did not contain the names of a sufficient number of registered voters.

Man Cleared of Killing Woman.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 21.—John Dagman, accused of the murder of Maude Parsons, killed during an alleged lovers' quarrel in a house in Birmingham, was acquitted.

Cabinet Factory Burned.

New York, Feb. 21.—The cabinet factory of Edward B. Jordan and company, in Brooklyn, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday, causing a loss of $100,000.

Railroad Shops Closed.

Sedalia, Mo., Feb. 21.—The Missouri Pacific shops here, employing seven hundred men, were closed Friday until March 2.

ALONE WITH CORPSE.

Seven Days in Lighthouse With Dead Companion.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 21.—Flooding in terror over long stretches of treacherous ice from the Toledo harbor light house, where for seven days he had been imprisoned with the dead body of Captain Deane Hayden, Joe Berner reached the city Thursday night. He brought the news of the death to friends and relatives, telling of the nerve-racking vigil beside the dying man in the lonely lighthouse, and his still more terrifying experience while watching over the dead body waiting for a turn in the weather which might permit his escape over the ice.

Hayden was conscious to the last, and left a message for each of his relatives and friends. He died in his faithful companion's arms. Berner placed the body in one of the lower rooms of the lighthouse and began his wait for an opportunity to reach shore. Around the lighthouse the ice was firm under the snow, and when Berner started out early Wednesday afternoon he had strong hopes of reaching the shore in safety. Yet the trip was extremely perilous, he being not even equipped with a pike pole with which to sound the ice.

Many times he fell into air holes, going into water and frequently he escaped by the merest chance.

FLORIDA DEMOCRATS.

Presidential Electors Will Be Elected by Primary.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 21.—There will be no democratic convention in Florida. A primary election will be held May 29, at which delegates to the Denver convention will be chosen, candidates making individual announcements. At the same time candidates will be nominated for presidential elector, United States senator, congressmen from the three districts and the state and county officers.

The Taft faction of republicans has already selected delegates to the Chicago convention, with the exception of the third congressional district, in which the convention has not yet been called.

Anti-Taft republicans have selected delegates from the state at large, but delegates from the congressional districts have not yet been named.

Socialists and prohibitionists have not yet announced the date of their conventions.

CANNOT SHIP TO DRY TOWNS.

So Rules Judge Richardson, of Alabama—Roads Await Decision.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 21.—Railroad officers are worked up over the charge of Judge J. C. Richardson, of a neighboring circuit, that any shipment of liquors from outside as well as in the state, are violations of the antishipping act, which provides against taking intoxicants from a selling territory into dry sections.

It had been thought that it could not be made to apply to interstate shipments, but this judge says it can, on the ground that every state may provide its own police protection. This will affect many cities near the state line if held to be good, those places having saloons set up to ship to the dry territory in Alabama and Georgia. Many roads have stopped movements of liquors awaiting decision.

VETERAN EDITOR DIES.

Crosby S. Noyes Lays Aside Pen After Long Service.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 21.—Crosby S. Noyes, editor of the Washington Evening Star, died shortly after 2:30 p. m. Friday at the Hotel Raymond, Pasadena, where he had been ill for some time. Mr. Noyes, who was surrounded by the members of his family at the time of his death, retained his faculties to the last.

Mr. Crosby Stuart Noyes was 83 years of age, and no less than sixty years of his manhood had been spent in the newspaper business.

Released on $10,000 Bond.

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 21.—George C. Scudamore, former cashier of the Pensacola Bank and Trust company who is charged with embezzling $40,000 of the bank's funds and who was recently adjudged insane by a lunacy commission, has been released from custody of the sheriff, his friends giving bond in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance at the next term of court, to be tried upon the charge of embezzlement and forgery, provided he is then sane.

Wreck on B. & O.

Connellsville, Pa., Feb. 21.—Train No. 9, from New York to Pittsburgh, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was wrecked at Salisbury Junction Saturday morning. With the exception of the engine, mail car and first baggage car, the train was derailed. According to local officials of the road, one passenger, Ralph Leonard, of the university of New York, was injured. The cause of the accident is not known.

Fire in City Hall.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 21.—Fire, of an unknown origin, broke out in the council chamber in the city hall on Saturday morning and the building narrowly escaped total destruction. The council chamber was practically destroyed, while nearly the entire building was water soaked. Many valuable public records were badly damaged.

SEN LATTIMER IS DEAD

South Carolinian Passes Away After Short Illness.

DIED AT WASHINGTON CITY

Senator Lattimer Was Taken Ill Only a Few Days Ago and Was Operated on for Appendicitis—Family Present When End Came.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Senator Asbury C. Lattimer, of South Carolina, died at his home in Washington Thursday.

Senator Lattimer had been at the hospital since Saturday, when he underwent an operation for appendicitis. It was reported that he was suffering with a serious ailment. The news of his coming illness and his condition was found to be such that he had little hope for recovery. He rallied, however, and by Wednesday evening, when steadily he began to grow worse. At midnight it appeared that recovery was impossible.

The members of the senator's family were with him when he died, having been informed that there was little hope that he would survive the night. Colonel Randall, sergeant at arms of the senate, at once made arrangements for the removal of the body to the Lattimer home at Belton, S. C. Senator Tillman announced the death of his colleague when the senate convened Thursday, after which the senate immediately adjourned. A committee of the senate will be appointed by the vice president to accompany the body to South Carolina.

BOLD DIAMOND ROBBERY.

In Broad Daylight Men Take Tray of Valuable Jewels.

New Orleans, Feb. 20.—A $15,000 robbery in broad daylight in the heart of New Orleans, with hundreds of persons passing at the time, was perpetrated here Wednesday afternoon at the jewelry store of M. Waldhorn & Co., Conti and Royal streets.

Two men drove up in front of the store in a buggy. One of them alighted and smashed one of the large plate glass windows in the front of the establishment. He quickly seized two trays filled with diamonds, and jumping back into the buggy, was driven off. A large crowd started in pursuit, but men, buggy and horse were soon lost to sight in a cloud of dust in the old French quarters.

The proprietors of the jewelry store say the trays contained 112 diamond rings, whose value was between $15,000 and $20,000.

FATAL END TO FEUD.

Kills His Neighbor and Then Surrenders to Officers of Law.

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 20.—A special to the Sentinel from Sergeant, Ky., says: At Stewart's Branch, a few miles west of here in Knott county, "Lid" Stewart shot and killed William Stamper, his near neighbor. The killing was the result of a feud of several years' standing.

Stewart then walked three miles to an officer to give himself up. He will be given an examining trial on Friday.

SHOT WIFE; THEN SUICIDES.

Tragedy at Supper Table of Wealthy Colorado Farmer.

Hotchkiss, Colo., Feb. 21.—Insane with rage because he objected to him scolding one of their children, M. U. Stoneburner, aged forty-one, a prominent and wealthy farmer, living near this city, Friday night shot and fatally wounded his wife and then placed the still smoking revolver against his breast and committed suicide before his six children seated around the supper table.

Furnace Resumes Operations.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 20.—With the blowing in of the iron furnace at Holt, Ala., Wednesday, four foundry firms have resumed operations since Jan. 1. The total in the state in operation is sixteen, of which nine are in Jefferson county. Iron sales continue to be fairly in small lots. The reorganization committee of the Southern Steel company will meet in New York about March 1, when plans will be announced for putting the numerous plants of this company into operation.

Alabama State Fair.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 20.—President A. G. Forbes, of the State Fair association, says that good progress is being made for the fair this fall. The debts are being arranged and the work of getting buildings in shape will soon begin. Secretary Tait is just now in the east looking after the racing events.

Casks of Gold Found.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 20.—A private dispatch received here from Kamensk, in Podolia, reports the discovery in an ancient quarry, of a quantity of gold contained in thirteen casks and estimated to be worth $750,000. It is thought that this treasure was hidden in this quarry centuries ago at the time of the Tartar invasion.

Young Folks

THEIR WISHES GRANTED

Story of Three Indian Brothers Who Became Trees.
There were three Indian brothers who went to see the land of life and win their hearts' desire. One, though tall and thin, wished to be taller still. He had tried in many ways to make him self taller, because he wished to be admired and looked up to by smaller people and win the love of the beauti ful Indians of his tribe. To make him self look taller than he really was he put soft clay into his moccasins to raise him on his feet, and he plastered up his hair to stand high, and on top of it was a long turkey tail. But what he wished for was to be taller still.

The second brother asked that he might live always, where he might be hold all the beauty of the land and rest in peace forever; the third brother asked to live to a great age and al ways to be healthy till he died.

Now, when the lord of life heard what they desired he summoned his servant, the earthquake, and com manded him to set them firmly with their feet fast planted in the ground, and when this was done the three brothers were turned to pine trees.
The lord of life paid heed to their wishes, for he gave them what they most desired.

He who would be tall overtopped all the trees in the forest; even the turkey tail was not forgotten. It waves to this hour, and on summer days the giant tree sways and murmurs with pride.

The second brother, who wished to dwell in peace upon the earth, will do so while he is rooted to the ground, and the third, who wished to live to the end in perfect health, is still stand ing straight and sturdy in the forest.—

Proper Use of Cold Cream

To say that the use of cold cream as a face cleanser makes the hair grow is an exploded fallacy, says a noted skin specialist. "There is no reason to leave the cream on the face over night. Five minutes is plenty of time.
Then rub it off with a soft cloth and wash in warm water, using a dash of cold before drying. This method keeps the skin smooth and clean without en larging the pores and cultivating black heads, nor does it make the face deli cate for winter winds.

"If grease made the hair grow so easily as some people believe, would there be any baldheaded men or would women use so much false hair? Think about that and all your fears will be set at rest."

Keep Bills

It is well to keep every bill, paid or not, for an indefinite period. One never knows when mistakes may occur or when dishonesty may be attempted.
The steel bill files are all very well, though they are not remarkable for their neatness or order, but a better way is to use a large scrap book and paste the bills in alphabetical order, according to the names of those by whom they are preferred, therein. If possible, it would be well to prepare the leaves like those of an address book, so that it would be easy to find any bill at any time. Of course this is only a cheaper homemade substitute for a regular letter file, which is the very best thing for the purpose.

"Kitchen Minded"

This epithet is applied to women who are too much engrossed with domestic affairs. The world is evidently meant as a reproach. No doubt there are women who give too much time to the kitchen, as there are others who give too little. Who will undertake to de cide just how much time is enough?
That a woman should grow like the place in which she spends most of her time is not strange. She might be come parlor minded, but many of us, like George Eliot, enjoy a clean kitchen best of all. What we all need is broad contact with life along with our spe cialty, so that we may always be hu man minded.—Circle.

Silks in Silk

Silk bedclothes are the latest fad.
Sheets and pillowcases are made of the purest silk, and the pillowcases are gorgeously embroidered.

Of course only very rich people can afford to indulge in the luxury, for the sheets cost anywhere from $20 to $250
a pair, according to the amount of em broidery on them.

Honestly, have you ever?

Superstitions on Cutting the Nails

Cut them on Monday, you cut them for health;
Cut them on Tuesday, you cut them for wealth;
Cut them on Wednesday, you cut them for news;
Cut them on Thursday, a pair of new shoes;
Cut them on Friday, you cut them for sor row;
Cut them on Saturday, see your true love
tomorrow;
Cut them on Sunday, bad luck will be with you all the week.

After Oiling a Sewing Machine It Not

infrequently happens that a drop of oil which has not been absorbed stains
the material which is being stitched.
To remove the mark a lather made with soap, cold water and a tablespoon ful of ammonia will usually prove suc cessful, but in the case of colored lin ens and cottons the ammonia should be employed cautiously, as it is apt to fade the color.

There is an old axiom that we ought not to judge by appearances, so we may well ask, "What else is there left for us to judge by when taking our earliest impressions of a person's char acter, since the face is the first thing that, as a rule, attracts us, and we in stinctively feel that it ought to be the mirror of the mind?"—Woman's Life.

Ells of Cloth

A Lively and Interesting Game For Boys

This amusing game is called "ells of cloth" and may be played by any number of boys, all of whom, excepting two, stand in a row, holding hands and stretching as widely apart as their arms will permit. The two not in the row are called the "merchant" and the "weaver," and the boys in the row re present ells of cloth. They stand as described. The merchant goes down the line, looking at each boy as if ex amining the cloth before purchasing.
Having measured the cloth by taking each "ell" by the hands, he turns away
and goes away as if to get his money.
Then each boy clasps the one next to him around the waist, and they all stand close together, with the weaver at the head of the line held around the waist by the first "ell."

When the merchant comes back, he is told that the cloth is now folded,
and he must unfold it if he wishes to complete his purchase. He takes the weaver by the hands and by pulling him about tries to make some of the "ells" let go. Any one that does let go must stand aside until only one re mains besides the weaver, and this one may be either the merchant or the weaver in the next game, as he pleases.
The game is a pretty lively one and full of fun.

Conundrums

Why is a newborn baby like a do

Why are gloves unsalable articles?
Because they are made to be kept on

What is the most warlike nation?
Vaccination, because it is generally kept in arms.

What part of the locomotive requires the most attention? The "tender" part, of course.

Song of the Pirate

A pirate, a pirate, a pirate I will be!
In stormy ways
I'll spend my days—
A pirate's life for me!
Upon the main
I'll look for gain,
I'll sail the broad seas o'er,
I'll store my hold with gold, and then I'll make the people tremble when They see me come ashore!

A pirate, a pirate, a pirate I will be!

On decks that rock
I'll swing my cutlass high!
I'll swiftly sail
Before the gale
I'll sweep the stormy sea.
And when the day's dark work is done
I'll reef my sails and meekly run
To kneel at mother's knee.
—S. E. Kiser in New York Tribune.

Human Stomach Has Become Degenerate

Animals Are Healthier Because of Strong Digestive Apparatus.

An interesting interview was re cently obtained with L. T. Cooper, the young man whose theory and medi cine have created such a commotion
during the past year.

Mr. Cooper, in speaking of the re markable success of his medicine, had this to say on the subject: "My medi cine regulates the stomach. That is why it is successful. The human stom ach today has become degenerate, and is the cause for most ill health. In the horse, the dog, and the wild ani mal generally, you see no nerve ex haustion, no chronic debility. They are not shut up day after day with practically no exercise, and they are not able to stuff themselves with food
when their bodies have not had enough work to justify it. The human race has been doing this for years, and look at the result—half the people are complaining of poor health, not real illness—just a half-sick, tired, droopy feeling. They don't really know what is the matter with them."

"I know that all the trouble is caused by weak, overworked stom achs. I have proved this with my medicine to many thousands of peo ple in most of the leading cities of this country. I expect to do the same thing in Europe next year. This is the real reason for the demand for my preparation."

Among those who have recently been converted to Cooper's theory is
Mr. Monroe Brown of 8 Hancock Street, Winchester, Mass. Mr. Brown has this to say of his experience with

When Cooper was in Boston I heard a good deal about his ideas on stomach trouble. Next, one or two friends told me that his medicines had greatly helped them. I purchased some of the New Discovery medicine.

Today I am perfectly well; I sleep like a boy, can eat anything and have no rheumatism or heart trouble. I no longer have any gas on my stomach, and feel as I did years ago. No one could be more astonished by these facts than myself. They are remark able, but true. This is indeed a won derful medicine."

The Cooper preparations have been more widely sold and discussed since being introduced than anything of the kind ever before sold by druggists. We sell them and explain their nature—

of Mrs. Lou Roberts, who died Feb. 8, leaving a devoted husband and four small children, mother, grand-mother, with a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. Death, like a cruel monster, enters our homes and bears away our loved ones, leaving his dark and gloomy shadow resting upon our hearts. But when he lays his hand on the mother we are indeed bereaved. Still, when with the eye of faith we look upward and see her resting in the green pasture of heaven, we know that death to her was a friend, a messenger sent to relieve her from her suffering that she might be borne to the bosom of a loving and tender Shepherd. She seemed to realize that the end was near. She called her loved ones to her and gave them tender warning and loving counsel, urging them to meet her in heaven. When nearer the dark river she did not shrink from its cold wave, calmly looking to the other side she seemed to see the Saviour's loving arms outstretched to bear her over the wave to meet loved ones gone before. Mrs. Roberts was 27 years of age. She joined the Baptist church quite early in life and lived a consistent member. We know the end was peace and she died triumphant in the Lord. We do not feel we could speak any consoling words or fill the vacancy of this dear one. Remember, the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away, and our loss is her eternal gain.

ing before and after plowing. In the greenhouse produce the best cut- ting in case the stock plants are at hand it is generally ad- vised to transplant them to the open ground. Such plants will be in abundance of good material within two weeks. It is when the cutting material is in quantity to utilize also the whole and lower portions of the plants. In any case two or three nodes should be included in each cutting, the lower node being the base to facilitate it. It is possible to secure a second cutting from the original plant when they have grown to twice the original height, usually about two weeks after potting. The upper portion of the original stems are best cut off at this second series of cut- tings as the terminal growth is not yet set.

ings should be inserted in sand, then the largest roots are three- fourths of an inch in length they are transferred to two-inch pots for on to three-inch pots. The plants should be able to attain in- dependent root system without bound- ing them to be transplanted to permanent nursery rows, if the plants are suitable, or to an outside frame to remain dormant till the cuttings are made. The water, greenhouse facili- ties desirable, though not essential, beside with thirty square feet of greenhouse space and ninety square feet of cold frames to secure during a winter, 1,000 plants from an al- plant of average size. In the southern portions of the United States conditions of the weather may be such as to permit of transfer to out- side frames. In the southern por- tions of the country cold frame pro- tection may not be necessary, but some should be adopted to protect the plants from other sources of danger. The efficiency of the method is by the fact that at least 95 per cent of the plants survive.

PERUVIAN ALFALFA IN GREENHOUSE.

of alfalfa cuttings become well rooted in the pots. The newly potted plants should be watered sparingly shaded from direct sunlight for two days. Where it has been necessary to transfer the plants to cold frames at Washington in midwinter they have been as high as 10 per cent of the sudden change of temperature. Cloth protection is recommended as the plants, having been in the greenhouse, are likely to suffer. No losses resulted on one plant in the transfer of 1,800 plants to permanent nursery rows five feet apart. The tops were cut back to the ground in height before being placed in the cold frames. It is hoped that the method suggested will stimulate the work of alfalfa growers in the country.—Bureau of Industry.

Emmer For Cows.
Some feeding experiments with emmer required two pounds of emmer to produce a pound of fat than it did of barley or corn. Conditions being equal. The emmer gained in weight of eight- eighths of a pound during the period. Consumed one-third more of em- mer head daily than did the long- eared barley or corn. The cows well on the emmer ration.

SEED CORN.

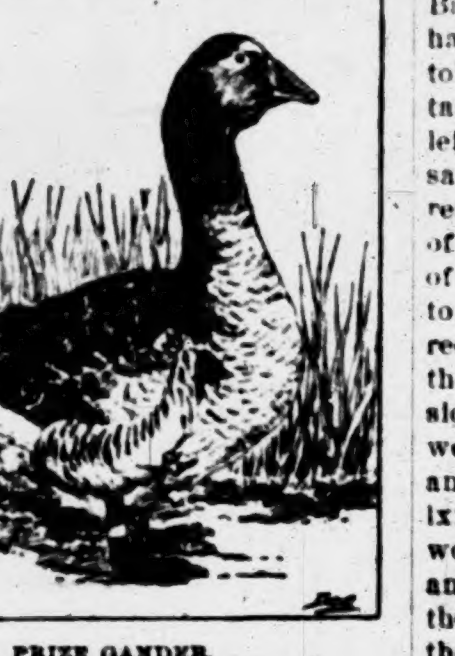

Not a Difficult Matter to Determine Vitality of Corn.

There is serious danger that this year's corn crop will be limited by a poor stand of plants.
Many growers will be compelled to buy seed. In such cases do not risk purchases from a different latitude. If good seed of a productive variety cannot be bought near home, then make sure that the seed has been grown in a section having a similar growing season, advises a writer in National Stockman and Farmer. Even if the corn is sold as tested seed buy early enough to enable you to make a test for yourself before planting.

The First Thing to Do.
The first thing to do is to test the corn that one is planning to use. It will pay to do this right. Make some boxes three inches deep and say, eight- even inches square. Partly fill with sawdust or any other material that will hold moisture. Place on this a square of muslin that is marked in one inch squares and numbered. On each square place four kernels of corn taken from different parts of the ear, one square for each ear that is to be tested. Give the ear the same number as the square by writing the number on a slip of paper and tying it around the ear. Cover the corn in a box with a pad that will hold the moisture, and keep the box in a warm room. Select for planting only the ears whose sam- ple kernels have shown strong germi- nating power. If one kernel in four fails to germinate, or if the germina- tion is slow and weak, reject the ear. The task of testing is not nearly so great as these directions may indicate, and in this way one may know that all the seed is capable of making a strong growth of plants.

It Pays Every Year.
It pays every year, but this year it will be unusually profitable. Much corn will not grow at all, and very much will germinate only under most favorable conditions, and some cold, wet weather after planting will rot it. Make sure of the rejection of all seed that is not full of vitality, and this method of testing will enable any one to do so.

Toulouse Gander.
Few if any birds exhibited at poultry shows and fairs can present a record equal to that of the gander whose pen portrait, from New England Home-

PRIER GANDER.

stead, here appears. For eight years he has maintained the right to his name, Madison Boy, by winning first premium at Madison Square Garden, New York, every season—eight first premiums at America's greatest poultry show! Besides these prizes he has won first at other large shows and is pronounced by breeders and judges to be a remarkable bird. He was bred by Clarence W. King, president of the Water Fowl Club of America, and is a native of the Empire State.

The Gardener's Early Work.

Not much is done in the gardening line on the average farm in February, but those who make a business of market gardening are actively getting their hotbeds ready and planting with vegetables to be forced for the early market. In the Boston district lettuce and radishes are the main reliance for this purpose in the early hotbeds. Later tomato plants and cucumbers are started to be set in the ground at the approach of warm weather. Cabbages for the early crop are planted about the middle of February. Tomatoes intended to be transplanted in the open ground are not planted until the very last of the month, but some are planted early when intended to be transplanted into greenhouses.

In sowing seeds some very fine earth should be planted free from lumps and pebbles. They may be started in boxes in a warm room in a house if desired, although they will not grow so fast as in a hotbed.—American Cultivator.

Sowing Spring Oats.

As a rule we much prefer to sow oats in the fall, but owing to the con- tinued rains very few farmers succeeded in planting a sufficient area, and many have failed to sow any. Now oats are one of the most profitable crops we can grow, especially when follow- ed by peas sown for hay. Owing to the depressed times, the high value of foodstuff and the probability of cheap- er cotton next fall it behooves the farmers to sow a large area in spring oats. Put them in as early as possi- ble.—Southern Cultivator.

Combating Glanders.

In combating glanders the general practice is to destroy horses which are positively known to be affected with the disease and to quarantine those which are merely suspected of being affected.

Cornstalk Litter.

The refuse from cornstalks that have been shredded as food for cattle, to- gether with cut straw, makes good bed- ding for the cow.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IX.—First Quarter, For March 1, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John vi, 1-21.
Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text, Isa. xl, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1907, by American Bible Association.]

Whether we read in the law, the prophets or the Psalms or the New Testament, we see God revealing Him- self in Christ and working His mighty works and speaking His mighty words which we are to lay to heart and declare to all people. For these things people hunger even as when the multitude followed Jesus in the time of our lesson, and though His precious truths may be set forth by very weak and unworthy in- struments, He so honors His own word that the hungering ones are blessed and made a blessing. This I see from year to year in all the classes, and have seen just the same in Japan, China, India, South Africa and many parts of our own land, and I cannot but believe firmly that our Lord is still saying to His redeemed every- where concerning the multitudes who have no bread of life, "Give ye them to eat," and when we are tempted to consider how little we have to do it with He says concerning what seems to be our where-withal of time or strength or money, "Bring them hither to Me" (Matt. xiv, 16, 18). It should never be a question of what we have or what we can do, but only of al- ways who is He and what can He do. Our part is to yield and let Him work, to trust and obey, our hearts ever saying, "Thine is the kingdom, O Lord," and in Thine hand is power and might. "There is nothing too hard for Thee" (1 Chron. xxix, 11, 12; Jer. xxxii, 17). The multitudes fol- lowed because they saw (verse 2), and those without must have something which they can see; hence the neces- sity of good works profitable to men (Tit. iii, 8). For believers the good word is "Blessed are they that have not seen, yet have believed" (John xx, 29).

At the time of our lesson John the Baptist had been killed, his disciples had buried his body, the apostles had told Jesus all that they had done and taught, and because they had no leisure so much as to eat Jesus had said, "Come apart to a desert place and rest awhile" (Mark vi, 29-31). Instead of rest they found a multitude, many of whom were perhaps on their way to the Passover at Jerusalem, and Jesus received them and spake unto them of the kingdom of God and healed their sick (Luke ix, 10, 11; John vi, 4). If we saw the kingdom as Jesus saw it—and still sees it—as set forth in Pa. ixlii, Isa. xxv and elsewhere, we would be more zealous to hasten it and therefore less apt to say, "Send them away," and more ready to "give them to eat" at any cost.

From the beginning Jesus always knew just what He would do and when and how He would do it, and when we have learned to dwell with Him for His work we cease to ask when and how, but just watch the way, and watch to see what He will say and hold ourselves ready to obey His every word and to do as occasion serves us.

When we find ourselves face to face with a difficulty we should remember that it is that He may show His power and glorify His name, and then we would not presume to make sugges- tions as Philip and Andrew did. With their 200 pence to buy sufficient bread to give every one a little and the few loaves and fishes not worth men- tioning, they remind us of the mountain and the small things of Zech. iv, 7, 10, and also of the walled cities and giants which terrified Israel and the little city of Ai, which they feared not, but which proved too much for them.

When there were no further sugges- tions from the disciples, then Jesus quietly and orderly did what He in- tended and always knew that He would, and, having received what the disciples had looked to heaven for the Father's blessing, He allows the disciples to bear to the multitude who were seated in companies on the grass sufficient to fill them all and leave twelve baskets full over. Thus He manifested our insufficiency and His all sufficiency—the great lesson we are so slow to learn. He might work without us, but He graciously sees fit to use us when we are willing. This particular miracle depended upon the disciples' surrender of all that they had— even that which seemed really to be need— and who can tell what mighty things He will work in our individual lives when we are as fully surrendered to Him as the disciples were? Let us note again—and with prayer- ful consideration—that this is the only miracle recorded by each of the four evangelists, or perhaps better, in each of the four gospels, and ask: What is the great lesson here for my soul? I am persuaded that in my own life this miracle and the story of this life is back of all this Bible class and mis- sionary work in which the Lord has so graciously and wondrously given me a partnership with Himself.

Some one has said that this story sets forth the one business of the church in this age—giving forth the bread of life—while that which follows in Mat- thew, Mark and John, the disciples fol- lowing in rowing against a head wind with Jesus away on the mountain top in prayer, suggests the condition of the church while the Lord continues on the Father's right hand.

We are having some pleasant weather at this writing and the farmers are hustling around pre- paring for farming.

Mr. John Bearden's family has been very sick; hope they will soon be well.
Miss Beulah Bearden visited the Misses Klinger, Sunday.
Mr. Neely Burnett has moved his family in our settlement; we are glad to have them in our midst.
Mr. Charley King was all smiles the fourth Sunday and so was Miss M. S.

Mrs. N. C. Head has been spend- ing awhile with her sister, Mrs. Mary Mize, and is now spending awhile with her son at Lawley.
Misses Lena and Willie Walker spent Sunday with Misses Bessie and Eva Hall.

Mrs. Mollie McGee spent Satu- day evening with Mrs. James Moore at Shepherd's mill.

If it was in my power to get rid of it I would do so. Just think how many mothers there are who go to bed at night and can't sleep nor rest, so afraid her child is there and may come home drunk. It causes trouble in more than one home. It is bad enough to drink the stuff and worse to buy it from the class they do. The made a gain in weight of eight pounds per head during the period. consumed one-third more of emmer bread daily than did the long barley or corn. The cows sell on the emmer ration.

SEED CORN.
 Not a Difficult Matter to Determine Vitality of Corn.
 There is serious danger that this year's corn crop will be limited by a poor standard of plantings.
 Many growers will be compelled to buy seed. In such cases do not risk purchases from a different latitude. If good seed of a productive variety cannot be bought near home, then make sure that the seed has been grown in a section having a similar growing season, advises a writer in National Stockman and Farmer. Even if the corn is sold as tested seed buy early enough to enable you to make a test for yourself before planting.

The First Thing to Do.
 The first thing to do is to test the corn that one is planning to use. It will pay to do this right. Make some boxes three inches deep and say, eighteen inches square. Partly fill with sawdust or any other material that will hold moisture. Place on this a square of muslin that is marked in one inch squares and numbered. On each square place four kernels of corn taken from different parts of the ear. One square for each ear that is to be tested. Give the ear the same number as the square by writing the number on a slip of paper and tying it around the ear. Cover the corn in a box with a pad that will hold the moisture, and keep the box in a warm room. Select for planting only the ears whose sample kernels have shown strong germinating power. If one kernel in four fails to germinate, or if the germination is slow and weak, reject the ear. The task of testing is not nearly so great as these directions may indicate, and in this way one may know that all the seed is capable of making a strong growth of plants.

It Pays Every Year.
 It pays every year, but this year it will be unusually profitable. Much corn will not grow at all, and very much will germinate only under most favorable conditions, and some cold, wet weather after planting will rot it. Make sure of the rejection of all seed that is not full of vitality, and this method of testing will enable any one to do so.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.
 Lesson IX.—First Quarter, For March 1, 1908.
THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.
 Text of the Lesson, John vi, 1-21.
 Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text, Isa. xl, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.
 Whether we read in the law, the prophets or the Psalms or the New Testament, we see God revealing Himself in Christ and working His mighty works and speaking His wonderful words which we are to lay to heart and declare to all people. For these things people hunger even as when the multitude followed Jesus in the time of our lesson, and though His precious truths may be set forth by very weak and unworthy instruments, He so honors His own word that the hungering ones are blessed and made a blessing. This I see from year to year in all the classes, and have seen just the same in Japan, China, India, South Africa and many ports of our own land, and I cannot but believe firmly that our Lord is still saying to His redeemed everywhere concerning the multitudes who have no bread of life, "Give ye them to eat," and when we are tempted to consider how little we have to do it with He says concerning what seems to be our unwherewithal of time or strength or money, "Bring them hither to Me" (Matt. xiv, 16, 18). It should never be a question of what we have or what we can do, but only and always who is He and what can He do. Our part is to yield and let Him work, to trust and obey, our hearts ever saying, "Thine is the kingdom, O Lord, . . . and in Thine hand is power and might." "There is nothing too hard for Thee" (1 Chron. xxix, 11, 12; Jer. xxxiii, 17). The multitudes followed because they saw (verse 2), and those without must have something which they can see; hence the necessity of good works profitable to men (Tit. iii, 8). For believers the good word is "Blessed are they that have not seen, yet have believed" (John xx, 29).

PRIZE GANDER.

stead, here appears. For eight years he has maintained the right to his name, Madison Boy, by winning first premium at Madison Square Garden, New York, every season—eight first premiums at America's greatest poultry show! Besides these prizes he has won first at other large shows and is pronounced by breeders and judges to be a remarkable bird. He was bred by Clarence W. King, president of the Water Fowl Club of America, and is a native of the Empire State.

The Gardener's Early Work.
 Not much is done in the gardening line on the average farm in February, but those who make a business of market gardening are actively getting their hotbeds ready and planting with vegetables to be forced for the early market. In the Boston district lettuce and radishes are the main reliance for this purpose in the early hotbeds. Later tomato plants and cucumbers are started to be set in the ground at the approach of warm weather. Cabbages for the early crop are planted about the middle of February. Tomatoes intended to be transplanted in the open ground are not planted until the very last of the month, but some are planted early when intended to be transplanted into greenhouses.

In sowing seeds some very fine earth should be planted free from lumps and pebbles. They may be started in boxes in a warm room in a house if desired, although they will not grow so fast as in a hotbed.—American Cultivator.

Sowing Spring Oats.
 As a rule we much prefer to sow oats in the fall, but owing to the continued rains very few farmers succeeded in planting a sufficient area, and many have failed to sow any. Now oats are one of the most profitable crops we can grow, especially when followed by peas sown for hay. Owing to the depressed times, the high value of the foodstuff and the probability of cheaper cotton next fall it behooves the farmers to sow a large area in spring oats. Put them in as early as possible.—Southern Cultivator.

Combating Glanders.
 In combating glanders the general practice is to destroy horses which are positively known to be affected with the disease and to quarantine those which are merely suspected of being affected.

Cornstalk Litter.
 The refuse from cornstalks that have been shredded as food for cattle, together with cut straw, makes good bedding for the cow.

 Whether we read in the law, the prophets or the Psalms or the New Testament, we see God revealing Himself in Christ and working His mighty works and speaking His wonderful words which we are to lay to heart and declare to all people. For these things people hunger even as when the multitude followed Jesus in the time of our lesson, and though His precious truths may be set forth by very weak and unworthy instruments, He so honors His own word that the hungering ones are blessed and made a blessing. This I see from year to year in all the classes, and have seen just the same in Japan, China, India, South Africa and many ports of our own land, and I cannot but believe firmly that our Lord is still saying to His redeemed everywhere concerning the multitudes who have no bread of life, "Give ye them to eat," and when we are tempted to consider how little we have to do it with He says concerning what seems to be our unwherewithal of time or strength or money, "Bring them hither to Me" (Matt. xiv, 16, 18). It should never be a question of what we have or what we can do, but only and always who is He and what can He do. Our part is to yield and let Him work, to trust and obey, our hearts ever saying, "Thine is the kingdom, O Lord, . . . and in Thine hand is power and might." "There is nothing too hard for Thee" (1 Chron. xxix, 11, 12; Jer. xxxiii, 17). The multitudes followed because they saw (verse 2), and those without must have something which they can see; hence the necessity of good works profitable to men (Tit. iii, 8). For believers the good word is "Blessed are they that have not seen, yet have believed" (John xx, 29).

At the time of our lesson John the Baptist had been killed, his disciples had buried his body, the apostles had told Jesus all that they had done and taught, and because they had no leisure so much as to eat Jesus had said, "Come apart to a desert place and rest awhile" (Mark vi, 29-31). Instead of rest they found a multitude, many of whom were perhaps on their way to the Passover at Jerusalem, and Jesus received them and spoke unto them of the kingdom of God and healed their sick (Luke ix, 10, 11; John vi, 4). If we saw the kingdom as Jesus saw it—and still sees it—as set forth in Pa. ixiii, Isa. xiv and elsewhere, we would be more zealous to hasten it and therefore less apt to say, "Send them away," and more ready to "give them to eat" at any cost.

From the beginning Jesus always knew just what He would do and when and how He would do it, and when we have learned to dwell with Him for His work we cease to ask when and how, but just watch the way, and watch to see what He will say and hold ourselves ready to obey His every word and to do as occasion serve us.

When we find ourselves face to face with a difficulty we should remember that it is that He may show His power and glorify His name, and then we would not presume to make suggestions as Philip and Andrew did. With their 200,000 people to buy sufficient bread to give every one a little and the few loaves and fishes not worth mentioning, they remind us of the mountain and the small things of Zech. iv, 7, 10, and also of the walled cities and giants which terrified Israel and the little city of Ai, which they feared not, but which proved too much for them.

When there were no further suggestions from the disciples, then Jesus quietly and orderly did what He intended and always knew that He would, and, having received what the Father's blessing, He allows the disciples to bear to the multitude who were seated in companies on the grass sufficient to fill them all and leave twelve baskets full over. Thus He manifested our insufficiency and His all sufficiency—the great lesson we are so slow to learn. He might work without us, but He graciously sees fit to use us when we are willing. This particular miracle depended upon the Father's blessing of all that He had—upon that which He seemed really to need—and who can tell what mighty things He will work in our individual lives when we are as fully surrendered to Him as the lad's loaves and fishes?

Let us note again—and with prayerful consideration—that this is the only miracle recorded by each of the four evangelists, or, perhaps better, in each of the four gospels, and ask, What is the great lesson here for my soul? I am persuaded that in my own life this miracle and the story of this lad is back of all this Bible class and missionary work in which the Lord has so graciously and wonderfully given me a partnership with Himself.

Some one has said that this story sets forth the one business of the church in this age—giving forth the bread of life—that which follows in Matthew, Mark and John, the disciples following in rowing against a head wind with Jesus away on the mountain top in prayer, suggests the condition of the church while the Lord continues on the Father's right hand.

Reply to Falakto Scribe.

I note the Falakto Scribe would have the readers of the Banner believe that the citizens of Fairview had "confessed to slander," in week before last's issue, for which he commends them. I will say in return that the citizens of Fairview have been guilty of no slander, neither have confessed to such, but a Resolution plainly stated such slander was maliciously done by one or two citizens of the community and attributed to the whole.

Fairview community as a whole, would not have the county thinking even for a moment that it would have guilty of such malicious slander. We would suggest to the Falakto Scribe that he always carefully investigate before making such a ready reply. For his commendation of the citizens of Fairview we are due him no thanks.

Stanton.

Editor Banner—If you will allow me space I will try and thank the young man in Dixie the compliment he passed on our young ladies of Stanton. We think we have just as nice girls as ever were in Dixie and they don't flirt with a boy that wears a cigarette hat. I suppose they are judging our girls by themselves, but when some people are raised in the country and then go to a city it always makes a fool of them. My dear young man, you had better lie low for someone expects to pay you for your trouble. I notice for the last few days they are running some extra freight trains; I hope some of them will stop a Dixie and let the boys that wear the cigarette hats spend their opinion of the Dixie girls. I guess they are getting jealous. Boy, do stop at Dixie and tip that cigarette hat, but be sure you have on your patent leather shoes, white vest and then you have it all in with the girls in Dixie. I hope everybody will get to read this for it deserves something better than the waste basket. I AM NO FOOL.

Mountain Creek

Will try to give your readers a few items from this place. Ma and Mrs. W. A. White went to Deatsville Sunday. Miss Viola Vernon of Montgomery is spending a few weeks with Mr. Price's family. Messrs. G. W. Coburn, J. A. Garrett, J. W. Coburn and W. E. Price went to Deatsville on legal business last Saturday. Miss Mary Henderson is on the sick list, we regret to state; hope to see her out again soon. There is a lot of sickness at the Soldiers Home, we regret to state; five died there recently.

ELOCUTION RECITAL OF MRS. DRAKE.

The recital given by Mrs. Frances H. Drake, of Fort Valley, on Friday evening at the Institute hall was an event attended with great success.

Mrs. Drake assisted by Mrs. Green and Miss Lizzie Bell Farmer of Newman, and by Senoia's best musical talent, gave to a large and cultured audience a magnificent entertainment.

The program from beginning to end was intensely interesting and for two hours the assembly sat enchanted and spell-bound by the sweet music and delightful readings. While we had been prepared by personal experience on the part of some of our people who had heard Mrs. Drake before, to expect something especially fine from her, yet we had not anticipated anything so perfect on its way.

Her range of genius is wide and her renderings of "As the Moon Rose" by Phelps and Tennyson's "Lady of Shalott" showed the skill of an artist with wonderful poems of poetic interpretation. Endowed with an intellect of rare quality, keen in perception, comprehensive in grasp, and with a voice rich and musical, with a dignified and queenly bearing and magnetic personality, we bespeak for her marvelous success in her chosen profession.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

Stumps Will.

Editor Banner—As we are not heard from often I thought I would write a few words.

First of all I will tell the many readers of the Banner about a sad thing that happened in our midst Sunday morning, February 23.

One of our oldest and most respected citizen was out in the woods and was attacked by what he thought was a lion, or some other wild beast but as he had been attacked by and killed them before in Georgia, he stood his ground like a hero and killed W. S. Alston's pet dog with his pocket knife. Joe E.

BURNED TO DEATH.

On Saturday morning as Mrs. Dooster, living about two miles west of Clanton, was attending to her household duties, her dress became ignited, and rushing from the house in her fright, the flames got a severe hold upon her, from which she shortly afterwards expired. Dr. Hopkins was sent for and did all that was possible to alleviate her sufferings, but to no avail. Great sympathy is felt for the bereaved husband.

IN MEMORIAM.

On Wednesday morning, Feb. 26, the white angels of death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis and wafted the gentle spirit of their sweet daughter, Miss Rhoda, to the great beyond. She was sick only a few days with pneumonia. We know she suffered untold agony, but she bore her sufferings with great patience. Miss Rhoda leaves a father and step-mother and one brother and two sisters and host of friends to mourn the loss of the sweet one. We can never call her back, we can only go to her. She has gone to join her mother and brother who crossed over several years ago. She joined the church at Union Point nine years ago and has lived true to her Lord ever since. We deeply sympathize with the grief-stricken ones in their sad bereavement.

DEADLOCK IS BROKEN

Bradley Wins in Kentucky Senatorial Race.

BY MARGIN OF FOUR VOTES

Former Republican Governor Chosen by the Legislature to Succeed James B. McCreary, Democrat—Received Four Democratic Votes.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 29.—And scenes of wild excitement in the floor of the house of representatives, former Governor William O. Bradley, the Republican candidate, was Friday elected to succeed

FORMER GOVERNOR BRADLEY. James B. McCreary, in the United States senate for a term of six years, beginning March 4, 1909.

He received 64 votes, barely enough to win, and was enabled to gain victory through the assistance of four anti-Blackham Democrats, Senators H. S. McNutt and Albert Charlton, and Representative Chrys Mueller, of Louisville, and Representative E. W. Adair, of Boyle county.

PRINCE FERDINAND MARRIES.

Affair Attracts Much Attention in German Court Circles.

Coburg, Germany, Feb. 29.—Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria and Eleanor Caroline Louise, princess of Rouss, were married here Friday. At the conclusion of the religious and the civil ceremony which followed it, the wedding party left here for Gera, the seat of the younger branch of the Rouss family.

Prince Ferdinand proceeded to the Catholic church, where the religious ceremony was held, some time in advance of the civil party, and he remained alone in silent prayer until the princess and her escort entered the edifice. She was accompanied by Prince Henry XXIV of Rouss-Kostritz, Prince Henry XVIII of Rouss and other relatives. After the exchange of rings, mass was celebrated and then the civil ceremony took place.

FIGHT WITH TRIBESMEN.

Four French Soldiers Killed and Twenty-Seven Wounded.

Casablanca, Morocco, Feb. 29.—Without awaiting the arrival of reinforcements, which are on their way to assist him in his operations against the Moroccan tribesmen, General De Amada, commanding the French forces, has assumed the offensive against the natives in the Chaouia region.

Several columns of French troops marched against the Mataghra tribesmen near El Allah, who fought the French a series of combats between February 16 and 18, when four French soldiers were killed and twenty-seven were wounded.

Manila Preparing Carnival.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 29.—Among the passengers who arrived here Friday on the steamer Siberia was Major B. H. Ray, of the pay corps, U. S. A., who has been stationed at Manila for two years. When the major left the Philippines Manila was preparing for a big carnival under the patronage and direction of Governor General Smith and Major General Leonard Wood, who designed it to bring together the leading people of the different islands—white and brown.

May Suspend Thousands.

Boston, Feb. 29.—The granite industry of New England is threatened with a tie-up, which may result in the suspension of thousands of granite workers. The adoption of a new schedule of wages to replace that which is now in effect and which lapses on March 2, is the point at issue.

Pay Tax Under Protest.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 29.—The railroad lines after conference agreed to pay the franchise tax under protest and then sue for its return, on the ground that it is not constitutional. The Western Union Telegraph company has refused to pay, desiring to fight it direct.

To Farm on Community Plan.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 29.—Five unemployed men with large families, left Friday for Portland, Tenn., where they will farm land on the community plan. Other families are preparing to go south and take up land on a similar plan.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

FRIDAY.

The Japanese of Honolulu are preparing to entertain Rear Admiral Evans. It should be noted that port directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad company have declared semi-annual dividends of 2 1/2 percent on the preferred and common stocks.

A thirteen century copper and gilt chalice supposed to have come from Malmesbury abbey, was sold by auction in London for $20,000. It was purchased by a Bond street dealer.

The Nevada State Journal, which has been democratic for thirty-four years, will hereafter be independent. George D. Kilborn, of the Labeila mines, of Cripple Creek, Colo., has purchased the paper.

It is announced that Henry Handy, of Chicago, is to meet Charles M. Daniels at New York in a series of match swimming races at distances up to 300 yards, to take place at the Sportmen's show at Madison Square Garden.

President Roosevelt has transmitted to the senate thirteen treaties and a declaration, the product of the Hague peace conference. The treaties are accompanied by an extensive report of the doings of the American delegation at the Hague.

SATURDAY.

Twelve six-inch guns intended for the fortifications at Manila were shipped from New York on the British steamer Inverak for Manila.

The third torpedo boats on its way from Hampton Roads to Manila, put in Port Royal, S. C., on account of the stormy weather Saturday.

A senate committee has ordered a favorable report on the Lodge bill to remove the coastwise shipping restrictions from Philippine trade between the islands and the ports of the United States.

The house committee on the Judiciary has decided to give no further hearings on the Sterling employers liability bill and to take up that measure for disposition March 11.

NEW ORLEANS MARDI GRAS.

Festivities Open in Blaze of Light and Color at Crescent City.

New Orleans, Feb. 28.—The street pageants of the Mardi Gras carnival began in New Orleans Thursday night with the parade of the Knights of Momus.

Seventeen allegorical floats, each representing one of Aesop's fables, drawn by several horses, paraded through packed streets, estimated to contain between 50,000 and 60,000 visitors. Thousands of torches rendered the procession a blaze of light and brilliant colors. The floats showed all the hues of the rainbow, nearly a year of secret work having been spent in their preparation.

Following the parade the Knights of Momus, still masked, held an allegorical ball on the stage of the French opera house.

INVADED WALL STREET.

But Women Suffragists Were Prevented from Making Speeches.

New York, Feb. 29.—Advocates of woman's suffrage invaded Wall street on Thursday, but their visit was brief.

A carriage in which were Mrs. Borrmann Wells, the English suffrage leader, Miss Eleanor Murphy and others of the suffrage party, drew up in front of the Broad street exchange and the women attempted to make speeches in favor of their movement. Instantly the carriage was surrounded by a mob of yelling messenger boys, while from windows in the immediate neighborhood rolls of ticker tape and other articles, including a number of wet sponges, were thrown at the orators. Speech-making was impossible and the carriage was forced to beat a hasty retreat.

LOCAL OPTION VICTORY.

Waggoner Bill Passes the Kentucky House of Representatives.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 28.—The Waggoner county unit bill, which extends local option law uniformly to all counties in the state, passed the house Thursday by a vote of 75 to 14.

The bill has been the bone of contention in the general assembly ever since this session began, both democrats and republicans charging each other with using it as a club in the senatorial contest.

The measure now goes to the senate, where the sentiment towards it is believed to be more evenly divided than in the lower house.

Five at One Birth.

Steubenville, O., Feb. 29.—Five perfectly formed children were born here Friday to Mr. and Mrs. George Camp. Three of the babies died within an hour after their birth. One boy and one girl will live, it is said. Three of the children were boys. Mrs. Campbell weighs less than 100 pounds. The combined weight of the infants was twenty-three pounds.

Chamberlain Goes to Riviera.

London, Feb. 29.—Joseph Chamberlain, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlain, left London Friday for the Riviera. They will remain there for several months. Mr. Chamberlain's health continues to improve slowly.

CLASH IN THE SENATE

Controversy Between Senators Owen and Curtis.

CAUSED CONSIDERABLE STIR

Controversy Arose in Connection with the Consideration of the Indian Bill. Both Senators Have Indian Blood in Their Veins.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—One of the most dramatic scenes ever witnessed in the senate was enacted on Thursday when Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, insisted in tragic tones and with face showing much emotion that the five tribes of civilized Indians were dead, and that he as a member of the tribe of Cherokee Indians, was not under the control of the secretary of the interior.

The event was rendered all the more interesting by the fact that Mr. Owen was sharply engaged in controversy by Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, himself a Kaw Indian. It was the first time that two men with Indian blood in their veins had ever locked horns as senators in the senate chamber.

The controversy arose in connection with the consideration of the Indian bill, and was precipitated by an effort on the part of Mr. Owen to have that bill so amended as to recognize the citizenship of the five civilized tribes of Indians by putting the word "late" before this designation and calling them "the late five civilized tribes."

The clash caused quite a ripple of excitement in the chamber.

MISSOURI FAVORS TAFT.

Republicans Instruct National Delegates for Secretary of War.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 28.—Resolutions favoring the candidacy of Secretary William H. Taft for president, and commending the administration of President Roosevelt were adopted by the republican state convention here Thursday. In addition, Attorney General Herbert S. Hadley was endorsed as the republican nominee for governor; Charles Nagle, of St. Louis, was made the choice of the convention for national committeeman, and four delegates at large to the national convention and four alternates were selected. The delegates were instructed for Taft.

The convention was composed of 1,074 delegates from the sixteen congressional districts, one for each three hundred votes cast for president in 1904.

HANGING AT KNOXVILLE.

Negro, Twice Reprieved, at Last Pays Penalty for His Crime.

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 28.—John Carmack, negro, was hanged in the Knox county jail Thursday afternoon. He was the confessed murderer of Henry Itner, also a negro.

The killing occurred on the bank of the Tennessee river, west of the city, in June, 1904. Carmack taking Itner's life and then robbing him of a considerable sum of money. The body was thrown into the river.

Carmack was sentenced to die on the gallows in December, but Governor Patterson granted a respite to January 28, and a second reprieve until Thursday, Dec. 27.

Met Death Under Wheels.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 28.—Arthur E. Roberts, a white fireman for the Georgia Southern and Florida railway, met a horrible death under the wheels of a large freight engine in the yards of the railway company here Thursday afternoon, when he was so badly crushed that he died soon after being taken to the city hospital for treatment.

Shot During Labor Quarrel.

Chicago, Feb. 29.—Charles Koeler was shot twice and severely wounded Thursday night, in what the police say was a labor quarrel. John Berry was arrested as Koeler's assailant. Frank Schucheg is held as a witness. Koeler is a member of one faction of the teamsters' union, the two others belonging to another faction.

Under Serious Charge.

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 28.—Charged with having started a fire at Barnesboro, near here, last week, which had caused $104,000 loss and burned a woman to death, Leroy Adamovsky, a tailor, who occupied one of the burned buildings, was arrested Friday. It is alleged he started the fire in order to collect the insurance.

Leaves Hospital Improved.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—David Henderson, the theatrical manager, has left the Augustana hospital and returned to his home in an improved condition. The old-time theatrical magnate has been suffering from a general nervous breakdown, complicated with heart trouble.

as Probably Murdered.

Wilmington, Feb. 28.—A body found in the canal near here has been identified as that of Thomas Dover, a private of the Forty-fifth Coast artillery at Fort Dupont. He was undoubtedly murdered. His home was in Tennessee, and the body will be sent there.

IN A FIT OF JEALOUSY

Man Kills Wife as She Was Fondling Their Baby.

New York, Feb. 29.—In a fit of jealous rage, Giuseppe Antonio crept up behind his wife who was fondling their nine-month-old babe in their home in Elizabeth street Saturday and killed her almost instantly by firing a charge of shot from a heavy fowling gun into her body.

Following the shooting Antonio himself was an seriously beaten by a brother of the dead woman that it is believed he will die.

The brother, Joe Tuzza, has been sent to the house of detention, but the coroner said he may order his discharge as a regards Tuzza's action as justifiable.

Antonio is forty-six years old, his wife was twenty-six. They had three children. Antonio was out of work for the past three months, and the little family lived on the earnings of the wife, who worked in a sweat shop. Her two brothers moved into her flat to board with the family and thus help to meet expenses.

NEGROES CONFESS MURDER.

Details of the Killing of Mrs. Ellisor Near Columbia, S. C.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 29.—New and Black Toland, negroes, aged 19 and 17 years, respectively, have made a full confession of the murder of Mrs. Paul W. Ellisor, the aged white woman who lived just across the river from Columbia.

Black, the youngest of the brothers, said that Mrs. Ellisor suspected something as soon as they entered the house. When they got inside Black held her while his brother knocked her on the head with an ax. They put her body in a basket and Ned hit her two more blows. They then proceeded to rob the house, taking a gun and a number of articles of wearing apparel. No money was found.

PIONEER CITIZEN DIES.

Captain W. H. Brotherton, of Atlanta, Called to the Beyond.

Atlanta, Feb. 28.—Captain William H. Brotherton, an Atlanta pioneer, one of the oldest and most successful dry goods merchants of the city, a master hand in the local political game, and a leading and devout member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, died Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

His death occurred at his home and in the presence of his wife and oldest daughter, Mrs. Frank Small, and was decidedly sudden, wholly unexpected. Captain Brotherton was a prominent figure in the business and local political circles of Atlanta. He was seventy years of age.

BLAZING TAR CAUSED DEATH.

One Child Dead, Another Fatally Injured, a Third Seriously Burned.

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 29.—A four-year-old child dead, a 2-year-old child probably fatally burned, and a fifteen-year-old boy seriously burned to the result of the ignition of a pot of pitch tar near this city. The two first named boys are children of T. D. Hordin, and the last named is a son of Peter Hordin.

The father of one of the boys put a pot of pitch on a stove to melt for roofing purposes, leaving the fifteen-year-old boy in charge. In some way the pitch caught fire with the serious results stated.

KILLED HER BABES.

Mother Takes Lives of Her Children and Then Suicide.

Baltimore, O., Feb. 29.—Mrs. J. C. Spires, wife of a farmer, living three miles west of Basil, Friday killed three of her children, fatally wounded a fourth, and then committed suicide.

One of the children was drowned in a well and the others were shot and their throats cut.

Mrs. Spires took carbolic acid, shot herself and cut her throat.

Died at Daughter's Bedside.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 29.—Mrs. Sarah A. Gantner, of Rushville, Ind., dropped dead here Friday at the bedside of her sick daughter, Mrs. H. E. Haven. Mrs. Haven was stricken with appendicitis and her mother was sent for. The shock of seeing her daughter so ill was too much for her, and she succumbed to a heart attack.

Negro Hanged at Darlen, Ga.

Darlen, Ga., Feb. 29.—Lee Holmes, a negro murderer of Dr. B. A. Sands, of Greenville, paid the death penalty Friday for the crime. He made no statement. After praying five minutes, the black cap was adjusted by Sheriff Bailey and the trap sprung. Death ensued in about twelve minutes.

Better Car Service.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 29.—The Montgomery Traction company will spend $100,000 in repairs to tracks, rebuilding a part of the lines and increasing equipment. New rails will be here by the middle of March.

Curtains Working Time.

Salem, Mass., Feb. 28.—Notices were posted at the Maumkeag Cotton company's mills Friday announcing a curtailment of 20 per cent of working time after this week. About 1,600 hands are employed.

CALLED OUT TROOPS

Self-Styled Vigilants Spread Terror at Kaitwood, La.

WARN ITALIANS TO LEAVE

Threaten to Blow Them Up With Dynamite—The Frightened Foreigners Have Left in Large Numbers, Fearing Violence.

Kaitwood, La., Feb. 29.—Kaitwood, La., was a scene of lawlessness Saturday, when a group of self-styled vigilants spread terror among the foreigners who were working in the sugar cane fields.

Within the last two days a group of vigilantes have warned some of the foreigners to leave town by the end of this week if they did not want to be blown up with dynamite.

Frenchmen, Italians and others rapidly fled from the place, and about two hundred were reduced to about half.

The main complaint against these foreigners was that they had accepted without protest a cut in wages from $1.75 to $1.25 per day in the sugar mills where most of them were employed.

The presence of the militia appears to have removed all danger at least for the present. The soldiers were called out after local officials had conferred with the authorities at the state capital.

The Italian trouble here was similar to that which recently occurred in other parts of the state, in which natives undertook violently to drive foreign labor away from the sugar mills.

In the other disturbances at least one foreigner was killed and several badly wounded.

FATAL REVOLVER DUEL.

Three Killed and One Mortally Wounded in Kentucky Lumber Camp.

Bowling, Ky., Feb. 29.—Three men were killed and a fourth mortally wounded in a battle with revolvers, following a quarrel in the lumber camp of Conington & William Bros. on Rose creek, near here, Friday.

John Hamilton, James Bowles, Richard Spicer and George Frazier had been working together with about 70 other men, hauling lumber and staves. The children of Bowles and Frazier had fallen out with those of Spicer and Hamilton. The men quarreled over the matter as they worked.

Finally Bowles whipped out a revolver and began firing. He killed Hamilton instantly and shot Spicer in the leg. By this time Spicer had out his revolver and was firing at Bowles, when Frazier joined in the shooting.

When the smoke cleared away it was found that Spicer was dead, with two bullets in his chest, and Bowles had been killed with a ball through the heart.

Frazier was shot through the lower bowels and will die.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE.

Result of Explosion in the La Rosita Mine in Mexico.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 29.—Information reaches this city, through federal telegraph sources, to the effect that the explosion in La Rosita mine at Salinas, near Musquillo, Mexico, resulted in a large loss of life.

Reports by the federal telegraph operators place the loss of life at from forty to ninety.

The mine is owned by the Monterey Steel company and ordinarily employs a force of two hundred and fifty miners, mostly of Japanese and Mexican nationality.

The federal government has taken charge of the situation.

Bomb Kills Two Laborers.

Tehran, Feb. 29.—A bomb exploded in a side street of this city at an early hour Saturday morning and killed two laborers. The occurrence created some local excitement but there was nothing to show any connection with the attempt made Friday afternoon on the life of the shah. A deputization from parliament proceeded to the palace Saturday morning and congratulated the shah on his escape from death.

Succeeds Fish as Director.

Chicago, Feb. 29.—The Tribune says that J. Ogden Armour, president of Armour & Co., will be elected a director of the Illinois Central Railroad company Monday when the delayed stockholders' meeting is held. He will succeed Styvessant Fish, who has given up the fight against E. H. Harriman, in consequence of Judge Hall's decision allowing Harriman to vote the stock held by the Union Pacific Railroad company.

King Inspects Excavations.

Rome, Feb. 29.—King Victor Emmanuel Friday morning went to the Forum and inspected the new excavations begun last Saturday under the direction of Giacomo Boni. The king expressed admiration of the remains of the ancient temple of Jupiter, under the arch of Titus, the foundation of which tradition ascribes to Romulus. He congratulated Signor Boni for his important discoveries.

MURDERED BY

Prominent Member of

Atlanta, March 1.—One of the most prominent members of the Georgia bar, a business man and an influential legislator, was shot and killed Saturday morning in a hotel room in Savannah.

Celebration of Washington's Birthday

by the Schools and People of St. Petersburg Fla.

Editor Banner—I must beg your indulgence for a rather lengthy epistle this time as my subject is indeed a large and interesting one.

Washington's birthday has been celebrated in some form from the very beginning of the St. Petersburg school, but in its early history

these celebrations could hardly be called public. The first was held in 1866 under the supervision of

Prof. H. S. Whitney who was then principal. During that year certain private citizens, Mr. Tom linson of Alaska, donated to the school more than two hundred silk flags to be carried by the pupils on public occasions, thus encouraging

this movement. In 1901-02 an addition was made to the school which had much to do with the nature of all following annual celebrations.

This was the building of the Manual Training School annex now the city hall. This gave a place for all the school organizations to meet and drill, regardless of the weather and at the same time a spacious hall in which to exhibit

the attainments of the students.

Shells.

Editor Banner—Will you please

allow me a space in the dear old

Banner as it has been some time since I have read any news from this place? Farmers have begun to turn the soil and sow oats, but I fear we are going to have a wet

spring, as it seems very much like it now.

Mr. Orum of Montgomery gave

Mr. N. W. Latham a business trip

Wednesday.

Mrs. Lillie Cash killed a turkey

recently weighing 35 pounds, so you know, Mr. Editor, they had a delicious dinner. Among the guests that served the turkey dinner were

Mr. Bob Gentry, Rev. J. D. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Latham of Lawley. The table sure did look delicious, but not as delicious as those two charming girls of Mr. N.

W. Latham's.

Miss Katie Latham was the guest of Miss Bailey, Sunday. The young folks certainly did enjoy the staging there.

Mr. Dickson, our assistant mail carrier, is certainly a fine gentleman. It seems that some one objects to his carrying the mail, but I

Falako.

Editor Banner—I wish to say a few words through your valuable paper in behalf of the Falako girls.

There has been so many criticisms and innuendoes cast at them about making cigarettes for the boys that they don't like to hear it, nor the old folks either. A little pleasantry is very nice when not carried too far, but this report is certainly a mistake. If you will think back, possibly you will remember that the writer from Falako stated that he was visiting a home near Clanton and there were girls visiting the same place and possibly they were the ones that made the cigarettes

for the Falako boys. The young ladies of this place have too much respect for themselves and the young men also; they don't encourage in the folly of making cigarettes and I am quite sure they do not indulge in such pastime as strolling through muddy swamps hunting sweetgum. So give the girls a rest.

GIRLS' FRIEND.

PECULIAR PROPERTIES OF NEW MEDICINE

Cooper Preparation Attracts Widespread Attention by Expelling Internal Parasites.

The interest created in leading cities during the past year by young Mr. Cooper with his new preparation, is largely accounted for by a peculiar quality possessed by this medicine, which he calls his New Discovery.

Mr. Cooper believes that internal parasites, or tapeworms, are responsible for much ill health, and it is an undoubted fact that his medicine has expelled immense numbers of these creatures in various cities visited by him. The young man also believes that stomach trouble is the main cause of all ill health. He claims that few can have poor health with a good digestion. He further claims that his New Discovery medicine does nothing but tone up the stomach, yet it not only expels the parasites, but relieves many other ailments not as a rule associated with stomach trouble.

Little Jessie Birdall, daughter of Mrs. Ida Birdall, living at 2123 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, is among many relieved of a large parasite by Mr. Cooper's preparation during his stay in that city. In speaking of the matter to Mr. Cooper, the mother said: "My child Jessie, who is fourteen years old, has been suffering with this trouble for over seven years. Until this morning we did not know what the trouble was. She was extremely nervous, the least little thing would upset her, her tongue was coated, and at times she would have a good appetite, then again could not bear the sight of food, she was restless at night, had a bad breath, especially when she got up in the morning. We tried everything to relieve her, but met with no success. We were just on the point of giving up trying anything else, when we began to read of Cooper's New Discovery. Several days ago we purchased this medicine. Jessie has been using it regularly, and this morning this parasite left her system. I don't wonder that she has always felt bad, and nothing we would give her seemed to relieve her. Now that she is relieved of this tapeworm I feel sure that she will grow better each day, and enjoy perfect health.

Mr. Cooper, your medicine is worth a thousand times more than you charge for it. I know of a number of people troubled the same way as Jessie has been, and I certainly expect to tell them personally to try your medicine."

We would advise anyone who has been troubled for some time with general poor health to try this great medicine. We are agent for it in this city. Florence Drug Store.

Rev. McCord filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday, the 23d ult.
The singing at Mr. Whaley's, the afternoon of the 23d was enjoyed by all who attended except the "Cow Drivers." Don't think they enjoyed it very much. Perhaps if they had come through on a freight train with a bandanna handkerchief and a cigarette hat they would have been all in. As it was they were "down and out." We think the cow drivers need to get a move on them and organize a band, for although there are "three"
girls in Dixie and they don't have to depend on the Stanton girls they do have to get the Stanton band to play for their entertainments. As for us girls they have never been dependent on the Dixie boys for we have a few boys in our own little town, and there are other boys from different places who have not quite forgotten us.

During vacations I worked in the mill and got thoroughly acquainted with its needs. I have known many girls, because I had been too busy, and—well, that seemed to be all there is to it. Here I am—

A Royal Gaffer.
King James II. was a fine golfer the sense of fondness for the game and in other senses too. He it was, Duke of York, who, when challenged by two English noblemen at the Scotch court to a match, the duke tried to find any partner whom he could find, to go to his side an Edinburgh shoemaker named John Patersone. The duke and Patersone won, and the latter, being given half the stake, built for himself a house, which is to be distinguished by the record upon it in Canongate this day.—Fry's Magazine.

ORCHARD LANDS.

The Selection and Care of Soils For Fruit Growing.
By CHARLES M. BURKETT, Kansas before the State Horticultural Society.

It is impossible for us to lay down any fixed and set rules that shall govern the selection of a soil for orchard lands. We may call one type an ideal soil, but what we want more than an ideal type is a farm orchard for every farm. It would be folly to say that we want ideal conditions of soil for every orchard or garden. What we want are an orchard and garden on every farm, and we want to take the soil and so treat them that they will respond in the highest degree to profit and pleasure.

There Are Different Ways.
One of the first requisites in the management of orchard soils, garden or, in fact, any agricultural soils is thorough tillage. Of course there are different ways to till the land. This statement does not mean that we are to turn the plowshare loose in the soil. It does not mean that we shall plow or till at the wrong season of the year. It does not mean that we shall give the sandy soils the same treatment that we give clay soils. But it means that we must study orchard lands ourselves, to give just the treatment that secures the greatest response. We can ask our orchard if we fear to plow them. We can grow rye or other cereal crop if our soils contain too much nitrogen. In fact, some of our trees do not bear because they are too abundantly supplied with nitrogenous food in the soil.

Crops May Help.
Soiling crops may help some lands, but the difficulty in growing soiling crops is that they take great quantities of food and water out of the soil. That is the great difficulty of such methods. What we are after, it seems to me, is to get plenty of water in order to take care of the tree during its spring and summer activity. In fact, one thing that has been brought most prominently before us in the last five years has been the realization of the value and meaning of water. One of the things that have been brought out is that all soils contain great quantities of plant food, but plants cannot get at this plant food because of the physical condition of the soils. To help in the work we must control the water supply. It has been estimated, and I have no doubt that right around through this section there is often not more than 50 per cent of the water which falls as rain that gets into the soil. There is an abundance of water in Kansas to produce remunerative crops of all kinds if it is taken care of. It takes four inches of water to produce eight bushels of wheat. It takes nine inches of water to produce sixteen bushels of wheat. It takes fifteen inches of water to produce thirty bushels of wheat. We have an abundance of water, therefore, in our section if properly conserved.

It takes a great deal of water for the production of orchard crops because the trees are pumping out of the soil great quantities of water all the time. Open up the soil and let the water move into it, and once in the soil maintain it there. A farmer said that he allowed the weeds to grow up and then mowed them down and made a thorough mulch over the soil. That much acted in the way to do the most good. It kept the water in the soil. We know when we pass along the road or elsewhere if we kick up a stone or even the dry dirt on the roadside we find it moist because the dirt or stone acted as a mulch and kept the water from escaping.

When to Spray.
It is generally considered unsafe to spray for the San Jose scale while the leaves are on the trees, the materials used are so strong, though in certain cases trees have been sprayed when in full leaf in June with the lime sulphur wash without the slightest injury resulting. Treatment in summer is not advisable, however, and the best and safest time to apply the wash is from the time the leaves have fallen till the buds begin to open in spring. Where the trees are badly infested two treatments, one late in the fall and the other early the next spring, are most desirable, but where only one is needed or possible for any reason the results obtained in Massachusetts point to the spring as the time when the best results are to be obtained.—H. T. Fernald.

For Moving a Heavy Ladder.
One man can carry a long, heavy ladder with ease by using the device here illustrated. Little blocks or boxes slide along a shaft for adjustment to the ladder's width, and into these blocks on boxes the end of the side rails fit, explains a writer in the Iowa Homestead. Then by taking the other end of the ladder one can wheel to any point desired. The wheel should be made out of a two inch plank.

Protection of Wounds.
No artificial medium can be applied to the surface of a tree wound which will induce it to heal more quickly. The activity of the healing process depends upon the character and position and the time of the year when the wound is made rather than upon protective coverings, but where a large surface of heart wood is exposed it is advisable to protect it from decay by a coat of white lead or other satisfactory covering.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson X.—First Quarter, For March 8, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John vi, 22-51.
Memory Verses, 22, 23—Golden Text, John vi, 35—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1907, by American Bible Association.]

The bread of life, the water of life, the river of life, the fountain of life, are all suggestive of Him who is the life and whom it is our privilege to receive, to eat, to drink, to live by and to let Him live in us. He does the giving and we the receiving and passing on. He asks us to believe, receive, appropriate and then yield fully that He may through us communicate Himself to others.

The multitudes whom He had taught and healed and fed, not finding Him where He had fed them the previous day, sought Him till they found Him at Capernaum. Then He said: "Ye seek Me because ye did eat and were filled; labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of Man shall give unto you. For Him hath God the Father sealed" (verse 27). In the remainder of this chapter note the mention of everlasting or eternal life in verses 40, 47, 54, 68. Then as to bread from heaven, bread of God, bread of life, living bread, see verses 32, 33, 35, 41, 48, 50, 51. Comparing verses 40, 47, 51 and others, it is plain that eating His flesh and drinking His blood is equivalent to believing in Him or receiving Him. In other words, the great and only work required of the sinner is to receive Him who came down from heaven and gave Himself for us. He is the corn of wheat which fell into the ground to die that it might bring forth much fruit (xii, 24), the bread corn bruised (isa. xlviii, 28), the true unleavened bread on which alone the soul can feed, the gift of God the Father to whosoever will receive Him. Another definition of believing or receiving is "Coming unto Him" (verses 35, 37, 44, 45, 65). Compare Matt. xi, 28, and contrast John v, 40. That He is a gift, the gift of God, see verses 27, 32, 33, 51, and compare Rom. vi, 23; II Cor. ix, 15. That this life includes the resurrection of the body see verses 39, 40, 44, 54. But having noted all these and more, how shall we grasp or appropriate it all?

What can be more simple than for a hungry man to receive and eat that which is set before him and then in some way express his gratitude? But, oh, that does not set it forth! Wretched and miserable and poor and blind and naked, the whole head sick and the whole heart faint, only wounds and bruises and putrifying sores from head to foot; unclean and clothed with filthy rags (Rev. iii, 17; isa. i, 5, 6; liv, 6), these are some of His own words which describe our condition. What does He offer to such? All that a king can offer, and that King the Creator of all things in heaven and on earth. He came down from heaven and became one of us, sin excepted; He became a poor man, earning a living by working at a trade; He taught us how to live so as to please God always and in all things. But we are sinners, and God is holy, so He, having no sin of His own, became a sacrifice for our sins, bearing them in His own body, suffering in our stead, dying the just for the unjust. He rose from the dead and is alive forevermore, having all power in heaven and earth, and He will fill this earth with His glory and cast out every evil thing and reign forever. How can a sinner such as has been described ever be anything to such as He is? He came to save such and to share with them all His glory. When any one sees his guilt and helplessness and from the heart cries, "God be merciful to me a sinner;" when, in other words, he looks to Jesus as the dying Israelite did upon the brazen serpent, then the Father of whom Jesus told in Luke xv runs to meet him and welcomes him just as He is in all his filthy rags, and quickly there is the goodly raiment, the fat calf and all the welcome of the Father's heart and home, with not a word of upbraidings. That is one picture. Others tell us of feasts prepared, all things ready, even garments to wear, and pressing invitations to all to come and eat and drink abundantly. Forgiveness of sins, life eternal, names written in heaven, frail and mortal bodies made immortal, all the glory which the Father has given to Christ bestowed freely upon us, and yet the poor blinded sinner will not believe it to be true, but stands off saying, "How can I get it? What must I do?" Is it not fearfully manifest that the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them? (II Cor. iv, 4).

Some ask, "Well, if I come, how can I ever hold out?" Think of asking, "Will He who provides salvation for me at the cost of His own life continue to love me and care for me?" Hear the answer in Rom. viii, 32, "He who spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not, with Him also, freely give us all things?"

If we have truly received Him, let us evermore be thankful to Him for life eternal, a resurrection body, a kingdom and glory, all the riches of His grace and glory, and as He, while here in humiliation, ever lived by the Father so let us live by Him, believing His love, continuing in it.

His Mouth Full.
A certain town council after a protracted sitting was desirous of adjourning for luncheon. The proposition was opposed by the mayor, who thought that if his fellow councilors felt the stimulus of hunger the dispatch of business would be much facilitated.

"At last an illiterate member got up and exclaimed:

"I am astonished, I am surprised, I am amazed, Mr. Mayor, that you will not let us go to lunch!"

"I'm surprised," exclaimed one of his colleagues, "that a gentleman who has got so much 'ham' in his mouth wants any lunch at all!"—London Scraps.

WORMS

All children complain frequently of headaches, dizziness, nervousness, and that they "don't feel good." This condition is a common one and the trouble is almost invariably due to pin worms. Children haven't the strength to combat their ill and indispositions without the aid of some reliable medicine.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

is an unfailing, harmless and absolute cure for worms, stomach and bowel troubles, and can be used as freely for either baby or the bigger child, as for the full grown folk.

If your child seems indolent, feverish, fretful, peevish, and all out of sorts, these are symptoms of worms. One dose of DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN as directed, the dejected condition will soon give way to health and vigor.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN can be obtained in both dollar and half-dollar sizes from all druggists.

Your money will be refunded if it does not benefit you.

The Philathea girls of West End gave a box party last Friday night and all who were present reported a pleasant time.

BLUE EYES.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. C. Witt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs.; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904."

CORRESPONDENCE.

Lancaster, C. Z., Mar. 2, '08
Editor Banner—As my operation was successful at the hospital I will come again for a few words.

I must say the canal work is progressing nicely of late as the dry season is on now, but expect the rainy season in the middle of May and then it will be more disagreeable as it rains for weeks at a time and lasts about eight months.

Sav, girls, we don't have any leap year down here, or at least we don't see any of you girls, but I know it would take well if there were only some of you here as the Spanish girls have cut the Americans entirely out, but that is O. K.
with us as they don't know what Jesus was a man or mule or some of the Americans either, or some of the drinking and gambling would be cut out, for around paydays and holidays there is no sleep
for anyone in the old bachelors' quarters, but there are some fine bull fights, cock fights and ball games and social entertainments, and while you people are having a little snow we are picking pineapples, bananas, oranges, limes and large lemons and going in bathing in the old Pacific every day, and deer are brought in daily by some of the boys. And now will close hoping it will still be leap year when we arrive in Alabama.

TWO ALA. TROPICAL TRAMPS.

MURDER AT CLANTON.

On Sunday considerable excitement was occasioned in Clanton by the discovery of a dead white infant in a well on the Bell farm.

Information was given by S. S.
Walker to Marshal Morgan of the gruesome find, who at once notified
Justice of the Peace Alex G. Duke.
Mr. Duke empanelled a coroner's jury and they proceeded to investigate the circumstances.

The body of the child, a boy,
was removed to the court house,
where the inquest was held.

After a thorough investigation
the jury returned the following verdict:

We, the undersigned coroner's jury, empanelled according to law, this 8th day of March, 1908, to investigate and enquire into the causes leading to the death of a white infant apparently of a few hours old, found in a well on this day at or near the corporate limits of the town of Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, on the Bell
farm, after hearing the evidence, and due consideration thereof, find that said infant came to its death
at the hands of Lula Beadlescomb, Mrs. S. S. Walker and Lizzie Mc-
Neal. The said infant is a child of Lula Beadlescomb.

Witness our hands this 8th day of March, 1908.

P. M. Moore, Wm. E. Lowe, John
M. Robinson, B. H. Duke, John
Gore, W. J. Foshee.

The three women were committed to jail on a charge of murder in the first degree, and a preliminary trial will be held on Thursday, March 12, before Justice Duke.

The birth of the child is supposed to have taken place about three weeks ago at the home of Mrs.
Walker, who is a sister of Lula Beadlescomb.

The contract for Higgins jewelry store was let last Monday to E.
Hopkins. The building will be the

Collins Chapel

As I have not heard from this place in quite awhile I will say a few words. Health of this community is very good.

Farmers are getting along nicely
with their crops.

Some of our young folks went to preaching at New Salem Sunday.
The quilting at Mr. Collins' last Tuesday was a very good success as there was quite a number there.

Mr. G. W. Horeley and family of Irondeale have been visiting relatives and friends at this place; they left Sunday for Jamison where they will spend the week. Come again,
Mr. Horeley, and bring your family, you are welcome any time.

Say, didn't we have a nice time
at the party Wednesday?

Mrs. W. H. Goodgame of Clanton has been visiting her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. A. Littleton.

Misses Tishia and Vergie seemed to be all smiles Sunday.

Miss May Billingsley visited Miss Genie Collins Sunday.

One of our charming young men,
Mr. Sam Pate, is clerking for Raynolds & Co., at Clanton.

Now a few words about the Sunday school at this place. Say, people, let us come together and make our Sunday school move along. This is the first time our Sunday school has died down in about six or seven years. Now we can have as good a Sunday school as there is anywhere. BROWN EYES

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready
to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him
with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

Editor Banner—Please allow me
a small space in the dear old Banner to say a few words.

Health of this community is very good now.

The weather is very fine and the farmers are making good use of it.
We had a fine sermon last Sunday preached by Rev. J. D. Martin.
It seems that some one thinks he uses some things that are not in the Bible. One man said the Bible did not speak of anybody going to heaven but Christ. He will please read the Bible through again.

We will organize our Sunday school next fourth Sunday.
Well I will ring off for this time,
with best wishes to all.

165 PUPILS PERISHED

Terrible Result of the Collingwood Public School Fire.

MANY REPORTED MISSING

Bodies Recovered from the Ruins of the Building Were So Blackened and Charred that Identification in Many Instances Was Impossible.

Cleveland, O., March 5.—One hundred and sixty-five lives, all but two of them children between the ages of six and fifteen years, are known to have been lost in the fire which, on Wednesday, destroyed the public school in north Collingwood, 10 miles east of this city.

Several others still are missing and their bodies may possibly be in the ruins.

It probably will be several days before the exact number of dead is accurately determined.

Of the 165 bodies recovered, 108 have been positively identified and 57 still are unknown.

Bodies Blackened and Charred.

The bodies are so blackened by fire and smoke, so battered and bruised by trampling feet, that there is no human chance of their identity being established from anything which they resembled in their life time.

It is only by means of some article of wearing apparel that their names can be ascertained.

The cause of the fire, which, added by a panic, narrow hallway and doors which it is claimed by many were made to open toward the inside, all is a mystery.

It was first supposed that it came from an overheated furnace or an exploding boiler in the basement of the school house. It has been established that there was no explosion, and the janitor of the school, Fred Herter, three of whose children died within arm's length of their father, declares that it could not have come from the furnace.

Believes Fire of Incendiary Origin.

L. R. Gardner, a member of the school board, is positive in his assertion the fire was of incendiary origin. In that portion of the building where it was discovered, there are no electric wires, there was no direct means of creating heat.

There was in the building at the time the fire was discovered between 350 and 375 pupils. They were under the control of nine teachers. Two of these are among the dead.

The school was overcrowded and quarters had been provided for the younger children in the attic. Strange as it may seem, more of the pupils escaped from this part of the school building than from any other. The children were under good discipline, they had been practiced frequently in the fire drill, their teachers without exception retained their self-possession, showing great courage in the face of imminent death, and yet more than half of these little ones died horribly because of faulty building arrangements.

The school house was two stories and a half in height, the walls being of brick and concrete. Inside it was a shell which burned with almost inconceivable rapidity.

Scene Had Few Parallels.

For supreme horror the scenes that were enacted around the rear door of this ill-fated school have had few parallels in this or any other country. Little children were piled upon each other, six and eight deep, while strong men and frantic mothers struggled with desperation to release them, yet failed and were compelled to stand back and see the little ones die before their eyes.

One woman found her own daughter in this press and stroked her hair and made an effort to keep the flames away. She failed, and the child was burned to death while her mother, helpless, looked on.

From the upper floors of the building two stairways offered exit. One of these led to the front door, the other to the door in the rear. It was in this last place that the lives of the little ones were lost while would-be rescuers stood helpless.

The scenes that were enacted in the front hall will never be known. The door at this side of the building was never fully opened. But a dense pile of little bodies that lay in the blackened wreckage beneath this point, the feet, the hands, the limbs and the skulls that were scattered about formed a complete index to the horrors that had taken place.

Formed Fire Drill.

When the teachers were informed of the existence of the fire they promptly formed the pupils in columns of march, according to the fire drill, and started them for the door. When the head of the column was nearing the front door a rush of flames met it. Some of the children dashed at the door in the effort to open it while others turned and fled wildly up the stairs. The door was a double one, and one side was held by a spring. The column above, knowing nothing of the fire on the stairs below, kept pressing down and within a few seconds there was a jam, panic and struggle on the stairway and behind the half closed front door that nothing could stop and which cost the lives of all who were caught in it.

A far more tragedy, however, was enacted at the door in the rear. This is claimed by many people, opened like the front door, toward the interior of the building.

In order to reach this entrance the pupils were compelled to march down a stairway, make a sharp turn in a narrow hall and then pass through the doorway. It was the lack of space in the hall and the quick bend at the foot of the stairs that cost so many lives at this point. When the first children, fleeing from the fire in front, appeared at the door, it was closed. Later it was opened, despite the terrific jam that took place behind it. This would indicate that the door opened outward, but the assertions to the contrary are many and positive and it will probably require an official investigation to determine the facts.

Fled in Frenzy of Terror.

Fleeing from a fire in front, the children came rushing and tumbling down the stairs in a frenzy of terror. The stairs themselves were broad, affording passage to more children in one second than could pass through the hallway, around the sharp turn, and then through the narrow vestibule of the door in ten seconds. At the bottom of the stairs, right on the turn, somebody tripped and fell. In another instant others were down, and in less time than it can be told, the doorway, the hall and the foot of the stairs were packed with little bodies. They were wedged so tightly that of those anywhere below the top of the mass, none could be moved by the utmost strength of two men combined.

Unmovable Pile of Bodies.

This was proven again and again, for the rescuers struggled and fought until their own hands were scorched almost to cinders, and still they could move no child from out of the pile, and could save no lives beyond a few that they had lifted from the top before the flames came roaring down upon them.

The local fire department, a volunteer organization with little drill and inferior apparatus, came hurrying to the scene, but it was powerless from the first. The flames had gained too great a headway to be checked by the firemen's machinery.

For all that, however, they were wretchedly inadequate to the occasion. They could not force a stream above the second floor and they did not possess a ladder that was long enough to reach the bottom of the fire escape on the rear of the building. Because of this lack of even ordinary precautions more than a dozen lives were lost in this place alone.

Boy's Attempt to Save Lives.

Hugh McIlraith, a fourteen-year-old boy, son of the chief of the Collingwood police force, led a line of panic-stricken children down the escape to a point where a ladder would have saved them all. Many of them were too terrified to jump and ran back into the building. McIlraith followed in the determined effort to bring them out again, and he and they were never seen again alive.

Miss Anna Moran, the principal of the school, denies that the doors opened toward the inner part of the building, and insists that they were never locked during school hours.

To Investigate Fire.

A rigid investigation is promised into the cause of the fire. Governor Harris announced that the state authorities would look into the matter in a most minute manner. He issued instructions to the department of workshop and factory inspection to commence an investigation at once. Fire marshals are earnestly seeking to establish the cause and place the responsibility for the fire. The officials of the coroner's office are also working to the same end. The school board of Collingwood has taken up the matter and will look into it carefully. So far, however, no clues of value and no definite information have been obtained.

FIRE DRILL SAVED THEM.

Repetition of Cleveland Tragedy Was Threatened in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 5.—Grand Rapids Thursday was threatened with a repetition of Cleveland's tragedy of Wednesday on an even larger scale.

Fire broke out in the laboratory of the Central High school, while 1,300 pupils were in the midst of the morning work. The signal for the fire drill was given and the children marched out in perfect order. The building was emptied in two and one half minutes.

The Central High school is overcrowded and the stairways, it is said, are inadequate and fears of a possible panic have long been felt, but the fire drill proved effective.

The fire did comparatively little damage.

Protest Against New System.

Decatur, Ga., March 5.—At one of the largest meetings it ever held, Decatur camp of Confederate Veterans Wednesday night passed unanimously an emphatic resolution condemning the new system of quarterly payments of pensions. These resolutions were passed in a most vigorous manner against the injustice done the veterans by the change.

BRYAN IS ENDORSED

Home State Officers Him to the Nation For Presidency.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

Democratic State Convention at Omaha Endorses Mr. Bryan as That State's Candidate for the Highest Office in Nation's Gift.

Omaha, Neb., March 6.—Thursday was Bryan day in Omaha and throughout Nebraska. With the democratic state convention as a nucleus, party leaders from every county and practically every primary district in the commonwealth gathered here to pledge allegiance to the presidential aspirations of Mr. Bryan, and to consider means for furthering his interests before the democratic national convention at Denver next July.

Enthusiasm Was Prevalent.

Enthusiasm was prevalent throughout the day. It broke loose early in the afternoon session of the convention, and gradually gathering volume, broke out in tumultuous vociferations when at the beginning of the evening session the platform committee presented this resolution:

"The democratic party of Nebraska again declares confidence in and admiration for William Jennings Bryan. In him we behold the ideal American citizen—the ideal democrat. We rejoice that the principles which he has so ably advocated have been gladly received, and now are generally accepted by the American people.

"Resolved, That the delegates to this convention chosen be, and are hereby instructed to vote as a unit for the nomination of Mr. Bryan for the presidency."

This official endorsement of Mr. Bryan's candidacy met the full approval of the delegates. The iron-clad instructions to the sixteen men selected during the afternoon to represent the state at Denver will, it was thought, leave no doubt as to where Bryan's home state stands.

TIMBER FAMINE THREATENED.

People May Face Problem of How to Do Without Wood.

New York, March 6.—Announcing that there was no issue before the American people so important in his opinion as the conservation of the natural resources urged upon congress by President Roosevelt, Gifford Pinchot, forester of the department of agriculture, told 1,500 persons at a meeting of the American Institute of electrical engineers Thursday night that a timber famine in the country was imminent, and unless there was a great change in public sentiment, the people would have to face in a few years the problem of how to do without wood.

At the present rate of consumption, he said, the trees now standing could supply timber for twenty years. There have already been set aside in the west 165,000,000 acres of forest lands protected by the government. "But this represents only one-tenth the people of this nation own," added the speaker, "and steps to protect all such property from the rapid destruction now in progress cannot be taken too soon."

PLAYS CARDS TO KEEP ALIVE.

Pastime Keeps Old Man from Sinking Into Death Slumber.

Alton, Ill., March 6.—Joseph Harker has played cards almost continuously for two weeks in order to keep alive until his son, Louis, can reach his bedside.

Louis was summoned from Austria by news of his father's illness and is thought to be on his way from New York.

The old man's physician fears that should he cease the pastime that diversifies his mind and keeps him awake, he would sink into a stupor from which it would be impossible to arouse him.

For hours at a time he lies propped up in bed, feebly shuffling the cards and playing with friends, who engage the old man in relays.

$20,000 FIRE AT ALBANY.

Large Carriage Repository and Several Buildings Burned.

Albany, Ga., March 6.—Property to the value of $20,000 was destroyed in Albany when the carriage repository of S. Farkas and four other frame buildings were burned at 10 o'clock Wednesday night. Farkas' loss was $11,000 on the stock of buggies and wagons and $9,000 on the buildings.

The barn of Mrs. D. H. Pope was destroyed, with $1,000 loss, and fully insured. The household effects of R. L. Palmer were burned, with $700 loss and $500 insurance. Cohn's bicycle shop, $300 loss, with no insurance. A dozen other buildings caught, but were saved.

Predicts Probi Victory.

Richmond, N. C., March 6.—North Carolina is winning up in the battle for state prohibition. The election will occur on the 26th day of May, and Henry John A. Oates, of Fayetteville, who has accepted the leadership of the prohibition forces, predicts an overwhelming victory.

TEN DAYS TO LIVE.

Clarkeville Midland Railroad Engineer Gets Threatening Letter.

Clarkeville, Ga., March 7.—Captain W. A. Clarke, of the Clarkeville Midland railway, was in receipt Thursday of an anonymous letter which stated: "Captain Clarke, you will be murdered within the next ten days. Mrs. Clarke, you will also be killed within the same time."

The receipt of the letter created a sensation here. It was mailed at the Clarkeville postoffice. It was written on poor plain paper and was evidently in a man's handwriting concealed partially by an effort to write poorly.

Captain Clarke has been a conductor on the Clarkeville Midland since it was begun as the Clarkeville, Jefferson and Southern, more than 25 years ago. He believes that some insane person, crank, or possibly a mischievous boy, sent the missive.

The postoffice authorities are at work on the matter, endeavoring to locate the sender.

TO TRAIN IN ATLANTA.

Crack Ball Players Coming to Southern City from the North.

New York, March 7.—Several members of the New York American baseball league team left on the Pennsylvania railroad early Saturday morning for Atlanta, where the team is to go into training preliminary to the opening of the championship season.

Other men of the team will journey to Atlanta by different routes and in all, 24 players, according to Secretary Mahon, will be under Manager Clark Griffith's direction in the southern city, the squad containing eleven pitchers and six catchers. Among those who left here were Hal Chase, Newton, Lake and Neuer, pitchers; Ball, infielder, and Manning, catcher.

GIVEN $20,000 DAMAGES.

Clarkeville Man Gets Big Verdict Against Southern Railway.

Clarkeville, Ga., March 7.—One of the largest verdicts ever secured against a railroad in this county was that of $20,000 given Thomas Brock against the Southern for the loss of both feet.

The case was tried before Judge Kimsey and consumed almost the entire week. The first two days was taken up with testimony and the third with arguments.

The suit was for $30,000.

The case will be carried to the supreme court.

Georgia Bankers To Meet in Rome.

Rome, Ga., March 7.—Group No. 3 of the Georgia Bankers' association will hold their annual meeting this year at Rome, Ga., on Thursday, May 7th. The Rome bankers will spare no pains to make the visit a pleasant and enjoyable one. It is predicted that this will be a well attended meeting by the members of Group No. 3 on account of the date named and the accessibility of the city, as it is reached by three trunk lines of railroads, and the further fact that the meetings have all been held heretofore in Atlanta, and it is the desire of those having the matter in charge to rotate the meetings, in order that the bankers may become fully acquainted with their territory and neighbors.

May Commute Stossel's Sentence.

St. Petersburg, March 7.—The verdict in the case of Lieutenant General Stossel, who was recently sentenced to death by a court martial for the surrender of the Port Arthur fortress to the Japanese, was formally pronounced Friday. It is regarded as almost certain, however, that Emperor Nicholas will accept the recommendation of the court that sentence be commuted. The court has annulled the sentence of reprimand passed upon Lieutenant General Fock because of the remoteness of his offense.

Pioneer Citizen Passes Away.

Atlanta, March 7.—John Calvin Peck, a pioneer citizen of Atlanta, died Thursday night after an illness of six weeks. Mr. Peck was one of the leading builders and contractors of his time, and constructed many prominent buildings in Atlanta. He built the old Markham house, the old Capitol, the old Kimball house, the buildings at Fort McPherson, the buildings at the Cotton States and International exposition, and the buildings of the old Piedmont exposition. Mr. Peck is survived by his wife and three children.

Killed on Mercy Errand.

Shreveport, La., March 7.—A dozen possums are scouring the country in the neighborhood of Forbing, 7 miles from here, searching for an unknown negro who Wednesday night called on an aged druggist named Aude from his bed and asked him to go to his store and get some medicine for a sick child. As the old man stepped into the store building the negro pressed a shotgun against his back and fired, causing instant death.

Desperate Chase After Robbers.

Lebanon, Russia, March 7.—A band of thirty men recently attacked the post-office here and having killed a clerk and policeman, made their escape. A posse of villagers gave chase and in a two-day pursuit four men were killed and three wounded. Two robbers were killed and three captured.

Train Derailed; Many Injured.

Kansas City, Mo., March 7.—The Burlington passenger train No. 4, which left Kansas City at 7:30 Saturday morning for Chicago, was derailed at Kearney, Mo., 15 miles north of Kansas City. Several cars were reported to have turned over and 19 persons are reported injured.

Mammoth Warship Launched.

Wilhelmshaven, March 7.—Germany's first mammoth warship was successfully launched here Saturday afternoon. Named by the Kaiser, the battleship of Baden, Emperor William, the Grand Duke of Baden, Prince Henry of Prussia, and Prince Henry of the Netherlands, as well as a brilliant assemblage of prominent officials, were present.

GARY NAMED SENATOR

South Carolina Legislature Elects Successor to Latimer.

CHOSEN ON THE 18th BALLOT

Mr. Gary Comes of a Distinguished Family and Has Occupied Several Places of Responsibility in the State of South Carolina.

Columbia, S. C., March 7.—On the eighteenth ballot, Frank H. Gary of Abbeville, was elected Friday, United States senator from South Carolina, to succeed the late Senator A. W. Latimer.

The deadlock continued two days, and Mr. Gary was elected on the eighteenth ballot, receiving 51 votes. The legislature convened in special session last Tuesday for the purpose of electing Senator Latimer's successor. The claim is made that the nomination of Sheppard caused a break to Gary along former factional lines.

Sketch of the Senator.

Frank Lloyd Gary was born March 9, 1860. He is a nephew of the late General Mart W. Gary. He graduated from Union college in 1881, and is a lawyer by profession. In 1880 he was elected to the house of representatives, and served as a member of the constitutional convention in 1895. In 1896 he was elected speaker of the house, and served in that capacity for five years. He was a candidate for governor in 1902, being first to advocate local option as between prohibition and the state dispensary.

Mr. Gary comes of a distinguished family, having two brothers, Eugene B. Gary, on the supreme court bench of the state, and another, Ernest Gary, as a circuit judge. He himself has acted as a special circuit judge. He is a nephew of the late General Mack Gary, a famous confederate general.

CLEVELAND CANNOT COME.

Former President Will Not Be Able to Visit Atlanta.

Atlanta, March 7.—Grover Cleveland, the only living ex-president and a member of the national child labor committee, which will meet in Atlanta early in April, has written to Dr. J. A. McKelway, secretary of the committee, that he will not be able to attend at this time.

Secretary of War Taft, also a member of the committee, has declined also, giving as his excuse a previous engagement in another part of the world.

President Cleveland writes that he is deeply interested in the work undertaken by the committee and wishes it were so that he could lend his presence at the time designated.

Whitney Engages Trainer.

New York, March 7.—Harry Payne Whitney has announced that he has engaged A. J. Joyce as trainer for his racing stable in place of the late John S. Rogers. "Jack" Joyce ranks as one of the best trainers in the country. He handled a big stable for Sidney Paget up to last season, when the latter sold most of his horses. He brought out and developed such good horses in recent years as Waterbury, Water Cooler, Hamburg Belle, Cairngorm, Water Pearl and Charles Edward.

Japan's Sends Ultimatum.

Peking, March 7.—Japan's ultimatum in the case of the Japanese vessel, Tatsu Maru, was presented to the head of the Chinese foreign board on Friday, and Saturday the board had the matter under consideration. The Tatsu was seized off Macao on February 7 by Chinese customs cruisers on the charge that her cargo of arms and ammunition was intended for Chinese revolutionists, although consigned to a merchant of that place. The steamer is now being held at Whampoa, on the Canton river.

Arrested at Birthday Fete.

Chicago, March 7.—While celebrating his birthday anniversary at his home in West Pullman, Ill., Friday night, Edward C. Davidson, a traveling salesman, was arrested by government officials for alleged complicity in fraudulent use of the mails at Providence, R. I. The officials making the arrest acted so quietly that none of the guests were made aware of the host's plight and the birthday festivities proceeded uninterrupted.

Mammoth Warship Launched.

Wilhelmshaven, March 7.—Germany's first mammoth warship was successfully launched here Saturday afternoon. Named by the Kaiser, the battleship of Baden, Emperor William, the Grand Duke of Baden, Prince Henry of Prussia, and Prince Henry of the Netherlands, as well as a brilliant assemblage of prominent officials, were present.

Train Derailed; Many Injured.

Kansas City, Mo., March 7.—The Burlington passenger train No. 4, which left Kansas City at 7:30 Saturday morning for Chicago, was derailed at Kearney, Mo., 15 miles north of Kansas City. Several cars were reported to have turned over and 19 persons are reported injured.

OVERCOME

Four Railroad Laborers were killed and several injured when a passenger train derailed near Baltimore, Md., Saturday. The train was carrying about 100 passengers. The cause of the accident is being investigated.

Four Railroad Laborers were Seriously Injured Baltimore. March 7.—
The railroad laborers who were in the Pennsylvania station Saturday night were badly affected by the gas.

Three of the dead men
were taken to a hospital.
The men were at the tunnel which extends from the Pennsylvania station to the city of Baltimore.

There were but twenty men in the tunnel. The nine were overcome, and the other were slightly affected by the gas.

The latter crawled out
three blocks to an open space. A rescue engine and one car were sent to the tunnel, and the remaining workmen were rescued.

Two men were sent to the hospital, and the others were sent home.

AS SUCCESSFUL EAST
AS IN THE WEST

Cooper's Theories Are Being Rapidly Accepted
by Eastern People.

L. T. Cooper, whose theory that the human stomach is the cause of most ill health and who created a furore in Chicago, St. Louis and other western cities, is meeting with the same remarkable success with his medicine throughout the east. Cooper has convinced an immense number of people that his theory is sound and his medicine will do what he claims.
Perhaps the most interesting feature of the discussion this morning is, causing, are the statements made by responsible people who have taken his medicines and have become enthusiastic converts to his beliefs.
Among statements of this character, the following, by Mr. August Wittmer, 1044 Rockwell Court, Chicago, is characteristic of the widespread faith in Cooper, which has grown up in a comparatively short time. Mr. Wittmer says: "I would take $1,000 and be in the condition I was three weeks ago. I was practically an invalid for fourteen years and think I had about all of the diseases known. My stomach was weak, and at times I would have an enor-

Misses May and Ola Walker were pleasant visitors of Miss Ef-lie Chandler Saturday.

Mrs. J. A. Logan is recovering

very slowly.
Mrs. Mattie Chandler of this place got scalded very bad.

Mr. Ed Mathes was a pleasant visitor over at Riderville Sunday;

wonder who he went to see.

Mr. George Johnson visited Mr.

A FEW WORDS FROM CONGRESS.

House of Representatives, U. S. Washington, D. C.

March 5, 1908

The Clanton Banner,

Clanton, Ala.

Gentlemen:—Enclosed I beg to send you my announcement for re-election to Congress, which I will thank you to put in your paper.

In making my announcement I beg to say that since coming to Congress I have devoted my undevided attention to the business of the House, and to forwarding in every way in my power the interests of my constituents. I have introduced several bills which I believe will be of great benefit to the district at large, if I succeed

in getting them passed, and I have urged at every opportunity every measure that would tend to the welfare of the district and the country

at large.

Having given close and constant study to legislative matters and the workings of departments in Washington, I believe I am justified in stating that I am better equipped to carry on the work and get good results for the district now than I could possibly have been when first elected, and I believe that my experience here qualifies me to carry on the work for my district here better than it could be done by a person unacquainted with and inexperienced in such matters. I feel that the people have a right to expect me to return to Congress to carry on the work which I have started, in case they approve of what I have done up to this time;

and believing that I have conscientiously performed the duties of the office, I feel that I am justified in asking for a re-election and an opportunity to carry on the work which has been begun by me.

I beg to thank you most sincerely

for your constant and loyal support in the past, and sincerely hope that my efforts as your Representa-

tative have met with your approval. If so, I most respectfully ask for the continuance of your support, and I promise you in return faithful performance of every duty imposed upon me.

Most respectfully yours,

W. B. CRAIG.

DEMOCRATIC MASS MEETING

NEXT SATURDAY.

At the called meeting of the Demoocrats of Chilton county to be held on Saturday at the court house in Clanton there should be a good attendance. Committeemen for the five new Beats are to be elected,

and while we know how busy farmers are at this season, even a busy man can spare an hour or so to attend to important business.

Democratic victory this year is in the air, come and help swell the chorus of jubilation.

The Source of Life.

In paleontologic times it was the earth itself, not the sun, to which plant and animal primarily stood beholden for existence. This gives us a most instructive glimpse into one planetologic process. To the planet's own internal heat is due the chief fostering of the beginnings of life upon its surface.

Thus a planet is capable of at least beginning to develop organisms without more than a modicum of help from the central sun. We talk of the sun

as the source of life, and so it is today

in the sense of being its sustainer, but the real source was the earth itself,

which also raised it through its baby-

hood.—Professor Lowell's "The Evolution of Life" in Century Magazine.

The Religious Kind.

"What would you like me to bring you?" asked Freddy's mother, who was about to start on a shopping tour.

"I think I'd like some building blocks," replied the youngster. "And mamma, see if you can get the kind that makes a church. I might want to play with them on Sunday."—Woman's Home Companion.

Ask Your Own Doctor

If he tells you to take Ayer's

Cherry Pectoral for your severe cough or bronchial trouble, then take it. If he has

Shouts

Editor Banner—Little Smartie

and the other Big Ike will hardly give me any space in your paper,

but I thought I would slip in a few words this week.

We are having good weather for work these days and you can bet

me and my chum are making good use of it too. It is nip and tuck with us and I believe nip is going to get tuck if tuck don't get nipped

by that frost in April.

We have not heard any whipporwills to cheer us, but the singing of the mocking bird will do as well.

We have not planted any corn yet but a good many are talking of planting this week. I heard a man say he was going to plant cotton in March, but I think he had better march on until April.

Well as a friend in Mississippi wants to know what kind of a farming country this is I will tell him through the Banner as near as I can.

We have as good health here as anywhere; have plenty of good water; plenty black jack wood and pine knots to burn it. Our land lies well to be on a hillside and will make a bale of cotton to the four acres; corn will make 10 bushels per acre if well fertilized. Cat-tles do well all winter if fed good.

Hogs get poor in January and remain on the balance of the year.

Have good schools. Have good churches, and plenty of vacant seats on conference days. I think if my friend has any notion of coming here to farm, he had better bring enough money to carry him back to Mississippi. I think the greatest drawback we have is we depend too much on the northwestern corn crib and smokehouse.

First Big Ike.

Be careful about that little cough.

Get something right away; some good reliable remedy that will move

the bowels. Kennedy's Laxative

Cough Syrup acts gently yet promptly on the bowels and always inflammation at the same time. It is pleasant to take and is especially recommended for children, as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar.

Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Ocampo

Won't you please allow me a small space to say a few words.

The health of this vicinity is not very good, most everybody has had the measles.

Miss Ollie Armstrong has gone

on an extended visit to her sister at Birmingham.

Miss Sallie Armstrong of Fay

etteville is visiting her sister, Mrs.

H. C. Armstrong at this place.

Miss Emma Skagge is visiting her sister at Parkwood.

Mrs. Lee Busby spent Monday

with Mrs. W. F. Armstrong.

We are sorry to say that little

Lizzie Armstrong has been very sick with measles.

We are very sorry to say that Mr.

and Mrs. Ciss Martin lost one of their children with measles.

With best wishes to the Banner

I will ring off.

Ocampo Man.

THE JEWISH BADGE.

Distinguishing Mark That Was Required by European Countries.

To the Jews of today it is fairly well known that their ancestors in Europe

were forced to put up with a great deal of humiliation. One of the most insulting methods was to require the wearing of a badge which would stamp the wearer as an "infidel Jew."

The wearing of a badge was made a general order throughout Christendom

in the year 1215, but it must have been required in isolated places before that date.

The most usual form of badge was that of a ring of distinctive color attached to the upper garment. Any one of French-Jewish ancestry will know that his forbears wore a ring of this sort, varying in size and in color—

red, now yellow and white, according to the whims of municipalities and monarchs. It was generally worn upon the breast, and at one time it was ordered to be worn likewise upon

Editor Banner—Please allow me
 a small space to say a few words in regard to our school at this place which closed last Friday, the 6th inst., under the management of Miss A. M. T. Lefstend of Thorsby. She taught as a term of five months.
 While she has maintained good order and discipline in her school room, she has at the same time gained the good will and esteem of parents as well as pupils. Any school desiring to employ a competent and energetic teacher may be considered fortunate in securing her services.

We have our new schoolhouse at Adams completed, painted and seated with automatic double entire desks which cost us in all about $385.00 and I am proud to say all is paid for.

We thank the County Board for all assistance they have rendered us during this scholastic year.

Health of our community is good at present; weather fine; farmers are bustling.

Success to the Banner and its

THE ART OF GARGLING.

Not the Same Thing as the Process Usually Followed.

The proper method of gargling is thus described by a writer in the Medical Record:

"The patient (at first under the guidance of a physician) should sit well back in a chair, take a swallow of water in the mouth and bend the head as far back as possible.

"Now he must protrude the tongue from the mouth (the tip of the tongue may be grasped with a handkerchief) and in this posture with protruding tongue he must try to swallow the water. The physician should control the patient's vain efforts, for it is impossible to swallow under such circumstances.

"The patient has the sensation as if he actually had swallowed the water. Now he must start to gargle, to exhale air slowly. One can see plainly the bubbling of the fluid in the wide open pharynx.

"After gargling thus for awhile the patient is ordered to close the mouth and quickly throw head and body forward. Thereby all the fluid is forced through the choanae and nostrils, washing the throat and nose from behind and expelling all the accumulations that had been present with great force.

"This should be repeated several times, as the first trial is not always successful and satisfactory. It is an act that must be learned.

"When properly executed the sensation, as the patient will assure you, is that of great relief not had by any other method. It will be wise for the practitioner to try the method first on himself. Even small children who are at all clever learn the method readily and rather enjoy it."

Health

A few more items from this community; most everybody is trying to get ready for planting and some have planted their gardens and their seeds; people have been very busy ever since they commenced farming.

Mr. C. T. Walker had a log rolling the first day and the weather was so bad they could not do much; the next day they finished and all enjoyed a good dinner.

The second Saturday night a crowd enjoyed the singing at Mr. John Bearden's.

A number of people from Lawley and Tabernacle enjoyed the sermon preached by Rev. Martin at Pleasant Grove church the second Sunday.

The first Sunday in March Mr. Milton Lawrence, Mrs. Emma Mauness, Mr. Noah Latham's family and others spent the day with Mr. Henry Latham's family.

We were very glad that Grandma Mize was able to be at church Sunday. Hope she will still improve in health.

Card of Thanks

Editor Banner—I wish to thank my friends through the columns of your paper for their great kindness and assistance to me and my family during our illness, and may Almighty God greatly bless and reward them for their kindness in my prayer. J. Q. SEWELL, Mountain Creek, March 9, 1908.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. C. Witt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs.; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

The SPORTING WORLD

Schaefer Favors 14.1 Balk Line.

Jacob Schaefer, the 18.1 balk line billiard champion, is now convinced that the 18.1 game is uninteresting to the public as a championship proposition and that it should be abolished.

JACOB SCHAEFER.

Schaefer is in favor of the 14.1 balk line game taking the place of the 18.1 as the master's game.

He points to the fact that the play in the recent championship matches was far below the standard set when the 18.1 game was inaugurated.

While the professionals are finding the game more difficult than in former years and the fans are finding it less interesting, Schaefer thinks the players would do well to take time by the forelock and switch to a more interesting game before the public loses all interest in their performances.

Unequaled as a Cure for Croup. "Besides being an excellent remedy for colds and throat troubles, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is unequaled as a cure for croup," says Henry Wilson, of Waynetown Ind. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, this remedy will prevent the attack. It is used successfully in many thousand homes. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co. Clanton; A. Horn, Thoraby.

Watering the Hogs.
The feed makes a pig, but there is a deal in the way the feed is given. A common mistake is to make slop too thin when made with water. If milk is the liquid used, there is no objection, for milk with corn, pastures or mill stuff makes very excellent feed. If just enough water could be used to supply the hog's want, then it would be all right to mix water with the feed. If a slop is made very thin, the amount of water may be more than the pig should have or desires and regardless of weather. On that account many herds of swine fail to do well. Slop should be made only thin enough to pour from the pail. Water should be supplied separately and the pigs permitted to help themselves. If handled in this way, hogs rarely fail to do well.

A GOLDEN BEE-HIVE

Return of Prosperity Sets United States Mint Busy.

EMPLOYEES RESUME PLACES

Resumption of Activity Due to Fresh Orders from Washington for Immediate Coinage—One Order for $10,000,000 in $20 Gold Coins.

Philadelphia, March 13.—With the return wave of prosperity the United States mint in this city has again become a golden beehive of industry. Throughout the week employees who had been laid off have been receiving instructions to resume their posts and Thursday a full force was at work, aggregating about 550 persons.

It was stated at the mint that this resumption of activity was due to fresh orders from Washington for immediate coinage. Leading these orders was one for $10,000,000 more in $20 gold coins.

FIRE ON BOARD STEAMER.

Prompt Action on Part of Captain Prevents Loss of Hundreds of Lives.

New York, March 13.—Prompt and determined action on the part of Captain Appleby, of the Fall River steamer, Providence, prevented what otherwise might have been a serious catastrophe when fire broke out on the craft while she was coming up Long Island sound bound from Providence for New York early Friday.

Three hundred and fifty passengers were asleep on the Providence when the fire was discovered on the freight deck of the steamer which was then off Sandy Point, 20 miles from New York. Fearing that if the alarm was permitted to spread over the ship he would have a panic of passengers with which to contend as well as a fire to fight, the captain sent a wireless call to the steamer Richard Peck, of the same line, which he knew must be somewhere in the vicinity.

The Richard Peck also was bound for New York, and while she had not been sighted during the night it was known that her schedule would bring her at that hour to within a few miles of the Providence.

The call was quickly answered, the predicament of the Providence was explained, each steamer was advised of the other's position and they started towards each other. When they came together the fire was still in progress on the Providence, but the passengers who had been aroused a few minutes before had been told of the coming relief and were quietly waiting to be transferred to the other steamer.

The sea was calm and the transfer was made quickly and with little difficulty.

The officers declare that there was not even a sign of uneasiness apparent among the passengers and that the whole affair was carried through without trouble of any kind.

MAN KILLED HIS WIFE.

Says He Was Dreaming and Thought Burglars Were in House.

Washington, March 13.—Hugh Hollis, a treasury department clerk who came here from Louisville, Ky., and served for a time as private secretary to the commissioner of internal revenue, shot and killed his wife at their home on Newton street, in the north-western section of the city early Friday morning.

Hollis procured a revolver a day or two ago and took leave from his office to practice with the weapon.

About 6 o'clock Friday his wife arose to attend their children and as she returned to the bedside Hollis awakened, pulled the revolver from beneath his pillow and fired, instantly killing the woman.

Immediately he went to sleep again and knew nothing of the shooting until he was afterward awakened.

He has always borne a good reputation and he declares he was dreaming of burglars.

500 PEOPLE POISONED.

Church Social at Upper Sandusky, O., Proves Quite Disastrous.

Upper Sandusky, O., March 13.—Five hundred people were poisoned at this place Thursday night at a social given by the ladies of the English Lutheran church by eating chicken and waffles. Many of the people were taken ill after they had gone home, and by midnight all the doctors in the city were busy.

Friday some of the stores could not open because all the clerks were unable to appear.

It is believed that no one will die.

Dawes Declines Offer.

Chicago, March 13.—It became known Thursday that Charles G. Dawes, president of the Central Trust company, of this city, has been offered the position of president of the reorganized Knickerbocker Trust company, of New York. It is stated he has definitely declined the place.

CONVULSED THE HOUSE.

Louisiana Congressman Causes Laughter Among Members.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—Representative Watkins, of Louisiana, convulsed the house by reciting an original poem entitled "What Is to Come." It was in eight stanzas, the first six of which referred to the promise of the republicans to revise the tariff and do other things. Before these things would come to pass, he said:

A Cannon must be first shot off.
"The skies must change their azure through;
"The people must all go to sleep,
"Until Gabriel blows his horn,
"Americans must sure forget
"William J. was ever born."

"And Bill! Taft put up the dough.
"The people must all go to sleep,
"Until Gabriel blows his horn,
"Americans must sure forget
"William J. was ever born."

"The letters are written in red, and signed by members of gang 'Number 42.'"

The police are of the opinion that the letters were written by members of a gang that were recently surprised by the police. The threatening letters have not caused either of the officials any worry.

$10,000 FIRE IN MILLS.

Pickers' Building of the Coolee Cotton Mills Burned.

Winston-Salem, N. C., March 14.—The pickers' building, warp and machine room of the Coolee cotton mills, in Davie county, were destroyed by fire which started in the pickers' building Friday, entailing a loss of over $10,000, fully covered by insurance. The origin is unknown.

Owing to the excellent fire fighting equipment, the other buildings were saved. B. N. Duke, of New York, is president of the company.

Bank President Falls Dead.

WAS IT SUICIDE PACT?

Startling Story of Five Girls Who Died by Their Own Hands.

TOLD BY WOULD-BE SUICIDE

Miss Helen Baxter, One of a Party of Six Young Girls Who Came to New York from St. Paul, Minn., Tells Police Facts of Companions.

New York, March 14.—A startling story of how five young girls who came to New York from St. Paul, Minn., died by their own hands, was told Saturday by a seventeen-year-old Helen Baxter after she had made a vain effort to end her own life.

Helen said she was one of the party of six girls who came to New York to make their way in the world after receiving a course of training in a business school in the Minnesota city. She turned on the gas in her room Friday night but was found Saturday morning in time for her life to be saved.

When asked why she had tried to end her life, the girl astonished the ambulance surgeon and others who had crowded around, by her story of the fate of her friends.

"Why should I not be allowed to die?" she asked. "My five girl companions who left St. Paul with me a year ago, after we left school, have all committed suicide. I want to die as they did and join them."

"Was it a suicide pact?" she was asked.

"My five friends are all dead and they died as they chose," was her reply.

ANARCHISTS DISAPPOINTED.

Big Crowd Assembled to Hear Emma Goldman, but Police Interfered.

Chicago, March 14.—Nearly two hundred anarchists, socialists and others, assembled Friday night in front of a vacant store building at 392 Dearborn street to hear a lecture by Emma Goldman, but were disappointed. Forty or fifty policemen with inspectors Wheeler in charge, told the crowd to move. The police were to enforce an order that came to Assistant Chief Schuetzler from the building department warning him to permit no one in the structure, which was declared to be unsafe.

Harold Leclair Ickes, the counselor retained by mysterious persons for the purpose of assuring the removal of the body of Lazarus Averbuch from the potters' field and the performance of a private autopsy, refused Friday to reveal the names of men and women who employed him.

Rumors were current that Attorney Ickes was engaged by prominent socialist settlement workers and well known Jewish citizens of Chicago.

BANKER WALSH SENTENCED.

New Trial Denied—Five Years in the Penitentiary.

Chicago, March 14.—John R. Walsh, former president of the Chicago National bank of this city, and convicted of illegal use of the funds of that institution, was Friday denied a new trial by Judge Anderson of the United States district court and sentenced to serve five years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth.

As soon as the court had announced his decision refusing to grant a new trial, the defense entered a motion in arrest of judgment which they argued for some time. It was generally thought about the court room that they would consume two or more hours in giving their reasons for the granting of this motion but Attorney Hart, who presented it, ceased speaking in about thirty minutes.

Judge Anderson then promptly overruled the motion and sentenced the banker to five years in Fort Leavenworth.

TO SAIL ON SECRET MISSION.

Everything Excitingly Busy at Japanese Naval Station at Sasebo.

Hongkong, March 14.—Information has been received here from Formosa that the first Japanese naval squadron would sail Saturday on secret service.

The cruisers Yakumo, Akitsushima, Asama and a flotilla of smaller vessels have been coaled ready to sail at a moment's notice since March 7.

At Sasebo, the naval station, everything is excitingly busy. The Tatsu affair has caused a sensation in the navy, and some action in this department is surmised.

Petition for Bankruptcy.

New York, March 14.—A petition asking that Charles W. Morse, former banker and steamship promoter, be declared a bankrupt, was filed in the United States district court Friday.

The petitioners are Charles A. Hannah, receiver of the National Bank of North America, of which Morse was at one time vice president, Frank O. Pringle and Edward B. Shotwell.

HOUSE STIRRED BY BACON.

Georgia Senator Severely Criticizes President Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—The severest criticism yet directed against the president by a member of the upper house of congress was delivered in the senate Friday by Senator Bacon. With continued expressions of executive, he argued that this government would soon be as autocratic as Russia.

He declared that executive usurpation had continued unabatingly and even boasting, for so long that the country had almost become accustomed to it. His words took on particular vehemence. So far did he diverge from his usual self-contained and orderly manner of speaking that he felt constrained to apologize during the latter part of his address for his heated manner. Though he declared that everything he had said was the truth, he thought it might be imprudent.

Senator Tillman protested that the apology was out of place. "If true, why imprudent?" he exclaimed.

Other democratic senators sitting near the Georgian insisted he had said no more than was proper. He then largely modified his apology, and insisted that he meant every word he had uttered.

What brought forth this unexpected and impromptu outburst from the senator from Georgia were published reports that the president had in course of preparation another special message to congress, in which he would reiterate his determination to force through certain legislation at this session of congress.

GRAFTERS FOUND GUILTY.

Sentences Given in the Pennsylvania State Capitol Scandal.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 14.—The jury in the first of the capitol conspiracy cases to be tried gave a verdict of guilty as to every one of the four men who have been on trial here for the last seven weeks Friday night after six hours' deliberation. There were two ballots taken, but the jury did not come into court until two hours after reaching a conclusion, being out altogether eight hours.

The men found guilty are: John H. Sanderson, contractor; William P. Snyder, former auditor general; W. L. Mathews, former state treasurer, and James M. Shumaker, former superintendent of public buildings and grounds. Motions for new trials were made in each case.

Only Sanderson and Snyder were in court when the verdict was given and neither would talk. None of the counsel for the defendants would say anything in regard to the case. The state's attorney when questioned, said that they were pleased with the result of the hard work.

The maximum penalty for each defendant in this case is two years' imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

The four men were convicted of defrauding the state of about $13,000,000, instead of $4,000,000, the figure at which the contract was estimated.

KILLED BY DEPUTY MARSHAL.

Citizens Raised Fund of $500 for Arrest of Slay.

Spartanburg, S. C., March 14.—According to a telephone message from Tryon, N. C., R. F. W. Allston, an official of the Lynn Hosiery company, of Lynn, N. C., near Tryon, was shot and killed at the mill Friday by Deputy Marshal Lee Fisher. Fisher escaped. Citizens raised a fund of five hundred dollars as reward for Fisher's arrest.

Allston and Fisher quarreled. It is said, in regard to some work the latter had been doing for Allston.

MEN IN HAIL OF LEAD

Reported Conflict Between Chilean Forces and Strikers.

MACHINE GUNS WERE USED

News of a Great Conflict at the Nitrate Beds of Chile Has Been Received in Which 2,500 Men Were Laid Low, Most of Them Killed.

San Francisco, March 12.—Machine guns operated by the government forces of Chile in a great conflict with strikers at the nitrate beds and in the city of Iquique laid 2,500 men low, most of these being killed, according to advices received Wednesday by the Australian steamer Christiana, arriving direct from Chile.

Business at Iquique, which had never been seriously disturbed by anything but earthquakes, was paralyzed when the great army of workers went on strike. One fracas after another occurred, until soldiers and strikers met in the streets of Iquique and on the outskirts and openly defied each other.

Being ordered to drive the army of men away and disperse them, the police opened fire while they formed and literally mowed down the men. They had little opportunity to fight back, even had they been armed, the assault upon them was so sudden.

This took place on Jan. 11, and was followed by two or three days of oppressive gloom in the community while the funerals of the killed were taking place.

A week later, as though by common agreement, the strikers went back to work without the expected advance in wages.

It was reported that the mine owners will voluntarily increase the pay of many of their employees.

NO SHORTAGE FOUND.

Reported Shortage of Alabama Fair in 1906 Explained.

Montgomery, Ala., March 12.—It is found, according to reliable information, that the reported shortage in the management of the state fair at this place in 1906 has been fully explained by a re-examination of the books and that the accounts will be found to work out satisfactorily. This is based on a report of Expert Accountant Haralson, which is said to have been turned over to the officers of the fair association.

The entire matter now promises to be cleared up to the credit of all the officers of the fair of that year.

Certain it is that so far most of the reported shortage of $20,000 has been accounted for in the regular way.

$11,431,346 APPROPRIATED.

Agricultural Appropriation Bill Reported to the House.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—The agricultural appropriation bill was reported to the house Wednesday. It carries total appropriation of $11,431,346, which is $1,420,005 less than the total amount asked for by the department of agriculture.

The bill carries an increase of $218,720 for the weather bureau, making a total for this bureau of $1,662,260. The increase is chiefly due to the provisions for the construction of weather bureau buildings, including one at Richmond, Va., and for the restoration of the building at Mt. Weather, destroyed by fire last October.

Six Peasants Killed.

Voronezh, Russia, March 12.—Six peasants were killed and several others were wounded in an encounter with a detachment of police at the nearby village of Kochetovka. The police went into Kochetovka for the purpose of arresting two members of the peasant revolutionary organization. The intention of the police became known, and the peasants rallied to prevent the carrying out of this plan.

Five Italians Released.

Tampa, Fla., March 12.—Baffled by the secrecy maintained by all Italians, including the victims, the police department has released five Italians held in connection with the shooting of Dr. Crana and two companions from ambush Sunday night.

THE HOUSEWIFE

Cleaning the Sink.
The sink should be kept spotless. The best way to clean it is to rub with a piece of fine sandpaper. Let it rest for a few minutes, then with brush and boiling water
wash and polish vigorously.
A little kerosene, mixed with water, rubbed over the sink will make it shine like new.

Rough Elbows.
Elbows are a great blemish to a woman and they should be avoided. A daily rub with a piece of fine sandpaper will keep them smooth and soft.

Refrigerator Alarm.
The busy housewife neglects to clean the waste water in the refrigerator, with the result that the drip water is full of dirt and bacteria.

Method of Drying Beef.
The best way to dry beef is to cut it into thin strips and hang it in a well-ventilated place.
It should be turned frequently and should be kept in a cool place.

Valley Forge

We are sure glad to see good old Banner. After some little delay I will attempt to drop you and your readers a few lines.
On last Sunday evening I received a telegram from Mr. J. T. Martin of this place to come and spend a while with his family while he is away from them in Brent, Bibb County where he goes to stay in the general store of the Thompson Lumber Co., as manager. I came right on Monday evening as he requested.

Before I left Maplesville I noticed that Dr. C. N. Parnell had finished a nice cottage east of the M.
& O. railroad and J. W. Mitchell and wife were occupying the same.
Also the Baptist church was being built by architect Crawford, which is located on a nice lot easy of access both to the citizens and out of town people. The Baptists, through the courtesy of the Methodist list are holding their services both Sunday school and preaching in the Methodist church.

The post office at Maplesville has changed hands lately and a Mr.
Calloway is postmaster. Mr. Hill Foshee is building an addition to the G. W. Fox store into which, when finished, the post office will be moved.

Now for Gordo. I found the people of Gordo just as courteous, friendly and polite as I wrote you one year ago, but they are much wrought up just now on the school question. They are competing with Carrollton, the county site, and Reform, a small town seven miles away, for the Pickens county high school, and yesterday, March 13th was grand day in Gordo.
Gov. B. B. Comer, Supt. H. C.
Gunnels and Auditor W. W. Brandon were to be here to consider Gordo's advantages for the location of said county high school. Governor Comer and Gen. Brandon came; Supt. Gunnels from some cause did not put in an appearance.
The Governor and Gen. Brandon were escorted over Gordo by Mayor, A. C. Ezell, in a fine carriage decorated in various brilliant colors
and drawn by two spanking grays,
the Mayor riding beside the Governor. The object being to show the various localities of the city on which a school could be located.

Promptly at two o'clock the distinguished guests were driven to the Gordo school building and with the Mayor entered the auditorium amid loud cheers and clapping of hands proceeded to the rostrum upon which seats were in waiting to receive them. Upon the rostrum were seated several prominent citizens. Among them were Mayor
Ezell, Rev. J. M. Arver, Geo. M.
Collins, H. Durrett and J. H. Daniels. Mayor Ezell introduced the speakers with some very chaste and appropriate remarks, showing him master of the occasion. Gov.
Comer being introduced first acquainted himself fully up to what one could possibly expect of the chief executive of any state. I must say that I was perfectly carried away with the manner and ease with which he handled all the subjects upon which he spoke.
chief of which was education and the location of schools. Adducing some very modern ideas of which no one is more capable than Gov.
Comer, upon which his future popularity greatly depends. He certainly has a great following at present in the state, and certainly has,
where he is known, the backing and approval of the better element not only of the state but the nation as well. Gen. Brandon held the audience spell bound for three quarters of an hour, handling the same topics in a pleasant and happy way, touching all the while on education and the location of schools. There were other speeches made by the citizens soliciting that the full merits of Gordo be considered by the state commission, pledging to do their best to maintain a high school worthy of patronage should Gordo be selected as the site for the high school in Pickens county.

I may be taxing your patience,
therefore will desist for the present.
Much success to the Banner and its readers.
R. J. MITCHELL.

MADE A SUCCESS

L. T. Cooper Tells Chicago Reporter Why
He Accomplishes So Much.
No man in recent years has been more successful in restoring human health than L. T. Cooper. During his stay in Chicago, and while he was meeting thousands of people daily, he gave the following reason for the remarkable demand for his medicine to a reporter:
"My New Discovery is successful because it corrects the stomach. My theory is that few can be sick if the digestive apparatus is working properly. It naturally follows that few can be well with a poor digestion.
"I know from experience that most of the tired, half-sick people that are so common now-a-days have half-sick stomachs. Put the stomach in shape and nature does the rest. The result is general good health. My medicine does this. That is why fifty thousand people here in Chicago are using it who never heard of me until a month ago."
Among the fifty thousand mentioned by Mr. Cooper who used his medicine in Chicago is Mrs. Hilda Pfueger, living at 1203 Alameda Avenue. This is the statement she makes concerning her experience with the medicine:
"I have been sick for six years with stomach trouble. I was always hungry, but did not dare to eat much, as I had severe pains in my stomach, and also through my body. I could not sleep at night and was very restless.
I was also very nervous, and would have severe headaches. I was constipated, and always felt bloated after eating.
"I had tried many remedies, but could secure no relief, until one day I noticed in the newspapers what wonderful results Cooper's medicines were accomplishing in Chicago. I decided to try them, and shortly after commencing the treatment I began to feel better. I did not have those severe pains in my stomach, and I could sleep at night; my appetite improved, and I can now eat well. I am feeling like a new woman.
"I am very thankful to Mr. Cooper for what his remedies have done for me. They have restored me to good health, and I would advise any one who suffers as I did to try them."

BANNER CO., CLANTON, ALA.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

This is to again call your attention to the new ruling of the Postmaster General which went into effect January 1, 1908, but the time has been extended to April 1, 1908. The Postmaster General announces that subscribers who are more than twelve months in arrears cannot be considered legitimate subscribers, and refuses to carry their papers at the second class rate. Under these circumstances we very respectfully ask that all subscribers who are due us for more than a year's subscription, will kindly settle their back dues, so that we may continue to send them The Banner.

If it is not convenient to pay in advance we will cheerfully give you one year's credit, but back dues must be paid up by April 1, or the paper must be discontinued.

The Postmaster General's ruling must be obeyed.

LAST DAYS OF GRACE

At the end of this month we will be compelled to cut off all subscribers who are more than one year in arrears with their subscriptions. A considerable number have paid up, but there are yet many who are more than twelve months behind.

Pay up, brothers, and don't let Postmaster General stop one Banner.

THANK YOU, GENTLEMEN.

The Southern Typewriter Exchange, of Montgomery, Ala., writes:

"We are well pleased with the results obtained from the advertising in THE BANNER, and any time you wish you can refer to us either to your customers direct or in your paper."

Wishing you continued success with THE BANNER, we are Yours respectfully, Southern Typewriter Exchange."

The Alabama Pecan Growers Co., of Thorsby, Ala., writes:

"Receipt books and application blanks are satisfactory."

W. T. CALLEN.

We are pleased to announce the candidacy of Mr. W. T. Callen for re-election as Treasurer of Chilton county. If faithful and conscientious service ever deserved recognition it is certainly well deserved in this case, and the voters of the county will honor themselves by electing Mr. Callen to this important office. It is an office that requires very careful handling and Mr. Callen is peculiarly well fitted to the duties.

MARRIED.

On Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents at Clanton, Mr. J. E. Robinson Jr. and Miss Essie Louise Aldridge were happily married, Rev. J. F. Price performing the ceremony. They left on the evening train for a visit to the bride's sister at Springville, St. Clair county, amidst the hearty congratulations of their many friends. They are a popular young couple in Clanton.

A CASH OFFER.

The Banner has made a special clubbing rate with The Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the regular subscription price, $1.00. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer; $1.00 cash for both papers. Everyone should take their home paper first for the local news, and then a general weekly for the news of the world. These two papers make a strong combination. Both papers $1.00.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTION

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county, held at Clanton, on Saturday, the 14th day of March, 1908, the following resolutions were adopted to-wit:

Whereas the State Democratic Executive Committee did on the 7th day of February, 1908, order a primary election to be held in the several counties of the State of Alabama, for the nomination of Judicial, Congressional and County officers, who, by law, are to be elected at the general election in November, 1908, and prescribing rules regulating the holding of said primary election, therefore,

Be it resolved, That the plans, rules and regulations set forth by the said State Democratic Executive Committee for said primary election be adopted and endorsed.

Be it further resolved, That a primary election be held on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1908, in the several precincts of Chilton county, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Treasurer, Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Superintendent of Education, two County Commissioners for Districts 2 and 3, a Coroner and two Justices of the Peace and one Constable, and also for the purpose of electing a Democratic Executive Committee member from each precinct within the county.

Be it further resolved, That said primary election shall be held in accordance with the State primary election law and under the rules heretofore governing the holding of such primary.

Be it further resolved, That each candidate for county office shall have the right to furnish the Chairman of this Committee, not later than the 1st day of May, 1908, a list of persons desired by him as inspectors for the several precincts.

Be it further resolved, That the Chairman of this Committee be and he is hereby empowered to appoint a Committee to be composed of five members, and to be known as a Campaign Committee, whose duty it shall be to ascertain the amount necessary to defray the expense of holding and conducting said primary election, his pro rata part of the same and to further do all things lawful and necessary that said election may be properly held and conducted.

Be it further resolved, That any candidate failing to pay the amount assessed against him by said Campaign Committee, as hereinbefore provided, on or before the 2nd day of May, 1908, shall not be entitled to have his name printed on the official ballot at said election.

Be it further resolved, That the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county shall meet at the court house of said county, on Saturday, the 23rd day of May, 1908, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of canvassing and tabulating the returns from the several precincts and the candidate receiving a plurality of the votes cast for the office for which he offers shall be declared the nominee of the Democratic party for said office, and further that the Chairman and Secretary shall certify as to the candidates so voted for and nominated in said primary election.

Dated this 14th day of March, 1908.

THOS. A. CURRY.

Chm'n Dem. Ex. Com. Chilton Co.

FRANK CRICHTON, Sec'y.

The following resolution was unanimously passed:

Resolved, That this Executive Committee of Democrats of Chilton county, recognizing the valuable services of W. B. Craig, as Congressman from this the Fourth District of Alabama, heartily endorse his candidacy for re-election and promise him their hearty support.

Puzzling Differences in Weights.
Which is heavier, a pound of feathers or a pound of lead? They weigh the same.

Which is heavier, a pound of feathers or a pound of silver? The pound of feathers is heavier, because feathers are weighed by avoirdupois weight, which has 7,000 grains to the pound, while the precious metals are weighed by troy weight, which has only 5,760 grains to the pound.

Which is heavier, an ounce of feathers or an ounce of silver? An ounce of silver, because in the troy ounce there are 480 grains, while in the avoirdupois ounce there are only 437 1/2 grains. The avoirdupois pound of 7,000 grains is divided into sixteen ounces, while the lighter troy pound of 5,760 grains is divided into twelve heavier ounces.

When Milk is Richest.

According to some experiments noted by the department of agriculture, it was found that where cows were milked three times a day—morning, noon and evening—the milk was richest at noon and poorest in the morning, and when milked morning and evening the milk was slightly richer in the evening.

To the Democrats of Chilton County.

To the candid political observer, the Democratic party in Chilton county is, and has been, for the last two decades, almost "unknown quantity."

For this condition may be ascribed two primal causes, viz.: a departure from fundamental principles of Democracy and to lack of loyalty and activity on the part of its disciples. The Democratic idea of government is the only true idea—a proposition, the correctness of which, has been established by the judgment and experience of man in all the ages.

Men may differ as to the policies of government, but there can be no denial of the principles, that a government "of the people, for the people and by the people," is the true principle—the Democratic principle—as rugged and immovable as the eternal hills. A principle, love and reverence for which, is inborn in every free citizen.

When there is set up in Chilton county a government faithfully administered upon this principle, then, and only then, will our people be happy and contented. I am sure that every Democrat, as well as every true citizen, regardless of his present or past political notions or affiliations will agree with me on this proposition and freely lend his aid to the end indicated.

American independence would never have been gained, had Washington sheathed his sword and left the field because he was confronted by a powerful enemy with a well organized army. Manila bay would still be unknown on this side of the world, had the intrepid Dewey declined to go in and attack, because the enemy was entrenched behind the fortifications of his own harbor. No battle was ever fought without courage and no victory ever won without effort.

Fellow Democrats, we have slept in the trenches long enough. We are weary of Chilton's being a political outpost from the sisterhood of counties in our proud State. Let us arise to the full measure of our duty to our party, to our country and our posterity. As Chairman of your Executive Committee, I pledge you the best that is within me, towards the restoration of Democracy in Chilton county, to that honor and respect to which it is entitled and with the proper support and co-operation of the Democrats of the county, I here and now promise that when the votes are counted after the general election in November next, that Chilton is redeemed.

Your willing servant,
THOS. A. CURRY.

NEWTON "RALLY."

Dear Editor—I have been thinking for some time of asking you for a short column that I might tell your readers something about Newton.

The substance of the letters from time to time might be headed "Many things from Newton," for we have many things here that, it seems, would be interesting to your county, more especially the Baptists.

Newton is a small town. Its name may be smaller now, but some day it will be a city of fame, not for its size, nor for its situation, not for its value in dollars and cents but for its noble aim in training the minds and hearts of Alabama's boys and girls. Not every one knows where Newton is, it's so small, but on last Thursday Mar. 12, 1908, a step was made that will go down in history, and that will bring in due time a new village on the scene. Newton is on a hill. Every knob around her is holy; every grain of sand beneath her is sacred, because here is a spot chosen, it seems, by the Divine hand. Here is located the Baptist Collegiate Institute, a school about which it would be impossible to say too much, and which may be one of the many topics soon.

The object of this letter, after some explanation, is to mention one remarkable event. The building here is very poor. On last Wednesday many Baptists from this section came to Newton to attend a bible institute, the purpose of which was to arouse the Baptists and begin a plan for a new B. C. I. building. On Thursday night the meeting reached its climax, when six thousand dollars were pledged for the new building. The pupils, as un-able as they are, stood by the school that they so dearly love, like heroes, and pledged more than two thousand dollars. In one day eight thousand dollars were pledged. This indicates that in the near future this hill will be crowned with a magnificent building as a monument to all Baptists who love a christian school well enough to contribute a few dollars. Would to-day that our county could see its needs, its boys and girls and awake from sleep and crown some of her hills with a christian school that stands for higher education.

If this is approved by the Editor will come again in next issue.

Little Watts

By Frank H. Sweet.

Copyright, 1927, by Frank H. Sweet.

No matter how cold or stormy it was Little Watts was always waiting for his papers in front of the Daily Leader office at half past 4 in the morning. It was often stormy and always cold at that hour in the thriving and populous Rocky mountain mining town in which the Leader was published, and Little Watts lived a mile from the office in a poor wooden house near one of the great mines.

I met him one morning hurrying down the stony, deserted, unlighted street. The wind was blowing keen and cold, the air was filled with fine, sleety snowflakes, and I thought when I saw Little Watts that the fates had not been kind to the boy or he would have been warm and snug in bed at home at that hour.

But the Leader was published every morning, and Little Watts had regular customers at whose doors he left his papers before he hurried away to the early morning trains.

He was only twelve years old and small for his years, and he would never be much larger or stronger. A great hump between his narrow shoulders told a sorrowful story of a fall down a long flight of tenement house stairs when he was only two years old.

It was often my duty to count out to the boys the papers as they came from the press. That is how I happened to know Little Watts.

His name was Clarence, but I never heard him called by any other name than Little Watts.

I remember when I saw the boy and heard his name for the first time. It was the first morning I gave the papers out to the boys. The Leader that morning contained one of the matters of important news that always increase the demand for the papers, and the moment the office door was opened the newsboys came pushing and scrambling in, each eager to be first.

Suddenly the largest of the boys, a low browed, thick lippled, stocky fellow, began to beat the other boys back. "Git back, fellers!" he shouted. "Git back, I tell ye! Ye're scroungin' the life out o' Little Watts! Ye know he ails his papers fast. Git back, now!"

The other boys fell back, and out from among them came Little Watts, bearing evidence of having been pretty severely "scrounged."

His hat had fallen off, and he limped as he struggled forward. The rough boy who had befriended him in a way so surprising to me found his hat and put it on the boy's head, while he said: "Ain't hurt, are ye, Wattay? No? Well, that's good. Git yer papers now and light out, for they'll go like hot cakes this mornin'."

There stood next to the house in which I boarded a small house containing two or three rooms, which had not been occupied for several weeks.

One evening as I went home I saw cheap paper shades at the windows of this little tenement. Smoke was rising from the chimney, and on the step of the open door sat Little Watts playing on a harmonicon.

The door was within three feet of the street, and I stopped to say: "How do you do, Little Watts? Are you going to live here?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then we shall be neighbors. I live next door."

"I'm glad of it, sir," said Little Watts politely.

"You must come in and see me some time," I said. "I have a good many a wonderfully clear and sweet voice. I laid down my book to listen. The words came distinct and beautiful: "Flow gently, sweet Afton, among thy green braes— Flow gently; I'll sing thee a song in thy praise."

Could it be Little Watts singing in such a voice? While I looked and listened I saw Little Watts coming from a well at the back of the house with a pail of water.

I could not restrain my curiosity. As he came near my window I asked: "Who is that singing?"

"My sister Elise," he answered eagerly, his face beaming.

"She has a wonderful voice," I said. "Hasn't she, though?" exclaimed Little Watts, with more enthusiasm than I had ever before seen in him.

"Did you ever hear any of those big singers?" he went on.

"Yes."

"Can they sing any better than she can?"

"Well, they are much older than your sister, and of course they are highly trained. How old is your sister?"

"Sixteen."

Before many days I and others in our neighborhood sat in the scanty

I ASKED, "WHO IS THAT SINGING?" furnished living room of Mrs. Watts' house and heard Elise sing.

Mrs. Watts was a widow, and Elise and Clarence were her only children. A small pension partly supported their wants, and Mrs. Watts and Elise took in plain sewing when they could get it, but Little Watts' earnings from the sale of his papers were their chief source of income.

It seemed to me that they might live a little more comfortably, but one day Little Watts confided a secret to me. "We're saving for Elise," he said. "She's going to be a big singer some day after she's gone away and studied and had a chance. I'm saving up for that."

This was the reason why Little Watts wore such shabby clothes, and this was why their home was so poor and bare and their table so scantily supplied. This was why Little Watts walked the streets in all kinds of weather, crying his papers at an hour when other boys slept.

One, two years passed. I was still in the Leader office. Little Watts still came before daylight for his papers and was called Little Watts still, for he was not noticeably larger or stronger than when I saw him first. He still lived next door to my own home, and Elise was going away.

She had been singing in church choirs and at concerts, and some ladies who had become interested in her, but who were unable to lend her money for her study, had given her a benefit concert, which the Leader had widely advertised without charge on account of Little Watts.

But most of the money that was to pay for Elise's two years of study in the east had been or would be earned by Little Watts.

"But when I come back he shall work no more," Elise said to me, with the tears in her eyes. "I shall earn it then, and he shall go to New York to study drawing and engraving. He's so eager to learn it, you know, but he won't say much about it or even think about it until I begin to earn money."

Quite a little company of us went to the station to see Elise off. Of course Little Watts was there. His large eyes were shining through his tears, and his white face was wreathed in smiles, though I knew his heart ached with sorrow at the thought of two years without her.

But the boy cried his papers just as loudly and cheerily as ever next day—the Leader in the morning, when day was breaking, and the Times at night, when the day was gone.

I often met him hurrying around the corners of almost deserted streets or paying a last visit to the hotels, where he hoped to sell another paper at an hour when all other newsboys had gone home.

Every paper he sold counted, not for himself, but for Elise. He and his mother lived upon the pension and her sewing.

Every month a draft to the amount of all of Little Watts' earnings went to New York to Elise, and every week she wrote encouraging letters of what her teachers said about her voice and of her hopes for the future.

"I knew they'd have to say her voice wasn't anything common," Little Watts said proudly to me when the first of her letters came. "I knew she'd astonish 'em!"

Twice the mountains changed from green to white and from white to green. They were changing to white again when Elise wrote the letter that told when she would start for home. Little Watts brought me the letter to read.

"I shall reach home about the last day of October," she wrote. "You need not send me any more money. I am afraid you have sent me too much now. It is time for me to begin paying it back to you. You must be here next year and I at home working and earning money for you. If I'm not too tired, I shall sing for you and mother the very night I come. I'm so anxious to show you how well your money has been spent."

She was delayed a little and came on the third day of November. It was on the afternoon of the first day of that month that the main whose duty it now was to give out the papers said to me: "Little Watts didn't show up for his papers this morning. It's the first morning he's failed to come since I've been here. I wonder if he's sick?"

"Not that I know of," I replied. "It was a terribly stormy morning, you know."

"The weather has never made any difference with him before. He's been on hand the first one many a morning worse than this. Poor little chap! How he's escaped pneumonia as long as he has is a wonder to me."

The sun had not shone for three days. First rain and then snow had fallen nearly all the time. A force cold wind had swept down from the mountains. The barren town had never seemed so gloomy and cheerless and desolate to me as it did now.

At noon I went to see Little Watts. His mother came to the door and said briefly and in a low tone, for Little Watts was in the next room and the door was open:

"He's real sick. The doctor is afraid it's going to be pneumonia. I've tried to keep him in the last three days, but he would go out. You see why?"

Her eyes were full of tears as she pointed toward the corner of the room. There stood a shining upright piano, with a stool of crimson velvet before it.

"He made the first payment on them yesterday," Mrs. Watts said. "He was so anxious to have them here for Elise."

"Well, he's a perfect little hero, Mrs. Watts," I said under my breath, but heartily. "I believe he will be able to fight off even the pneumonia for the sake of Elise."

He was worse the next day. "He'll never be any better," said the doctor in the afternoon when I met him coming out of the shabby little house.

In the evening Little Watts said in a whisper: "She'll be here in the morning, won't she?"

"At 8 o'clock," I said.

"Then I'll hear her sing again," he answered.

The wind died away in the night. The skies cleared. All of the distant ranges, the nearer hills and the streets of the town were white with snow when the sun came out the next morning. Elise came at 8 o'clock. Little Watts pulled himself up on his pillows to meet her and welcome her.

There was no sign in his eyes or face of sorrow in his heart at this ending of all his own hopes and plans for the future. He met Elise with a smile and with tearful eyes. For a moment she thought it must all have been a mistake about his being so ill.

"Now go and sing for me," he said after a few minutes.

They rolled his bed to the door that he might see her at the new piano. Elise sat before it with streaming eyes and sang the little ballads and the old songs he had loved so well.

"There was one," he whispered, "about the shining shore and my Father hath many mansions." Would you sing that, Elise?"

She sang it with trembling voice, and while she was singing Little Watts looked up with wide open eyes as if he were gazing at something wonderful that he could not see and then sank back, his eyes closed forever.

Prof. R. A. Howell, of Havana, Cuba, recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and a friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. R. A. Howell, of Havana, Cuba.

On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold. The next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he is fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. ROYAL SCHOOLMASTERS.

Kings Who Turned to Teaching to Make a Living.

In the early part of the life of King Christian IX. of Denmark there was no prospect of his ever becoming the ruler of that country. With this in view he became a schoolmaster at the German university of Halle.

Being too poor to keep a servant, the Dowager Czarina Dagmar of Russia, one of his daughters, used to help her mother to do the household work and take care of the younger children. During this period there were King Frederick VII. and several others in the direct line of succession that stood before Prince Christian; but, by a succession of deaths that occurred, he became the heir apparent, and after the death of King Frederick VII. in 1892 he was proclaimed King Christian IX. of Denmark.

Another instance of a similar nature is that of Louis Philippe. During the time he was exiled from France, then being the Duc de Chartres, he became a teacher of mathematics and geography in Switzerland. About thirty-six or thirty-seven years afterward, on Aug. 9, 1830, he was proclaimed King Louis Philippe of the French.—London Answers.

Cricketers to Play in England.
Philadelphia is going to send a cricket team to England again next summer to beat the lions of this ancient outdoor game in their own jungle. A schedule of contests is now nearly completed, and while it is not quite so good as the gentlemen of Philadelphia had on their last trip in 1903 it is considered a very satisfactory one from many angles. The members of the team expect to sail about June 25, and the return to this country will be about Sept. 1. The team that has been chosen for this trip is considered one of the best all around combinations that have ever represented Philadelphia abroad. All the men chosen, with four exceptions, have played in England previously on all Philadelphia teams. These four men are Greene, Morice, Hordern and Winter. The latter two have played abroad, however, being members of the University of Pennsylv-

vania team which played over there last summer.

Cornell's Soccer Football Eleven.
The Association football team of Cornell university is probably the most cosmopolitan collection of players that has ever been assembled as a team in an American educational institution. This is the team which recently accepted the challenge to play a series of games with the Paulista Football league of Sao Paulo, Brazil, in South America, and an answer to the acceptance is now being awaited. The Cornell team is composed of players from four continents and seven countries. Only five of the players are from the United States. The other six come from Brazil, the Argentine Republic, Uruguay, Spain, Greece and Armenia. A. Arthur Serramento, the manager, who is also a player, hails from Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic.

THE PLAY ITSELF WAS GOOD.

That Much, at Least, the Actor-Critic Had to Admit.

John Hare, the English actor, once went to see one of Beerbohm Tree's infrequent performances of Hamlet. He would willingly have avoided Tree for some little time afterward for reasons obvious to others who, like him, had seen this least impressive of this actor's roles.

Hare chivalrously remained in his box to the end of the play. As the curtain descended on each act he had dreaded the invitation of his fellow player to his dressing room, where the usual courtesies would have been expected.

Act by act slipped by without any word from the stage, and Hare grew proportionately relieved. As the last curtain fell, however, and Hare retired from the box he found a messenger at the door with "Mr. Tree's compliments, and wouldn't he come home for a bite of supper with some friends?"

At table Hare parried opening after opening, yet not once did Tree refer directly to his Hamlet. Hare on his part dreaded every break in the conversation would bring the dreaded topic. After a decent time he drew away from table to go home. Tree accompanied him to the hall to put on his coat. "Now's my hour," thought Hare. Not one word from Tree. They shook hands on the threshold, and Hare started down the steps in happy relief. Tree followed him to his carriage. Hare heard him in dread. Still the topic was avoided. Tree, with cordial courtesy, opened the door. Hare slipped into the cushions of the carriage. Joyfully heard the door slam and drew a deep sigh.

But before the horses started Tree's head was in at the window, and he said, with blighting suavity:

"At least, John, you'll admit it's a good play."

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. C. Witt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs.; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

THE TALL SOLDIER.

Adventure of an English Military Officer in Warsaw.

In "Tales of My Father" Mr. Falls tells of an adventure experienced by him while visiting a friend in Warsaw. He had been walking with the prince and had stepped into a small cafe. At the next table sat a tall Russian soldier with one or two companions. The soldier took out a box of dominoes and challenged one of his friends to a game.

The prince said to my father: "Go ask him to play with you. I know him, and he is an interesting man to talk to."

My father crossed over to the table with the prince, who said something in Polish. The soldier immediately invited my father to sit down and play. At the end of a game the soldier remarked:

"My regiment is quartered at St. Petersburg. If you ever go there call at the barracks and ask for Sergeant H."

"If you ever go to London call at the life guards barracks and ask for Captain H," returned my father.

The Russian rose, saying it was not for him to sit in the presence of his superior officer, saluted and left the cafe.

"Whoever your friend is, he is a tall man," remarked my father.

"My friend with whom you have been talking and playing dominoes is the great czar—the Emperor Nicholas. He has been here for a week. It is his habit to go about disguised and to mix among the people. Those who know him would not lift a finger to harm him. He trusts himself to us and carries his life in his hand. He is safer in these cafes than in the gilded halls of the White palace at St. Petersburg."

The next day my father saw the emperor leave Warsaw, followed by a muttered curse of the people. With a wonderful remembrance of faces, he recognized my father in the crowd and Helps to Corn and Cotton Planters.

United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Plant Industry, Farmers' Co-operative Union Demonstration Work.

The past winter has been so wet
that there has been less than usual opportunity to prepare the land for this year's crop. The rains have continued so late that many fields are still very wet. These conditions make it all the more necessary that the soil be well prepared before planting. In the impatience to commence planting the temptation to plow before the land is dry enough is very great. Against this we issue a word of warning.

There are few more injurious farm practices. Land plowed wet at this time is injured for the whole season. Such land is more than likely to be cloddy, and a clod in the field is of little use to plants.
Cloddy land is hard to work and seldom gives a good stand. It furnishes a minimum of food to the plants and is exceedingly subject to drouth.

While it is desirable, especially in the boll-weevil sections, to plant cotton as early as possible, yet there is nothing gained by placing the seed in the ground before the latter is warm enough to cause it to germinate and grow; or before the soil is thoroughly prepared. This was strongly illustrated last year in boll weevil sections. Where the land was properly prepared before planting, even though this preparation caused a delay in putting the seed into the ground, the yield was much better than where attention was not given to this detail. A thorough preparation is more than half the cultivation. Do not plant either cotton or corn before the land is worked into a fine seed bed even if planting is a little late.

Last spring a great amount of trouble was experienced in securing stands, especially of cotton. This was primarily due to a late, wet spring; but there were other contributing factors, including poor preparation of land, improper depth of planting and poor seed.
The farmers seem fairly well aroused to the importance of good seed.
To be good the seed must not only be from a good variety but must have been carefully selected and so cared for that they have strong vitality. Be sure the seeds planted have not been damaged from any cause. Prepare the land thoroughly and sufficiently in advance of planting so that there is a firm seed bed. Then avoid one of the most common causes of loss of standing of planting too deep.

With well-prepared land good cotton seed, if properly planted, will germinate even in a dry spring
when covered to no greater depth than one-fourth inch. Many of the cotton-planting machines on the market are faulty in that it is almost impossible to gauge the depth at which the seeds are placed in the ground. This defect is only increased if the seed bed is loose.
Further, while the seed may not actually be covered to a great depth, many leave them in a trench with hills of loose dirt on each side.
The first good rain washes this dirt into the trench and buries the seed too deep. This should be avoided.
A light roller should always follow the planting so as to press the ground close to the seed.

It is best even where it is not necessary to plant upon beds, to place the seed upon a slight ridge, especially in planting early. This insures drainage and warmth and consequently a good stand. There are more stands lost in planting cotton by using too much than too little seed. When a bushel of seed is used it is very often a detriment, because the seeds are so close that when they germinate they lift the soil in the whole top of the row.
If dry or a little wet weather follows the soil immediately around the young plant dries out or is chilled by the cool nights and the plants die. If this does not occur the farmer is obliged to thin the cotton when very young, while the plants are delicate and are easily injured. Perfect stands of cotton have been obtained with but few pounds of seed and if the seed has been properly selected and preserved it should never require more than a peck per acre, provided the land is in good condition and the seed is properly planted.

Prepare the land thoroughly before planting. Use selected seed of known parentage and good quality.

Plant shallow—not over 1 inch in depth on a firm seed bed.

Follow planting with a roller and see that the seed drill is not in a trench.

Be sure the seed bed is well drained.

With these precautions there should be no danger of a stand of either cotton or corn

this year. These directions are for normal conditions and are applic- able with all ordinary seasons and soils.

WESTERN ROWS AND DISTANCE OF PLANTS IN THE ROW.

Owing to the difference in soil fertility and varieties of cotton, it is impossible to give any general rule for distance between the rows and for spacing of the plants in the row. However, as some guide we give the following:

On good uplands ordinarily producing one-half to three-fourths of a bale of cotton per acre, plant in rows four feet apart and give not less than sixteen inches space between plants in the row.

On rich bottom lands where excessive stubble are produced, plant in rows not less than five feet apart and give two feet space between plants in rows. Increase or decrease these distances (rows and spaces) according to the strength of the soil and the usual size of the cotton plants.

On post oak flats and alluvial lands like the Mississippi bottoms, give full distance between the rows so as to make a broad ridge for the plants and provide for surface drainage.

Shoulds.
Editor Banner—Please allow me
space in your valuable paper to say a few words to Mr. Latham's letter from Birmingham. It seems like that Big Ike has got after the tiger too close to suit him. Now, Mr.
Latham is trying to make it appear that he is a powerful tiger catcher.
Did you all notice how he boasted about what he would do if he could get Big Ike's name for Shoulds?

I want to tell you that the people around Shoulds know something about his tiger fighting and making Shoulds prohibition when he lived here. Now, Mr. Latham, we have not had any tiger nor tiger juice since you left Shoulds until here of late, I have seen some of his signs.
I do not think his den is in Shoulds, but he visits our town some. I believe Big Ike has him scared out of our town now, or I hope so, for I am afraid of tiger juice, as they call it, and I want to tell you why I am afraid of it, first, I have always been taught by father that it was dangerous and he proved it to me, for I lived with him 23 years and never saw him touch a drop and he would never give his children a drop, and I believe he saw danger. That isn't all that makes me fear it, for it will make you mistreat your dear mother and father and wife and children and send your soul to hell at last, and why should not we all be afraid of it? I want to tell you what that awful stuff is doing. We have young men in our community who could be a blessing to our country
if they had not gotten in the habit of drinking. Oh, it seems that those habits have to be satisfied if everything else goes unsatisfied. I know of fathers who will go off and leave their dear wife and children just to satisfy that habit. Just think of the trouble that it brings to that home when mother has to carry on everything and night comes on—the time to rest, no husband there, she has heart and hands full, no rest for that soul that night.
Oh, what is worse than that? for the mother has a hard enough time when father does his part. I often think of the seed that he is sowing in his children's hearts; father sows the seed and children reap.
Oh, fathers, let us sow the right seed in our children's hearts and we will do away with them.

I have been looking for Big Ike to answer Mr. Latham. It seems that some of them do not know
Big Ike when he calls for help.

NEW THEORY SUCCESSFUL

IN INDIANAPOLIS

L. T. Cooper Makes Many Converts During Stay in That City.

"The new theory (backed up by his preparation) advanced by L. T.
Cooper with regard to the cause of most ill health of the present generation is being given broadcast by this young man."

Cooper believes that the human stomach has become degenerate in civilized races and claims that good health is impossible unless the stomach is re-vitalized. This he claims to do with his preparation.

An article from the Indianapolis Star during Cooper's stay in that city has this to say of Cooper and his preparation: "Residents of this city are being astounded by L. T. Cooper and his new preparation."

"Reports that preceded Mr. Cooper's visit here told of his success in other localities, but the immense success of his medicine and the general belief in his theory was wholly unprecedented."

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

This is to again call your attention to the new ruling of the Postmaster General which went into effect January 1, 1908, but the time has been extended to April 1, 1908.

The Postmaster General announces that subscribers who are more than twelve months in arrears cannot be considered legitimate subscribers, and refuses to carry their papers at the second class rate.

Under these circumstances we very respectfully ask that all subscribers who are due us for more than a year's subscription, will kindly settle their back dues, so that we may continue to send them The Banner.

If it is not convenient to pay in advance we will cheerfully give you one year's credit, but back dues must be paid up by April 1, or the paper must be discontinued.

The Postmaster General's ruling must be obeyed.

For the last three months we have been calling the attention of backward subscribers to the ruling of the Postmaster-General that after April 1, all subscribers who are more than twelve months in arrears with their subscription cannot be considered legitimate subscribers, and publishers cannot send papers to them through the mail at second-class rates. In our last issue we marked the date on each subscriber's paper who was due more than one year, so that each one could for himself see how much he was behind, and we are proud to say a large number have paid up. To those who have taken no notice of our frequent appeals we regret to say this is the last paper we can send them until they have paid up their back dues. It is a matter in which we have no choice, however our inclinations may be, and the amount at stake is still so large that we shall be compelled to place all arrears of subscription in the hands of a collector.

Fare thee well, delinquents. We hope not for long, but until your delinquencies are made good.

Paint and paste cover a multitude of lots of things, and when you are about it, it is well to have the best you can get hold of. The Birmingham Paint and Glass Company, whose advertisement you will find in another column has a great reputation for the material the supply, and if you are going to paint you cannot do better than get their prices, and convince yourself of the results of their goods.

In the case of Manuel Keith, Judge Pearson rules that Chilton county has the right to work its convicts on its roads.

Our manufacturers are entitled to home money, and so are our home merchants. Development becomes possible when home products and home stores are sought by home people. Home money spent at home does double duty at least.—Age-Herald.

A CASH OFFER.

The Banner has made a special clubbing rate with The Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the regular subscription price, $1.00. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer; $1.00 cash for both papers. Everyone should take their home paper first for the local news, and then a general weekly for the news of the world. These two papers make a strong combination. Both papers $1.00.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTION.

ALL members of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County, Ala., do hereby certify that the following regulations were adopted, to-wit:

Whereas the State Democratic Executive Committee did on the 10th day of February, 1908, order primary elections to be held in the several counties of the State of Alabama, for the nomination of Judges, Congressmen and County officers, who, by law, are to be elected at the general election in November, 1908, and prescribing rules regulating the holding of said primary election, therefore,

Be it resolved, That the plan, rules and regulations set forth by the said State Democratic Executive Committee for said primary election be adopted and enforced.

Be it further resolved, That a primary election be held on Monday, the 18th day of May, 1908, in the several precincts of Chilton county, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Treasurer, Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Superintendent of Education, two County Commissioners for Districts 1 and 2, a Coroner and two Justices of the Peace and one Constable for each precinct within the county, and also for the purpose of electing a Democratic Executive Committeeman from each precinct within the county.

Be it further resolved, That said primary election shall be held in accordance with the State primary election law and under the rules heretofore governing the holding of such primary.

Be it further resolved, That each candidate for county office shall have the right to furnish the Chairman of this Committee, not later than the 1st day of May, 1908, a list of persons desired by him as inspectors for the several precincts.

Be it further resolved, That the Chairman of this Committee be and he is hereby empowered to appoint a Committee to be composed of five members, and to be known as a Campaign Committee, whose duty it shall be to ascertain the amount necessary to conduct said primary election, and assess each candidate for county office, his pro rata part of the same and to further do all things lawful and necessary that said election may be properly held and conducted.

Be it further resolved, That any candidate failing to pay the amount assessed against him by said Campaign Committee, as hereinbefore provided, on or before the 2nd day of May, 1908, shall not be entitled to have his name printed on the official ballot at said election.

Be it further resolved, That the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county shall meet at the court house of said county, on Saturday, the 23d day of May, 1908, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of canvassing and tabulating the returns from the several precincts and the candidate receiving a plurality of the votes cast for the office for which he offers shall be declared the nominee of the Democratic party for said office, and further that the Chairman and Secretary shall certify as is provided by law, the names of the candidates so voted for and nominated in said primary election.

Dated this 14th day of March, 1908.

The First "Coin Sweater."

"Coin sweating," which so often figures in the Old Bailey calendar, is a very, very old crime. More than six centuries before Christ there was a coin sweater, one Alexander of Byzantium. He was chief officer of the public treasury, and he amassed an immense and sudden fortune by "clipping" the money in so skillful a manner that his frauds could only be discovered by weighing. The Byzantines gave him the nickname of "The File" from his making such dextrous use of that tool, whence probably comes the modern term of "file" applied to thieves, pickpockets and cunning hard-headed scoundrels.—Pearson's Weekly.

Clothing in China.

In winter throughout the cold latitudes of China the Chinese of all classes wear fur, wool or hair lined garments. Even the cool laborers have their sheep or goat skins, and people of the middle and official classes have many sets of garments lined with the richest furs. In China houses are rarely heated to the winter temperatures of European or American interiors, and in consequence fur lined clothes are worn indoors as well as out.

FINANCIAL AND BUSINESS IN FLORIDA.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Mar. 20, '08.

Editor Banner.—It is so beautiful here now in this land of eternal youth and bloom, that I feel like exclaiming with the poet.

"O wide, beautiful, wonderful world.
With the wonderful waters around you curied,
And the wonderful waves upon your breast,
World you are wonderfully, beautifully great."

And no place that I have yet seen in Florida is quite so lovely as St. Petersburg. Its wide water front and elevation give one an idea of so much elbow room as to speak.

There was an excursion to Tarpon Spring yesterday, in the interest of a land sale, and a party of us went over. Prices were given and a free lot was drawn by Mrs. Good-nough, whose husband is leader of the Petersburg band. The sale was several miles out of town, and the lots fifty by one hundred and forty, went at an average of one hundred dollars. Visitors were carried out in free carriages and treated to a free lunch. My party did not care for the sale, preferring another kind of sail, which are much more delightful. So we hired a carriage and drove out to see the sponge vessels unloaded, and out to the sponge exchange. There we saw sponges of nearly every size, shape and description. The sponge divers' outfit, which costs about $100, was very interesting. No wonder that sponges are so costly. It takes two men pumping as hard as they can go, to send down enough air for each diver, and they are compelled to be relieved every fifteen minutes. Therefore, not only is the outfit expensive but it requires several men to aid each diver. The sponges have to be cleaned and bleached, in fact go through several processes before they are ready for the market. We saw the Greeks sitting in the coffee houses, drinking and smoking. One man we observed, was smoking through a long curious tube which terminated in a jar of queer shape. It was amusing to listen to their talk, and they looked extremely barbarous and piratical, with their black hair, flashing dark eyes and swarthy complexions.

One of my party asked of me what they were saying, remarking that since I had studied Greek at college, possibly I could tell them. I laughingly told them that it was a good thing they had put in the "possibly," and that we had better be going as all I understood was "cut 'em up, cut 'em up."

I had to lay this letter aside yesterday as some friends came over for me to go in bathing with them. We had a most delightful time, the thermometer being at eighty-five in the shade. We splashed and floated in the salt water and had a fine and dandy time. But presto, change!

This morn, the thermometer stands at sixty, a fall of twenty-five degrees, which rather makes one's head dizzy. But though we shiver a bit, we solace ourselves with the thought of how you people must be quaking and shaking "up North." I hardly know in which light the ray is more beautiful, in restful, shimmering, opalescent loveliness or in wild tumultuous spray billows. But I do know that traveling on it is more pleasant when 'tis quiet. A friend, Mr. Goodrich, who owns a launch, carried a party of us to the club house, (owned by five people) a ten mile sail, where we had lunch, and then fished from the verandah. The house is built out in piles about two hundred yards out in the bay. The house is usually unoccupied, but a couple are housekeeping there now. They bring their two children over to school every morning and return for them in the evening. They literally live on the water. We hadn't thought of fishing, but seeing their poles, following the men's lead we proceeded to make use of them. I caught a large flounder, the first large fish I ever caught, and was so delighted, also the fish jumped about at such lively rate that the party decided there were two flounders on the verandah. It seemed as though we were trying to stock an aquarium, from the variety that we caught. One caught a bone fish, another a couple of blow fish, that if you scratch and anger a bit, will puff up like some people I know of. Some also added sailor's choice, speckled trout, dog fish, etc., not counting numerous shiners which we scorned to take home. We had a most delightful fish supper. Returning the boy was somewhat choppy, and spray dashed over us several times, but everything is fun on the water. We passed through quite a fleet of boats fishing and trolling for mackerel. People fish continually from the docks, but usually catch small fry, or spend their time in feeding the fish.

Yours respectfully,
STELLA G. SPENCER.

Local School House.

Editor Banner.—Please allow me a small space in your most valuable paper to say a few words in regard to our school which closed March 19, taught by Miss Carrie Walker of Plantersville. About 11 o'clock the patrons began to gather in, and at 12 a most beautiful dinner was spread which was enjoyed by all present. Our exercises are not so worth mentioning as school was somewhat short, some of the pupils having stopped to work on the farm. Among our visitors was Mr. Ford from Selma. We were sorry to see our teacher leave us, but sincerely hope to have her with us again next session, and not a single face will be missing.

Miss Walker is a woman of great intelligence and morality. During her five months stay with us she never seemed to grow tired of instructing her pupils. Her pleasant face and sweet ways won many friends while in our midst. Miss Walker is a fine instructor and manager, any community would do well to obtain her for a teacher, for she is competent of teaching any school. The day is coming and will soon be here when people who are not educated will not be seen by the business people. So let us strive to do more in the future than in the past. Our government and all public offices will have to be filled and all that are prepared will find such positions waiting for them. Without education we can do nothing compared to those that have. Our school system is getting better and better every year, and in a few years this beautiful Southland of ours will be proud of its bright boys and girls with ready hearts and hands to do almost anything that they may be called upon. The school house should be a place of love and admiration, tendered with utmost care, protected from the frost of jealousy and hatred. So let us make our way a pasture ever bright and green. In conclusion, would say to our teacher, may she ever be crowned with success, in the wish of her many friends.

Sincerely,
SCHOOL GIRL.

IN MEMORIAM
 Clanton, Ala., March 20, 1908
 To the Excellent High Priest, King and Seals and companions of Clanton Royal Arch Chapter No. 126.
 We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Companion William M. Gore, beg to submit the following:
 We find that Companion William M. Gore was born on the 9th day of July 1845 in Shelby county, Alabama, and died at his home near Clanton, Chilton county, on the 11th day of January, 1908.
 In the year 1861 he was married to Sara A. Weldon, whom God in his infinite wisdom, saw fit to take from earth to heaven about two years before the death of our companion.
 To this happy union God gave four sons and one daughter, all of which survive him.
 In the spring of 1863 he volunteered and entered the Confederate Army and served his country until the close of the war. He was ever loyal to his fellow-men, his country and his God. He professed christianity and was baptized into the fellowship of the Missionary Baptist church in the year 1876 and lived and died a christian and.

Whereas he identified himself with Clanton Lodge No. 423 A. F. & A. M. and was raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason on the 3rd day of September, 1893 and.

Whereas he was received and advanced to the degree of Mark Master on May 25, 1901, introduced and inducted on June 8th, 1901 received and acknowledged most Excellent Master on June 22, 1901, and exalted to the Most August degree of Royal Arch Mason on August 19, 1901.

Therefore, be it resolved that in the death of our highly esteemed companion we are made to realize the loss of a worthy companion, of whom we can say was ever at hand and ready to obey the mandates of his chief and to serve his companions.

Be it further resolved that Clanton Royal Arch Chapter, by his death, has sustained an irreparable loss, yet we bow in humble submission to the will of the great Supreme Architect, feeling that by the death of our worthy companion he has admission into the grand chapter or holy of holies above.

Be it further resolved that these resolutions be given special space and spread on our minute books and published in the paper and a copy furnished the bereaved family of our deceased companion.

Respectfully submitted,
 W. L. MULLINS

By Charles Frederic Goss.

Copyright, 1917, by C. F. Goss.

THE Jenkins' donkey was as well known in Charlottesville as the schoolteacher, minister, or doctor. For twenty years or more it had hauled the family and the family produce in and out of town. There were many who could remember it when young and dapper, but the passing years had altered its age, appearance and disposition very much indeed. When left in front of the store he did not need to be tied and afforded an effective illustration of the principle of inertia to the master of the village school.

"When a moving body comes to rest," he would say to pupils of the class in physics, "It remains as inert as the Jenkins' donkey until some extraneous impulse starts it up again."

The Jenkins had prospered, owing, all agreed, quite as much to the capabilities of Jehu as to any other member of the family, and they now possessed a team of horses that could travel faster and farther than the patient ass and carry twenty times as much. What to do with this superannuated supernumerary had become the greatest problem of the household, and the hired man, who had just come in from the barn with a couple of Jehu's heel marks upon his person, angrily proposed that the "doggone beast be shot!"

"Shot!" cried the sharp voice of Mrs. Jenkins as if a pistol had suddenly gone off. "I'd like to see it tried!"

"Oo soot my Zebbo, and I soot oo!" exclaimed little Bobby, who loved the donkey as he loved his life.

"Poor old Jehu! He's seen his best days! We'll have to get rid of him somehow," Mr. Jenkins said, taking Bobby in his arms and gazing at the once active and useful donkey, who had now laid his chin across a pair of bars and was gazing retrospectively into the distance.

"And so have some of the rest of us, but it doesn't follow that we have to be shot, does it?" Mrs. Jenkins asked, looking savagely at the back of the hired man, who was limping up and down the room.

"Fodder's scarce," suggested Tom, the oldest son, a thrifty fellow who was working his father's farm on shares.

"And you can bet your sweet life that old Jehu hasn't lost his appetite with his teeth," laughed Dan, the second son, a whimsical, happy-go-lucky youngster of sixteen, who saw the funny side of everything.

"It's a shame to talk so slightly about our dear and faithful friend!" exclaimed the daughter Susie, whose gentle voice was always lifted in behalf of weakness or of suffering.

"But he hasn't done a lick of work for six months, and he's got the heaves so that you can hear him breathe a mile away! He keeps us awake at night! I'm for selling him to a peddler!" Dan replied, seizing this promising opportunity to tease his sister, whom he secretly adored.

"I consider that the height of ingratitude!" Susie answered, looking reproachfully at her brother.

"Nevertheless, old Jehu is a problem," Father Jenkins said.

"Not as long as there is grass in the meadow or fodder in the stall!" his wife declared in a tone of voice that invariably terminated family disputes and now led her husband to reply:

"All right, Emily! If you say keep him, keep him! I reckon he won't live long anyway!"

"Not! He'll go off in one of his coughing spells or choke on a corn-stalk, poor old beaver!" Dan declared gaily, as if announcing the most cheerful event in the world, but started down the path to the barn and patted the side of the ass.

With the cantankerousness of old age, Jehu snapped at the caressing hand, and with the swift impulsiveness of youth Dan slapped him on the jaw.

"Take care!" called his father's admonishing voice.

"It's the only language he hasn't forgotten!" Dan rejoined.

At this moment the bell on the top of a tall pole in the kitchen began to ring. The "barn" came hurrying from the barn, and the family assembled round the table, loaded with good things. The serious business of satisfying the clamorous demands of nature put the thought of Jehu out of every mind, but at the conclusion of the meal Dan led the limping donkey down the long lane to the pasture between fences over the rails of which the woodbine was clambering and in whose corner the sumac with its red blossoms and the elderberries with their purple fruit were standing thick.

Letting down the bars, he stuck his thumb into the lean ribs of the donkey and when that resentful creature reared and kicked chucked with a boundless joy.

"You're apaiserinkum hasn't he?" he burned up yet, eh, old man?" he said. Jehu did not reply, but stood with his back turned until Dan replaced the bars and went away, when he laid his chin upon the topmost rail and watched his youthful master with a meditative eye.

What his reflections were a man may only guess; but, judging from the expression of his countenance, they were a gloomy mixture of skepticism, cynicism and despair of life.

After he had ruminated for a long time upon the mysteries of existence Jehu turned away to break his fast. The weather had been moist, and the grass in the meadow was succulent. Into its cool sweetness he dug his aged nozzle and chewed the few shreds which his worn and widely scattered teeth could tear away, with mild regrets for vanished youth. After he had satisfied his appetite he looked about. A flock of sheep were pastured in the field. Some of them were lying down, blinking at the sun and reflectively chewing the cud. Sliding up to these, one after another, he poked his nose into their ribs and roused them up. Was it a spirit of innocent mischief like Dan's that made him do it or envy of their happiness or restlessness of heart? And why was it that he crept quietly behind a young colt and kicked him in the thigh, lifting up his raucous voice in a loud, triumphant hunk as the frightened filly squealed and started down the pasture on a run? Of all the inarticulate and untranslatable sounds of nature that hunk was the most startling and mysterious! What was its true significance? An outpouring of joy, sorrow, anger or despair?

Amid the traditions floating around the school yard there was one about old Jehu's hunk. The teacher had been accustomed to dismiss the school at the sound of a steam whistle which always blew at noon. One day it blew too soon, she thought, but closed the recitation, opened the door and let out the eager throng of little people, only to learn that it was the voice of Jehu she had heard!

More than once during the morning Jehu lifted up his deep, incomprehensible and far-reaching voice, but had the Jenkins family not been completely absorbed in their tasks they would have noticed that in the afternoon it suddenly assumed a different tone. Not only did it become more frequent, more insistent and more remote, but had a plaintive and a pleading quality that had never been heard in it before. And, worse than this, it finally had ceased to sound at all!

But in the multitude of sounds that fell upon the family ears from roosters, cattle, sheep and farm machines Jehu's voice was mingled and lost. When it ceased, it was not missed. No one had bestowed a thought upon the old gray donkey until Susie and little Bob went hand in hand down the long lane to drive the cattle home.

"Where's my Zebbo?" asked the child, whose sharp eyes detected his absence from the crowd of living things about the barn.

Casting her eye over the pasture, Susie saw that he was gone. Inexplicable as this seemed at first, she quickly found the reason why. Just inside the bars there was an old well which had mysteriously gone dry and been covered up by heavy planks. With a start of terror, she observed that this covering had been broken through and that in the splinters of the boards were long tufts of Jehu's almost snow white hair.

"Help, help!" she screamed, putting her pretty hands to her lips and shouting to her brothers in a neighboring field.

"What's the matter?" they inquired, throwing down their hoes and starting on a run.

"Jehu's fallen in the well! Quick! Quick!" she cried. In a few moments the news had traveled all around the farm, and the different members of the family came running from the fields, the barn, the house, to find Susie wringing her hands in helpless grief and little Bobby howling through his tears, "My Zebbo's fallen in a well; he-naughty-ole-well!"

It is one thing to discuss the problem of what to do with an old and faithful servant like the donkey when he is alive, and it is quite another to stand by a deep well into which he has fallen and where he may be suffering agonies from broken bones.

"Here's a pretty 'ow-de-do!' pitiously exclaimed the kind hearted Yorkshireman, who that very morning had proposed to shoot him in cold blood.

"Who knows how much you are to blame—yourself!" exclaimed the implacable Mrs. Jenkins, wiping her blue eyes with a checked apron whose color matched them to a shade.

"Do you think he's dead?" asked Dan in a ghastly whisper, remembering with remorse that his last act had been one of disrespect, if not unkindness.

"As a donkey!" Tom sentimentally replied.

"How deep's the well?" the mother asked.

Some thought it ten and others twenty feet, but all agreed that at Jehu's advanced age even a donkey could not possibly survive to baid a fall. Unquestionably the faithful ass was dead.

"Strange solution of the problem what to do with Jehu, isn't it?" Mr. Jenkins asked in a voice whose tone of the affected grief led Mrs. Jenkins to remark:

"I do believe you're glad he's dead!"

"Oh, no, my dear," he said, quivering with a quite sincere anger. "I'm not exactly glad he's dead; but, then, you know, he had to die some time and in some way, and I reckon he found this one 'bout as satisfactory as any. He's been a good mule, and I'm as sorry as anybody only I'm honest enough to say that he's been saved a lot of trouble."

"Better not preach his funeral sermon till you really know he's dead," Remember 'bout that editorial on Judge Hancock, don't you?" observed the irrepressible Daniel, referring to a newspaper eulogy on the character of a distinguished citizen who had insisted upon defeating the prognostications of the whole medical fraternity and surviving to read his own obituary.

"Oh, he's dead all right," Tom asserted, "or you'd hear him hunk or kick or heave. Listen! There isn't any sound, you see. Old Jehu's done for. Better bury him right where he is, hadn't we, father? It's not often that any one so accommodatingly dies in his own grave."

"Yes, if you're sure. I wouldn't like to bury him alive," the farmer answered and kicked a little loose earth into the well, adding after listening a minute: "That settles it! Better get some shovels and begin."

The time consumed by the hired men in going to the barn for tools was profitably employed in eulogies upon the character and accomplishments of the dead donkey, and never were there more kind and complimentary tributes paid to the worth of any creature down below the scale of human life. And yet it must be sadly said that there was still in every breast but Bobby's that pitiless joy that wells up from living bones over open graves. Who ever died, man or beast, but the gaping crowd consoled its sorrows, some with the reflection that they would now be relieved from a heavy burden of care, some that there would be more standing room on earth, some that they could now wear the abandoned shoes and some that they could spend the substance of the dead? But these are feelings which we try to cover up from our own eyes as well as those of others, and Mrs. Jenkins, who could not perfectly succeed in doing so, was quite as much relieved as all the rest when the men came back with the tools and the rough interment was begun.

How thoughtful the good old donkey seemed to every one! If he had deliberately planned to save them trouble, he could not have arranged the circumstances of his death more conveniently. When the well was dug the earth had not been carried off and now lay a collar round its mouth. The sextons simply had to push it back.

It was not a very deep well either and would require so little time for filling that everybody lingered to see the last of the obsequies of the poor old ass. The men were strong and spaded each other at the work. Shovel after shovel of earth tumbled into the gaping hole with a dull thud. From the sound of the falling clods it was evident that the grave was nearly filled. Mrs. Jenkins and Susie were turning sadly away when suddenly an exclamation of astonishment burst from the lips of the workmen. They turned and with unbelieving eyes beheld old Jehu rising plainly into view, stamping the falling earth with his hoofs and making a solid platform upon which he steadily rose to something of the way the poet says that good men do upon stepping stones of their dead selves to higher things!

For an instant quite a solemn silence brooded over the scene, and then young Daniel voiced a universal thought. "By Jinks," he said, "it's hard to keep a good man down!"

In the single eye of the old Jackson, who gazed about that circle of mortals whose sorrow had been turned into triumph and some thought a malignant look which seemed to say "I play or win," "On top again!"

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS Endorse Our Cod Liver Preparation, Vinol.

Many of the most eminent physicians are now prescribing Vinol as the most satisfactory cod liver preparation. Thus it is fast superseding other forms of cod liver oil and emulsions.

W. N. Rand, M. D., of Evans Mills, N. Y., writes: "From personal experience, I am able to appreciate the value of your cod liver preparation, Vinol. I have used it and prescribed it largely during the past eighteen months, and I want to say that Vinol is all you claim for it and more."

Dr. Bodchelle, of Thomasville, Ga., a physician well known in the South, writes: "I use Vinol in my family and in my general practice with most excellent results for bronchial and pulmonary troubles and to create strength."

Another physician writes: "I am satisfied that Vinol derives its wonderful life-giving and strength-creating power from the medicinal curative elements found in the cod's liver. It is the most satisfactory strength creator and vitalizer for old people, weak women and delicate children which it has ever been my pleasure to prescribe."

The reason that Vinol has such remarkable curative and strength-creating power is because it is made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cod's livers combining with peptonate of iron (which is a useful constituent for the blood) all the medicinal, healing and body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

We ask every person in Clanton who is in need of such a medicine to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it fails to give satisfaction. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

IN MEMORY

of Mrs. Jennie Massey, wife of Mr. Frank Massey, who died at her home near Mt. Pleasant, March 19, 1908. The deceased leaves a husband and three children (the youngest being five months old) a father and mother, two brothers and three sisters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss on earth, which is heaven's gain.

She joined the church at Liberty about six or seven years ago, and has lived a consistent member ever since. She will be greatly missed by her loved ones. She was about 35 years old, and carried sunshine and gladness wherever she went.

Her loved ones should not weep. For in Jesus she doth sleep.

We do not feel that we could speak any consoling words to the bereaved ones, only that they should live to meet her on that golden shore where parting will be no more.

Thou art gone, thy precious darling. Never more can thou return. Thou shalt a deep a joyful slumber Till the resurrection morn.

She was laid to rest at Liberty church, the funeral being preached by Rev. A. L. Foster, a large number of relatives attending. May the Lord comfort the dear ones in their sad hour of grief. It is hard to part with those we love so dearly, but why should we weep when we know that she has gone to rest?

VARIETY TALK.

of the Taking Novelties and Newer Specialties.
By FRANK DEVON.

The golden yellow and extra sweet corn for the table have been the public almost by storm.
The public almost by storm.
The public almost by storm.

GOLDEN HONEY SWEET CORN.

Porte delicacy. It is very early, very sweet by some considered the sweetest corn that grows. As may be inferred from the name, it is dwarf, growing not more than three feet high, and makes a small, compact ear.
In their early stages the grains are pale yellow, maturing to a beautiful golden yellow.

At the head of these tempting golden sweet varieties some connoisseurs
in place Golden Honey sweet corn.
It is medium early, quite prolific and of good size.

It is claimed that both these yellow corns keep in good eating condition longer than the white sorts. The distinctive points of the golden sweets are their color and a certain "rich delicious" flavor, in which, those who eat them most say, they excel any other kinds. They are pretty certain to become favorites where introduced to a community.

Another sweet corn, new this season, is Pochontas, which makes its claim as "positively the earliest sweet corn grown"—three days earlier than any other sweet sort and of fine quality for so early a variety. It is a white corn.

Hiawatha, also new this season, is a white "sugar sweet" variety. It is recommended as lusciously tender, creamy and sweet, melting in your mouth and perfect for the home table.
This year brings some specially attractive newcomers among potatoes, of much interest from "potato traders" otherwise Maine.

From Arrowsbrook, the birthplace of many varieties of national fame, is the Cropper. This potato, J. J. H.
Cropper says, yielded in a test on experimental grounds 800 bushels per acre. The individual potatoes are large, oblong, smooth and very white with a "fine quality" first rate. One large grower states that in some places in the field the Cropper can be secured of merchantable potatoes to be sure.

Early Russet, the second new Maine potato, is said to lead the potatoes in earliness, being usually large enough for cooking in eight weeks
and maturing in nine to ten weeks.
The potatoes are of fine quality, claiming to be a very handsome potato, uniform in shape and size, aver-

MANURE SPREADER AT WORK.

of putting it in piles is objectionable
because of the loss that is likely to occur. The placing in piles also involves additional labor.

The manner of spreading will depend upon local conditions, but where the distance to haul is relatively short and it is desired to have it evenly spread the manure spreaders will be found serviceable machines.

From ten to twenty tons of manure per acre are usually considered a fair application, but considerably more is frequently applied for market garden crops. Experiments have shown that generally it would be far more profitable to use about one-half the usual quantities and to supplement it with commercial fertilizers.

The first step to be taken in the care of manure so as to prevent losses is to provide sufficient bedding or litter in the stable to absorb and save all the liquid parts. The losses due to fermentation can be greatly checked by mixing horse manure with the older cow manure, by making the piles compact, so as to exclude the air, and by moistening the pile so as to assist in excluding the air and also to lower the temperature.

The use of chemical or mechanical absorbents, such as peat, kailit, phosphate rock, etc., in the stable and sprinkled over the manure assists in preserving the manure and preventing loss.

Losses from washing or leaching by rain may be prevented by piling under cover or in favorable basinalike places or, still better, by hauling it directly to the field and spreading it as soon as produced.

Effect of Fertilizer.

In the use of fertilizing material, nitrogen tends to stimulate leaf growth.
An abundance of nitrogen in the soil is indicated by rank luxuriant growth and dark green foliage, for much nitrogen on vines, shrubs and trees causes a too rapid growth of wood.
The wood thus formed is rather tender and soft and does not ripen properly and is often injured by the winter weather. An excessive use of nitrogen stimulates leaf and wood growth at the expense of fruit.

Phosphoric acid and potash have more to do with the development of the parts of the fruit buds, fruit and seed. They also produce a more compact development of the parts of the plant, the parts are firmer, the wood ripens better and is more hardy.

A Root Resistant Melon.

It is reported that P. K. Blinn of the Ozark experiment station has succeeded in developing a cantaloupe with the following qualities. During the past season it remained green until the majority of the fields were done.

NEW POTATO, EARLY RUSSET.

growing four to five inches in length.
The eyes are on the surface and very shallow. The skin of creamy buff is marked with golden russet, nature's hall-mark of potato quality. The flesh is fine grained, white as snow, cooks dry and doury, and its flavor is mild and delicious. The tubers grow bunched compactly in the hill, permitting close planting. Under this method the potatoes will grow as nearly alike as beans in a pod and yield surprisingly large crops.

The Individual Ear.

Germination tests indicate that ears
of corn may vary greatly in vitality,
regardless of proper selection and preservation, and that it is very important that each ear of seed corn be subjected to a germination test in order to remove those of low vitality.

Farm Dairy Butter.

Farm dairy butter of the highest quality is always in demand at the best prices. Uniformity of excellence must be maintained, and this requires constant attention to details.

GATS FOR HORSES.

Comparative Value of Heavy and Light Gats.

F. W. Taylor of the New Hampshire experiment station has been investigating the comparative value of heavy and light gats. He found that heavy gats were used in the horse show in each lot being fed heavy rations for thirty days and the comparison was made.
The results were as follows: In every case the heavy gats were heavier. In that is five pounds in the morning. Five pounds at noon and six pounds at night were fed with mixed hay of average quality and 100 lbs. All the horses were used for farm work, requiring average exertion and endurance. As shown by weights taken twice a week, one horse lost on both light and heavy oats, five gained on heavy oats and four gained on light oats. The total gain or loss in any case was not material. The practical results of this experiment seem to indicate that pound for pound, the light oats have nearly the same feeding value as the heavy oats.

Although the two grades are practically equal pound for pound, they are not equal quart for quart, and in feeding by measure, as is usually done, due allowance should be made for the heavy oats and a less quantity given.
Since oats are bought and sold by weight instead of measure, there seems to be no gain made in buying the heavy oats at a much advanced price over the light oats.

STABLE MANURE.

How to Handle It With Least Loss.
The Serviceable Spreader.

By W. T. L. TALLAFERRO, Maryland.

In order to reduce the loss in manure to a minimum and also to economize in handling it, the general aim and practice should be to haul it directly from the stable to the field and spread it at once. On the average farm all through the year would result in less loss than any method that could be pursued.

The use of rotted manure rather than fresh manure is desirable in connection with many market garden or vegetable crops, as it gives quicker results and with root crops will give a smoother and nicer product.

Manure should be spread as soon as it is hauled to the field. The practice of putting it in piles is objectionable

because of the loss that is likely to occur. The placing in piles also involves ever things were written aforetime were written for our learning (1 Tim.

iii, 16, 17; Rom. xv, 4). These sayings certainly include the book of Proverbs as well as every other part of the Scriptures. This has been called a book on godliness or holy living, contrasting God's wisdom and man's folly; it is God's wisdom for man's ignorance. The words wise and wisdom are used over 100 times, and the words fool, folly, foolish, foolishness, over ninety times. In chapter viii and elsewhere wisdom evidently refers to the Son of God, for He is the wisdom of God (1 Cor. i, 24). By contrast we think of the fools of whom He Himself spoke,
who hear His words but do them not,
who are rich on earth, but not rich toward God; who have no use for prophecy (Matt. vii, 26; Luke xii, 20, 21; xiv, 25). In verse 4 of this lesson chapter we read, "Labor not to be rich; cease from thine own wisdom," for it is man's wisdom to get rich quickly and at any cost, for he is slow to believe that riches make themselves wings and fly away (verse 5).

Our lesson, with its immediate context, sets forth the folly of bad women and strong drink, two of the great evils of this world by which the great destroyer destroys multitudes. Concerning the former it is written, "Her house is the way to hell" (chapter vi, 27), and, concerning both, they cannot inherit the kingdom of God (1 Cor. vi, 9-11), but that even such have been saved and may be saved, for Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, to seek and save the lost. We and sorrow is the present portion of all such, and if they die in their sins then it will be torment that will cover a drop of water to cool the tongue, and finally the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels (Luke xvi, 24; Matt. xxv, 41).

But God is not willing that any should perish, and in the person of His Son He became a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, was wounded and bruised for us, bearing our sins in His own body on the cross, suffering the just and the unjust, that He might bring us to God (Isa. liii, 3-5; 1 Pet.
ii, 24; iii, 18), and he it is who says,
"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom, for wisdom is better than rubies, and all the things that may be desired are not to be compared to it, for whom findeth Me findeth life and shall obtain favor of the Lord" (chapter iv, 7; viii, 11, 35).

All sin is a form of selfishness, the gratification of the carnal mind, which is enmity against God, and the only hope for any kind of a sinner is a new heart, a clean heart, which God Himself must create in us, and does when we receive Him who was made sin for us. Every one, moral or openly sinful, must be born of God, as we learned in our recent lesson on John iii.
The carnal mind, the natural man, is incorrigibly bad and never can be made new (Rom. viii, 7), but the Son of God, the wisdom of God, will receive any sinner who comes to Him (John vi, 37), will enter any heart that is opened to Him, and then the sinner becomes a new creature in Christ.

If Christ is then allowed to have the right of way in the life that He has redeemed and to work out the works which He has prepared (Eph. ii, 10), God will be glorified and the life of Jesus made manifest in that life.

In verse 33 of our lesson we read of the eyes and the heart, and in Lam.
iii, 51, we learn that the eye affects the heart, and in Job xxi, 7, that the heart walks after the eyes. If, therefore, we would live as we should we must look in the right direction and continue so to do. In verse 31 we read, "Look not," but there must be a counter attraction, therefore the command, "Look unto Me and be ye saved."
"Behold the Lamb of God." "Run with patience, looking unto Jesus" (Isa. xiv, 22; John i, 29, 36; Heb. xii, 1, 2). By looking unto Him there is life for every lost one, and by continuing to look there is a life of triumph for every saved one. Apart from Him there is no life, and looking anywhere else but unto Him there is no victory.
The words "at the last" in verse 33 should lead us to consider well that there is a last opportunity to repent,
a last call to turn to God, and "be that,
being often reproved, hardeneth his heart, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy" (xxix, 1). For the sinner of every kind there is a last opportunity and then, if it is not in sin, eternal woe. Consider Dea. v, 20;
Luke xii, 32, and the context.

Verse 34 of the lesson makes us think of that word of David, "Truly in the Lord I have trusted, and as the swallow there is but a crop between me and death" (i Sam. xx, 3). The last verse suggests chapter xxvii, 32,
"Though thou shouldst buy a fool in a market among wheat with a penny, yet will not his foolishness depart from him."

Apart from God and His Spirit and the blood of His dear Son, the case of any and every sinner is utterly hopeless, but to such a Shepherd and Savior nothing is too hard. Note the joy and exulting of verses 35, 36, 37.

The health of our little boys is very important. Some of the greatest dangers to their health are the common colds, the grippe, the coughs and the croup. These are all caused by a germ which they are likely to get from the air.

Sonoma Girl Was Worth $43,200.

J. D. Springer, the California horseman and the owner of the great trotting mare Sonoma Girl, 2:05 1/4, is on the lookout for another trotter with which to clean up the big stakes the coming season. Springer says Sonoma Girl won $12,000 net in purses for him during last year; that he won $5,200 on her in the pool box, which, with the $26,000 for which he sold the mare, aggregates $43,200, which he and his partner divided between them for the season's venture.

By a leap of 122 feet John Evenson of Duluth, Minn., winner of this year's national ski tournament in that city, established a new American record for ski jumping recently at the annual meet of the Ishpeming Ski Club. The former mark was 117 feet, made by John Mangsop of Duluth.

Naplesville.

On March 13 the soul of Mrs. W. L. Campbell passed from its earthly abode to the mansions of the blest, that 'house' not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. She was sixty five years old, and leaves a husband, two sons and a daughter. She was a member of the Methodist church and a true consecrated Christian. She was ill for a long while, although she knew and realized that her disease was incurable, her patience and cheerfulness was wonderful. To know her was to love her. Endowed with so many of those beautiful traits of character that constitute true womanhood. She was self sacrificing to a fault, always considering the comfort and happiness of those around her before her own, a friend to the helpless with a heart laden with tender sympathy which was freely given to all in need of it. Her devotion to her children and grandchildren was martyr-like, no task too difficult to undertake for them. Her life with them was truly a labor of love. O how they will miss her! She is at rest and it would be selfish to wish her back to endure agonizing pain and drain the cup of sorrow that fell to her lot. In these bereavements we are prone to question God's providences and wonder why one so useful and capable in every vocation in life, such a comfort to all around her should be taken and others left to bring trouble and sorrow, whose removal would prove a blessing. "God moves in mysterious ways, his wonders to perform." He knoweth best and we can only submit to His will and trust His promises. The memory of her beauty and purity of her life is like the fragrance of sweet flowers. It is hard to say fare well but the separation will not be long. Soon we will pass over the river into "that land far away whose beauties no tongue can declare," and rest forever with our loved ones gone before.

"Sleep in Jesus, oh how sweet,
To be for such a slumber meet;
With holy confidence to sleep,
That death hath lost its dreaded sting."

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. C. Witt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs.; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. MEXICO CITY SHAKEN

Capital of Southern Republic Jarred by Seismic Wave.

SHOCK LASTED 4 MINUTES

Four Persons Were Injured During the 'Quake.' One Mortally—Great Damage Was Done to Buildings, and Cattle Were Stopped.

Mexico City, March 27.—Mexico City experienced two severe earthquakes Wednesday.

The first shock, which occurred at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, lasted 4 minutes and 23 seconds, and did little damage.

The second shock, which occurred at 9:17 p. m., was much more severe. Four persons were injured during the quake, one of them mortally, and great damage was done to buildings.

Walls were cracked and cracks all over the city were stopped. The theater crowds rushed to the streets. The people are greatly alarmed over the repeated shocks. A number of walls have fallen. For a short time telegraph communication was interrupted.

The shock was felt over an area of some 600 miles from north to south, extending itself at Guadalupe on the north, and Rincon Antonio on the south.

Calle San Francisco, the main thoroughfare of the city, was cracked in many places for many blocks. It is feared here that the shocks will be repeated, and few are sleeping soundly tonight. It has been many years since successive shocks of any severity have been felt here. All of the injured were Mexican workmen.

The shock was similar to that felt in this city about a year ago, the oscillations being of a long, swaying variety. At the national observatory it was stated that the needle of the seismograph traveled the entire distance of the dial.

That the property loss was not greater is due, according to the scientists, to the fact that Mexico City rests on the spongy bed of an old lake.

Shock Felt at St. Thomas. St. Thomas, D. W. I., March 27.—A sharp earthquake shock occurred here Thursday afternoon and created much alarm. No damage, however, is so far reported.

WOULD TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE. Fugitive from Justice Anxious to Return to San Francisco.

San Francisco, March 27.—The call says that word has reached the office of chief of police that John Dalzell Robertson, assistant secretary of the defunct California Safe Deposit and Trust company, was in New York and anxious to return to San Francisco and turn state's evidence.

Robertson was indicted with J. Dalzell Brown, Walter J. Bartlett and James Treadwell for embezzlement. He escaped from San Francisco as soon as the crash came, and has been a fugitive for four months.

Robertson is penniless and broken in health. Through friends he has made what practically amounts to a complete confession and hopes that he may be granted immunity, for the testimony he is willing to give to the statements by Robertson directly involve Brown, Bartlett and Treadwell.

Explosion of Gasoline. Tampa, Fla., March 27.—The explosion of gasoline at Egmont Key, upon which Fort De Soto is located, late Wednesday resulted in the destruction of three buildings at of Mark Ryan, a soldier, and serious burning of Captain Ira Washington, a pilot. The fire was checked before the fortification and officers' quarters were endangered.

Broward for Senate. Jacksonville, Fla., March 27.—Governor N. B. Broward has announced his candidacy for the United States senate at the coming Democratic primaries. While there has been no announcement by him to succeed the late Senator W. J. Bryan, it is generally conceded that he will appoint Hon. W. H. Milton, of Jackson county.

Ship Tails Refugees. Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, March 27.—The German cruiser Bremen left here Friday for Kingston, Jamaica, carrying all the revolutionary refugees who had taken asylum at the French and German legations. They number in all seventy-five men. The United States gunboat Paducah arrived here Friday morning.

League Calls Convention. Atlanta, March 27.—A call by the Republican State League of Georgia, signed by T. M. Bledgett, chairman, and J. T. Hood, secretary, forecasts two state republican conventions at Macon and this presages a "hot time in the old state in May." The other convention has been called by the republican executive committee.

Anti-Future Rider Barred. Washington, March 27.—When the agricultural appropriation bill was read for amendment in the house Thursday, Mr. Macon, of Arkansas, endeavored to have inserted as a new provision his bill prohibiting the dealing in futures in agricultural products, but the chair sustained a point of order against it.

Yale Will Enter Two Crews. New Haven, Conn., March 27.—Julian Curtis, advisory rowing coach at Yale, has announced that, with the faculty's permission, Yale will enter two crews for the American Henley regatta at Philadelphia May 23, to be known as the second university and the freshmen.

Tillman Must Take Long Rest. Augusta, Ga., March 27.—Advice from Bridgefield indicates that U. S. Senator Ben Tillman will not be able to return to Washington during this session because of illness. His physicians have ordered a long rest.

BRIEF DISPATCHES

FRIDAY.

The president has nominated Thomas H. R. Marshall as chief justice of the United States.

The issue of the Alabama, who was a passenger on the steamship Lusitania, arrived at Queenstown and proceeded to London.

Thomas Marshall of Columbus City was nominated for governor on the fifth ballot by the Indiana Democratic state convention.

The bubonic plague is still present at Antofagasta. There were two new cases and one death reported Wednesday.

Mother Mary, of Mount Carmel, the mother superior of Good Shepherd convent at Omaha, Neb., died of consumption. She was born in Memphis in 1866.

The worst prairie fire in many years is sweeping through a section of South Dakota, laying waste thousands of acres of land and burning farm houses and barns. The loss will be heavy.

Favored by fine weather, the traditional Paris M-Carnegie carnival, with its attending parades, passed off with great success. Merry-makers thronged the boulevards, throwing confetti until long past midnight.

King Edward was indisposed at Biarritz, and did not join in the battle of flowers, but he witnessed it from windows of his apartments, and he gave a small dinner in the evening, among the guest being Princess Cantacuzene, and afterwards watched the torchlight procession.

SATURDAY.

Hugo Krause, superintendent of the anti-crucifix society of Chicago, has resigned that position to become chief probation officer of the juvenile court of Louisville, Ky. The resignation takes effect May 1.

The Rev. Joseph C. Hartzell, a missionary bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, arrived in New York from Europe on the steamer Mauretania Saturday.

A part of the session of the house Saturday was devoted to consideration of private pensions, 360 being passed at the rate of ten a minute.

A. Louis Soldan, superintendent of the public schools of St. Louis, Mo., dropped dead at Sarah and Olive Sts. Heart disease is thought to have been the cause of death.

The foreign office at Tokio is arranging a program for the funeral services for Dunham W. Stevens in that city simultaneously with the obsequies in America.

Postoffice at Seawane Robbed. Nashville, Tenn., March 27.—At 1 o'clock Friday morning the postoffice at Seawane, Tenn., was entered by robbers and the safe blown open with nitroglycerine. The total loss in cash and supplies will amount to nearly $1,000. No clue as to the identity of the robbers has been discovered. Bloodhounds have been put on the trail.

Negroes Used Vile Language. "When off the car the two negroes renewed the vile oaths and turned with evident intention of renewing their attack. Mr. Hedlin fired two shots with his revolver through one of the car windows. He did not aim at either of the two negroes, but shot at the ground with the intention of dislodging them from continuing their assault. One bullet glanced and struck Thomas McCreary in the leg. McCreary, accompanied by his wife, was about to board a car. Mrs. McCreary also heard the vile oaths of the two negroes."

Received Threatening Letters. Mr. Clayton explained that Mr. Hedlin had recently secured permission to carry a revolver because of threatening letters he had received as a result of his activity toward getting a "jim crow" law passed in the District of Columbia.

Representative Hedlin was arrested, but later was released on $5,000 bail. Mr. Hedlin represents the fifth Alabama district, in which Booker T. Washington is at the head, is located.

Italy's King Receives Morgan. Rome, March 28.—King Victor Emmanuel Saturday received J. P. Morgan in private audience and conversed with him on American affairs. The king manifested keen interest in the approaching presidential campaign in the United States.

Lost an Arm in Cotton Gin. Gibson, Ga., March 28.—News has just reached here by telephone that B. K. Parris, a large farmer residing five miles above here, got his arm cut off in the gin while ginning cotton. He is reported as being in a dangerous condition.

Foreign Official Silent. Berlin, March 30.—The foreign office is practically silent as yet in regard to Emperor William's message to President Roosevelt in the matter of the appointment of Dr. David Jayne Hill to succeed Charlesmagne Tower as American ambassador to Germany.

HEFLIN USED PISTOL

Alabama Congressman in Shooting Affray at Washington.

OCCURRED ON STREET CAR

The Congressman Remonstrated with Two Negroes Who Were Drinking in the Presence of Ladies, When He Was Insulted—Difficulty Followed.

Washington, March 28.—The shooting of Louis Landy, a negro, and Thomas McCreary, a white man, on Friday night by Congressman J. Thomas Hedlin, of Alabama, created a sensation in Washington. The negro received a dangerous wound in the neck and McCreary was slightly injured in the leg.

Mr. Hedlin authorized his colleague, Representative Clayton, to prepare a statement, giving his version of the affray, and in accordance with this wish, Mr. Clayton has given out the following:

Clayton Tells of Shooting. "The facts, as I have gathered them, are substantially as follows: 'Congressman Elberbe and Hedlin were riding down Pennsylvania avenue in the direction of the capitol about 6:30 o'clock. Elberbe observed before he left the car at the corner of Sixth street two negroes drinking whiskey and cursing in the presence of a lady who sat on a seat with them.'"

"Hedlin remonstrated with the two negroes and told them to cease their cursing and swearing. After this occurred, Representative Elberbe got off the car on the west side of Sixth street to go to the Metropolitan hotel, where he boarded, leaving no one on the car but Mr. Hedlin, the lady and the two negroes."

Scuffle Ensued. "Elberbe did not anticipate any further trouble. Just as he alighted from the car he was attracted by the noise of a scuffle between Mr. Hedlin and the two negroes. He heard one of the negroes use vile language toward Mr. Hedlin. Mr. Hedlin was being assaulted in the car which was just then crossing Sixth street. It stopped directly in front of the St. James hotel, a run of about 100 feet."

"Mr. Hedlin drew his revolver to defend himself, and struck one of his assailants on the head."

"One of the negroes made a motion as if to draw a weapon from his pocket and at that moment both rushed at Mr. Hedlin. They struggled to the platform and the representative forced both of them to the street."

Negroes Used Vile Language. "When off the car the two negroes renewed the vile oaths and turned with evident intention of renewing their attack. Mr. Hedlin fired two shots with his revolver through one of the car windows. He did not aim at either of the two negroes, but shot at the ground with the intention of dislodging them from continuing their assault. One bullet glanced and struck Thomas McCreary in the leg. McCreary, accompanied by his wife, was about to board a car. Mrs. McCreary also heard the vile oaths of the two negroes."

Received Threatening Letters. Mr. Clayton explained that Mr. Hedlin had recently secured permission to carry a revolver because of threatening letters he had received as a result of his activity toward getting a "jim crow" law passed in the District of Columbia.

Representative Hedlin was arrested, but later was released on $5,000 bail. Mr. Hedlin represents the fifth Alabama district, in which Booker T. Washington is at the head, is located.

Italy's King Receives Morgan. Rome, March 28.—King Victor Emmanuel Saturday received J. P. Morgan in private audience and conversed with him on American affairs. The king manifested keen interest in the approaching presidential campaign in the United States.

Lost an Arm in Cotton Gin. Gibson, Ga., March 28.—News has just reached here by telephone that B. K. Parris, a large farmer residing five miles above here, got his arm cut off in the gin while ginning cotton. He is reported as being in a dangerous condition.

REAL SCORES ROOSEVELT.

Representative Thinks "Big Stick" Showing Too Much Power.

Washington, March 27.—More shafts of sarcasm and invective were aimed at President Roosevelt in the house of representatives Thursday. In one of the most scathing arraignments of a public officer ever heard to that chamber, Mr. Beall of Texas, charged the president with having been guilty of a disgusting usurpation of power not only toward the national legislature, but the judiciary as well. Congress had, he said, abdicated to him his power, and the judiciary of the country felt the effect of his influence. God and the future alone know, he declared, just what time he was to occupy in the temple of his country.

Mr. Beall credited the president with having appointed three judges of the supreme court of the United States and a majority of the United States circuit and district judges.

"Drawing their source of authority from him," he declared, "and holding their commissions from him, he stands in a position to wield a powerful influence upon them, though they are the representatives of a distinct department of the government."

The president, he charged, was not content with the exercise of the same power exercised by Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant and McKinley, but in his overpowering ambition reaches out with eager hand and exercises powers not dreamed of by them.

SHERIFF STOPPED MEETING. Because of inflammatory article in a Negro Paper at Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., March 27.—Because of inflammatory matter in a local negro paper, the colored Alabama, Sheriff Horace Hood has withdrawn permission for a meeting of negroes in the court house at which protest was to be made on the attitude of the administration at Washington on the race.

This meeting had been called by Bishop Astorik and a number of others in what has been taken to be an anti-Taft movement in the state.

Sheriff Hood, addressing the editor of the paper, said: "In view of your editorial, which is calculated to arouse racial prejudice, creating a condition that does no good but much harm to both races, especially to the negro, who must be the greatest sufferer in any conflict aroused by foolish and unwise leaders and agitators, I withdraw my consent for a political meeting to be held in the county court house. As custodian of the court house, the property of the taxpayers of the county, I can not give my consent for its use to men who write incendiary articles and make incendiary speeches, calculated to stir up strife and disturb that harmony and good feeling that exists now and is so desirable between the whites and blacks of this city and this county."

ALLIGATOR STARVING ITSELF.

Big Reptile at Bronx Zoo Refuses to Eat Anything.

New York, March 27.—Keepers at the Bronx zoo are puzzled over the problem of Mose, the twelve foot alligator, who has refused to eat anything for four months, and is slowly starving to death.

Formerly the alligator was kept in an enclosure with twelve or fourteen crocodiles. His habit of frequently growling angry and attacking his companions led to his isolation four months ago. From that day his self-imposed fast dates.

The keepers attributed his refusal to eat to peevishness and kept by himself and have been hoping that the fast would wear off. To date it has failed to leave him, and the headkeeper has called a consultation of animal experts to discuss the case and see if anything can be done to save the big reptile.

Summons Not Properly Served. New York, March 27.—Regarding the litigation by which James F. Hannigan hoped to collect $2,000 from the Duc de Orleans for clothes supplied him in London and Paris, City Court Justice Conlan has decided that the summons in the suit had not been properly served. The process server said he had given it to the duke, but the latter declared in an affidavit that the summons had been served on his cousin, Baron Louis de Conde, in mistake. The duke is now in Europe.

Board of Trade Banquet. Americus, Ga., March 27.—Arrangements were concluded Thursday for the annual banquet of the Americus board of trade, to occur April 9. The occasion marks the close of another year of successful endeavor upon the part of this organization, which is doing much for Americus, commercially. Two hundred guests, including distinguished speakers, will attend the banquet.

Captain Price for Dahnke. Washington, Mo., 27.—By direction of the president, Captain Frederick S. L. Price, of the Eighth Infantry, is detailed as professor of military science and tactics at the North Georgia Agricultural college, Dahlonega, Ga., vice Captain Ezekiel J. Williams, of the Fifth Infantry, who will proceed to Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

HIS HOME DYNAMITED

Attempt to Assassinate Former Adj. Gen. Buikley Wells.

EXPLOSIVE UNDER HIS BED

General Wells Was Asleep at the Time and Miraculously Escaped Death—Once Took Prominent Part in Suppression of Labor Troubles.

Toledo, Ohio, March 24.—Former Adjutant General Buikley Wells narrowly escaped death or serious injury at his home here early Saturday from a well-planned effort to assassinate him with dynamite.

Despite precautions against such an attempt, such as patrolling and searches about the house, a stick of dynamite of a prepared bomb was placed under or near General Wells's bed.

General Wells was sleeping as was his habit, on an outer porch of the house, and he was buried with the debris many feet from the wrecked house.

The side of the house was torn completely out, hardly a stick of the bed remained, and fragments of wood-ware scattered over the neighbor's hood.

Though badly shaken up and bruised to some extent, General Wells is said to have escaped without injury.

General Wells took a leading part in the suppression of labor troubles in this state in 1904-05, and was prominently identified with the prosecution of officers of the Western Federation of Miners at Bolso City on the charge of complicity in the assassination of former Governor Steuneger. He had been active also in securing the extradition from Idaho of Steve Adams, to be tried here on charges of murder in connection with the miners strike in 1904.

CARELESS WITH HIS CASH.

Lawyer Left $12,000—Lying on Court Room Table—Recovers It.

New York, March 28.—Twelve thousand dollars wrapped in a neat little parcel lay for over an hour on the counsel table in part V of the supreme court Friday, and no one knew anything about it. That is probably why Lawyer Francis J. Wellman recovered it.

He had been arguing a case before Justice Gerard when the midway recess was taken. The lawyer hurried out to luncheon, leaving the parcel of money on the table. Half an hour later he ran into the court breathlessly. There, lying on the table, he found his money as he had left it. He would not say why he had so much money with him.

TOLEDO LUMBERMEN'S CASE.

Circuit Court Has Affirmed Decision of the Lower Court.

Toledo, O., March 28.—The circuit court Saturday morning affirmed the decision of the lower court in the case of the twenty prominent lumber men of Toledo, who last July were sentenced to the workhouse for six months under the Valentine anti-trust law.

The supreme court has decided in the case that the imprisonment must be in the county jail instead of the workhouse. The lumbermen were sent to the lower court for remittance.

The lumbermen comprise wealthy and leading citizens of Toledo.

King Re-Elected President T. P. A.

Atlanta, March 28.—Cary J. King, of Rome, Ga., was re-elected president of the Georgia division of the Travelers' Protective association Friday afternoon, this being the first time in the history of this organization that a president has ever been re-elected. J. H. Andrews, of Atlanta, was made secretary-treasurer for another term. The state headquarters remain in Atlanta, and the general opinion of those present was that Athens should get the next convention.

Rubio Won Grand Steeplechase.

Liverpool, March 28.—The grand national steeplechase of 8,000 sovereigns including a trophy valued at 125 sovereigns, on the grand national course, distance about four miles and 856 yards, was won Friday by Major F. Douglas-Pennant's Rubio. William Cooper's Mattie Magregor was second and P. Wattaker's The Lawyer III finished third. Twenty-four horses ran.

Witness Was 112 Years Old.

Atlanta, March 28.—"Mammy" Rhodie Daniel, who is said to be 112 years of age, appeared in the police court Friday as a witness against her son-in-law, whom she claimed ill-treated her. Rhodie is probably the oldest person that has ever appeared as a police court witness. She was born in Virginia and once belonged to the Montague family.

Force Greatly Reduced.

New Haven, Conn., March 28.—By the laying off of 195 men Saturday at the Spring street shops of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, the working force was reduced to about twenty-five, as against nearly 800 when the shops are running full handed.

The worst prairie fire in many years is sweeping through a section of South Dakota, laying waste thousands of acres of land and burning farm houses and barns. The loss will be heavy.

Favored by fine weather, the traditional Paris M-Carnegie carnival, with its attending parades, passed off with great success. Merry-makers thronged the boulevards, throwing confetti until long past midnight.

King Edward was indisposed at Biarritz, and did not join in the battle of flowers, but he witnessed it from windows of his apartments, and he gave a small dinner in the evening, among the guest being Princess Cantacuzene, and afterwards watched the torchlight procession.

BEN TILLMAN TO

His Physicians Have Made Complete Change as to Treatment. S. C. Senator Ben Tillman is not seriously ill, but is discharged in a few days.

The popular senatorial candidate has the symptoms of a cold, and a complete change as to treatment is being made.

It develops that Senator Tillman's condition demands silence, quiet, hence any further exertion is being avoided. He is expected to be discharged in a few days.

The senator and his family are making arrangements to spend the summer, and will be in the south in a few months.

When Cupid Delayed Dinner

By BESSIE R. HOOVER.

Copyright, 1907, by Bessie R. Hoover.

I was 8 o'clock on a raw morning in early summer, and the teams that were to take them to the lake had not yet arrived.

There were but two men in this chilled company on the church steps, for the superintendent and several of the teachers could not leave their work. The Rev. Albert Pashley was one of the faithful; the other was like, the son of Deacon Clutner, a rich dairyman. He was allowed a substitute on this momentous day, and, while a hiring stopped milk into the motley dishes of the customers, he abandoned himself to the varied pleasures of the Sunday school picnic.

Ike Clutner was a stoop shouldered, amiable fellow with no particular features. He looked singularly out of place in his best clothes minus his milk can and measure.

The first wagon rattled up after an hour of wintry waiting. There had been some mistake about the time—there always is. The Rev. Albert Pashley clambered into the wagon as a matter of course. Phyllis Jones, who had walked in from the country, was already in the wagon when Ike Clutner, brushing aside the squirming children, forcibly took his seat beside her. He did not mean to leave his courting to chance, for holidays were scarce with him. But Mrs. Pashley, the minister's wife, who was going to wait for the last wagon, cried:

"We'll need a man in our crowd. Ike, you stay and go with us."

"Aw, thunder!" grumbled Ike under his breath and climbed disconsolately out, and the first load rumbled away.

The second wagon came in half an hour. Ike, fearing that he might be left out entirely if the minister's wife happened to think of any reason for his staying behind, plumped himself down by the driver's side and left the mothers and children to scramble in as best they could.

"Which way?" questioned the driver when they were within a mile of the lake. "Are you going to Coggin's gap or to Feather's?"

This caused consternation among the mothers, who all knew that they were going to the "gap," but did not know which one.

"Coggin's," volunteered Ike, with the intuition of a lover.

"Feather's gap," corrected the minister's wife. "I remember now. It's Feather's."

"Aw, thunder!" muttered Ike gloomily to himself.

When the heavily freighted wagon rolled protesting into the deep beach sand Feather's gap lay wrapped in utter solitude but for the intruding team. The low lying dunes were as guiltless of a footprint as if man had never passed that way. The other wagon had not come to Feather's gap.

"I knew all the time that it was either Feather's or Coggin's," said Mrs. Blush, president of the Ladies' Aid. "Now, driver, take us round to Coggin's."

The driver grudgingly turned his horses, growling about "fool women," when the minister's wife spoke out sharply. "And remember we don't pay you anything extra for this blunder."

"Whoa!" shouted the driver. "Pile out!"

"Pile out!" echoed Mrs. Pashley in a scandalized voice. "We will not! You should have found out where we were going before you started. Drive on immediately."

"It'll be a dollar more," announced the man, with gloomy unconcern.

"It will not be a dollar more," declared Mrs. Pashley angrily. "Climb out, everybody. I shall speak of this to Mr. Pashley."

The picnicers poured quickly into the lake sand. Then the dinner for the whole crowd was clawed from under the driver's seat and dumped in a little pyramid on the ground. The team started off, the man muttering.

The children ran shrieking to the late. The mothers carried the dinner and placed it in the shade of the willows. But a cry of black awe was raised, and, as the women were already clustered about the wagon, the deep sand, Mrs. Pashley ordered Ike to transfer the dinner to a place of safety, as if he were the state militia.

"Take the dinner out by the lake—not too near the water," directed Mrs. Pashley, who was going about with a pained, concentrated face as if they had just been shipwrecked on a desert island.

For like the forenoon passed gloomily away, but he put in a good day's work waiting on the women.

As dinner time approached they began to expect the other picnicers to look them up, but no one came, so Mrs. Pashley sent Ike to Coggin's gap to tell the minister and his crowd to come to Feather's gap to eat, as that would save carrying the dinner a mile.

Ike struck out through the woods that skirted the bluffs above the sand dunes. When he had gone about half the distance he met Phyllis Jones.

"Hello," he shouted.

"Where have you been?" cried Phyllis.

"Feather's gap."

Though Phyllis had a good disposition and a great capacity for work, nature had not seen fit to bless her with much chin, but she had an honest freckled face, and Ike considered her perfection.

"We supposed you folks had gone to the wrong gap," explained Phyllis, "so the minister told me to go over and tell Mr. Pashley that, as she had the dinner, we'd all come over to Feather's gap to eat—of if she'd rather come."

"Mr. Pashley'd rather eat where she is, so that's settled," answered Ike easily. Then he proceeded to forget the other picnicers entirely.

"Lookie," he cried, producing a dingy candy heart bearing in bold red letters the suggestive motto, "Be My Honey."

"I mean worse'n that," hinted Ike darkly, slipping the heart into her hand, immediately presenting her with another saccharine sentiment, "Yours For Eternity."

After reading this solemn promise Phyllis fished out a candy heart from her own pocket, which as a thrifty and far-sighted young woman she may have secreted for this very emergency, and gave it to Ike, who read with great satisfaction, "I Am Yours."

"When?" he asked briefly.

"Not till after butchering time," answered Phyllis promptly and firmly.

"Aw, thunder—stop!" cried Ike, greatly displeased. "Talk sense."

"You don't want me very bad if you can't wait till I'm ready. Pete Jenner'd wait till doomsday."

"I'll wait till next grass—if you say so," vowed the distressed dairyman recklessly.

"No, Ike. Butcherin' time's long enough. I'll be ready by then."

"Lookie," cried Ike, "here's a path that leads to the lake. Let's go down."

Following this path, they found a little cove sheltered from the world by high clay ridges that shut them completely from view of either gap. Here they sat hand in hand watching the waves and, growing hungry, lunched on a whole bag of amorous worded sweets that Ike produced from a bulging pocket.

"Maybe we ought to look the others up," suggested Phyllis after a long season of blissful munching.

"Aw, thunder—no!" objected Ike. "There might be something to do—somewhere," she added vaguely.

"I done it all," Ike assured her.

In the meantime the minister's wife and her satellites waited impatiently for Ike and the other picnicers.

"Let's feed these children and eat ourselves," suggested Mrs. Jenner.

"No," said Mrs. Pashley emphatically. "The others might not like it."

"Mr. Peters would have a fit if we eat without her," declared Mrs. Blush.

"Let's all go over to Coggin's gap and then send Ike and Brother Pashley back here for the dinner."

"No. If we go, we'll take the dinner with us," said Mrs. Pashley. "Albert's chest isn't strong."

"It's a long walk to tug all these victuals," sighed Mrs. Blush.

"But I guess it's the only thing to do," replied Mrs. Pashley. "Mrs. Jenner, you get the children together and we'll go."

They went through the woods, as Ike had gone, for that was the shortest way.

At last they filed thankfully down the crooked path into Coggin's gap. But the Rev. Mr. Pashley and his half of the crowd were not there.

"Where's Ike?" burst out Mrs. Blush as she sat cumbrously down on the sand to rest in the shade of an ant-covered willow.

"And where's Brother Pashley and the rest gone to?" exclaimed Mrs. Jenner.

"Well, they're gone," declared Mrs. Jenner, "and we can't help it. So we'd just better unjack these victuals double quick."

"No, no; it won't do at all," cried Mrs. Pashley sharply as several women, anxious to feed the clamoring children, fussed over the baskets.

"Put those covers on again," commanded the minister's wife. "Mr. Pashley and the others will probably come in a few minutes."

But nobody appeared, and they began to think that the crowd must have gone to Feather's gap by the wagon road or the beach and that they had missed them.

It was long past dinner time and the shadows were beginning to lengthen when the woebegone party, still ably commanded by the minister's wife, retraced their steps to Feather's gap.

But not a vestige of the other party or Ike was to be found there.

"Now, if you'll take my advice, Mrs. Pashley, we'll eat a snack," urged Mrs. Jenner as they dumped the dinner in the sand at Feather's gap.

"We'll do no such thing," retorted

the minister's wife. "I don't have it said that I meddled with the dinner."

The children, too tired and hungry to play, dropped languidly on the warm sand or tried to drown their sorrows in copious drafts of warm lake water.

"I'm going home," said Mrs. Jenner firmly, after another bitter season of fruitless waiting. "I shall take the infant class and my five and go. The rest of you can do what you please."

She would have opened her own basket and fed the children, but it contained only sour pickles and cabbage salad, and she dared not thrust such food on the empty stomachs of the infant class, not to mention her own five.

"I thought we'd have a man to help us," fretted the minister's wife, "but, no; I send Ike on an errand, and that's the last of him."

"I should think that Brother Pashley would do something," observed Mrs. Jenner.

Mrs. Pashley let this remark pass in silence. "We will all go home now," she announced in a tired voice. "That's all we can do. Each one carry something." And again they were marshaled along, but this time it was toward home.

They had planned to walk back, for the Sunday school could not afford to ride both ways. Drearly they snailed along. A mile passed by, and its weary length seemed stretched to half a dozen.

As these picnic toilers rounded a bend in the road that now led through treeless, open fields they beheld as in a vision a dispirited company halted by the dusty roadside for a rest in the hot sun.

It was the Rev. Albert Pashley, the formidable Mrs. Peters, several other matrons and a dozen or more glum children, all sitting dejectedly on the grass dangling their tired feet in a dry ditch.

The Rev. Albert arose as spokesman for this disgruntled assembly. "Where have you been?" he inquired ungraciously of his wife, as if she and her crowd were the offending ones.

"Looking and waiting for you—all day long," replied Mrs. Pashley coldly.

"Where's Phyllis Jones?" asked Mrs. Peters, coming forward. "We sent her to tell you that we'd come to Feather's gap and eat dinner with you, but she didn't come back. So we went over there, but you was gone. Then we went back to Coggin's again, and finally we started home."

"We ain't none of us saw Phyllis," returned Mrs. Jenner. "But where's Ike Clutner?"

"None of us has seen him," answered the minister.

"The only thing to do now is jest to unpack these victuals double quick," began Mrs. Jenner.

"Land sakes!" broke in Mrs. Peters shrilly. "Ain't you folks at yet?"

"No, ma'am," answered Mrs. Blush icily.

"Well, of all fool things!" commented Mrs. Peters. "Tottin' all that truck all day long and not eatin' your share?"

"I'm surprised, Mrs. Pashley," said

the minister, "that you should be so surprised."

OLD PEOPLE OF CLANTON NEED VINOL

It Strengthens and Vitalizes

With old age comes feebleness and loss of power; the organs act more slowly and less effectively; the blood is thin, sluggish and watery; digestion is weak and food is not assimilated as it used to be.

Vinol repairs worn tissues and checks the natural decline. It tones up the digestive organs, aids assimilation, makes rich, red blood and strengthens every organ the body in this natural manner. Vinol replaces weakness with strength.

Vinol is not a patent medicine but a delicious cod liver preparation which contains all the medicinal body building elements of cod liver oil in a concentrated form, taken from fresh cods' livers, the useless oil eliminated, and tonic iron added.

It is because we know so well of what Vinol has made that we offer to return money if it fails to benefit. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

Editor Banner—Space if you please for the good of our County Union and non-union. We are in the midst of a peculiar situation, some of our members as well as a great many other farmers are discouraged and I will ask why? I will answer, because you will be. If we would stand by what we say we ought to do, we could better our condition materially. I have talked to a great many farmers in the last sixty days and I haven't heard a man say anything to the contrary, they all say we could control our produce if we would. Well, why don't we do it? Just because one slap on the shoulder and one kind (but false) word from our worst enemies will make the most of our farmers feel better than a five dollar bill from one of our well-to-do union men. They say that they believe that every laborer ought to stay at the very base of co-operation and stick to the Union, but when our local, county and State business agents work and worry their life out and get the very best prices on all that we have to buy, and our enemies come up and give that slap on the shoulder and asks about the health of Sallie and the children and tells that on every $25 worth that they have to buy through the Union I will sell you the same article for $24.50, right then and there a trade is made and our cause is injured and our enemies' power extended to unlimited bounds. Brethren of our Union, stop and think on your way and turn your feet unto the right way.

And now to the whole populace of Chilton county, we are to have in Chilton county three of the most important occasions in about thirty days that it has been our good luck to have since Chilton was organized. I have reference to the educational campaigns. The first one of the campaign committee that I will mention is that indefatigable Preston, who is working earnestly for our cause. Next we expect to have with us the Hon. J. A. Wilkinson, Commissioner of Agriculture of Alabama, and Prof. J. L. Burgess and W. G. Smith. These gentlemen of power and ability, will surely entertain the people. I want everybody to make ready with wife and children and influence everybody else to go to Maplesville on April 20th, carry your dinner and spend the day in profit and pleasure, and all that can go with them to Centreville. I have appointed Bro. S. E. Wald-rup to meet the speakers there and give an address of welcome and to introduce the speakers. At Jemison I have appointed Bro. J. W. Sorrell. The committee will address the people at Jemison on April 24th. At Verbena, the 25th, I will meet the committee and go the best with them that I can.

Now, fellow citizens, let me say, please get out the biggest crowd at all three appointments, that they have had anywhere; we ought to have 800 or 1000 people out to hear these gentlemen.

Yours for hard work,

G. A. CONVILLE, President.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin"

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery.

This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala. Horn, Thorsby.

1: 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev.

D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1908, by American Protestant Association.)

In this gospel we have already seen

the Lamb of God, the Temple of God, the King of Israel, the Fountain of Living

Water, the Judge of all Mankind, the Living Bread from Heaven, but in this lesson He is the Good Shepherd, laying down His life for the sheep, and

He is also the Door, the only way of entrance to the fold.

To Israel God said, "Ye, my flock,

the flock of my pasture are men," and David by the Spirit sang, "We are His people and the sheep of His pasture"

(Ezek. xxxiv, 31; Ps. c. 3). It is true of both Jews and gentiles that "all

we, like sheep, have gone astray," and each one can say for himself, "I have gone astray like a lost sheep" (Isa.

liii, 6; Ps. cxix, 176). When sheep have strayed, as they are so prone to do, it is not their way to return home. They must be sought by the shepherd, and from the story of Adam and Eve all the way down the Lord is ever the seeker. He rejoices when He finds a lost one to lay it on His shoulders and bring it home. He carries the lamb with His arm and carries those that are with young (Luke xv, 3-7; Isa. xl, 11).

He is spoken of as the Shepherd of Israel, who leadeth Joseph like a flock,

and some day the great shepherd

psalm (xliii) as well as their national anthem, written so long ago (Isa. xli).

shall be truly sung by all Israel. Happy indeed are all who can now sing from the heart, "The Lord is my Shepherd." Israel has had shepherds who scattered the sheep and who fed themselves instead of the flock, but she

A COSTLY NAP.

Slumber That Led to the Death of King Charles I.

In the middle of Holborn once stood an inn, the George and Blue Boar, and there took place an incident which entirely changed the whole tale of England's history.

As twilight was falling in October, 1648, a very tired post boy mounted on a sweating horse pulled up outside the old inn. The lad knew nothing of the importance of the letters which lay in his post bag. His orders were to convey them to a point on the Great North road, where he would be met by other messengers.

But Cromwell's spies had followed him from the south coast, for England's liberty depended upon his dispatches misarriving. The boy had some supper and afterward fell asleep, his head pillowed on his post bag.

While he slept Cromwell's men took the bag and found in it a letter from King Charles I. to the Scottish generals arranging for his rescue, an immediate advance on London and the arrest and execution of Cromwell and his friends. That same evening Cromwell had the fatal letter and determined on Charles' death.—London Times.

A Comparison.

"Ever seen congress in session?"
"No," replied Farmer Coburn, "but I know about how it looks. I bet a hired man who kin git as busy doin' nuthin' as anything you ever saw."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Fourth District Republicans Refuse to Endorse Taft, Thompson and Scott

From The American Not Black.
A resolution to endorse W. H. Taft for President of the United States, J. O. Thompson, chairman of the state Republican executive committee, and Charles Scott as national committeeman, was voted down by a vote of twelve to one at the meeting of the Republican executive committee of the Fourth congressional district of Alabama, held here Saturday afternoon.

The resolution endorsing these men was introduced by committeeman J. I. Abercrombie, of Shelby, and precipitated a long and warm discussion. When a vote was taken, however, it was defeated by a large majority. Immediately thereafter Committee D. Houston Smith introduced a resolution to the effect that the matter of endorsement of any candidate be postponed until the district convention.

The administration of Roosevelt was endorsed, the resignation of Committee D. Houston Smith was accepted, and Norris Woodruff elected to fill the vacancy.

A resolution calling for a convention to be held in the city of Anniston on the 5th day of May to nominate a candidate for congress and transact such other business as may come before the body.

The representation of the several counties at the convention will be as follows: Calhoun 4, Cleburne 5, Chilton 7, Dallas 1, Shelby 5, Talladega 4.

The committee was called to order in the circuit court room at the court house at 2 o'clock by Chairman, L. T. Smith, W. W. Battle acting as secretary.

OUTDAY SCHOOL IN SOUTHEAST ALABAMA

Dear Editor:—I come again with my things from Newton. The future of the day school work in this section of the state is so promising it seems sure that it might be an inspiration to some of our faithful workers to get in touch with the great move. Hoping this topic will be beneficial in your paper I choose it for this issue.

As this great Sunday school move begins in the Newton Baptist College Institute, it is necessary to consider the source for a short time. The B. C. I. has the only normal Sunday school class in the state of Alabama as far as we know at present. More than that it has the largest class in the south. This being true we are indeed proud of our class. The class here has about 125 members, 75 of whom have a certificate from the S. S. Board at Nashville, Tenn., and about thirty of whom will receive a diploma from the Board during commencement in May. Now out of this number of course every county in this part of the state is represented. Not only each county but many individual communities of each county are represented here. This will enable the great S. S. heart that throbs in the B. C. I. to throw its current of Sunday school spirit throughout every community in the southeastern part of our state. And not only will this section be touched, but this move will not stop this side of winning many souls throughout our land. Only the kingdom of heaven can sum up the results of all this work. Only the angels in heaven can keep the record by dipping their brush in the ye of the kingdom and writing in golden letters the number of souls redeemed through the Sunday school. When a number of christians work heart to heart in this great cause for God the effects will be rewarded by His divine hand.

Hope in some future issue to say more of Sunday school work. Sincerely, J. O. WILLIAMS.

A Twenty Year Sentence.
"I have just completed a twenty year health sentence, imposed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which cured me of bleeding piles just twenty years ago," writes O. S. Woolver, of LeRayville, N. Y. Editor Banner:—Will you please give me a space in your paper to say a few words. Health is good. I know of some girls who went to a grave yard and broke flowers from it. It is a shame and disgrace to gather flowers from a grave yard and put them up in the house. Take this advice, boys and girls, and never break flowers from a cemetery. Mrs. Mollie McGee visited Mrs. Merchant Neaday.

Mr. Clanton Hall and family spent Sunday at Mr. A. K. Kiser's. A large crowd of young folks went flower busting Sunday evening and had a nice time. Say, Boyter Boy, come again, I guess it is time for you to go fishing now; if they have any snakes down where you are I would not love to fish. Best wishes to the Banner and its readers. Editor Banner:—Please allow me space for a few words. Our school at this place closed March 19th. We all met and had a nice dinner and some good speeches from the children. Miss Carrie Walker was our teacher and we all love her; hope she will teach our next school but am afraid we will lose her before next school. The health of our community is very good as the measles have all died out. We are needing a rain very bad now; hope it will come soon. We are having some warm weather now. I will ring for this time. Death Was on His Heels.
Jesse P. Morris, of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with a fearful cough that my friends declared that consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New 'cure' very. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at Upchurch Drug Co. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

ENTIRE CITY INTERESTED IN YOURS

Cooper's New Theory Attracts Widespread Attention During Stay in Cincinnati.

An adequate idea of the intense interest which has been aroused by young Mr. Cooper during the past year with his theories and medicines is given in the following article which appeared in the Cincinnati Post while Cooper was introducing his ideas to the people of that city. The article says: "The beginning of Mr. Cooper's second week in Cincinnati gives every indication that he is to enjoy the same astonishing success here as in other cities. From the first day of his visit the crowds that call to see him have steadily increased, until now it has reached a point where several thousand talk with him each day. The entire city seems to have become interested in his theory that the human stomach is degenerate, and he already has an army of followers in Cincinnati who seem positive that his claims are correct. "A number of Cincinnatians were interviewed at Cooper's headquarters on Friday, and several interesting statements, showing their intense faith in Cooper's preparations, were secured. The following are selected from these statements and are characteristic of them all: Mrs. M. E. Emerson of 630 West Court street, said: 'I have suffered with stomach trouble and constipation for a year or so. When I ate I would have bloated spells, sour stomach, fermentation, bad taste in my mouth. In the morning I was as tired as when I went to bed. I had a dull pain in the lower part of my back. I have taken almost one bottle of the New Discovery and am so wonderfully improved that I have come down here to thank Mr. Cooper in person and obtain more of the medicine.' "Another individual interviewed was Mr. J. H. Brooks, living at 177 Walnut street, who had the following to say: 'For the past eighteen months I have been a constant sufferer from catarrh of the head and stomach. My nasal passages would become inflamed and more. I would have severe headaches, which affected my eyes, and great crusts of matter would drop into the throat, causing an irritation of the bronchial passages, until the stomach finally became poisoned. When I would lay down at night a phlegm would gather in my throat until it almost choked me, and would cause an annoying cough. Half a bottle of Cooper's New Discovery gave me relief, and when the first bottle was finished I felt like a new man. I am now completely cured and consider Cooper's New Discovery the greatest catarrh, blood and stomach remedy in the world.' "The Cooper preparations have been wonderfully successful throughout the United States. We consider them remarkable medicines and would be pleased to explain the nature of them. —Florence Drug Store.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTION

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county, held at Clanton, on Saturday, the 14th day of March, 1908, the following resolutions were adopted to-wit:

Whereas the State Democratic Executive Committee did on the 7th day of February, 1908, order a primary election to be held in the several counties of the State of Alabama, for the nomination of Judicial, Congressional and County officers, who, by law, are to be elected at the general election in November, 1908,

and prescribing rules regulating the holding of said primary election, therefore,

Be it resolved, That the plans, rules and regulations set forth by the said

State Democratic Executive Committee

for said primary election be adopted and endorsed.

Be it further resolved, That a primary election be held on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1908, in the several predicts of Chilton county, for the nomination of Treasurer, Tax Collector, Tax

Assessor, Superintendent of Education,

County Commissioners for Districts 2 and 3, a Coroner and two Justices of the Peace and one Constable for each precinct within the county, and also for the purpose of electing a Democratic Executive Committee from each precinct within the county.

Be it further resolved, That said primary election shall be held in accordance with the State primary election law and under the rules heretofore governing the holding of such primary.

Be it further resolved, That each candidate for county office shall have the right to furnish the Chairman of this Committee, not later than the 1st day of May, 1908, a list of persons desired by him as inspectors for the several precincts.

Be it further resolved, That the Chairman of this Committee be and he is hereby empowered to appoint a Committee to be composed of five members, and to be known as a Campaign Committee, whose duty it shall be to ascertain the amount necessary to defray the expense of holding and conducting said

primary election and assess each candidate for county office, his pro rata

part of the same and to further do all things

lawful and necessary that said election

may be properly held and conducted.

Be it further resolved, That any candidate failing to pay the amount assessed him by said Campaign Committee, as hereinbefore provided, on or before the 2nd day of May, 1908, shall not be entitled to have his name printed on the official ballot at said election.

EASTER

Dear Banner—As the nineteenth

of April is set down in the almanac as Easter Sunday and many little tots and older people as well will be wondering and asking what it means, after they have seen and heard of preparations for its observance, I have taken pains to examine into its import. I find it to be the festival of the Goddess Os-tara, in Anglo Saxon Easter, which the Saxons of old were wont to celebrate at about the same season at which the Christian festival Easter occurs. In the ancient church the observance lasted eight days, but after the eleventh century, however it was limited to two or three days, during which time courts of justice were closed, alms dispensed

to the poor and needy, and slaves received their freedom, after which the people gave themselves up to enjoyment, even preachers reciting legends from the pulpits to excite laughter. Against this indecency

the reformers of the sixteenth century loudly and successfully raised their voices. During the whole week before Easter between Palm

Sunday and the beginning of the Easter festival daily services were held. On Easter day the people saluted each other with the exclamation surrexit, (he is risen) and replied surrexit (he is risen indeed). Many of the popular observances connected with Easter are clearly of Pagan origin. The Goddess Ostara or Eastre seems to be the personification of the morning, or east and also of the year or spring. Easter is variously reckoned, some claiming that it occurs

the Sunday after the fourth full moon after Christmas; others that it occurs first Sunday after the first full moon after the 21st day of March, but however that may be,

there is no obligation attached to its observance as binding on any

Christians found in the Scriptures.

It is only mentioned once in the Bible and that is where Herod put off the execution of St. Peter until after Easter. The most characteristic rite, and the most widely diffused is the use of Easter eggs.

They are usually dyed or colored in some way and people make presents of them. There can be little doubt that the use of eggs was symbolic originally of the revivifica-

tion of nature, the springing forth of life in spring. The practice is not confined to Christians, the Jews

THE CAROLINA JASMINE

How many exquisite harmonies arise on every side of us from the association of plants with animals.

The butterfly embellishes the rose,

the song of birds enlivens the grove

and the bee confers a new charm

on the flower about which it buzzes

and from which it extracts its sweets. Thus throughout all nature the insect is adapted to the flower, the bird to the tree and the quadruped to the plant. Man alone is capable of discovering these connections and he alone has the power of breaking that chain of consonance and love by which all things in the world are bound together. If, with eager and imprudent hand he attempts to remove an animal from his native home,

thinking only of his own conveniences he usually forgets the plant which would have reconciled his new slave to this separation from his birthplace. If he takes away a plant he neglects which enlivens

the bird, which embellishes it and the quadruped which feeds upon its leaves and reposes in its shade.

Look at the Carolina Jasmine with its beautiful foliage and scarlet flowers. It remains all all-summer and we prefer it to the sweet honey suckle to which the bee resorts to suck honey, small animals browse on its leaves and flocks of mocking birds, linnets

and other small birds feast on its berries. No doubt the rich Jasmine of Carolina would counterbalance all these advantages in our estimation were we to see it enlivened by the humming bird of Florida, which in the vast forests of that state prefer its beautiful foliage to that of any other tree. He builds his nest in one of the leaves of this plant, which he rolls up in the form of a cone. To find his subsistence in its red flowers resembling those of the foxglove, the nectarous which he licks with his tongue. He squeezes into them his little body which looks like an emerald set in rubies and sometimes

he gets so far that he might be caught. In this situation this little creature is the soul, the life and essential accompaniment of the plant

in which he delights. When separated from her winged guest this beautiful creeper is like a desolate widow who has lost all her charms.

RANDALL'S BEST CATCH.

By Colin S. Collins.
Copyright, 1922, by Associated Literary Press.

Winter quarters had weakened from a long nap. Over in the car shade men were touching up the brilliant advance cars with vermilion and gold leaf. In the wagon shop stood rows of chariots resplendent in gilt and crimson. In the left last touches were being given to the "big tops," the huge canvas structures which went to make up the city of tents. From animal house and training barn could be heard the sounds of activity as trainers put horses and elephants through their paces, while the performers freshened up their acts. In three weeks the show would take to the road, opening in the south to escape the frosts and to get an additional month of "season."

Caley Randall's appearance in the ring barn was the signal for a general stoppage of work on the part of those who had been with the show the season before. Randall had been a general favorite, and even the equestrian director, the autocrat of affairs in the ring, came over to greet the newcomer. "The first of the boys are here and have your traps all up," he told Caley, with a glance aloft where the trapeze rigging of the Randall-Ransome troupe glittered in the light, filtering through the wire glass. "The other troupe is there."

"Who the mischief are they?" demanded Randall curiously. "I never heard of the Hannard troupe."

"Neither did any one else," agreed the director. "They do a ripping good casting act, though, and they'll work well in the big act. Come over and I'll introduce you."

He led the way across the tannery to where stood a little group of men and women curiously regarding his approach. Randall was famous in the circus world, and the Hannards, accustomed to the drudgery of obscure one-ring wagon circuses and small vaudeville performances, looked with awe upon this star of the big show. Some of Randall's boys were standing with the group; but, after a pleasant nod to his own men and an acknowledgment of the introduction to the strangers, Randall saw only one of the troupe, a little, graceful girl not yet out of her teens.

Hannard hurried to compliment Randall on his work, but Caley scarcely heard him. His attention was centered upon this graceful girl with the flashing black eyes, and when at last he moved on to the dressing room to see that his trunk was all right he turned to his "hearer," who did the catches for his leaps.

"What was the old chap saying?" he asked. "I didn't quite catch."

Clute laughed.

"Better get that idea out of your head," he advised. "The girl is the whole show with that troupe, and the old man doesn't want her marrying into another act."

"You're hanged," said Randall. "If you think you're funny I don't mind telling you that you're not."

"You agreed to a rehearsal at 3 o'clock," said Clute. "It's all right, Caley. I'd be stuck on her myself if I wasn't married. Come out and get a bite to eat."

Randall followed Clute across the lot to the hotel, where most of the performers stopped, and by 2 they were in practice dress and up in the dome of the practice ring, getting the stiffness out of their joints.

It was the custom with the show to mass all the aerial acts into one big troupe for a finish to the show. While the arena was being made ready for the hippodrome races the attention was centered upon the one big act, and in this Randall's troupe worked with Randall's. A huge special apparatus was provided for this act, and it was to get used to this that the two acts were to rehearse together.

To his delight Caley found that Randall's daughter did the principal leaping for their act and was to share the narrow perch from which he worked. It was scarcely more than a shelf, high above the ring, but to the gymnasts it was as secure as the ring itself, and Caley found time to chat with the girl while they worked out the details of the routine of tricks.

But once the rehearsal was over and Caley, hurrying into his street clothes, reached the exit to walk for Grace Randall he realized that what Clute had said was right. Hannard whisked Grace and her sister off to the boarding-house where they were stopping before Caley had a chance to say a word.

But opposition only made him the more determined. There was little time to talk up on the shelf where they rehearsed, for either Caley or the girl was flying through the air while the other rested, and at best conversation was fragmentary.

Two weeks passed, and Caley became more and more certain that his interest was returned. Evidently Hannard was not ignorant of the state of affairs, and he exhibited his watchfulness.

For years he had played in the small circuses. It was only Grace's work which had enabled him to get with a big show, and he was not minded to lose this advantage the first season out. Some time, he knew, she would get married, and he would have to go back to the wagon shows where the artists had to help with the horses and eyes drive a van to the next stop. Meanwhile he would enjoy the comparative luxury of the more important shows.

where "handicaps" were employed to get up the last and the performers could spend the night comfortably in the sleeper and not have to rush to the next breakfast time.

They were having their last rehearsal before the troupe were taken down and put about the camp. Once the season opened there would be little time for courtship, and he determined to put his fate to the test.

"Most time we work it will be before an audience," he commented as he climbed to the platform to which she already had been hoisted. "No more chance for chafe then."

"I should say not," she assented, with a smile. "We'll be too busy then."

Caley let his swing go and away across the space. Clute slipped down on his swing to catch the count, and a moment later Caley shot across the space, let go of his swing to grasp Clute's hands, pivoted and caught the swing again on its return. Just as he reached the platform Grace shot past him to do her leap. She landed back on the platform presently.

"We won't have a chance to talk down below either," Caley went on as unconcernedly as though they had not both risked their necks since the preceding sentence. "I never get a chance to talk to you."

"Father doesn't like"—she commenced as Caley sprang from the platform. "I know he doesn't," agreed Caley as he swung back and Grace jumped out. She was back in a moment, and a lesser important member of the troupe did some single trapeze work to rest the stars.

"Let's fool papa and get married this evening," he suggested. "I'll be in front of your boarding house at half past 10, and I'll have it all arranged with the minister."

Before he could get his answer the girl shot past him, and he was gone before she had returned. The next few tricks kept them too busy to talk; then came a breathing space, and he urged his escape.

He had to make good use of his time, for the act was drawing to a close, and he could not delay a trick without throwing the entire routine into confusion. He believed an assent trembled on her lips as he swung out, but his heart sank as he swung back to the perch and Grace shot past him.

This time she would not return to the platform, but would stay on the other side for the "somersault pass," which concluded the act. For this Hannard came over to his platform and swung him out on the swing, while Clute, from the other side, threw Grace to her father as Caley turned a somersault in the air and caught Clute's hands the instant after she left him.

It was a trick that brought the audience to its feet the year before, and Caley was proud of it, for it was his own invention.

The swing was properly made, and as he threw the somersault he heard a cry below him. It was only the one word "Yes," but he knew what it meant. He had been accepted in mid-air, and Grace would meet him that evening. He made his dive to the net and came up with his face wreathed in smiles.

"Pretty catch," commented Clute, swinging over the edge of the net and dropping beside him.

"The catch of a lifetime," assented Randall joyously, and he made off to the dressing room, leaving Clute wondering what had happened.

Venus' Flower Basket.

If, when you are in Washington, you will go into the "children's room" at the Smithsonian Institution, you will see one of the most beautiful productions of the sea. So frail and artistic is its makeup that you feel sure that not nature, but man, must have produced an object of such delicate beauty. But nature did do it and made it on the bottom of the sea too. If you will go down into the waters in the region of the Philippine Islands and dig around in the mud, you might bring up a spongy looking object that resembles the white of an egg in its consistency. It looks like a flower basket and may have a hermit crab inside, for the crab lives at the same depth and likes to crawl into the basket, but he does not find much hospitality awaiting him, for the sponge closes over him and holds him forever. This product of the sea is called Venus' flower basket, so named because in its finished state it might well make a receptacle for the garlands of the goddess of beauty. This is after it is cleaned and prepared for sale, for it then looks as if it were made of fine spun glass, with its filaments spreading out from the bottom. These are called "apicules" and serve to anchor the animal to the bottom, and as the animal is so small that it takes a microscope to see it, it is not surprising that it is so easily broken.

The Venus' flower basket is a very delicate and beautiful object, and it is not surprising that it is so easily broken. It is a very delicate and beautiful object, and it is not surprising that it is so easily broken.

Richard Mansfield and Marion. Richard Mansfield was once in Richard Marston's studio looking over some scenes he had ordered for a new production. The famous scenic artist had known Mansfield during the short period of the latter did some painting in London. Mansfield at the time had met with little success on the stage and very likely thought he could paint better than he could act.

In his commanding way he told Marston to take down a certain scene, in which he said the color was not properly laid out.

"That is not what I want," he said. "I know something about scene painting. I was a scenic artist once."

"Yes, Mr. Mansfield," said Marston, with peculiar emphasis. "I was an actor once, but I was a bad one."—Herald City Newsbook.

IN NO. 20.

"Ah, nurse!" the doctor began, then hesitated. Nurse Bella was very young and had been in training only a few weeks, but the hospital form ran short this morning, and there were no others and placed in the lock that met his doubtful glance at her. "There's a rather difficult case assigned to No. 20. There's brain trouble. Keep him amused. If you get afraid, ring."

She went to No. 20. "Brain trouble. Poor fellow!" She went in with a little shadow of sympathy already quivering her vivacious face. The patient was looking from a window. He turned and took a quick step or two toward her, whereupon Nurse Bella backed and got white.

"I beg pardon," said the patient, stopping in considerable surprise. "I thought you might perhaps bring me a message."

"No, no; not exactly," she did not want to be too positive if he had not his heart on it.

"I called in to see Dr. James, who is an old friend of mine," he said when she continued silent, "but if he doesn't hurry, glancing at his watch, 'I shall not wait.'"

"Poor thing!" murmured Nurse Bella under her breath. "He doesn't know that he is a prisoner. And to him gently, with beautiful compassion in her eyes, she said, 'I came to—to amuse you.'"

"Why, that's awfully good of you," looking much as if she had succeeded in her purpose, "but it may get you in trouble, don't you think, with the head nurse or the doctor?"

"The doctor knows," she took the chair, but eyed him anxiously. She was hoping he was not one of the cunning type, said to be so dangerous, and she was sorry for him with all her heart, so young and so handsome, and she sighed.

"A place like this," he said, "is so associated with greens and mustard plasters that I should be getting a pain somewhere by now if you hadn't come."

"Oh, you will soon have no pain at all! The doctors are so good, and they have given you such pretty rooms. It is not all the patients who have a cozy parlor looking out on the park. We will all try, and I am sure, with sweet earnestness, that you will soon be well."

The patient stared an instant, then broke into a low laugh, a very pleasant laugh and becoming.

"I see," he said, "you take me for a patient?"

"There," thought Nurse Bella, "how silly that was of me! Of course he doesn't know, poor, dear thing, that anything is wrong with him." And to him she said hurriedly: "I did not mean that. Why, you look as if you had never, brightly, 'never been ill.'"

"That's right," with a genial nod. "I never have. Good thing for the nurses, isn't it?"

"Why?" looking startled.

"I might growl, you know. Pain's an awful thing. Why, I've seen a man go wild over a racking headache."

"How terrible! Would you like, would it help, if I were to rub it?"

"It's very good of you," coloring some, "but I wasn't speaking of my head. You see, mine is as right as a trivet."

"Yours doesn't ache?"

"Not a bit."

"I'm so glad!"

Here the door opened, and the patient started eagerly toward it, but Nurse Bella was too quick for him. There was a glimpse of a man with a tray of tiny glasses. Then in a second Nurse Bella held one, and the door was shut.

"By Jove!" said the patient softly and stood looking at her. She was a bit nervous and breathless. She came toward him with great earnestness.

"Will you drink this, please?"

"See here, and a storm threatened in the patient's eye. 'I've explained to you that there's nothing the matter with me.'"

"You must," firmly, but with white lips, "or I must ring for help."

"Ring?" eagerly. "Where's the bell?"

But she was standing in front of the bell, and after hesitating an instant he again made for the door. There was no time for ceremony. Nurse Bella spilled the whole contents of the little glass over his vest in her rush to intercept him, and very dangerous indeed the patient looked—until he caught her eye. Through all her terror Nurse Bella felt a thrill of professional pride at sight of this swift change.

"I beg your pardon," he said very gently. "I wouldn't have frightened you so for anything. See? I'll stand here," backing meekly toward the wall, "perfectly still while you ring and—"

But there was a hurried step outside, and Dr. James' voice said: "There's a mistake somewhere."

"Ah!" assented the patient dryly. "So it seems to me."

The doctor came in on his remark and began to laugh.

"My dear Miss Bella," he said, "let me introduce my young friend, Dr. Halliston. He is by some absurd blunder in his right mind."

"If you will forgive me for frightening you," said Dr. Halliston, crossing eagerly to the nurse's side, "and take the case under further consideration"—Which she did.—Buffalo News.

PUNY CHILDREN NEED VINOL.

It Builds Them Up and Makes Them Strong and Robust.

Rapid growth, overstudy, insufficient nourishment, convalescence after children's diseases, and run-down conditions make children thin and delicate and stope development.

Because Vinol contains all the medicinal, bone tissue and body building elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, the useless oil eliminated and peptonated of iron added, it quickly restores robust health and children love it.

Mrs. C. W. Stamp of Canton, Ohio, writes: "I wish I could induce every mother who has a weak sickly child to try that delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, as it restored health and strength to our daughter after all else had failed."

We have never sold a medicine in our store equal to Vinol for delicate, ailing children, weak old people, or sickly women and children, and we return money if it fails to benefit. Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

Our Sunday is moving along nicely. Health of our community is good. A number of our people attended the quarterly meeting at Antioch Saturday. All seemed to enjoy the meeting.

We are glad to say that Mrs. McCarty is improving. Mr. Alonzo Pool visited home-folks Saturday.

Something seems to be attracting Mr. Lee Popwell's attention over this way.

Dr. Walker of Plantersville is doing a great deal of dental work in this community; he got in such a way of pulling teeth till all the farmers had to hide their rakes and barrows and all other tools that had teeth, for he was out for pulling teeth. Everybody that has had work done by Dr. Walker is well pleased.

Concord.

Dear Editor—Please give me a space in your paper, as I want to say a few words in regard to Mr. J. B. Donaway's school. He taught at a good school, and we were sorry to see it close; we had a nice concert, and the teacher gave us a nice talk. We hope to have him with us again. We are glad our Sunday school at Concord church is going on nicely.

Optical Illusions.

Striking Examples That May Be Observed in Daily Life.

Doubtless every one has observed while traveling by train that the trees or houses in the distance appear to be speeding along in the same direction as the train, while the nearer objects are fast receding. Many, too, have observed that the top of a level wall built on a steep incline appears to slope upward in a contrary direction to the hill itself at nearly the same angle to the apparent level, and some have curiously regarded the ghostlike gliding and vanishing of dark shadows while passing a double row of fencing, but the following are not so commonly remarked:

One might stand for several minutes watching the revolutions of the cups of an anemometer—for measuring the velocity of the wind—and still be puzzled as to the real way they are turning round. Gaze up at them when there is an uncertain breeze blowing. They revolve rapidly, and you are perhaps perplexed as to their direction. As the wind subsides you would expect to find it easier to tell the direction by the slower revolution; but, as a matter of fact, the difficulty is increased. With the varying speed your first impression is that such and such is the direction. A moment later you reverse that idea, and the longer you gaze the more it seems as if they are spinning round erratically in every possible direction, whereas, of course, they can only turn one way.

Standing immediately beneath a high wall of a building—the longer the wall the better for practical demonstration—many would aver on looking upward that it was not exactly perpendicular, but inclined toward them in a threatening manner. This illusion is the effect of perspective and would be even better exemplified if the wall were two or three walls high and each other at sharp angles.—New York Telegram.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup.

The cough syrup that tastes nearly as good as maple sugar, and which children like so well to take. Unlike nearly all other cough remedies it does not constipate but on the other hand it acts promptly yet gently on the bowels, through which the cold is forced out of the system, and at the same time it allays inflammation. Always use Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Purity, Mellowness and Rich Flavor are the distinguishing qualities of Sunny Brook THE PURE FOOD Whiskey

It is distilled in the good old Kentucky way and is specially adapted for home use. Every bottle is sealed with the "Green Stamp," a positive assurance of full proof, quantity and a fully matured age. It stands unequalled as a rich and healthful stimulant—a sure cure for many of the minor ailments of the human system.

THE GONDOLA.

Its Gliding and Guiding Through Venice's Intricate Canals.

The gondola is so perfectly adapted to its purpose that it is like a sentient thing in the gondolier's control. It obeys the slightest impulse of the ear. Through the narrow and intricate labyrinths of Venice, it glides with unfailing accuracy. The boatmen have about ten different calls by which they announce their approach as they come to a corner, the turn they will take in a crowd, their way to the left or right, and all that. And these calls, half song, half cry, echo day and night, and yet so musical are they that they seem to be merely a part of the haunting silence of Venice.

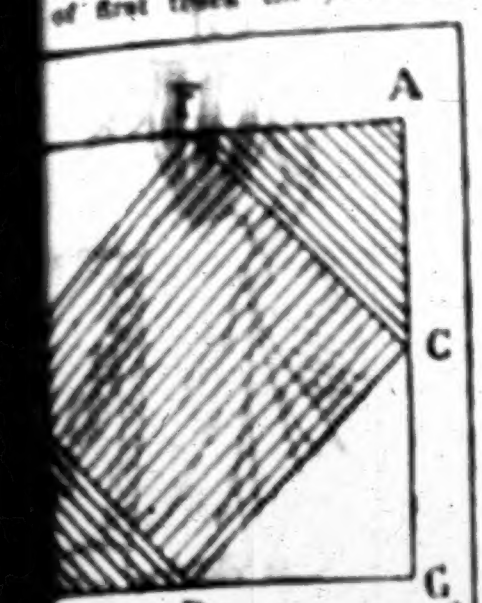

Indeed the music of Venice is here, all these—the day and the night, the boats and the people, the songs and the sighs—combine to make one perfect whole, curving and like one of Petrarch's sonnets, which one I care not. Here even death is not mostly gloomy. It is friendly and familiar as well. I saw them put old Paolo to bed for the last time. He had been in the prime of a stout gondolier of the Venetian of Santa Sofia, near the Rialto, but in old age was a ragged "hooker" of the gray. In his quarters, however, he was a respected man. Indeed to be old or to be a child is among the gondoliers a title to tenderness and respect. And so when a good man dies in the power quatters the neighborhood comes and bids a brave hand to celebrate his virtues.—Vance Thompson in Outing Magazine.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Clanton, Ala., April 20

Editor Banner—I write this letter asking for information in regard to the Commissioners' court of this county. I hear it said that they had been holding too many sessions of court during the past year, thereby drawing more money than was actually necessary to transact the business of the county.
Will someone get the facts as to the exact number of days they have been in session and publish it?
Also what are they doing with the money in the treasury, that which they have access to? For instance, how much have they paid out for bridges in the past year, including steel ones, put up by a yankee from the west, or whoever the contractor is who built them. Now, you gentlemen of the court, this writer is not making charges along this line, but after all, perhaps on the case of going into an election to still raise more money for the purpose of building and keeping up public roads and to build bridges. It would be well enough to have a general overhauling of the county's money matters.

Now, about this raise in taxes for public roads. I am sure it will be voted down. On that proposition I am just like Mr. Middleton was at Fairview when he said the roads would be all right if the present law was enforced. If the Grand Jury of Chilton county will have a few apportioners and overseers fined about $50 they will get a lot more interested. I am going to the election to vote against this proposition, because under these good old Republican times everything is going well. Not according to their way of bragging, they have been in full control of this government in every department for the past eleven years and they claimed the earth and its fullness thereof except the panic which has settled over the country and turned tramps over the country from one end to the other. The State of New York has nearly 300,000 men out of work, with the other states following down to Arkansas with 21,000. Now, follow voters of Chilton county, instead of listening to the old language in every school house in this county put to you by the Republican speakers,
don't forget to tell yourself there is a panic on hand, and will, before its end, be the worst one in American history, and the Republican party has been in absolute control for the past eleven years and don't forget the people want to know what is going with their money, as applied to bridges and paid to court officers at least, so think

Ex-Chairman, J. E. Robinson, Sr.
Clerk, C. C. McDowell.
Prelate, W. J. Armstrong.
Messenger, J. Frank Palmer.
Guard, J. S. Hubbard.
Sentinel, J. E. Robinson, Jr.
Council will hold its next meeting Friday, 24th. This new Council is to be congratulated upon the personnel of its membership, and sufficient enthusiasm exists among the members to soon put the Council to the front.

A Suggestion.

Having thought and talked some of doing some work at the old Arthur Mullins graveyard, we now suggest that those who desire, to meet there on Friday, May 1, 1908, prepared with tools to clean off the grounds and to get on foot some plan for protection against the degradations of animals, it only being partially enclosed. Let us do something.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready
to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him
with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contemptment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

LOOKING FORWARD TO A NEW SUIT

April 19, 1908, is a day that will
be looked forward to with great anticipation by thousands all over the country. Why? Because it is Easter Sunday—the day that marks the formal opening of Spring.
It is then that we put on our "best bib and tucker" and march forth in gladsome attire. A common text for ministers on this occasion
is, "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

The new styles in clothing this season is so constructed that a glance at the wearer tells the tale
of whether they are new and styles
of 1908 Easter or old and represent styles of former Easters gone by.

Also Shoes, Hats, Shirts, Collars and Ties in the very newest shapes. Not forgetting the Ladies'
and Children's department, we
would be disappointed if you come in our store and did not find that Easter Dress.

Come now before the other fellow gets what you intended to buy.
Yours for new styles and many patterns to select from for Easter.

WON COSTLY VICTORY

French Troops Lose Heavily in Fight With Berbers.

THE LATTER LOST 125 MEN

French Column in Algeria, Surprised by Berbers and Arabs, Fought Desperately, Pursuing the Enemy for a Distance of Six Miles.

Colombeschar, Algeria, April 17.—A French column moved on Talaia hill, which commands the plain of Talaia, was attacked fiercely at daylight Thursday by a number of Berbers who, with nomad Arabs, have been concentrating for some weeks past on the western frontier of Algeria.

Although surprised, the French rallied and fought desperately but not only lost their advantage but were pursued for a distance of six miles. So hot was the pursuit that the Arabs in the headlong flight abandoned their dead and wounded. Several green flags of the prophet also fell into the hands of the French.

This French victory was costly. Twenty-eight men, including an officer, were killed and 100 men, including ten officers, were wounded.

The losses were greatest in the foreign legion. The Berber losses were much heavier, no less than 125 dead bodies being found by the French trooper. The French pursuit was stopped by darkness.

STAMPEDE OF ELEPHANTS.

One Woman Killed and Man Fatally Injured at Riverside, Cal.

Riverside, Cal., April 17.—As a result of an explosion and fire at the storage oil tanks near here, a herd of elephants were stampeded. L. J. Worley lies at the city hospital fatally injured, and Miss Ella Gibbs, a church deaconess, is dead.

A circus was preparing for an exhibit when the explosion and fire occurred. A big herd of elephants became frightened and stampeded, doing much damage before they were rounded up. One of them, a huge beast, killed a young lady by trampling upon her, and probably fatally injured a man before the keepers finally got him under control.

The town was thrown into the wildest excitement by the series of exciting events.

LOST IN RACE WITH DEATH.

Dying Man Wanted to Reach Home Before End Came.

Chicago, April 17.—Addison Parkson, a retired banker and farmer of Roselle, Ind., died Thursday at Western Springs, Ill., with a race halfway across the continent to reach his home and relatives almost completed. He was stricken with pneumonia a week ago in California and in spite of his age, eighty-five years, decided to make the race for his home. He was only half a day's journey from his home when the end came.

The invalid was accompanied on the trip by James Mooney, a relative, and the latter cared for the body after the train reached Chicago.

MET VIOLENT DEATHS.

Two Children Killed by Train, Another Fell in Boiling Water.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 17.—Three little children met violent deaths in Los Angeles Thursday.

Vincent and Joseph Sengora, in company with their mother and grand-mother were walking through the Southern Pacific yards when a backing car struck the two little boys and killed them both.

Julius Borush, aged three years, while playing on the back porch of his home, where his mother was doing the family washing, fell backwards into a tub of boiling water and died at the hospital a few hours later.

Admiral Bled Dead.

Raleigh, N. C., April 17.—Rear Admiral George B. Bled, United States navy, retired, died Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. He had come to Raleigh from his home in Baltimore for the winter for the sake of his health. He was in his eighty-seventh year, and entered the United States navy at the age of seventeen. He was retired in 1883. Death resulted from an attack of pneumonia.

Pugilist Has Ribs Broken.

New York, April 17.—In a six-round bout "Jim" Stewart, a local heavy weight of Summit Hill, Pa., had two ribs broken. Stewart beat his man badly and the encounter was stopped by the referee in the fifth round to prevent Bonner from being knocked out. Bonner displayed wonderful gameness. He was floored a half dozen times and was badly punished about the body and face.

Appointed Receiver.

New York, April 17.—A petition asking that the cotton exchange firm of Crutcher & Co., whose suspension was announced Thursday, be declared bankrupt, was filed in the U. S. district court Friday. The petition has claims against the company aggregating $3,695. Robert D. Murray was appointed receiver of the company.

CHILD THROWN INTO SEA.

Passenger of Steamer Considered Its Presence a Jinx.

New York, April 17.—An extraordinary tale of the burial at sea of a child which may have been alive when thrown overboard, was told by the officers of the steamer Statenland when the vessel arrived Thursday from Rotterdam.

The child is said to have been cast overboard by her own mother, Mrs. Bertha Laibik, of Poland. She was coming to this country with two children, the youngest of which is Elia, about a year old. On the way over the child was taken ill with convulsions and in about an hour was apparently dead.

The other passengers of the steamer objected to the presence of the body on board and informed the mother that unless the child was thrown overboard a storm would overwhelm the steamer. About midnight the body of the child was thrown into the sea. Officers of the steamer soon discovered what had happened and the ship surgeon made inquiries and he had expressed the fear that the child was merely in a comatose condition and might have been revived under medical treatment. Mrs. Laibik was taken to Ellis island.

HOT CAMPAIGN OPENS.

Governor Patterson and ex-Sen. Carmack Begin Debate.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 17.—Ex-Senator Edward W. Carmack and Governor M. R. Patterson opened their joint debate in the gubernatorial campaign in this city Thursday night. Thousands were turned away from the auditorium, being unable to get inside the doors.

This campaign is the hardest fought since the period of the civil war. The contestants are giants in politics and masters in oratory, and their followers are worked up to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

Train loads of people came into this city from all sections of Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia to hear the debate.

The issue in the campaign is statewide prohibition as against local option. Ex-Senator Carmack has come out for state-wide prohibition.

Tree Fell Across Track.

McRae, Ga., April 17.—As the eastbound train on the Seaboard Air Line railroad for Savannah was leaving Oswald, 6 miles west of McRae, Thursday afternoon, in charge of Conductor Monts and Engineer Gisttrap, a large pine tree fell across the track, a hundred yards ahead of the engine, and the engineer, reversing his engine stopped the train. He struck the tree, however, with sufficient force to derailed the engine, tender and baggage car. The track was so badly torn up that no trains were run in either direction for more than twelve hours. The passengers were badly shaken up and frightened, but no one was injured.

Bond Election at Athens.

Athens, Ga., April 17.—Wednesday the people of Athens authorized an issue of bonds to the amount of $75,000. The election passed off quietly, and on account of absolutely no opposition to the bonds, the vote was rather light. Forty thousand dollars of this issue will go to the building of new sewers, and $35,000 to the extension of the water mains of the city. With this addition, the city will have expended $200,000 on her waterworks system and more than $125,000 on her sewerage system.

Lockout is Ended.

Paris, April 17.—The lockout at the great number of masons, bricklayers and allied workmen which began April 4 came virtually to an end Friday. The men generally deserted the leaders of the movement and signed terms with the contractors, who have announced that work will be resumed April 21.

Exchanges Observe Good Friday.

New York, April 17.—The principal exchanges in the east and in foreign countries were closed Friday in observance of Good Friday, and all, with the exception of the New York Produce exchange, on Saturday also. Many of the markets will also be closed on Easter Monday.

Portugal Has Quieted Down.

Lisbon, April 17.—The country has quieted down, but anxiety is being felt for April 29, when parliament reassembles and on which occasion King Emmanuel must personally appear before that body and take oath to observe the constitution of Portugal.

Died from Poisonous Gases.

Mayon, Ga., April 17.—Three negro employees of the Royster Guano company here came to their death Thursday from inhaling poisonous gases while at work in the acid chamber of the company's factory, and four more are ill from the same cause, one probably fatally.

Action Will Be Postponed.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 18.—Until a decision is reached by the circuit court of appeals in the rebate case of the Santa Fe railroad, sentenced to pay a fine of $335,000 for rebates to the Grand Canyon Lime and Cement company of Arizona, the other actions will probably be held in abeyance.

TEXAS STORM SWEEP

Fort Worth Center of Worst Wind and Rainstorm in Years.

ALL TRAFFIC INTERRUPTED

Cleburne Was Also Visited by a Windstorm of Tornado-Like Proportions. Torrential Downpour of Rain Flooded Five Hundred Houses.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 18.—With telephone, telegraph and railroad service almost completely suspended, Fort Worth was Friday night the center of the worst wind and rain storm that has raged over north Texas in many years.

With two exceptions every railroad out of this city was forced to suspend its trains, owing to washed out roadbeds and loss of bridges, and at midnight the telephone companies reported having lost all wires out of the city.

Cleburne, twenty-five miles south, was struck by a windstorm of tornado proportions, followed by a torrential downpour of rain that literally flooded the city.

Within twenty minutes after the storm broke Friday night the two bayous that run through Cleburne had left their banks, flooding five hundred houses or more.

A circus, whose tents were pitched in the western section of the city, was completely wrecked. Two lions escaped and prowled about town for an hour, throwing the people into a panic. One canvassman was caught under the wreckage of the main tent and fatally injured.

The loss to the circus people is estimated at $12,000.

At Fort Worth the Trinidad river began to rise again at midnight, and every available man of the police department was hurried out to warn the people living in the bottoms.

GIVE POOR LO A CHANCE.

President Pleads for Right and Justice to the Indians.

Washington, April 18.—"After all, gentlemen, he is the oldest American of us all, so give him a fair show; give him a chance."

In these words, President Roosevelt spoke to the members of the Tulsa, Okla., Commercial club, who, with a brass band and flaming banners, called at the white house Friday and made it known to the president that they favored the removal of restrictions on the sale of Indian lands in the new state.

The president told the club that he would help them to see that they got their rights and he wanted their help to see that the Indian gets his.

The club members were accompanied by Senator Owen and Congressman McClure. The delegation, which numbers over a hundred, was greatly pleased at the attitude of the president and the assurances given by him.

WILLIAM J. ON HIS ROUNDS.

Candidate Is Now Making Speeches in New York State.

Rochester, N. Y., April 18.—William J. Bryan left Rochester Saturday morning for Glen Falls, where he spoke at night. Sunday afternoon he gave an Easter address at the Utica Young Men's Christian association and in the evening he spoke at Little Falls.

On Monday he will go to New York city, speaking in the Bronx Monday night and at a press dinner Tuesday night. Tuesday night he will meet Mrs. Bryan and their daughter in New York. On Wednesday he will be the guest of Governor Fort, of New Jersey, in Trenton.

Postmaster Kills Self.

Danville, Va., April 18.—J. D. Martin, postmaster at Leakville, N. C., killed himself in the postoffice building at an early hour Friday by sending a bullet through his brain. No reason is assigned for the deed, except business troubles. Mr. Martin was well known in Danville, where he had many friends. He was about forty years old, and leaves a family.

Former U. S. Marshal Dead.

Cincinnati, O., April 18.—After a lingering illness, Henry C. Urner, secretary and treasurer of the Little Miami railroad, former United States marshal and an active member of the council of Thirty-third degree Masons, died at his home in this city Friday night, aged seventy-eight years.

Rounding Up Night Riders.

Owensboro, Ky., April 18.—Company C of the national guard has received orders from Adjutant General Johnson to leave for Paducah. It is supposed that they will see duty in Trigg and Calloway counties, where alleged night riders are being rounded up.

Aide-de-Camp to Czar Ill.

St. Petersburg, April 18.—Lieutenant General Lincolnton, aide-de-camp to Emperor Nicholas and former commander-in-chief of the Russian army in Manchuria, is ill with pneumonia. Reports of his condition are contradictory, some saying he is recovering, others that he is dying.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

FRIDAY.

Ferdinand Schumacher, of Akron, O., for many years known as the "cat man king," is dead.

Charlesmagne Tower, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Tower will leave Berlin for Dresden on Tuesday where they will be received in audience by King Frederick-August, king of Saxony.

Advices received from Bogota, the capital of Colombia, are to the effect that President Reyes has left that city for the Atlantic coast ostensibly to endeavor to remedy the present economic crisis in that region.

Mrs. Marcelita Rice, widow of the famous circus clown, died at Santa Rose hospital at San Antonio, Tex. A general physical breakdown was the cause of her death.

Directors of the Amalgamated Copper company have declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on its capital stock. This is unchanged from the last previous quarter.

Secretary Taft has ordered that the National cemetery at Greenville, Tenn., be designated and hereafter known as the Andrew Johnson National cemetery, in honor of the former president.

SATURDAY.

The eight-oar crew from Harvard has arrived here. They will row the midshipmen on the Severn river next Thursday afternoon.

Rain is falling over the entire winter wheat section of Nebraska. The moisture was badly needed, this being practically the first rain since last fall.

Application for the appointment of a receiver for the Odella Brokerage company, one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country, was made in Cincinnati by attorneys representing the company.

The Ross Run iron mines in Bath county, Kentucky, owned by Alabama and Missouri capitalists, have resumed work after a shutdown during the financial stringency. This gives work to about 200 men, many of whom had spent almost their last dollar for food since the suspension.

BURNED TO DEATH IN JAIL.

Man, Charged with Murder, Believed To Have Set Fire to Bed.

Seneca, Kans., April 18.—James Lally, charged with murder, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the jail here early Saturday morning.

When the fire was discovered the sheriff found Lally unconscious and carried him out. He is believed to have set fire to his bed with suicidal intent. Lally was awaiting trial on the charge of having killed Herbert Jordan, a newspaper man and former secretary to ex-Governor W. J. Bailey, of Kans.

Senator LaFollette Quite Ill.

Washington, April 17.—Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, is ill at his home in California street, suffering from gall stones. He has been attended by a physician almost constantly for the past forty-eight hours, and inflammation of the stomach has developed. His family and friends are alarmed over his condition.

Votes to Table Aldrich Bill.

Washington, April 17.—The house committee on banking and currency Friday voted unanimously to table the Aldrich financial bill. It also was decided to give a hearing to Representative Vreeland, of New York, who recently introduced a financial bill which is looked upon as a substitute for the Aldrich measure.

New Record for Mauretania.

New York, April 17.—By a remarkable close margin of one minute, the big Cunard liner Mauretania established a new record across the ocean over the long route in the voyage which ended here Friday. Her time for the passage was four days, twenty-three hours and fifty-nine minutes.

To Sell Actress' Furnishings.

New York, April 17.—The entire household furnishings of Mrs. Leslie Carter-Payne, the actress, are to be sold to the highest bidder beginning next Wednesday. Her effects are said to be valued at $30,000 and to consist chiefly of antique furniture, portraits, oil paintings and lace.

Meeting of Cotton Manufacturers.

Boston, April 17.—The session of the annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers Friday was devoted to the consideration of papers and addresses prepared by experts on the several phases of the general subject of cotton manufacturing.

French Fight with Arabs.

Ain Seffa, Algeria, April 17.—A French column has been heavily engaged with the Arabs west of this place. The booming of cannon was heard throughout the entire day, but no details of the engagement have been learned.

Star Pitcher Receives Offer.

South Bend, Ind., April 17.—Chauncey Dubuc, the star pitcher of Notre Dame, has received an offer to join the Chicago White Sox team. An agent came to the city Thursday to confer with him in an effort to induce him to sign up.

FLEET AT LOS ANGELES

Hundred Thousand People Welcome American Battleships.

WEEK OF ENTERTAINMENT

Stay of the Fleet is Intended To Be Made the Greatest Celebration in the History of Southern California—The City Adorned with Flags, Etc.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 18.—Start day the Atlantic battleship fleet entered upon the second installment of its California welcome, a demonstration that will continue throughout a solid week of liberal hospitality and unbroken entertainment for the officers and men of the visiting warships from the other side of the continent.

The stay of the fleet is intended to be made the greatest celebration in the history of southern California, and thousands of visitors, representing every section of the Pacific coast, has for weeks been engaged in planning details of the demonstration.

Gay With Flattering Eyes.

Not Los Angeles alone, but Long beach, San Pedro, Redondo, Venice, Ocean park and Santa Monica are gay with fluttering flags and festooned with lights that will flash their individual welcomes each evening. By common consent the American flag has been chosen as the most appropriate feature of civic adornment, and in this city the principal streets are overhung and the buildings almost hidden from view by enormous banners.

Saturday a hundred thousand people were estimated to be scattered all along the beaches and bluffs of forty miles of coast, stretching from well below the Santa Anna county line to the north shore of San Pedro bay, where the fleet dropped anchor.

Beginning with Monday there will be five days of ceaseless activity for the officers and men of the fleet and for the thousands of people in Los Angeles and adjoining cities who are engaged in their entertainment.

Shore Leave Each Day.

On each day shore leave will be granted to 6,500 enlisted men, for whom special entertainments, slightly varied on each day, will be provided.

The boxes of the Atlantic fleet will settle the championships in all classes; a wild west show with cowboys imported from Arizona will be repeated; and in addition there will be barbecues, concerts and dances for the sailors, all of whom will be carried from the beaches to the city and back to the ships without charge.

Grand Ball Wednesday.

Chief among the many social events planned among the officers will be a banquet at the Hotel Alexandria on Monday evening; an automobile parade through the city for the admirals and officers on Tuesday and a grand ball where 250 officers will appear in full dress at the Shriners' auditorium on Wednesday evening.

LEVEES BREAK.

Thousands of Acres of Land Reported Under Water.

Little Rock, Ark., April 18.—Reports from the lower Arkansas river say the levees are breaking in many places on account of high water. A message received here from the penitentiary told of a break in the levee above the state farm.

Hundreds of convicts rushed to the break, and aided in closing it. The levees opposite the farm will have to be cut in order to save them, as the water is pressing against the tops. This is caused by the construction of additional levees, confining the river within its banks above. Thousands of acres of land are reported under water where the levees gave way, and were cut.

"ONLY JUST BEGUN."

Fight for Big Navy Will Go Right On, Says Hobson.

Washington, April 18.—"The fight for a big navy will go right on," said Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson, of Alabama, after an interview with the president Friday. "No battle was ever won or lost on the skirmish line; we have only just begun. If John Sharp Williams had not made the matter a party question in the house there would have been many more democratic votes in favor of four battleships. The question of a big navy is broader than party."

Atlanta Wants Convention.

Atlanta, April 18.—At a joint conference between the council of commerce on auditoriums and the committee on commerce committee on conventions held in the city's office, it was decided to make every possible effort to secure for Atlanta the annual meeting of the Confederate Veterans' association, the convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, and the annual meeting of the Photographers' Association of America.

29 Candidates for Mayor.

Monroe, La., April 18.—Twenty-nine candidates for mayor and city officers in the city of Monroe, La., are expected to appear at the primary election on May 1. The list of candidates is as follows: J. B. White, J. C. White, J. D. White, J. E. White, J. F. White, J. G. White, J. H. White, J. I. White, J. J. White, J. K. White, J. L. White, J. M. White, J. N. White, J. O. White, J. P. White, J. Q. Working Force To Be Reduced.

Springfield, Mass., April 18.—The Springfield army is expected to be reduced by about two hundred men, according to reports from Springfield, Mass. The reduction is expected to be made in the next few weeks.

TRAGEDY AT VILLAGE.

Policeman Killed by Man Trying to Escape.

Villa Rica, Va., April 18.—A policeman was killed by a man trying to escape from the police station here Thursday night. The man, who was named T. E. Holt, was arrested on a charge of larceny and was being held in the station when he made his attempt to escape.

Holt was a man of about 35 years of age, and was dressed in a dark suit and a light-colored shirt. He was seen running from the station at about 11 o'clock on Thursday night.

There seems to have been some confusion on the part of the police when Holt was arrested. He was taken to the station and held in the cell. He was later taken to the hospital, where he died of his wounds.

FOR PARCELS.

Scheme Favored by Postmaster General on Rural Routes.

Washington, April 18.—The postmaster general is calling attention of congress to the fact that the establishment of a post office on rural routes is a costly proposition. He suggests that the government should consider a scheme for the delivery of mail to these routes by means of a special delivery service.

A statement issued by the postmaster general, giving the post office for March, 1907, shows a total of $260,957, or 3.11 per cent of the total cost of the post office.

Withdraws from the Race.

Atlanta, April 18.—Mr. Walker, the mayor of Atlanta, who some weeks ago announced himself a candidate for the nomination for governor, has withdrawn from the race. He has announced his withdrawal in a letter to the Atlanta Journal.

The idea is suitable both for the afternoon wear. An evening dress with a wide skirt and a high collar is also popular.

Prince to Visit Canada.

London, April 18.—The prince of Wales has been invited to visit Canada in July, to attend the centenary celebration of the battle of Wolfe and the opening of the new parliament in Ottawa.

The prince is expected to arrive in Canada on July 1, and to remain for about two weeks. He will visit several cities, including Montreal, Quebec, and Ottawa.

Found Hanging to a Tree.

Atlanta, Tex., April 18.—A negro, named Douglas, was found hanging to a tree in the woods near the town of Atlanta, Tex. The body was discovered by a hunter on Thursday morning.

Troops Are Withdrawn.

Pensacola, Fla., April 18.—The troops here from Governor's order have been withdrawn from the city. The governor has ordered that the troops be withdrawn from the city and sent to other parts of the state.

29 Candidates for Mayor.

The Banner.

Published every Friday at 10:00 a.m. by The Banner Printing Co., 100 N. 1st St., Birmingham, Ala.

Entered at the post office at Birmingham, Ala., as second-class matter, May 1, 1908.

Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Act of October 3, 1917, authorized on July 1, 1918.

Postage paid at Birmingham, Ala.

With much pleasure and very earnestly we beg to call the attention of the readers of THE BANNER to the strong endorsement of the candidacy of J. Arkie Mahan for the office of Tax Collector of Chilton county which will be found on page 8 of this paper.

It is an endorsement out of the usual run of politics, and one that Mr. Mahan will doubtless be proud of and preserve. It speaks highly of his ability, his integrity and of his general worthiness, and is signed by those who know him, many of them having known him all his life. To those who are not personally acquainted with him it will appeal by its straightforward simplicity.

The office of tax collector is not, or rather it should not be, one of partisan politics. The tax collector is, as we all recognize, a necessary evil—taxes must be raised and must be paid, and he who is authorized to collect them should do so in a quiet and gentlemanly manner and with as little friction as possible. This, from our personal knowledge of Mr. Mahan, we know he will do, meeting the tax payers cheerfully and giving them all the information in his power.

The tax collector is required by law to give due notice of his appointments throughout the county, presumably through a newspaper printed and published within the county, and when a tax collector in the exercise of his prerogative proceeds to give notice of his official proceedings through a publication printed in another county he is very liable to make such blunders as we experienced last year, a blunder which would have been impossible in a paper printed in Chilton county, and be forced to repeat his advertisement, much to the discredit of the county and the great inconvenience and annoyance of the people.

When such blunders are made it is not the tax collector who suffers, but the people he is supposed to serve.

Such a contretemps with Mr. Mahan as tax collector would be impossible and we therefore earnestly urge his candidacy upon the voters of Chilton county.

R. L. MARCUS

This gentleman is announced as a candidate for Tax Collector and few men are more deserving of the honor and emoluments of the office. "Bob," as he is familiarly known to his many friends, is a well known citizen, born and raised in Chilton county. Well educated, and popular, he is thoroughly well qualified to fill the position, and should be nominated and elected he will prove a thoroughly efficient officer. A life-long Democrat he solicits your suffrage, confident that he can make you a good tax collector.

A CASH OFFER.

The Banner has made a special clubbing rate with The Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the regular subscription price, $1.00. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer; $1.00 cash for both papers. Everyone should take their home paper first for the local news, and then a general weekly for the news of the world. These two papers make a strong combination. Both papers $1.00.

NOTICE OF PRIMARY ELECTION

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county, held at Chilton, on Saturday, the 14th day of March, 1908, the following resolutions were adopted to-wit:

Whereas the State Democratic Executive Committee, on the 7th day of February, 1908, ordered a primary election to be held in the several counties of the state of Alabama, for the nomination of Judicial, Congressional and County officers, who, by law, are to be elected at the general election in November, 1908, and prescribing rules regulating the holding of said primary election, therefore:

Be it resolved, That the plans, rules and regulations set forth by the said State Democratic Executive Committee for said primary election be adopted and endorsed.

Be it further resolved, That a primary election be held on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1908, in the several precincts of Chilton county, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Treasurer, Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Superintendent of Education, two County Commissioners for Districts 1 and 2, a Coroner and two Justices of the Peace and one Constable for each precinct within the county, and also for the purpose of electing a Democratic Executive Committeeman from each precinct within the county.

Be it further resolved, That said primary election shall be held in accordance with the State primary election law and under the rules heretofore governing the holding of such primary.

Be it further resolved, That each candidate for county office shall have the right to furnish the Chairman of this Committee, not later than the 1st day of May, 1908, a list of persons desired by him as inspectors for the several precincts.

Be it further resolved, That the Chairman of this Committee be and he is hereby empowered to appoint a Committee to be composed of five members, and to be known as a Campaign Committee, whose duty it shall be to ascertain the amount necessary to defray the expense of holding and conducting said primary election and assess each candidate for county office, his pro rata part of the same and to further do all things lawful and necessary that said election may be properly held and conducted.

Be it further resolved, That any candidate failing to pay the amount assessed against him by said Campaign Committee, as hereinbefore provided, on or before the 2nd day of May, 1908, shall not be entitled to have his name printed on the official ballot at said election.

Be it further resolved, That the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton county shall meet at the court house of said county, on Saturday, the 23d day of May, 1908, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of canvassing and tabulating the returns from the several precincts and the candidate receiving a plurality of the votes cast for the office for which he offers shall be declared the nominee of the Democratic party for said office, and further that the Chairman and Secretary shall certify as is provided by law, the names of the candidates so voted for and nominated in said primary election.

Dated this 14th day of March, 1908.

CANDIDATES FOR DENVER.

The candidates for delegates to Denver of whom there will be twenty-two, four at large and two from each of the nine Congressional Districts, are qualifying very slowly. This is the first year that the primary method for selecting delegates to the national convention has been tried. The honor has found fewer seekers than the champions of the plan seemed to have anticipated. The office is of so transient a nature that the payment of $50 premium for the privilege of representing the party in addition to the heavy expense of a trip to Denver, seems to have invited but few aspirants. The aspirants are certainly much fewer than they were under the old convention plan.—Advertiser.

CHILTON COUNTY TAXES

It goes without saying that the recent exorbitant raise of taxes in Chilton county is something unprecedented in its history. In old Rome the idea was that the people existed for the state, so were taxed accordingly, and this occupies its place in the chief reasons assigned for "the fall of Rome." American state institutions are built upon the theory that the state exists for the individual, and as such it should be run upon as economical a basis as is possible for the welfare of the people.

Of late years officials chosen by the people seem to forget the reformatory basis upon which our government is constructed and are taxing (or at least are beginning to do so) the people upon the basis of the people existing for the state. We well know bridges have to be built, streets have to be kept up, county institutions have to be supported (we need better schools) but along with our unprecedented increase of taxes, no very noticeable degree of progress has been made in these lines. Progress has not kept pace with increased expenses, and many in discussing this question, the majority I might say, are inclined to think there is extravagance in county expenditures by county officials. This seems to be the only palatable explanation. If along with the defeat of the trust power comes the same oppressive measures from the state, reinstate the trust power. One institution had as well oppress as another, and better in the name of trusts and corporate interests than in the name of state, if money is used for no better purpose. The extreme laxity is shown by the fact of the county being charged for material for building a pen for hogs for a county official. So it is reported; and if not exactly true it illustrates the idea—general laxity in making expenditures.

Now, economy is the watchword of the home, of the county, of the state, of the nation, or should be. No destructive economical measures, should be passed or in vogue; the county is willing to bear legitimate expenses; but it is one of the chief duties of a county official to reduce county expenditures to a minimum. If he does not do so it is the privilege and duty of the county citizenship to vote him down and out by electing men to county offices pledged to the safe and economical interests of the county—men whose chief concern should be to promote the interests of the county to the least detriment of it.

County elections are soon on. Let us assert the economical basis in our platforms, and elect men who are thus pledged to the interest of the county. As with the individual, so with the county. No difficult matter with either to make expenditures of money without seeing any marked or useful result. But the wise man is he, who when dealing with the communities or county's interests will reduce expenditures to as great a minimum as is consistent with legitimate and desirable progress. Let us return to our former basis of government, that is as pertaining to principle.
VON MOS.

President Roosevelt Says

that outdoor exercise is needed by the American people. That's all very well, but how can people with rheumatism follow that advice? The answer is simple—use Ballard's Snow Liniment and the rheumatism will go; leaving you as spry as a colt. Gives quick and permanent relief from rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back and all pains. Editor Banner—Please allow me a small space in your paper for a few remarks.

The health of this community is good at present.

The Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely by the leadership of Mr. P. C. Weldon, our superintendent. We also have some excellent teachers that are doing excellent in their power to impress God's truths upon the minds of the pupils, and the pupils are exerting their efforts to grasp the truths of God and to become useful in his service.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Middlebrooks of Thorbynt Saturday and Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Marcus.

Misses Annie and Amelia Rhodes of Ocampo are visiting relatives in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Golden of Mineral Springs visited Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Weldon Sunday.

There will be an all-day singing at this place next Sunday and everybody is invited. Come and bring your song books and your baskets well filled.

PLANT MORE CORN.

In a signed statement President Harvie Jordan of the Southern Cotton association declares that activity in the ranks has been allowed to slumber and he urges the organization to renew its activity for better prices for cotton.

Said Mr. Jordan: "Spot cotton must be held off the market if the present tendency to depression is to be checked. To prevent disaster next fall, plant more corn and less cotton this spring and let the people in every county go to work actively to complete and build up their organizations so as to have the united strength of the south as a bulwark against any financial depression which may continue from outside sources to menace the best interests of the cotton grower."

Kodol for Dyspepsia has helped thousands of people who have had stomach trouble. This is what one man says of it: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Gentlemen—In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. I could not digest anything I ate and in the spring of 1902 I bought a bottle of Kodol and the benefit I received from that bottle all the gold I Georgia could not buy. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic. May you live long and prosper. Yours very truly, C. N. Cornell, Roding, Ga., Aug. 27, 1908." Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Jemison.

There will be an Odd Fellows memorial service at Jemison Sunday evening, the 26th, beginning at 3 o'clock. The Odd Fellows and Rebeccas will meet at the hall at 2:30 to arrange for the exercises. The meeting will be public and everybody is invited, especially all Odd Fellows. Music and lectures will be the order of the evening.

Alabama Sunday School As-

My Dear Co-Worker:—This is to remind you that the Twenty-

Fifth Annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association

is to be held in the city of Birmingham, April 28-30.

We trust that your school will plan to send a full delegation to the convention and appoint only

those who will attend every session,

for every delegate ought to get the full benefit of the convention and return home determined to do bet-

French Officers Tell of Horrors of Haitian Revolution.

ONE MAN WAS BURIED ALIVE

Nocturnal Execution of Group of Men Accused of Attempting to Incite a Revolution Against President Alexis Administration.

New York, April 28.—The French cruiser D'Estrees is in port from Haiti, where the ship was sent at the time of the recent attempted revolution, to look after French interests. The officers of the ship have many stories to tell of the revolution.

Nocturnal Execution. While at Port au Prince the D'Estrees was the scene for eighty refugees and the officers told of the horrors of the nocturnal execution on March 16th, of a group of men accused of attempting to incite a revolution a few days after President Nord Alexis had quelled a rising against his administration.

There was not enough graves for all the persons who were shot, and one prominent merchant had to sit and watch the soldiers dig his future burial place.

Was Buried Alive. As the firing squad was in a hurry, his grave was dug only of sufficient depth to allow him to be buried with his arms and knees together. The bullets failed to kill him and he was tumbled into the hole which was yet too small. Then the grave diggers pushed him in with their shovels and while they were covering him, he sought to protest by moving his hands.

ENGLAND IN BLIZZARD'S GRASP

In Many Places Snowdrifts Were 8 Feet Deep.

London, April 28.—A remarkable blizzard, the worst experienced in the south of England since 1881, continued practically all over the United Kingdom throughout Friday night and Saturday, until Saturday midnight.

It was accompanied by a violent northerly gale and a low temperature, and in many places the snowdrifts are 8 feet deep.

Railroad traffic has been seriously delayed and telegraph and telephone systems are completely disorganized. Tramway cars and motor cars have been snowed under in every section of the country. Many of the outlying districts are isolated and some deaths from exposure are reported. Enormous damage has been done.

Major Sidney Lacy Dead.

Orlando, Fla., April 28.—Major Sidney Herbert Lacy, journalist, soldier and historian, died Sunday morning at his home at Maitland. Over the past few years he had been contributing an interesting article each Sunday for the Savannah Morning News. He was one of the best posted men in the United States on the history of the civil war, viewed from both sides of the federal and confederates.

Anna and Prince Visit Vesuvius.

Naples, April 28.—Prince Helio de Sagan and Mme. Gould and her children Sunday went by motor car to Boscorenza, on the southern declivity of Mount Vesuvius. They walked through the lava streams of the last eruption to the ruins of the hotel garden. It is expected that they soon will go to Rome and Paris, probably stopping for a day or two in Florence.

"Breaking" Colt He Met Death.

Chicago, April 28.—A colt Sunday pulled Bertrand Dayley, an Aurora farmer, in front of an Elgin and Aurora interurban car. Both colt and man were killed by instant death. The farmer was "breaking" the colt at the time of the accident. Mr. Dayley, who was forty-two years old, had intended selling his farm Monday, preparatory to moving to California, where his wife is.

China's Boycott Quite Effective.

Hongkong, April 28.—The boycott by China on the Japanese has become so effective in the southern part of China that the Toyoko Kisen Kaisha (Oriental steamship company) has temporarily suspended its South American service, as the steamers of the line are unable to obtain passengers and freight.

Odd Fellows Celebrate.

Atlanta, April 28.—Over one thousand Odd Fellows Sunday afternoon formed a line and marched from the corner of Alabama and Third streets to the Christian church on South Pryor street, where the eighty-ninth anniversary was celebrated with appropriate services.

Shot and Killed Wife.

Byhalia, Miss., April 28.—Wallace Folk, a well known farmer, Sunday shot and killed his wife, seriously injuring his eighteen-year-old daughter, both turning his pistol on himself, blew out his brains.

Heavy Snowstorm in Wisconsin.

Superior, Wis., April 28.—This city and vicinity are experiencing one of the heaviest snowstorms of the year.

WRECK ON CHESAPEAKE

Results in Two Killed and One Injured. Atlantic City, N.J., April 28.—Two persons were killed and one injured Sunday morning when a small boat was wrecked on the Chesapeake Bay near the mouth of the Delaware river.

The Dead Are:

Engineer Samuel Metcalf, of Abbeville, S. C.
Flagman W. M. Wilson, negro.
The injured are:
Elihu G. G. Brown, seriously.
Conductor W. C. Morgan, badly injured.

The wreck was caused by a violent wind and a high tide, following the hard rain of Friday night, in which the boat, through the fault of the crew, was driven into the rocks.

The flagman was instantly killed as his train turned over. Engineer Metcalf was caught under the ponderous weight of his engine, which rolled down the embankment, and for three hours was pinned beneath its weight.

He was brought to the Grady hospital, where he died at 1:30 o'clock as a result of his crushed limbs, scalds and burns.

Conductor Morgan, though badly injured, walked back up the track for a mile in time to flag any following train, and after he had done this duty fell from exhaustion.

The torn up freight cars so blocked the rails as to prevent through traffic over the lines until 8 o'clock at night.

STORM AT CAVE SPRING.

Nine White People and One Negro Were Killed There.

Rome, Ga., April 28.—The cyclone Friday night near Cave Spring cut a swath a half mile wide and 5 miles long, leveling everything. Nine white people and one negro were killed and twelve others badly hurt.

Mrs. Thomas Huggins, Thomas Huggins' mother, and three of his children were killed. Three more are dying, and another seriously hurt.

Huggins himself escaped from the house, and was not hurt.

Mrs. J. Carl McGinnis and daughter, Miss Estelle McGinnis, were killed. J. A. Southland was killed and a daughter badly hurt.

Judge Head, a negro, was killed, and his wife and son badly injured. A child named Camp was hurt, and Henry Hancock, his wife and Cleveland Baker, negroes, were hurt.

The cyclone occurred about 8 o'clock. Scores of houses were demolished. All tenement houses on the farm of W. C. McGinnis were destroyed, but his big residence was outside the storm's area.

A. D. Eubank's house was blown down, but the family escaped injury.

COLLEGE OF BISHOPS.

Meets at Nashville, Tenn., in Annual Session—Two Days' Session.

Nashville, Tenn., April 28.—The college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, met in the Methodist publishing house here Monday in annual session, which will probably last two days.

It was originally decided to hold the meeting at St. Joseph, Mo., but the place was later changed to Nashville.

At the annual session the bishops appoint the presiding officers for each annual conference and fix the date of the conferences. There will also be a general discussion and review of the work of the church.

The college of bishops includes the following members:
O. P. Fitzgerald, Charles B. Gallo, W. A. O'Quinn, E. E. Hoss, A. W. Wilson, E. R. Hendrix, J. S. Key, H. C. Morrison, Seth Ward and James Atkins.

National Rifle Match.

Washington, April 28.—Candidates for the rifle teams to represent the infantry and cavalry arms in the national match at Camp Perry, O., this year, are being provisionally selected with a view of preliminary practice.

Candidates may be sent from the Philippines and Cuba. Captain William H. May, of the Tenth Infantry on duty at the Pennsylvania college, is to be the captain of the cavalry team and Captain Fred L. Munsen, of the Ninth Infantry, on duty at Fort Sam Houston, will be captain of the infantry. Lieutenant Colonel Evans, of the Fifth Infantry on duty with the general staff, will be the executive officer of the meet.

Death of Judge Welborn.

Millen, Ga., April 28.—Judge Carlton J. Welborn, aged seventy-two, died here Sunday. He had served many years as state librarian, was a brigade quartermaster in the confederate army, had been a circuit judge of the state courts, and, under Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith, served as one of the attorneys of that department.

Proposals for Tug Boats.

Washington, April 28.—Proposals for the construction of twelve steel tug boats 100 feet long for service in the coast and harbor defense were invited by the quartermaster general of the army. These boats will be a little larger than the ones now in service for these purposes.

Heavy Snowstorm in Wisconsin.

Superior, Wis., April 28.—This city and vicinity are experiencing one of the heaviest snowstorms of the year.

TRAIL OF DEATH LEFT BY STORM

Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi Tornado Torn.

APPALLING DEATH LIST

Number of Killed Will Run Into the Hundreds.

MOST OF DEAD ARE NEGROES

Friday Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Were Swept by Tornadoes Which Left a Trail of Death in Their Wake—Property Losses Will Reach into the Thousands—Storm Is Said To Have Had Its Origin West of the Mississippi River and Traveled Through Three States.

Atlanta, April 28.—A wind of cyclonic proportions swept over portions of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama Friday, leaving a trail of death and injury.

The number of killed is estimated at over 200, and the number of injured at over four hundred, with many portions of the afflicted districts to hear from.

Most of the dead are negroes. Perhaps a dozen white persons were caught in falling buildings, and either fatally injured or so seriously disabled as to require medical attention.

The loss of life was chiefly in the quarters of negroes, where the wind destroyed cabins, burying the occupants in the debris, or in the farming sections of the country, where trees were uprooted, telegraph and telephone lines torn up, and general destruction became an empire to a storm which swept with almost tornado fury through the country.

Score of Small Towns Destroyed. It is difficult to estimate the loss of life or the extent of the destruction of property, for there is little or no communication with the points where the wind and rain did its greatest damage.

In Louisiana it is estimated that a score of small towns were destroyed or partially wrecked. These include Amite City, Independence, Belle Grove, Melton, Lorman, Pine Ridge, Quitman Landing, Fairchild's Creek and Purvis, being reported as seriously damaged by the storm.

In Alabama, Dora was the chief sufferer. This town is also known as Bergen. Four or more persons were killed, among them the wife and daughter of Section Master Moore.

Fifty persons, at the lowest estimate, were injured. Those most seriously injured were carried to hospital in Birmingham, Ala. One woman, Mrs. McCarty, died on the train enroute to the hospital. Two other members of this family were seriously injured.

Amite Under Martial Law.

New Orleans, La., April 28.—Amite, La., was so badly damaged that it was put under martial law at once by order of its mayor.

The storm struck there just about noon, killing two white persons and thirty negroes outright and injuring many others, mostly negroes, so bad, that physicians who were rushed into the town on relief trains from several points, said that the total death list of Amite would reach at least twenty-five.

Rev. Father Felix Rumpf was possibly the first person killed at Amite. Priest Crushed to Death.

He was in the lower part of his church, having just finished ringing the noonday bell. He was crushed to death by the tower.

Mrs. A. N. Ogden, of Amite, was caught by the tornado as she was driving to her home. A tree fell across her horse, killing the animal, but she was uninjured.

Forty persons were at dinner in the Commercial hotel when the storm struck and the roof was carried away, but not one of the diners was hurt.

Franks of the Wind.

The wind played interesting freaks around Amite, tearing up bushes by the roots and in one case wrapping some about iron about the trunk of a tree.

The path of the tornado was about 1/4 mile wide, and when it had passed, Amite stood a wreck in the midst of a vast field in which the wind had moved down nearly everything in its path. Large numbers of farm animals were killed.

The greater loss of life among the negroes occurred in the vicinity of Hatches, Miss., in Concordia Parish, La., across the Mississippi river from Natchez, thirteen from way lost, all except two of the dead being negroes.

Twenty-five persons were killed in Adams county, Mississippi, near the city of Hattiesburg, and thirty were killed in the neighborhood of Clarksburg, in Jefferson county, Mississippi. These numbers in this section were about one hundred miles north of the Amite tornado, and struck about the time for breakfast. It was in this section that a negro baby was carried in the wind and carried three hundred yards and deposited in a camp under a tree.

Wreck Covered by Flying Timber. An aged negro was whirled into the air and her body almost severed by flying timber before she fell in a cotton field a hundred yards from where her cabin had stood.

The body of a white young boy was found in a field with a piece of timber driven through the heart.

All day physicians from Vidalia, La., and Natchez, Miss., went from plantation to plantation sending the worst wounded of the negroes back to the cities to be treated. Part of the humane work of these physicians consisted in having numbers of injured negroes put out of their suffering by killing them.

REPORTS FROM ALABAMA.

Property Loss From Storm Is Many Thousands.

Birmingham, Ala., April 28.—Reports, though still somewhat meager as to results of the tornado that went through parts of Alabama, indicate that fifteen people lost their lives, and between seventy and one hundred were injured, six or eight of whom are fatally hurt. At Bergen, in Walker county, four are dead and fifteen hurt.

Reports from Albertville place the death list at nine, and thirty-five are reported injured.

Near Reids, the death list is placed at two, with three hurt.

At Cedar Creek, Walker county, eight are hurt, two fatally.

At Democrat, Walker county, half a dozen were severely injured. Several country districts have been devastated and people hurt, but poor telegraphic and telephone facilities prevent accurate reports being secured.

The property damage will amount to many hundred thousand dollars. As many of the sufferers of the tornado were poor people, there is considerable distress.

STATE JEWELS SOLD.

Young Manuel, It Is Said, Will Repay Portugal.

Lisbon, April 28.—When King Manuel was deposed as ruler of Portugal in 1824, the crown jewels, valued at $2,000,000, were confiscated and deposited in the bank of Portugal as the property of the state.

Recently, the republican press charged that absolute proof existed that a large portion of these jewels had been sold without the consent of parliament to meet the expenses of the royal house.

King Manuel thereupon ordered that an inventory be taken, and this proved that jewels to the value of $750,000 were missing. The governor of the bank of Portugal was questioned, and admitted the removal of the precious stones, but he declared that the sale had been made upon the urgent demand of King Carlos, who desired to meet certain pressing debts of the royal household in order to avoid a scandal.

After these facts had come to light King Manuel announced his intention of personally refunding the value of the missing jewels. The attitude of the young king in this matter has evoked universal admiration.

BANKHEAD WANTS $500,000.

He Seeks This Amount for Improvement of Public Roads.

Washington, April 27.—Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, Friday spoke on his amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill appropriating $500,000 for the improvement of roads in states in which half of the money necessary for the proposed improvement is raised locally.

Mr. Bankhead addressed his remarks especially to the constitutional duty of appropriations for public roads, canals and waterways improvements. He undertook to show the advantage of such improvement in facilitating the delivery of rural mails.

Dinner to King and Queen. Copenhagen, April 28.—Count Raden-Lovetson, minister of foreign affairs and his wife, who is a daughter of Charles Montagu, of Albany, N. Y., Friday night gave a dinner at their residence to King Edward and Queen Alexandra and King Frederick and Queen Louise and which was attended by all the members of the Danish royal family and thirty other prominent persons.

Large Crowd Attended Funeral. Rio Janeiro, April 28.—Large crowds Friday followed the body of Admiral Salgado to the cemetery, where it was buried with appropriate ceremonial. The body was brought here from Rio de Janeiro, where the admiral is said to have committed suicide in 1915 after the revolution in which he was one of the leading factors.

Steamship Magnolia Dead. Mobile, Ala., April 28.—A telegram received in this city by the agent of the Munson steamship line announced the death of W. D. Munson, head of the line and one of the best known steamship promoters in the United States.

Score of Passengers Injured. Rochester, N. Y., April 27.—This morning at 8:30 o'clock a passenger train No. 4, known as the Chicago Express, jumped the track while passing the bridge at this city, killing a score of passengers and injuring many more.

DENVER GETTING BUSY CYCLO

Preparing for Democratic National Convention. Swath Cut through Yards Wide.

THE SEATING ARRANGEMENTS

Auditorium Is Near Completion and Is Expected to Seat 14,000 People—The Sub-Committee Meets May 20.

Denver, Colo., April 28.—Plans for the seats in the new city auditorium, which is now nearing completion, have been sent by Secretary Mills of the Denver Chamber of Commerce and Convention League to Secretary Wray Woodson of the Democratic national committee, for his guidance in making the seating arrangements for the democratic convention, which meets in Denver July 7.

There are 11,521 chairs shown in the plans, and by placing chairs in aisles or in the space left for standing room, it will be possible to seat 14,000 people. This is a greater seating capacity than that of the Chicago Coliseum, Madison Square Garden, New York, or the Mormon tabernacle in Salt Lake City. Mr. Woodson will be assisted in the work of arranging places for the various delegations by Colonel J. I. Martin, sergeant-at-arms of the democratic national committee.

Delegates' and Alternates' Seats. On the first floor eight sections of seats, 2,010 in number, all within easy hearing distance of the speaker's platform, have been set aside for delegates and alternates, the number of which is estimated at two thousand. Odd numbered sections of this space will be occupied by the delegates and even-numbered sections by the alternates.

On the platform, within plain sight and hearing of all parts of the immense structure, are reserved 515 seats for dignitaries. Immediately adjacent to the platform space is that reserved for the press, where 303 seats have been provided, with four desks for nonexclusive telegraph equipment.

In all 4,143 seats have been provided for the general public divided as follows:

Seven hundred on the first floor, 1,899 in the balcony and 544 in the gallery. Space has been provided for all telegraph companies and for private wires, which is easily reached from all parts of the press reservation.

Sub-Committee to Meet. The sub-committee of the democratic national committee in charge of the national convention will meet in Denver May 6. The members are Thos. Taggart, of Indiana, chairman; Urey Woodson, of Kentucky, secretary; J. E. Osborne, of Wyoming; J. C. Dahlman, of Nebraska; Norman E. Mack, of New York; Roger C. Sullivan, of Chicago; Clark Howell, of Georgia, and R. M. Johnston, of Texas. This committee will make the final arrangements for the gathering in July.

It is believed that matters concerning the choosing of the temporary chairman who will make the "keynote" speech at the convention and appoint the various committees will be taken up at this meeting. The contract will also be let for taking the official proceedings of the convention in shorthand.

The preparations by Denver citizens for the coming democratic national convention will be largely in the nature of a celebration of the abundant prosperity of the city and state. Extensive decorations have been planned and large sums of money will be expended in entertainment.

TAFT TO GO TO PANAMA.

Secretary to Settle Questions Pending Between U. S. and Panama.

Washington, April 28.—As the result of deliberations at the cabinet session Friday it was determined that secretary Taft should go to Panama. He will sail April 30 on the cruiser Prairie. A detachment of marines also will be sent on the Prairie.

A number of questions between the United States and Panama and between Panama and Colombia will be negotiated during the secretary's stay. It is said to be necessary that the concessions the United States obtained from Panama provided for in a protocol should be embodied in a permanent treaty.

The secretary will be gone three weeks, according to plans to the United States May 20. The Prairie will sail from Charleston, S. C.

Severe Storm at Chattanooga. Chattanooga, Tenn., April 28.—At 4:30 o'clock Friday evening a severe storm broke over this city, resulting in damage that will reach into thousands of dollars. Rain fell in torrents, and vivid lightning flashed everywhere. Nearly two inches of rain fell within an hour and a half. Street car traffic was practically suspended by reason of muddy sidewalks. No deaths have been reported.

Score of Passengers Injured. Rochester, N. Y., April 27.—This morning at 8:30 o'clock a passenger train No. 4, known as the Chicago Express, jumped the track while passing the bridge at this city, killing a score of passengers and injuring many more.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a word to the white citizens of Clanton.

It was on the night of the 27th of December, 1906, when we, the Masons, Odd Fellows and Home, Mutual Benefit Society of this town
by some misfortune got our hall burned with all of its contents, and since that time we have been struggling to rebuild. Now, we are glad to say our hall is almost completed and we humbly thank those of you who have been so kind to assist us in the way of rebuilding,
and we further thank Mr. W. T.
Aldridge and Mr. H. M. Mahan for their punctuality and liberality in furnishing us the material to build, and all that has been done for us by the white citizens of the town will always be regarded by us as the highest act of kindness.

Respectfully,
K. N. DRAPER,
General Manager.

Many women mistake kidney and started to use Foley's Kidney Remrelief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely well." Up-

To the Voters of Chilton County:

We, the undersigned Committee, desire to bring to your attention the candidacy of Mr. J. Arkie Mahan, in the coming Democratic primary election for the office of Tax Collector.

Mr. Mahan is a young man of sterling worth, his habits being honest, sober and industrious. He has never before sought an office, but through the solicitations of his neighbors and many friends he gave his consent and announced his name for nomination in the Democratic primary for the above named office.

As we believe that the best interests of the county will be served by electing to office men who have demonstrated their thrift and industriousness in private affairs rather than to elect to office men who are politicians, we hereby appeal to the voters of the county to give to Mr. Mahan their support and nominate him and we feel sure that in him the county will have an officer that will safeguard its interests.

As Mr. Mahan's business just at this time will not permit him to make a canvass of the county, we take this method of appealing to the voters of the county in his behalf. We do not think that any one could be elected to this office who is in every way better qualified for the place than is Mr. Mahan.

We can assure the voters of Chilton county that when they cast their ballot for Mr. Mahan that they are voting for a man for office that is in every way fitted and qualified to fill the place to which he aspires.

PROF. R. A. RASCO.

Editor—Will you please give space in the Banner for a words relative to Prof. R. A. Rasco, a candidate for Superintendent of Education of Chilton county? Rasco has finally consented to this many friends to place his name before the voters of Chilton for nomination and election to the office of County Superintendent of Education—an office is not a political office, and never be viewed from a partisan standpoint, but from the basis of efficiency and earnest, devoted in the cause of education. Rasco is too well known to the people of Chilton county as an earnest educator, whose heart is so fully and seriously united to the grand and sacred of teaching and training the youth that he does not need other commendation than merely to restate the people of the county of well known facts.

Friends we know whereof we allow us to say to the people of Chilton county that, if elected to the office of Superintendent of Education, Prof. Rasco will devote his entire first year of his tenure into office wholly and to the supervision of the schools of the county, and to the uplift and improvement of educational interests of the county. This pledge is made with the sanction and approval of the case of his election will be out fully, as his name has been who have urged him into the most well known. We have nothing personal against the incumbent, who has been a pains-taking official, but believe that the office of County Superintendent of Education is not a life tenure, and that the people of rotation in office is an authenticated custom in all our governments, and we earnestly solicit for Prof. Rasco the support of the entire population of the county, well knowing that under his administration the tendency of the educational interests of the county would be upward and onward.

ONE OF MANY.

ELECTION NOTICE.

It is hereby given that the voters of Chilton county are ordered to elect to the various voting places in the county, on Saturday, the 9th May, 1908, for the purpose of electing whether it is the will of the people of Chilton county to tax of not more than one per cent on the tax property in said county shall be assessed for the purpose of constructing, improving and maintaining the public roads in said county. Order of said Commissioners' meeting the 7th day of April, L. H. REYNOLDS, Judge of Probate.

TO THE VOTERS AND TAXPAYERS OF CHILTON COUNTY.

Whereas there is to be an election held in this county on the 9th of this month, to decide whether the public roads shall be worked by taxation or not. I desire to say a few words on this subject.

Now, the proposed tax to be voted for, as I understand it, is 25 cents on each $100 worth of taxable property, and if this is voted in then there is to be another tax of $4 on each person who is subject to road duty under the present law, which may be paid with six days work, ten hours to the day. My understanding is that there is to be but one overseer or superintendent of roads in each beat and he is to be paid a salary of $50 per month, and as there are sixteen beats in the county it will take $8,000 per year to pay these overseers. Now this 25 cents property tax on $3,000-000 worth of property, which I suppose is about the amount of taxable property in our county, would be $7,500, which would be over $2,000 less than the amount required to pay these overseers.

Then where are the roads or the people benefited by this tax? Then where is the road worker benefited, when he has to pay $4 per year or work six days under his hired overseer, and probably at a time when he would be most needed in his farm or at his own work? My observation is that under the present way of working the roads that men
do not work four days in the year.

My belief is that if the overseers under the present law were to make an average of working six days in the year that we would have good roads, and if the overseers under the present mode of working the roads would take an interest in their roads they could call out their hands and work on wet days and at a time when it would not be a very great sacrifice to them. I am in favor of good roads and I love to help work them and I am willing to pay my pro-rata share of tax when I can believe that the money is properly used, but I am sure getting tired of this increasing of taxes while the money is being so recklessly spent as is the case in our county. And I am opposed to this proposed new law because it creates some new offices to be filled by the judge or commissioners appointing their pets to a fat job at the expense of the taxpayer.

One of the arguments used in favor of this tax is that the railroad companies and other corporations will pay 75 per cent of this money.
I fear this argument is made for the purpose of exciting the feelings of some people or arousing their prejudices against corporations in order to control their vote, which I believe is very wrong. The question with us should be, is it right to collect this tax for this purpose?
I, for one, don't think it is right.

Now, I hope that every one who is opposed to this tax will go to the election and vote against it.

Now, Mr. Editor, I have made this article as short as I could and I want you to publish it in your paper, and if any charges for same, send me the bill and I will remit by return mail.

1908, and instructing me to notifi-
fy parties and witnesses:

Now, therefore, I, Sam W. Collins, Clerk of the Circuit Court in and for said County and State, do hereby notify and instruct all parties and witnesses heretofore summoned to appear at the Circuit court of said County on Monday,
the 18th day of May, 1908, who may hereafter be summoned to do so, not to appear at the Circuit court on Monday, the 18th day of May, 1908, but to appear before the said
Circuit Court on Tuesday, the 9th day of May, 1908.

In witness whereof, I have here-unto set my hand, this 27th day of

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready
to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him
with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and confidence. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

THE CLANTON BANK

Vice MIN.

Editor Banner—As there is no
one who writes for this place, please allow me space for a few words. Health of this place is very good.

The ice cream supper and dance at Mr. A. W. Brown's was enjoyed by many Saturday night.

Miss Mary Harris, our former school teacher, is paying a visit.

James Lynn Sherrell and Vinie
Brews spent Sunday in Jones.

Reverend Amos and Oliver Baker and Charley Berry spent Sunday in our town.

Mr. F. L. Fisher spent Sunday with his parents.

Well, as this is my first letter I will ring off, wishing the Banner and all its readers good luck and happiness.

LOOKING FORWARD TO A NEW SUIT

April 19, 1908, is a day that will
be looked forward to with great
anticipation by thousands all over the country. Why? Because it is Easter Sunday—the day that
marks the formal opening of Spring.
It is then that we put on our "best rib and tucker" and march forth in gladness and attire. A common text for ministers on this occasion
is, "Solomon in all his glory was
not arrayed like one of these."

The new styles in clothing this season is so constructed that a
glance at the wearer tells the tale
of whether they are new and styles
of 1908 Easter or old and representatives of former Easters gone by.

Also Shoes, Hats, Shirts, Col-
ars and Ties in the very newest happes. Not forgetting the Ladies'
and Children's department, we
would be disappointed if you come to our store and did not find that Easter Dress.

Come now before the other fellows get what you intended to buy.
Yours for new styles and many attends to select from for Easter.

PRASE FOR BRYAN

People of Missouri Regard Him as Logical Candidate.

30 THINKS REP. DEARMOND

In an Address Before the District of Columbia Democratic Association He Says Missouri's Delegates Would Support Bryan Unanimously.

Washington, May 1.—Representative David Dearmond, of Missouri, in an address before the District of Columbia Democratic Association Thursday night declared that the people of Missouri look upon Mr. W. J. Bryan as the logical candidate for the presidency, and that Missouri's delegates will support him unanimously at the Denver convention.

Mr. Dearmond said in part: "Some people criticize Mr. Bryan and say he ran in 1896, he ran in 1900, he is the man always to the front. Who ever got there with less self-seeking and is in more thorough accord with the wishes of those who followed him than Mr. Bryan?"

Honor to American Citizenship. "Is there anything wrong in his being willing to stand again as the candidate of his party, if his party wants him? What is he doing now, or what has he done to put himself in the way of the nomination at Denver, that any man can criticize? He stands as an honor to our American citizenship; he stands as one of the highest and noblest types of men—a Christian, patriotic gentleman."

Representative Hughes, of New Jersey, also spoke. He said that there are probably 1,000 democratic voters in his state who would oppose Mr. Bryan if nominated. The unstructured delegation, he said, may support the Nebraska in the convention.

Hughes Says Bryan is Right. Representative Hughes spoke in part as follows:

"I am for Mr. Bryan because I think he is right. Let us look at it from the standpoint of the politician. I am for Mr. Bryan for another reason. While he may not carry the state of New Jersey or the state of New York—and I do not say that he could not carry those states—it is my firm belief that he is going to get more votes in those states than any other candidate that can be named by the democratic party."

DUEL IN PUBLIC ROAD.

Man After Being Shot Down Kills His Opponent.

Birmingham, Ala., May 1.—Dr. J. E. Garrison shot and killed J. D. Williams, an electrician for the Alabama Consolidated Coal company, Thursday at Flat Creek, in a duel on the road.

Dr. Garrison recently moved away from Flat Creek, coming to Birmingham. He went out Thursday to sell a stock of drugs he had left there. Had blood existed between Williams and Garrison about family affairs.

When Williams saw the physician, he asked him to wait a few minutes, and, securing a pistol, shot Dr. Garrison down. The latter, while on the ground, shot Williams to death.

A coroner's jury exonerated Garrison. The latter is said to be dangerously wounded.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Clanton, Ala., on Saturday, the 14th day of March, 1908, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas the State Democratic Executive Committee did on the 7th day of February, 1908, order a primary election to be held in the several counties of the State of Alabama, for the nomination of judges, congressmen and county officers, who, by law, are to be elected at the general election in November, 1908, and prescribing rules regulating the holding of said primary election, therefore,

Be it resolved, That the plans, rules and regulations set forth by the said State Democratic Executive Committee for the said primary election be adopted and followed.

Be it further resolved, That a primary election be held on Monday, the 18th day of May, 1908, in the several precincts of Clanton county, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Treasurer, Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Superintendent of Education, District Judge, and a Coroner and two Justices of the Peace, and one Constable for each precinct within the county, and also for the purpose of electing a Democratic Executive Committee from each precinct within the county.

Be it further resolved, That said primary election shall be held in accordance with the State primary election law and under the rules heretofore governing the holding of such primary.

Be it further resolved, That each candidate for county office shall have the right to furnish the Chairman of this Committee, not later than the 1st day of May, 1908, a list of persons desired by him as inspectors for the several precincts.

Be it further resolved, That the Chairman of this Committee be and he is hereby empowered to appoint a Committee to be composed of five members, and to be known as a Campaign Committee, whose duty it shall be to ascertain the amount necessary to defray the expense of holding and conducting said primary election and assess each candidate for county office, his pro rata part of the same and to further do all things lawful and necessary that said election may be properly held and conducted.

Be it further resolved, That any candidate failing to pay the amount assessed against him by said Campaign Committee, as hereinbefore provided, on or before the 2nd day of May, 1908, shall not be entitled to have his name printed on the official ballot at said election.

Be it further resolved, That the Democratic Executive Committee of Clanton county shall meet at the court house of said county, on Saturday, the 23rd day of May, 1908, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of canvassing and tabulating the returns from the several precincts, and the candidate receiving a plurality of the votes cast for the office for which he is running shall be declared the nominee of the Democratic party for said office, and further that the Chairman and Secretary shall certify as is provided by law, the names of the candidates so voted for and nominated in said primary election.

Dated this 14th day of March, 1908.

HUMAN FILTERS

The function of the kidneys is to strain out the impurities of the blood which is constantly passing through them. Foley's Kidney Remedy makes the kidneys healthy so they will strain out all waste matter from the blood. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once and it will make you well. Upchurch Drug Co.

State Deputy, Ellison met with the council Monday night and the council acted upon two applications and conferred the degree of protection upon W. M. Wilson, J. A. Maddox, J. L. Wilson and Lon Teel. A great deal of routine business was transacted and the new Patriots of Clanton are rolling up their sleeves and going after members. The charter for 604 has arrived and is a handsome document.

A California's Luck.

"The luckiest day of my life was when I bought a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve," writes Charles F. Budahn, of Tracy, California. "Two 25c boxes cured me of an annoying case of itching piles, which had troubled me for years and that yielded to no other treatment." Sold under guarantee at Upchurch Drug Co.

Whoooping Cough.

"In February our daughter had the whooping cough. Mr. Lane of Hartland, recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and said it gave him the best of satisfaction. We found it as he said, and can recommend it to any one having children troubled with whooping cough," says Mrs. A. Goss of Durand, Mich. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Hara, Thorsby.

You will see the old play, just as it was written, in Clanton. Doors open at 7:30, Friday, May 8th.

A Happy Father

is soon turned to a sad one if he has to walk the floor every night with a crying baby. McGee's Baby Elixir will make the child well—soothe its nerves, induce healthy normal sleep. We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisons are absorbed, causing head aches, dizziness, nervousness, and skin eruptions. Ayer's Sarsaparilla keeps the bowels regular and the blood pure.

Bad Attack of Dysentery Cured.
"An honored citizen of this town was suffering from a severe attack of dysentery. He told a friend if he could obtain a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, he felt confident of being cured, he having used this remedy in the West. He was told that I kept it in stock and lost no time in obtaining it and was promptly cured," says M. J. Leach, druggist, of Wolcott, Vt. For sale by

A COMPARISON.
"Some years ago I used
Davis' 100 per cent
PURE PAINT
on my home, at the same time several other houses near me were painted with other paints. There is a big contrast today between the appearance of my house and the others."

J. H. Pruitt,
Chincoteague, Va.
If you compare adulterated paint with Davis' 100 per cent Pure, you will readily know why a house painted with Davis looks well and wears well.

When you think of Indigestion think of Kodol, for it is without doubt the only preparation that completely digests all classes of food. And that is what you need when you have indigestion or stomach trouble—something that will act promptly but thoroughly; something that will get right at the trouble and do the very work itself for the stomach by digesting the food that you eat and that is Kodol. It is pleasant to take. It is sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. ROSA FOTTS, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorby.

120 COMMERCE ST., MONTGOMERY, ALA.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

We, the undersigned Committee, desire to bring to your attention the candidacy of Mr. J. Arkie Mahan, in the coming Democratic primary election for the office of Tax Collector. Mr. Mahan is a young man of sterling worth, his habits being honest, sober and industrious. He has never before sought an office, but through the solicitations of his neighbors and many friends he gave his consent and announced his name for nomination in the Democratic primary for the above named office.

As we believe that the best interests of the county will be served by electing to office men who have demonstrated their thrift and industriousness in private affairs rather than to elect to office men who are politicians, we hereby appeal to the voters of the county to give to Mr. Mahan their support and nominate him and we feel sure that in him the county will have an officer that will safeguard its interests.

As Mr. Mahan's business just at this time will not permit him to make a canvass of the county, we take this method of appealing to the voters of the county in his behalf. We do not think that any one could be elected to this office who is in every way better qualified for the place than is Mr. Mahan.

We can assure the voters of Chilton county that when they cast their ballot for Mr. Mahan that they are voting for a man for office that is in every way fitted and qualified to fill the place to which he aspires.

The Most Common Cause of Suffering.

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure could not be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

For a burn or scald apply Chamberlain's ointment. It will allay the pain almost instantly and quickly heal the injured parts. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Mother in Israel Gone
April 25th, the death angel of the home of Mr. W. Y. took from their midst his mother, Mrs. J. A. Keel, who confined to her bed only a days and had always been in good health.

was born in Green county, May 1st, 1824. Her parents from Georgia to Chambers, Ala. in her early childhood. She married when very young and gave birth to five children, four are still living. Her husband taken from her while her were very young, but she discharged her duty in those that God had intrusted to her care.

United with the Missionary Church while she was young and a consistent member as she lived. She was loved who knew her, but she has on earth to take up her in the mansions of eternal life.

She realized a short time death came that she was and made the remark that she wanted to go home. She was at home but she wanted to go to her home. Oh! how sad it is to feel how it makes ache to part with our mother, but we know in low is her eternal gain, and other know that if we are to enter the New Jerusalem we shall meet her, and oh glorious thought that when we passed over the chilly gates of death and have reached the Promised Land, we may clasp the hand of dear mother and look into her loving eyes, and there together we shall receive the crown of life everlasting.

Funeral services were conducted at W. T. Fenton and his residence in the Bethany cemetery.

Carson C. Whitson will speak to the voters of Chilton county, Saturday night, May 16th, in the interests of the candidacy of Gov. John A. Johnson.

THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY.

Somebody has not written anything since my announcement of the office of Tax Collector. I thought it necessary to say a few words to the voters of Chilton county, and especially to those who are to vote in the Democratic primary on next Monday. I did not announce, as most men do, and in the outside world I did not say the office, but had been "in" through the solicitations of many friends to make the race. I have done my expensive thing to show the list of my voters, but I simply come out on my own account, as one who was in the office, and I will say further that my friends are fit to use their voice and support toward helping me to get the place I will sincerely appreciate that.

A Mother in Israel Gone.

April 25th, the death angel came to the home of Mr. W. Y. and took from their midst his voice heard in his state government, he must go into the primary and vote. In the primary to be held on the 18th inst., all qualified white voters, regardless of past party affiliation, who will support the nominees of the party are entitled and requested to participate. Go into this primary and recognize your state government, and recognize yourself as a citizen of that government and quit grumbling and complaining at and abusing the government under which we all live and to which we are all responsible. If she ain't all right, get on the inside of it, and help to make her right. x x x.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

In the Democratic primary election to be held on Monday the 18th inst., nominations will be made for some of the highest officers for State and County. The right of the citizen to say who shall fill the offices of his state and county, is one of the highest privileges which he can enjoy as a citizen, and to exercise this privilege intelligently is one of his gravest responsibilities. In the exercise of this right, let him do so in the light of his own common sense, reason and experience and not under the influence of prejudice aroused and kept alive by the rantings of the chronic office seeker and the demagogue. There are as good citizens in Chilton county as there are on earth and who are as vitally interested in the safe, intelligent and economical administration of affairs, state and county, as there are in any other county or state. They bear their share of the expense of the government, they are responsible to the government, they enjoy all the blessings of government and they must suffer from all mistakes of government, yet there is a large number of these good citizens, who on account of the imaginary misdoings of the dominant party in the state, cut themselves off from any participation or voice in the administration of the government, under which they now and will continue to live, by failing to participate in the primary elections. In Alabama the officers of the state are chosen by vote of the people in the primary. Nomination in the primary means election. If the citizen has a preference and desires to express it, or wishes to have his voice heard in his state government, he must go into the primary and vote. In the primary to be held on the 18th inst., all qualified white voters, regardless of past party affiliation, who will support the nominees of the party are entitled and requested to participate. Go into this primary and recognize your state government, and recognize yourself as a citizen of that government and quit grumbling and complaining at and abusing the government under which we all live and to which we are all responsible. If she ain't all right, get on the inside of it, and help to make her right. x x x.

A TAX COLLECTOR.

With due respect to his opponent we say hats off for Mr. J. Arkie Mahan for Tax Collector. The interest of the county demands a good man for this important office, and surely no man could have a stronger endorsement than the one given Mr. Mahan by his neighbors and the people who know him best. We refer to his endorsement published in The Banner. When we elect men to office that have attentively devoted their lives to their private affairs and they promise to carry the same attention to the affairs of the county and office, we need have no fears about the management of such officers. We urge upon the people the necessity of turning out to the primary and voting for the candidate of your choice, and we further say that we feel sure all who cast their votes for J. Arkie Mahan will never have cause to regret so doing, but on the contrary will feel proud of such an officer. CONSERVATIVE.

CIRCUIT COURT NOTICE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Whereas, I have received instructions from the Hon. W. W. Pearson, Judge of the 15th Judicial Circuit of the State of Alabama, and including Chilton county, and from the Hon. D. D. Ashew, Solicitor of said Circuit, informing me that it would be impossible for them to be at Clanton, Alabama, on Monday, the 18th day of May, 1908, and instructing me to so notify parties and witnesses:

Now, therefore, I, Sam W. Collins, Clerk of the Circuit court in and for said County and State, do hereby notify and instruct all parties and witnesses heretofore summoned to appear at the Circuit court of said County on Monday, the 18th day of May, 1908, or who may hereafter be summoned to do so, not to appear at the Circuit court on Monday, the 18th day of May, 1908, but to appear before the said Circuit Court on Tuesday, the 19th day of May, 1908.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, this 27th day of April, 1908.

LOOKING FORWARD TO A NEW SUIT

April 19, 1908, is a day that will be looked forward to with great anticipation by thousands all over the country. Why? Because it is Easter Sunday—the day that marks the formal opening of Spring. It is then that we put on our "best bib and tucker" and march forth in gladsome attire. A common text for ministers on this occasion is, "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

The new styles in clothing this season is so constructed that a glance at the wearer tells the tale of whether they are new and styles of 1908 Easter or old and represent styles of former Easters gone by.

Also Shoes, Hats, Shirts, Collars and Ties in the very newest shapes. Not forgetting the Ladies' and Children's department, we would be disappointed if you come in our store and did not find that Easter Dress.

Come now before the other fellow gets what you intended to buy. Yours for new styles and many patterns to select from for Easter.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

MEMORIAL.

In memory of our dear grandmother, who it pleased God to take from us on April 30th 1908. She was born July 16th, 1832 and known as Miss Emily Baker until she grew to womanhood, when she was married to Mr. James Headley, whom it pleased God to take from her, leaving her a widow and after that she was married to Mr. Henry Mims and lived with him until after the war and he died and left her a widow again. After a while she married V. J. Gragg, Sr., and lived with him until about 6 years ago and he died, so she was a widow the third time, and she knew all about the toils and cares of life. She was a loving wife, fond mother and faithful friend. She never united with any church but said she had made peace with God and her way was clear. That was her own testimony.

She died at Mr. Tom Rutherford's with her daughter-in-law, whose husband, V. J. Gragg, was in medical college at the time of his mother's death. She leaves 4 children and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her loss. She was laid to rest on the first day of May at Cane Creek cemetery, the funeral services being conducted by the writer. May the Lord help each of us to so live that when we come to die, we may be able to say as did grandmother, all is well, so that we may meet her where there will be no more parting.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Lesson VII.—Second Quarter,
For May 17, 1908.
THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.
Text of the Lesson, John xviii, 1-27.
Memory Verses, 2, 3—Golden Text,
Matt. xvii, 22—Commentary Prepared
by Rev. D. M. Stearns.
[Copyright, 1907, by American Bible Society.]
We have just this one lesson to cover all the events of that night from the time they left the Passover room until the next morning when He was led forth to be crucified. There was never a night like that in the history of the world, when the Son of God was treated worse than the vilest criminal by the creatures whom He had made and who depended on Him, or, rather, were indebted to Him, for every breath they drew. Comparing the accounts in the four gospels, we gather the following outline of events: The discourse being ended, and the prayer, they sang a hymn, probably some portion or all of Ps. cxlvi to cxviii, which, considered in this light, is full of wondrous significance. Leaving the city and crossing the brook Kedron,
He entered Gethsemane, and then followed the prayers and the agony on His part, and on the part of the disciples the stupor of sleep. Then followed the arrest, Judas betraying Him by a kiss to the band which he led to take Him prisoner. Simon Peter would have delivered his Master from their hands, and, having a sword, he drew it and did cut off a man's ear, but this was not the way, and Jesus, having reminded Peter's blunder, surrendered himself into their hands and suffered them to bind Him and lead Him away as their prisoner. Then all the disciples, even the brave Peter, forsook Him and fled. They never could have taken Him unless He had permitted it, for just a word from Him sent the soldiers backward to the ground, but this was their hour and the power of darkness, and He yielded. They led Him to Annas, the father-in-law to Calaphas, first, and then to Calaphas, the high priest, where the scribes and elders were assembled. Here many false witnesses testified against Him, but no
two agreed, yet they struck Him, blindfolded Him, spit in His face and beated Him most shamefully. Oh, what a night it was of cruel treatment of the Creator by His creatures!
One of the worst things that night was the conduct of Peter, who, standing without in the palace and warming himself at the servants' fire, denied with oaths and curses that he ever knew the prisoner. After they all forsook Him Peter and John returned, and John, being known to the high priest, went in with Jesus into the palace, but Peter stood with the servants.
It was so that Jesus could see Peter from where He stood, and as the cock crowed immediately after Peter's third denial the Lord turned and looked upon Peter, and that look broke him up and sent him out to weep as probably he had never wept before.
In the morning they led Jesus, still bound, to Pilate, the Roman governor, for they had determined that He must die, and they came to compel Pilate to execute Him. Pilate, having examined Him, testified repeatedly that he found no fault in Him. His wife also, because of a dream which she had, urged him to have nothing to do with Him.
Learning that Jesus was from Galilee,
and Herod being then in Jerusalem,
he sent Him to Herod, but because Jesus would not work some miracles for him
Herod set Him at naught and mocked Him and returned Him to Pilate, who, finding Him again on his hands, made a last effort to release Him by offering to release the worst prisoner he had or Jesus, for it was customary to release one prisoner at this feast. To Pilate's amazement they demanded the release of Barabbas, and then Pilate delivered Him to their will to be mocked and scourged and spit upon and crowned with thorns and killed. He bore it all,
and for me, that I might not perish, and how much do I care? Does my life show that I care, and to what extent do I hate sin because it made my Saviour suffer so? Turning to our lesson chapter, we note that, as David's son Absalom rebelled against him and caused him to flee for his life across this same Kedron, so Jesus, Son of David, is now driven forth by the rebellion of His son Israel, but as truly as David returned and sat on his throne Jesus will return and reign on David's throne forever (Isa. ix, 6, 7; Luke i, 32, 33).
Jesus knew all things that should come upon Him, and that made it all the harder. What a mercy it is that we do not know what a day may bring forth! Let us leave it all in His hands who loves us and never try fortune telling. Every cup which the Father gives us to drink is a cup of love, however bitter it may taste. We are called to follow His steps who when He was reviled reviled not again, but committed Himself to Him who judges righteously (1 Pet. ii, 21-23; iv, 12-14).
When our hands are tied, as we say,
by those who love Him not and we are seemingly hindered from doing what we would like to do for Him, let us not chafe or fret, but meekly submit to bearing all He permits to come and ask only that He may be seen in us and His beauty be upon us. Even if the guilty go free and the innocent suffer, consider Him.
If falsely accused and all manner of evil be said of us, remember Matt. v, 10-12. Let us never on any account be found warming ourselves
at the enemy's fire lest we grieve Him and need such a look as He gave Peter.

NEED OF COUNTRY.

Triumph of Democratic Principles
Is Imperative.

THE MAN AND THE HOUR.

With the Nomination of John A. Johnson, Progressive Democrat of Integrity, Ability and Achievement, Success Is Assured.

Worried of twelve years of overwhelming defeat in national elections, during which time the party has lost national political control of every northern state and has witnessed devastating inroads even on the southern states, hundreds of thousands of Democratic voters have in the last few months asked, "Who is the man who can lead the party to victory?"

The best of armies, military or political, require some measure of success to maintain their spirit and efficiency. Continuous and overwhelming defeat even in the whitest of causes disheartens the strongest men.

Conditions are such in this year 1908 that a united Democracy supporting a strong presidential nominee can win the presidential office and open the way for a return of the Democratic party to power. Not only do the best interests of the Democratic party call for a victory this year, but so also do the best interests of the nation. Twelve years of almost unopposed government of the republic by one party and for eight of those years particularly by one man have brought about conditions that are repugnant to the efficient and satisfactory administration of a government supposedly of the people.

Principle With Victory.

Victory can be achieved this year without sacrificing one iota of the stand for principle that has been made with so much sacrifice by the Democratic party of the United States for the last dozen years. It is merely a question of changing leadership. Three times in succession our party has gone to defeat because its leadership has not been able to inspire confidence in the masses of the voters, patriotic, progressive and sincere as that leadership has unquestionably been. The party is greater than its individual membership and greater than its leaders. The time has come when it should name its leader in a presidential campaign and no longer permit itself to be defeated by a sentimental, though heroic, devotion to a great name that has dominated it for a dozen years.

If in the ranks of the party there is a man whose principles, whose party fealty, whose success in political battles, whose actual achievements in legislation and statesmanship—and a man holding a commanding political situation—are such that victory under his leadership is indicated, is it not the duty of reasonable, thoughtful, devoted Democrats desiring the success of their party to turn to him?

Johnson the Man.

The friends of Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, who have watched his remarkable career in recent years, as well as impartial observers and journalists throughout the country, believe that he is the man of the hour, the man in every way equipped to make a successful campaign and afterward to be a chief executive of the highest order. Let us briefly review his career.

John A. Johnson was born in St. Peter, Nicollet county, Minn., July 28, 1861, of Swedish parents. His childhood and youth were passed in great poverty. At thirteen years of age he was compelled to leave the public schools of his native city in order to support himself and the parental family. Though his formal education was thus early cut short, his self education never stopped. A student at all times, a wide reader and a thoughtful one, Mr. Johnson, after some years of obscure toil as a drug and grocery clerk and railway timekeeper, became at the age of twenty-four editor of the St. Peter Herald. He soon became known as one of the ablest of Minnesota journalists and was recognized as one of the leaders of journalism in a state remarkable for the number, vigor and influence of its periodical press. As a country editor he was gradually drawn into politics and in 1898 was elected a member of the senate of the Minnesota legislature, and his first public political work was as a member of that body. From the first he was identified with various reform measures which have since become law in Minnesota.

Wherever Governor Johnson has gone he has impressed men as being a man of the Lincoln type. He has the faculty of making many friends and few enemies.

Governor Johnson's Legislative Results
The governor recommended a permanent tax commission. The legislature gave it to him, and the ink was hardly dry on the document before he appointed a commission so strong in its personnel that the Republican senate revolted by a rising vote to confirm the appointments without delay, while the equally Republican house, though without the power of confirmation, expressed by a rising vote its appreciation of the excellence of the governor's appointments.

In northern Minnesota are the great-est iron ore fields in the world. The state of Minnesota owns extensive areas of these lands. By laws they were largely in the hands of the United States land corporation, and the state was receiving only an insignificant income from its royalties. The governor advised the withdrawal of all such lands from mineral leases, and the legislature concurred.

Minnesota has enjoyed but scant income from the wealth of the privately owned iron mines. The governor recommended a royalty tax on the output of these mines. He did not get it, but the United States Steel corporation bound itself as a substitute to establish a $20,000,000 steel plant at Duluth.

The newly created tax commission, together with the state board of equalization, which preceded it (the members of which were appointed by Governor Johnson), have in the four years of Governor Johnson's administration increased the assessed valuation of the steel corporation's iron ore holdings in Minnesota from $22,000,000 to $190,000,000.

The sleeping car companies of Minnesota had never paid taxes to Minnesota in proportion to their earnings. The governor recommended a change in the system of taxing these companies, and a satisfactory law was enacted. Similarly a rational law as to mortgage taxation was enacted.

Railway Regulation.
Taking up freight rates, Governor Johnson in a powerful speech so exhaustively and conclusively harried existing unequal and exorbitant rates that the railway companies voluntarily made a reduction of 10 per cent on grain rates on their lines in northern Minnesota. By order of the railway commission, re-enforced by subsequent legislation, this voluntary reduction was followed by a horizontal reduction in maximum freight rates of about 13 per cent, and there was created a new class of merchandise tariff in which the rates were reduced about 20 per cent. The railways took these reductions into the United States courts by enjoining the attorney general of Minnesota from enforcing the law. This action has opened up some of the most important litigation involving constitutional interpretation that has come before the supreme court in this generation.

The Two Cent Law.
The enactment of the two cent passenger tariff law was an example of Governor Johnson's celerity of action. Invited to address the Minnesota Editorial association, instead of making the usual platitudinous address on such occasions, "he exploded the two cent bomb" and urged that an end be put to the giving of passes. He talked on the same subject to a convention of commercial travelers. Immediately the state was aflame with this innovation in railway legislation. When the legislature met he asked for a law embodying this idea, and the legislature quickly responded. Neighboring states followed with reductions, and now throughout the middle northwest the two cent rate prevails.

About the time Governor Johnson came into office there was a wide-spread agitation for reciprocal demurrage laws which would compel railways to allow shippers demurrage charges for failure to deliver cars on time. Governor Johnson, ever abreast of popular progress, recommended such a law and got it.

Thanks to his initiative, the orders of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission are now immediately effective pending appeal.

In Defense of Labor.

Governor Johnson, in consonance with his thorough democracy and believing in equal rights, has not been neglectful of the interests of labor. He desired a free state employment bureau designed to eliminate the many abuses that have marked private employment bureaus in the great labor centers of Minnesota. Such a bureau was created and has been thoroughly helpful and widely efficient.

Since time immemorial that relic of feudalism, the common law doctrine of nonliability of employer to employee for injuries occurring through the negligence of a fellow servant, has prevailed in Minnesota as well as in many other states. "This ancient rule of the common law," said Governor Johnson, "coupled with the other rule generally referred to as the doctrine of the assumption of risk by employees, has cast upon the individual laborer a risk and responsibility out of proportion to the wages he receives."

During his term of office Governor Johnson has had to deal with one great conflict between labor and capital—namely, the strike of the miners on the Minnesota iron ranges. By direct personal intervention, by advice to the employers on the one hand and the strikers on the other, the governor succeeded, without the use of state troops, in preventing violence and bloodshed.

In the forests and prairies of northern Minnesota are great extents of fertile lands which, owing to lack of drainage, have not been available for cultivation. Thanks to Governor Johnson, additional legislation on this subject was secured, and hundreds of thousands of acres of fertile land will be added to the rolls of the state's wealth.

Governor Johnson believes in the municipal ownership of public utilities, and, following his suggestion, a modified form of the Illinois Muller law was adopted by the Minnesota legislature. Under its provisions a municipality may bond its street railways or other public utilities to pay the cost of the purchase and operation of the same.

Minnesota, a leading agricultural state, has long had to contend with the cordage trust, which has a practical monopoly of the binding twine used in harvesting. For many years the state has had a twine plant in which prison labor was employed. The trust enacted a factory in Minnesota to compete with the state made twine, and Governor Johnson's answer was, with the consent of the legislature, to sell its product outside as well as within the state. The cordage trust will have to fight the cheap Minnesota state made twine in other states as well as at home.

TO THE HONORABLE CHILTON

I seek to enter your active support for John H. Wallace, Jr., for State Game and Fish Commissioner. When he first came to the Legislature from Madison county in 1895, he began the fight for better game and fish laws, and continued the struggle until Alabama now has the best game and fish law system known. He wrote these laws, and remained at Montgomery urging their passage until they became statutes.

He was unanimously elected by the Legislature for a part of a term, and when he assumed charge of the Department of Game and Fish, there was not a cent in the Game and Fish Protection Fund. During the first year of his term of office nearly twenty thousand dollars were collected from the sale of hushers' licenses and fines and after paying the expenses of the Department, there was on hand a balance of over sixteen thousand dollars—a net profit to the State.

He has striven to strictly enforce the Game and Fish laws, and they are in universal popularity among the people who have realized their importance and appreciate their benefits.

It is submitted that it is of vast importance to the State that one familiar with the practical workings of the game and fish laws, be in charge of their enforcement. In view of the fact that he was the originator of the laws on these subjects, and has had only a portion of a term, which has largely been spent in organizing this Department, the result of which work speaks for itself, it occurs to me that it would be unwise at this time to experiment with a system that under the present management promises so much for the State.

An endorsement of his work in originating, passing and organizing this system in keeping with Democratic usage, is asked.

As long as he remains in office, he will continue the fight against the negro slaughterer of game, the game-hog, the pot-hunter and the dynamiter until they are forced to abandon their avocations.

You have doubtless noticed that under our laws every species of game and fish have rapidly multiplied.

Please do him the kindness to speak to your friends and ask them to support him, he will appreciate your support.

ONE WHO KNOWS HIM.

"In February our daughter had the whooping cough. Mr. Lane, of Hartland, recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and said it gave his customers the best of satisfaction. A great many people imagine they have heart trouble when the fact is that the whole trouble lies in the stomach. The pain in the side around the region of the heart are not necessarily heart trouble. We suggest that you start with the stomach and whenever you feel a depression after eating or whenever your food seems to nauseate take Kodol. It will not be very long until all these "heart pains" will disappear. Take Kodol now and until you know you are right again. There isn't any doubt about what it will do and you will find the truth of this statement verified after you have used Kodol for a few weeks. It is sold here by Upchurch Drug Co.

This is to notify you to appear before the Probate Court of said county
at the next term thereof, commencing Monday, the 25th day of May, 1908, then and there to show cause, if any you have, why a decree for the sale of said real estate should not be made for the payment of the taxes assessed and for fees and costs.

This 14th day of April, 1908.

When you think of Indigestion think of Kodol, for it is without doubt the only preparation that completely digests all classes of food.
And that is what you need when you have indigestion or stomach trouble—something that will act promptly but thoroughly; something that will get right at the trouble and do the very work itself for the stomach by digesting the food that you eat and that is Kodol. It is pleasant to take. It is sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. ROSA POTTS, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton;

MAN ON THE CORNER

Heights No. 10, and Some No. 11.

A Bunch.
A twentieth century bustling man and under his auspices cottages seemed to spring up like mushrooms.

"You mean to say that you are a man on the corner?"
"Yes, I am," he replied. "You mean to say that you are a man on the corner?"
"Yes, I am," he replied. "You mean to say that you are a man on the corner?"

Two Rights and a Wrong.
Clanton shows a man and a pair of shoes. The man is a man on the corner. The shoes are a pair of shoes. The man is a man on the corner. The shoes are a pair of shoes.

The Other Half is Waiting.
The most pitiable sight in the world is that of a man who is using a small bit of his ability while the rest of him is waiting to be used. It is the most pitiable sight in the world.

A Good Memory.
I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B.

The Omen.
I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B. I met a man, Mr. B.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Chapman, Ala., May 12, 1908.
Editor Banner, Dear Sir—You will find enclosed one dollar for one year's subscription to the Banner. I am anxious to get the paper, I like the Banner better than any other paper I read.
Yours very truly,
W. C. CHILDRESS.

Clanton, May 18, 1908.
It is the general remark by those who meet since last week's issue of the Banner, "Have you seen the statement of the Judge and Commissioners?" A friend and neighbor of this writer, who is a Republican, said this statement was at least 10 days too late and he further said it was not the plan as he understood it. It seems like they are groping in the dark, hunting something to show the people they did not intend to do anything save by approval of the people, and in doing so they attack the Democratic party, not to make a party issue, for they know that at least once the white people of Chilton county have found they can vote together in one common issue and for fear they might keep it up, the Democrats in other counties are held up to view by Judge Reynolds and his court as being no better.

For some reasons at least this county can get along with less taxation than other counties in Alabama, for the reason its little flat creeks do not require costly steel bridges, in fact steel structures is a question that is worrying the architects as to whether they will outlast wood or not. Where a creek sweeps down through the mountain it is perhaps better to have a bridge that will stand against the flood. But does the flat creek at Clanton require a steel bridge? Certainly not. How many days and hours Mr. Jackson and his five men, four mules, road machine and tools put in digging up the stumps, and how many stumps were there from the creek at Clanton to where they left off work at just south of Mr. Peter Prim's? And please state what the cost of Mr. Jackson's salary is per month, how much the hands get, how much it takes to feed the mules. I am sure the voters want to see a signed statement by the court. Some of us fellows have been watching this crew and we don't think it pays. But let us have a statement, are you willing to make it?

So far as where the pay comes from for court attendance, the Judge and Commissioners supposed it was a Democrat who was saying something along this line. Of course the man was wrong, but would you have said he was a fool if you had thought he was a Republican? I want to advise you to not lose your head and insult the men who voted against your pet scheme, for they were not by any means all Democrats. I refer you to Thorsby box. If pay for court attendance comes out of the fine and forfeiture fund and you have nothing to do with this fund, why are you bragging about the amount on hand in this fund? A true saying by Ogden, the great educator, is, educate the people and they will take mugwumps out of office. Success to the Banner.

NOTICE

To the members of the Chilton County Singing Convention:
You will please take notice that the date of the next annual session has been changed from July 4-5 to June 27-28. Prof. J. D. Patton has promised to be with us on Sunday, June 28. It is said that Prof. Patton has broke the record of the world as a successful teacher and it will speak well for our convention to have Prof. Patton attend our meeting. Let us remember the date and all of the members try to be present both days. We are expecting this to be the grandest meeting of the kind ever held in Chilton county. The program of said meeting will appear later.
Yours in the work,
JAMES FRANKLIN, Sec.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

The true secret of success is thrift in all its phases, and, principally, thrift as applied to saving. A young man may have many friends but he will find none so steadfast, so constant, so ready to respond to his wants, so capable of pushing him ahead, as a little leather-covered book, with the name of a bank on its cover. Saving is the first great principle of all success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, it fills him with vigor, it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the quality of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men.

Pleasant Grove.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. I guess farmers are about up with their work. We have corn silks, who can beat that? The measles are about to go dead around here. The singing would have been nice last Sunday evening if those who got so well tickled had stayed at home. LOVER OF MUSIC.

Mapleville Baptist Church.

The ladies of the Baptist church, Mapleville, will have an ice cream supper and various other attractions at their new church, Saturday afternoon and at night, May 23rd, the proceeds to be used to pay for the seating of the church. In the event you may not eat ice cream, just come and pay for it, and we have engaged a large and competent force of assistants to eat it, so that none be wasted. Come on anyway if you will; maybe it will change the weather for us and start cotton to growing.

Unity.

Here we come again, after a few weeks absence. We notice nearly all the writers have stopped; we would like to know what has become of the Eagle, Blue Eyes and all the rest of you. We are having plenty of rain. Some of the farmers are getting behind with their work. Our Sunday school at this place is moving along nicely; we have a large attendance every Sunday. Mr. Ely Fuller of Phoenix City gave us a nice talk last Sunday. We were glad to have him with us. We invite anyone that will to come and take a part with us. There will be preaching at this place next Sunday at 11 o'clock. Several of the boys of this place went to Samaria last Sunday morning, but came back with long faces, as there wasn't any ringing. We think we will hear wedding bells before many days longer.
TWINS.

New Prospect.

There will be a children's day at New Prospect church, 5 miles west of Mt. Creek, on the 4th of July. Everybody is invited. We are anticipating a grand time that day, as there are several good speakers on the program, the children will also have fine recitations which will be very interesting. We would be glad to see a large congregation there that day, to enjoy the good things (both temporal and spiritual) that we aim to have, and also to help in the services.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

adopted by Cooper Lodge No. 411, I. O. O. F.:
To the N. G., Officers and Brothers of Cooper Lodge No. 411, I. O. O. F.:
We, the undersigned committee appointed to draft resolutions upon the death of Brother L. H. Williams, beg to submit the following:
On the 5th day of March, 1882, Bro. Williams was born at or near Highland Home, Crenshaw county, Ala., and died from railroad accident on the 11th day of March, 1908.
Bro. L. H. Williams was admitted into this Lodge on the 22nd day of March, 1906, as a Charter member.

Resolved 1st, That in the death of Bro. Williams the Lodge lost an ardent and loyal member; that the country and community lost a true friend and citizen.

Resolved 2d, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives, and that a copy of the resolutions be spread upon the minutes and a copy be sent to the county paper for publication.

Respectfully submitted,

LOOKING FORWARD TO A NEW SUIT

April 19, 1908, is a day that will be looked forward to with great anticipation by thousands all over the country. Why? Because it is Easter Sunday—the day that marks the formal opening of Spring. It is then that we put on our "best bib and tucker" and march forth in gladsome attire. A common text for ministers on this occasion is, "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

The new styles in clothing this season is so constructed that a glance at the wearer tells the tale of whether they are new and styles of 1908 Easter or old and represent styles of former Easters gone by. Also Shoes, Hats, Shirts, Collars and Ties in the very newest shapes. Not forgetting the Ladies' and Children's department, we would be disappointed if you come in our store and did not find that Easter Dress.

Come now before the other fellow gets what you intended to buy. Yours for new styles and many patterns to select from for Easter.

THE JUNIOR PARTNER.

By Madeline Lewis.

Copyright, 1924, by Associated Literary Press.

It was just one of those advertisements which hundreds who have answered them in vain term heartless. "Young lady stenographer and typist wanted in a business office. Must be quick and accurate. State salary wanted."

Of the thousands who read it and the scores, if not hundreds, who answered by letter was Kitty Burnham, daughter of a widow living in one of the suburbs of the city. She had seen and answered many such before. There was grave need that the little income left by the father should be shed out in some way.

She had little hope when the answer was sent off in its blue envelope that it would be heard of again, but to her great surprise and almost to her consternation she received a curt message asking her to call. To make her way to a business office, to be questioned by the abrupt manager, to be tested as to her qualifications and perhaps told that she wouldn't do at all—this was a nightmare to her. Then she must state the salary wanted. That in itself showed a want of fairness on the part of the firm. It was taking advantage of the applicants.

Kitty spent an hour figuring, so much for street car fare daily, so much for lunches, so much left at the end of the week out of the sum she had made up her mind to ask. It would be only a pittance, and yet she must take it and hope for advancement. No man, old or young, could put himself in the place of a girl of nineteen applying for a situation for the first time in her life and being ushered through an office where a dozen men were at work into the sanctum of the manager. She expected to meet an ogre and to be shouted at. She had only entered the street. Next moment the feeling disappeared. There was no ogre. There was no shouting. A kindly faced man of forty-five looked up from a letter he was writing and greeted her thus:

"Ah, Miss Burnham, I was expecting you. Please sit down, and I will be through in a moment."

The kind words rallied her, and three minutes later she was answering questions and saying to herself that the man probably had a daughter of his own and was sparing her as much as possible. She had heard over and over again that there was no sentiment in business and that the woman who took a man's place in an office must expect to be treated like a man, but here seemed to be proof to the contrary.

"My name is Mr. Gray, and I am the junior partner in the firm," said the man when he had finished his letter. "As this will be your first place you cannot expect the salary of an experienced girl. What figure do you think will be right?"

"I—I had thought of $8 a week," she replied, "but if you—think that is too much I'll take $6." She didn't want to run away now. She wanted the place, and she didn't want the firm to think her too grasping.

"Let me see as to your stenography," said Mr. Gray, with a smile. "No need to be a bit nervous. Just imagine that you have been here for weeks."

He was not a lightning dictator. He did not tramp up and down the room and interrupt himself every moment to substitute words. In a quiet, easy way he dictated a letter, and when it was finished he nodded toward the typewriter in the corner, and the girl sat down and transcribed her notes.

"It couldn't be better," he said as she handed him the sheet. "Today is Wednesday, but as I am a bit hurried you might come tomorrow instead of waiting till Monday. As to the salary, you will be worth $10 a week to start on. Good morning, Miss Burnham. About 8:45 in the morning, please!"

Five minutes later she was on her way home to tell her mother the good news, and five minutes later Mr. Gray was saying to the head clerk in the outer office:

"Mr. Benson, I have a new stenographer coming in the morning—Miss Burnham."

"Yes, sir."

"It is her first place."

"Yes, sir."

"She is to be treated as a lady. Please see to it that there is no fishing for introductions by the young men. If she does not bring her lunch with her she will go out alone. Should I encounter her in the elevator or on the street I shall lift my hat to her."

"I understand, sir."

Mr. Benson returned to the outer office and communicated the news. The young men of the bookkeeping staff winked at each other and smiled. They were made up of the average young man, no better or no worse. One thing was beyond winking and smiling. He said to the man at his elbow:

"Listen to that, will you? The old man's got a private stenog and a good looker, and we must not even wish her good morning. Got to just take our hats and look down at our toes."

The "old man" had come into the house years and years before as a humble employee and worked his way up to a junior partnership. He had never married, and so far as any one at the store knew he had no near relatives. His home had always been a boarding house or a hotel. When he had come into the firm it was predicted that he would marry within a year, but he had made no change whatever. The boys who winked and smiled over the message from the inner office, but all of them knew that the junior partner had a deep seated respect for womanhood, and in turn they respected him for it.

For weeks and weeks after Kitty Burnham had taken her place it might have been said of the "old man" that he hardly knew that she was in the office. The work was done quietly and without mistakes. There was hardly any conversation outside of business matters. When the first month was up he quietly informed her that her salary was raised to $12 per week, and her simple "Thank you, sir," seemed to cover the occasion. There were no introductions to the clerks and no invitations to lunch. In one case out of a hundred the girl was being given a fair show. She instinctively recognized the fact and was grateful for it.

One night after a hard day's work the "old man" sat alone in his room in a family hotel and indulged in a reverie for the first time in years. He found himself thinking of a home, of wife and children, of some one to kiss him goodby in the morning and welcome him home at night. And presently there came creeping into that reverie a face that startled him. It was the face of his stenographer.

He rose like a guilty man and waved the vision away, with a laugh. But it would not depart for good. He went out on the street and walked about, but he seemed to see that face. He fought to put away the idea of wife and home, but when it still clung he said to himself that he was getting nervous from overwork and ought to take a week off. Next day when he dictated his letter Kitty noticed a change in his voice, and she marked that he avoided looking her in the face. There was some subtle change in him, and it worried her a little.

That reverie came back to the junior partner and that face came back in connection with wife and home, and finally he welcomed a wife and home. Why shouldn't he have a wife and home? He was rich enough now, and he was longing for a change from his lonely existence. At the office he was the man of business; at his own room he was the man of reveries.

By and by there came a legal holiday, and the office was closed. At such times the "old man" usually hung about for half a day anyhow, but on this occasion he did not go near the beach. Instead, he took a train for the first time in years. Without really planning it he soon found himself in the suburb where Miss Burnham lived. He had carried her address in his head for days and days. He walked by the house. He would have laughed at the idea that he hoped to see her. At the gate he almost halted, as if he would enter and pay a call, but he caught himself just in time.

An hour later, in a seaside park half a mile away, as he sat alone on a bench with his reverie strong upon him, a young man and a girl took a seat back of him. A bush hid them from sight, but his heart gave a leap as he heard a well known voice. It was saying:

"No, Walter, there is no occasion for jealousy on your part. Mr. Gray is one of the nicest men I ever met, but he is an old bachelor and has never thought of love. Besides, he is at least forty-five, while I am only nineteen. The idea of my marrying a man old enough to be my father! Why, it's perfectly ridiculous!"

There was more conversation, but the junior partner heard nothing further. He rose softly and tiptoed away some distance. Then he sat down on another bench and held his face in his hands until the ache ceased. He forty-five, she nineteen! Old enough to be her father! Old bachelor and never thought of love! A ridiculous idea! Walter was young. Youth mated with youth.

And the reveries and the dreams and the face passed away to return no more, and the boys at the office said that the "old man" was pitching into work as if he wanted to get something off his mind.

Dividing the Trout Family.

The majority of naturalists divide the salmon, or salmon, tribe into four species—the salmon, the sea trout, the brook trout and the lake trout. Scandinavian zoologists reduce these four to two species—salmon and trout—considering all the different kinds of trout as mere varieties of one species. There is little doubt about the identity of the lake trout and the brook trout, and experiments by Mr. Clegg with the fish of northern France make it appear that there is no doubt about the identity of the common trout and the sea trout.

If there be a difference between the adults of the two varieties there is none between the fry. The fry of the two kinds cannot be distinguished one from the other until the trout, leaving fresh water, seeks brackish water in preparation for acclimating itself in salt. This takes place from May to July, during which time the fry of the common or brook trout, if brought into brackish water, gradually assumes the livery of the sea trout. There is no room for doubt, according to this French zoologist, that the sea trout and the brook trout are one and the same species. The sea trout are a branch of the brook trout. If some of them are hatched as sea trout, many others are hatched as brook trout, and these young fish in descending the rivers become true sea trout.—New York World.

A VISIT TO THE LEPER'S HOME.

"And the leper, in whom the plague is, his clothes shall be rent, and his head bare, and he shall put a covering upon his upper lip and shall cry 'unclean, unclean!' All the days wherein the plague shall be in him, he shall dwell alone; without the camp shall his habitation be." (Leviticus, xiii: 44.)

Through all early historic and holy writings the leper has been classed as a morbid element beyond the reach of human hand, a victim classed among the living dead.

Small wonder that so little has been done for these poor unfortunate lepers in the past. What was done was, as a rule, done toward the protection of the public, and not for the benefit of the unfortunate leper.

When the Divine healer returned to the Father, the leper's hopes of earthly cure vanished, as he thought forever.

Today the leper's case is not as hopeless as was supposed in the past, for we have several cures on record, and many cases are being improved.

I feel sure that many readers of The Banner are not aware of the existence of leprosy in the United States, and I suspect they will be surprised to learn that there is a leper's home in the State of Louisiana, supported by the State.

This home is in charge of five Sisters of Charity, and a Catholic Priest, all of whom reside there. Dr. Ralph Hopkins of New Orleans has systematic charge of the home and visits it once a week or more often if necessary. As his guest, I visited the home Monday, May 11, and found it situated on the banks of the Mississippi about 100 miles above New Orleans, four miles from a railroad, in the midst of rich rice and cane plantations.

I spent four hours at the home and found it well kept and the patients well provided for and life being made as pleasant as possible under such circumstances.

There are, at present, forty seven inmates representing every walk of life, from the ignorant and uncultured negro to the highest and most refined of the land. They range in age from ten to eight-six years.

On arriving at the home, we first visited the sister's residence and were provided a good dinner. Dr. Hopkins incidentally explaining that this was not prepared in the same kitchen as that for the lepers.

After dinner we proceeded to a room provided for the medical attendant; there we changed clothing preparatory to entering the buildings occupied by the lepers. Next we passed a small house where the relatives of the lepers are allowed to visit them, they not being permitted to enter their living rooms lest they contract the dreaded disease.

A sister of charity, with hands covered with rubber gloves, accompanied us through the buildings, and opened all the doors so that we did not touch anything that was contaminated.

The disease is represented here in all its phases. Some patients only presented a few tubercles or small "coffee colored" spot (ashy white in the negro) while others were confined to their beds and still others, whose fingers and toes had fallen off, and whose features were so distorted as not to resemble a human being, were sitting or walking around, making the best of life as it presents itself to them. There are at present two patients in the home who appear to be entirely well, but they will not be discharged for some time yet lest the disease reappear.

After going through all the buildings, including the neat little chapel where the lepers worship, we returned to the dressing room, took a bath, put on our "good" clothes, and started on our return trip; I feeling, that with all my troubles I was thankful for my own well being.

A great many people imagine they have heart trouble when the fact is that the whole trouble lies in the stomach. The pains in the side around the region of the heart are not necessarily heart trouble. We suggest that you start with the stomach and whenever you feel a depression after eating or whenever your food seems to nauseate take Kodol. It will not be very long until all these "heart pains" will disappear. Take Kodol now and until you know you are right again. There isn't any doubt about what it will do and you will find the truth of this statement verified after you have used Kodol for a few weeks. It is sold here by Upchurch Drug Co.

SEVEN PEOPLE DROWN

Fatal Accident Occurs to Moonlight Excursion Party.

THE LAUNCH TANK EXPLODED

Shattered by the Explosion, Many of the Party Were Unable to Save Themselves by Swimming—Accident Near Clarendon, Ark.

Little Rock, Ark., May 20.—A special to the Gazette from Clarendon, Ark., says:

Seven people were drowned Tuesday night when the tank of a gasoline launch, in which they had gone for a moonlight excursion, exploded, wrecking the boat.

Other members of the party were rescued with difficulty.

One of those who were rescued, Miss Mary Carver, of Clarendon, was badly burned.

Details of the tragedy are meager.

The boat left Clarendon early in the evening, bearing a merry party who had planned to go several miles below Clarendon.

The tank of the launch exploded, wrecking the boat and hurling the occupants into the river, which at this point, more than 100 feet from the shore, is very deep.

Four of them could swim and some were stunned by the force of the explosion and went down before swimmers in the party could make an effort at rescue.

The survivors were found on the river bank by runners dispatched from here because of the prolonged absence of the party.

The boat was a gasoline launch about thirty feet long and capable of seating twenty to twenty-five people.

It was owned by E. A. Fairer, one of those who escaped, and who saved the lives of several of the women on the party. It had frequently been used for like excursions.

None of the bodies have been recovered.

Diocese Will Be Divided.

Rome, May 23.—It is believed in Italian circles that the Cleveland diocese, rendered vacant by the recent death of Bishop Horstmann, will be divided in two and that Toledo will be the head of the new diocese. Monsignor John Farrelly, spiritual director of the American College in Rome, and Rev. J. M. Kondeka, one of the missionaries of the Cleveland diocese, probably will be made bishops, the former of Cleveland, and the latter of Toledo.

Rear Admiral Hemphill Honored.

Toledo, May 23.—Rear Admiral Hemphill and the other officers of the visiting American squadron are being shown much attention by the Japanese officials. The various functions of their tour are being performed in a manner that is highly appreciated by the American squadron.

The address of welcome on behalf of the Meriwether Club will be made by Hon. James L. Reynolds.

The response will be made by Senator J. L. Bates, of the South Carolina.

Other addresses will be delivered by General M. C. Butler, of Illinois; President James U. Jackson, of Augusta; Captain N. Y. Evans, of Columbia; and J. E. Greene, of Georgia.

Found Dead in Public Road.

Frankfort, Ky., May 23.—N. B. Hazell, a prominent farmer of Shelby county, was found dead in the road near the Franklin county line and a prospective raid by night riders is believed to be connected with his death.

A wound from a shotgun in the chest and a cartridge near the body shows how death was caused. Neighbors believe he was a member of a band of tobacco plant bed raiders and was either killed by a grower, whose bed the night riders sought to destroy, or by soldiers of a local company.

Posse in Pursuit of Highwaymen.

Montgomery, Ala., May 23.—Negro highwaymen robbed the store of Bryant Reynolds at Tharion, fifteen miles from here and then set fire to his house and got away. A posse and dogs are now in pursuit. Some weeks ago four negroes held up the clerk at night and took all the money in the cash drawer. The sheriff here has sent men to help in the search. It is feared that if caught there will be a session of the court of Judge Lynch.

Governor Comer at Tuskegee.

Montgomery, Ala., May 23.—Governor B. B. Comer, at Tuskegee addressed the students of the Booker T. Washington school. He was entertained at noon by a number of Macon county citizens, and in the afternoon drove to the school for an inspection and talk. A report just made of the conduct of the financial end of the school compliments the system as the finest ever seen in this section.

Bank Reopens.

Globe, Ariz., May 23.—The Globe National Bank, which closed its doors November 4, after a run lasting several days, has reopened and is prepared to pay all deposits. The bank's capital is $50,000.

100,000 VISITORS IN SEATTLE

Every Available Craft Put to Use on Puget Sound.

Seattle, Wash., May 23.—100,000 visitors in the city of Seattle awaited the arrival of the battleship fleet. All of the railroads, electric lines and steamships have been pouring sight-seers into the city for several days and many thousands will arrive here in time to see the naval parade.

The people of Seattle will present to Admiral Sperry, commander in chief of the fleet, a magnificent key made of virgin Alaskan gold as a token that the door of the city is open.

The Japanese residents will give a big fireworks spectacle in the harbor as a compliment to the men of the fleet.

Every available steamship and launch on Puget Sound will be put to use to greet the battleships. The city has been elaborately decorated.

Upon the arrival of the fleet 50,000 street car tickets and 8,000 theater tickets will be distributed to the men who come ashore. In the evening the chamber of commerce will give a reception to the officers at the New Washington Hotel. Four thousand invitations have been issued to the public.

IN HANNA'S MEMORY.

Magnificent Monument Dedicated at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 23.—May 23 will long be remembered by the multitude of friends and admirers of the late Marcus A. Hanna as the day of the dedication in this city, in the presence of Vice President Fairbanks and other distinguished guests, of St. Gaudens' magnificent monument in memory of the late senator, John W. Griggs, the orator of the day, was attorney general of the United States under President McKinley. The monument, which was the last work of the genius of the late Augustus St. Gaudens, cost about $70,000 and the money was raised by popular subscription.

This monument stands at the entrance on Wade Park, one of the most beautiful in the world.

GOV SPARKS DIES AT RANCH.

Nevada Chief Executive Had Been Ill for Some Time.

Reno, Nev., May 23.—Governor John Sparks, of Nevada, who had been ill for some time, is dead at his ranch near Reno. Governor Sparks' term would have expired December 31, 1910.

Governor Sparks died of Bright's disease. His wife and son were at his bedside when death came. He was born in Mississippi in August, 1810, and has been governor of Nevada since 1902.

Don S. Dickinson will now become governor of Nevada.

Program for Farmers' Meeting.

Augusta, Ga., May 23.—The program has just been announced for the annual meeting of the Associated Savannah Valley Farmers' Clubs, to take place July 9 at the Meriwether Club house. The address of welcome on behalf of the Meriwether Club will be made by Hon. James L. Reynolds.

The response will be made by Senator J. L. Bates, of the South Carolina.

LAMPHIER IS INDICTED

Seven Indictments Embrace Murder and Arson.

MORE JEWELRY IS FOUND

The Basement Floor on the Site of the Gunness Farm Will Be Dug Up in Search for More Bodies of the Victims.

LaPorte, Ind., May 23.—After ten days' delay, digging on the Gunness farm in search for more bodies was resumed by order of Sheriff Smutzer and Coroner Mack, but the entire garden where the "graveyard" was located will not be dug up. The basement floor on the site of the Gunness home and the ground near the rows of evergreen trees will be excavated.

Jewelry belonging to May O'Reilly, who lived in Troup street, Rochester, N. Y., was found by Sheriff Smutzer, who communicated the fact to the Rochester police. They replied by telegram that the woman disappeared from her home several months ago.

The grand jury has returned seven indictments against Ray Lamphier, one each charging murder of Mrs. Belle Gunness, Philip Gunness, Lucy Sorensen and Myrtle Sorensen by destroying the Gunness house, one for arson in destroying Mrs. Gunness' house by fire; one for murder of Andrew Helgolin on January 14, and one for accessory in assisting Mrs. Gunness in the murder of Helgolin.

Brazil's Relations Excellent.

Rio Janeiro, May 23.—In reply to the reports current here lately that the relations between Brazil and the Argentine Republic were strained, the leader of the government declared in the chamber of deputies that Brazil's relations with all powers were excellent. Brazil was pursuing, as always, a policy of peace, he said, and the idea of war was inconceivable.

Theodore Shonts Leaves for New York.

Paris, May 23.—Theodore P. Shonts of New York, will leave here for home May 27. Mrs. Shonts will remain with her daughter, the Duchess de Chaulnes, until after the birth of the latter's child. The Duke de Chaulnes died suddenly in Paris April 23.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

The prospect of the early entrance into Fez of Mulai Hafid, the usurping sultan of Morocco, a circumstance that would give him possession of three capitals of Morocco, Morocco City, Fez and Mequinez, compels France reluctantly to face the possibility of having to recognize him as the legitimate sultan of the empire.

BOY KILLS HIS OWN

Something Tragic in Family of a New York Millionaire.

New York, May 20.—A family quarrel which had driven one of the members to insanity culminated in the murder of George E. Sterry, a millionaire drug importer, by his son, George R. Sterry, Jr., and the suicide of the latter. The elder Sterry was shot down at the Fifth Street office of Weaver & Sterry, Ltd., where he had been closeted for a few moments with the murderer. The son immediately afterwards shot himself, and both men were dead when others of the firm hurried into the room. The determination of the father to remarry led to the tragedy.

A letter left by the son made plain that his acts were deliberate and the product of a deranged mind.

The senior Sterry was seventy-two years of age, and in addition to his drug interests was president of the Bloomfield Mills company and a director in the Spring Coal company. He was socially prominent and active in religious affairs.

George E. Sterry, Jr., was forty years of age, and with his wife, lived at Manhattan Square hotel. His wife had known of the unpleasantness in the Sterry family, but had received no intimation that her husband's mind had become unbalanced as a consequence.

CARS ARE DYNAMITED.

Serious State of Affairs in Strike at Cleveland, O.

Cleveland, O., May 23.—The near approach of peace in the street car war did not prevent dynamites from following out their usual operations Thursday night, no less than half a dozen cars being damaged, while several persons received injuries.

The most serious outrage of the night took place when a car carrying ten passengers was blown up at the corner of Euclid avenue and East One Hundred and Sixteenth street.

A car was completely wrecked and two of the ten passengers were badly injured.

Five other cars were dynamited in various sections of the city during the night, but no one on them was seriously hurt.

The mediators who are trying to bring about a settlement of the strike have resumed their labors.

It is said they are deadlocked on the choice of a third arbitrator. Two arbitrators have already been named.

Typos Held Elections.

Atlanta, May 22.—The typographical union in Atlanta, as well as the unions in every city in the country wherein the international organization has a home, on Wednesday held an election for national officers, for delegates to the next annual session of the American Federation of Labor, for trustees for the union printers' home, for delegates to the International Typographical union, which convenes at Boston, Mass., on August 10, coming, and for delegates to the various state federations of labor. Before the qualified voters there were two candidates for president of the International Typographical union, Jas. Lynch, of Syracuse, N. Y., incumbent, was opposed by H. S. Hulsepeth, of New Orleans.

Boy Kills His Brother.

Clermont, Ga., May 23.—Hub, the seven-year-old son of F. M. Turner, was shot and instantly killed by his little twelve-year-old brother, Johnnie. Mr. Turner was at Gainesville, where he had gone to market when the accident occurred. The two boys were playing with a shotgun—playing that the small boy would climb into a tree and he would fall out. The little boy was shot through his heart. The older boy had unloaded the gun and somehow it had been reloaded and the fatal work was done with the proverbial "empty gun." The family is prominent here.

To Refund Cotton Tax.

Washington, May 23.—Bills were introduced in the house to refund to the states of Missouri, Louisiana, Virginia, South Carolina, North Carolina, money collected from citizens of those states from taxes on cotton for the years 1863-1866, inclusive. The total amount carried by the bills is $22,840,077. There is no possibility of its passage.

Jailed on Serious Charge.

Montgomery, Ala., May 23.—A special from Gadsden, Ala., says: J. C. Albright, of Walnut Grove, is in jail here charged with responsibility for the death of his wife ten days ago. The wife had been taking arsenic as a tonic and without warning died. She was buried last night taken up, the exhumed body showing poison.

Graduate Land Tax Bill.

Guthrie, Okla., May 23.—The graduate land tax bill, which by excessive taxation seeks to prevent the owning of more than 640 acres of land by one person in Oklahoma, was finally passed and sent to the governor. The income tax bill and the inheritance tax bill are in the governor's hands also.

AIRSHIP BURST

Sixteen Men Fall a Distance of 10,000 Feet.

Oakland, Cal., May 23.—A moose airship on its trip to the view, rose 300 feet from the ground, and dropped to the ground with a crowd of sixteen men every one of whom was injured. With the exception of one, all were seriously hurt. Several were severely hurt.

L. C. Rogers, commander, right leg was fractured and the right leg was fractured and the injured internally may die.

The airship rose slowly from the ground. The five gasbags suspended beneath the car were visible at intervals of about 100 feet each attended by an engine, but not put in operation until the airship was well up in the air. The engines slowly set in motion and the long propellers revolved from them on each side of the car.

Before the ship could be pushed further than a few feet, the car tilted downward and the crew stood at an angle of about 45 degrees nose downward.

The members of the crew were apparently unable to run along the car's pathway in order to equalize weight and to right the airship, they clung desperately to the car and superstructure. The road to the stern of the long gas bag was the envelope to burst with a ripping noise. The release of a quantity of gas caused the airship to settle toward the earth. Some of the crew lost their heads before they could alight, and jumped, with broken limbs or severe bruises.

Nearing the earth, the ship fell more rapidly and the wreckage of the craft and the wreckage of the crew were scattered in a haphazard manner.

The item of $2,500,000 for the purchase of a building for the department of state and justice were retained. Item of $100,000 for the purchase of an embassy building in Paris, struck out of the bill.

Said Near Beer Coated Diox.

Rome, Cal., May 23.—Diox, an old negro, is said to have efforts of drinking "beer" and death will probably be followed more, as others partook of the beer at the same time he did. The beer was employed in the yards of the C. & St. L. railroad, and by a number of co-workers. However, the beer was not a genuine beer, but a concoction of "beer" and other ingredients. The beer was said to have been given to the negroes by a white man, who was probably a member of the same gang. The beer was taken violently ill and was drinking a quantity of the beer.

Rome Population 11,700.

Rome, Cal., May 23.—The census of Rome, which has just been finished, shows a population of 11,700. It includes all seven wards, two of which have been taken in since the last census. It gives Rome an increase of about 60 per cent over the census of 1900, when the population was 7,291. This census is undoubtedly correct, it having been taken under the supervision of the authorities and people appointed for each ward.

A Queer Baseball Ruling

Umpire Silk O'Loughlin made a... ruling in a recent game between the...
Chicago White Sox and Detroit which...
practically put the squeeze play out...
of existence. When Dougherty started...
to steal home in the third inning...
Siever was standing on the rubber...
ready to deliver the ball to the plate...
and as soon as Pat started Payne ran...
up in front of Davis and caught the...
ball, preventing George taking a swing...
at it. Fleider Jones declared he had...
been interfered with, but O'Loughlin's...
ruling was that as long as Siever had...
not started to wind up his delivery...
he had a right to throw the ball to...
the plate to stop a runner the same...
as he had to throw to first or any...
other base. Ruling 31 of the playing...
rules describes a fair ball as any ball...
delivered to the plate while the pitcher...
is standing on the rubber and the ball...
is over the plate. Any fair ball must...
be called a strike. An unfairly...
delivered ball is a ball that is delivered...
to the plate which does not come over...
the plate, and the umpire must call it...
a ball. According to the ruling made...
by O'Loughlin the squeeze play is...
practically killed, because the runner...
might start before the pitcher winds...
up, although he is on the rubber ready...
to deliver the ball.

the long journey to Australia and...
therefore proposed that the English...
send a team to America to play the...
American team, the winners only going...
to Australia. The Doherty brothers...
former holders of the cup, are not...
expected to compete this year, the...
most likely English players being A. W. ...
Gore, Frank Risley and R. H. Smith.

THE SPORTING WORLD

McQuillen a Crack Pitcher.
In Pitcher McQuillen Manager Murray... of the Philadelphia National league...
club has one of the greatest pitching... ands of the season. In the last few...
games he has demonstrated that he is...
capable of holding his own with many... of the big league star artists. Last... fall the Phillies secured him from the...
Jersey City team of the Eastern

PITCHER McQUILLEN OF THE PHILADELPHIA NATIONALS

league, with which he made a great... record. Manager Murray thinks that...
with a little more experience in fast... company McQuillen will be one of the... best twirlers in the National league. ...
He has a fine assortment of curves...
knows how to mix them up and has...
good control of the ball.

A Queer Baseball Ruling

Umpire Silk O'Loughlin made a... ruling in a recent game between the...
Chicago White Sox and Detroit which...
practically put the squeeze play out...
of existence. When Dougherty started...
to steal home in the third inning...
Siever was standing on the rubber...
ready to deliver the ball to the plate...
and as soon as Pat started Payne ran...
up in front of Davis and caught the...
ball, preventing George taking a swing...
at it. Fleider Jones declared he had...
been interfered with, but O'Loughlin's...
ruling was that as long as Siever had...
not started to wind up his delivery...
he had a right to throw the ball to...
the plate to stop a runner the same...
other base. Ruling 31 of the playing...
rules describes a fair ball as any ball...
delivered to the plate while the pitcher...
is standing on the rubber and the ball...
is over the plate. Any fair ball must...
be called a strike. An unfairly...
delivered ball is a ball that is delivered...
to the plate which does not come over...
the plate, and the umpire must call it...
a ball. According to the ruling made...
by O'Loughlin the squeeze play is...
practically killed, because the runner...
might start before the pitcher winds...
up, although he is on the rubber ready...
to deliver the ball.

English Tennis Players Coming

There seems to be every probability... that an English lawn tennis team will...
play in America during the summer. ...
This team will not only take part in... the regular American championship...
tournament, but will play against the...
American team the first time in the... contest for the Davis cup, won last... year by a team from Australia. The... winners of the match will go to...
Australia in an effort to recapture...
the cup. The American association does... not think it worth while for both the...
English and American teams to make...
the long journey to Australia and...
therefore proposed that the English...
send a team to America to play the...
American team, the winners only going...
to Australia. The Doherty brothers...
former holders of the cup, are not...
expected to compete this year, the...
most likely English players being A. W. ...
Gore, Frank Risley and R. H. Smith.

performances, and his recent jump of...

Farwell to St. Petersburg

BY STELLA G. SPENCER.
Farwell to thee, land of beautiful...
flowers,
Where the mocking bird trills from...
sweet orange bowers,
Where evening falls soft from blue...
Southern skies,
Where the breeze ever blows and the...
rose never dies,
We bid thee farewell, but never fare...
ill.
From Northern or Southern, thou hast...
our good will.
Oft shall we think of thee Florida... pavane,
See in memory thy twilight and bright...
evening star.
Hear the lisp of the waves and the...
sudden quick splash.
Of the pelican as he dives for the...
mullet so rash.
When sleep wanders down night's...
golden stair,
In fancy we stand in St. Petersburg, the...
fair.
The silver moon shines so round and...
so low.
The streets all glitter as with new...
fallen snow.
The west wind fragrant with the odor...
of flowers,
Whispers of past pleasures during long...
sunny hours,
Of pleasant sails over clear green...
waters,
Of mirth and laughter when a gust of...
wind caught us,
What matter if the spray dashed into...
the face.
'Twas only a fragment of old Neptune's...
point lace,
A piece of his royal mantle so proud...
Ordered forth from some fleecy...
white cloud.
Alas! the scene changes, it fades away...
Where now are the pleasures of yester... day?
And the friends we made the while...
we played,
Near the sun-kissed waters of Tampa...
Bay?
Presto, change, time stands not still...
Their forms recede, their mission ful... filled.
And memory's touch though ever so...
bold,
Only transmits past joys into fairy...
gold.

We have a strong county ticket,

now let every man convince his ests of Chilton county to elect them in November.

Look at the absurdity of this political Punch-and-Judy show.

The Alabama republicans vote in a national election, including both wings of the party outfit, amounts to scarcely more than 20,000, which means that in the election the republican party of Alabama cuts

about as much figure as a land terrapin in a school of moral philosophy, and yet the Alabama delegates enter the republican convention at the head of the list, which itself is an asset in the political roll call, making possible as it does,

a stampede in favor of the first state's choice of candidates and has as much say in the nomination in proportion to its electoral votes as a great republican state like Pennsylvania. After the nomination is made the Alabama republicans are of no service whatever in the election of their choice candidate.

The same thing is true of a number of other Southern states and the republican convention will be loaded down with contests all growing out of insatiable appetites for pie among two or more branches of chronic office seekers.

So much for the trials and tribulations of the party organization as a result of a presumable necessity of patting and fondling the negro vote in the pivotal states of the north and west. It's a bitter pill and has to be taken with a painful looking grimace. But as yet the party organization is too timid to take the bull by the horns and wipe out a system of political jugglery

which has long been regarded by self respecting people who would like to see public life in this country put on a healthy basis, as distasteful as it is demoralizing. The pie influence in republican politics is getting to be more and more in the nature of a parasitical nuisance.

SENTIMENT AND COMMON SENSE UNIT.

As you are aware, a new Geological Building has been authorized for the University of Alabama

at Tuscaloosa. If a strong expression of opinion can be voiced throughout this state, there is a probability of the building being built entirely of Alabama material.

The geological building forms an admirable opportunity for advertising the peculiar variety of our geological possessions; the use of Alabama materials will be an enduring declaration of what we have in our state ready for the use of the world. Many of the geological materials gathered in the building will be such as absolutely essential in all buildings, whether simple or extremely ornate. This being so, it appears unreasonable to gather materials from other states to house

samples of building materials found in this state.

Here we have an extraordinary variety of common and choice materials, beginning with the humble

clays and rising to the most dazzling marble.

I hope that the papers throughout the state will immediately voice a sentiment in favor of this unquestioned opportunity for advertising to all visitors and to our own sons the riches of this state

geologically.

Yours truly,

G. GROSVENOR DAWK.

PET ANIMALS IN WILLS.

Fortune to "My Red Horse"—Parrot

Bequeathed to Queen Victoria.

A. T. Newbold, the Salford brewer,

who has left his greyhound, Wildfire

II, an annuity of £25, is one of many testators who have remembered their pet animals in their wills.

A farmer near Toulouse who died a short time ago left his entire estate to

"my red horse." One John Spooner of Chicago bequeathed $400 to his dog

"in recognition of his sympathy and tender nursing when I was seriously ill," and the will of a Mr. Garland contained this clause: "I bequeath to my monkey, Jack, the sum of £100 per annum and to my faithful dog,

Shock and my well beloved cat, Tib,

a pension of £5."

Dr. Christians of Venice left 60,000

forins for the maintenance of his three dogs, a Mr. Harper settled £100 on his "young black cat," and a Frenchman named Souchat left his entire fortune to his tortoise.

A good many years ago an old lady bequeathed her pet parrot to Queen

Victoria, with 100 guineas a year for its keep, on the amusing condition

that "her majesty publicly exhibits it before her court twice a year to prove that the person intrusted with its care has not wrong its neck."—Westminster Gazette.

ASCENSION ISLAND.

One Place in This Busy World Where

Money Is Useless.

Now and then one hears of out of the way places where the conventions of life, as they are understood, do not exist. One of these is where money is useless. This is Ascension Island, in the Atlantic.

This island is the property of the British admiralty and is governed by a captain of the royal navy. There is no private property in land, so there are no rents, taxes, etc. The flocks and herds are public property, and the meat killed is issued in rations.

So are the vegetables grown on the farms.

When a fisherman makes a catch he brings it to the guard room, where it is issued by the sergeant major. The only private property are fowls and pigeons. Even the wild donkeys are under government control. They are listed on the books of the paymaster

and are handed over at stock taking.

The population consists of a few bluejackets, a company of marines and some Kroos from Sierra Leone.

There a marine can do anything.

The mullet is a marine; so are the gardeners, the shepherds, the stockmen, the grooms, the masons, the carpenters and the plumbers. Even the island trapper, who gets rewards for the tails of rats, is a marine.—Exchange.

FARM WATER.

Summer seems to have been a very dry one in the lower part of the country. Dr. W. D. Hubbard, a well-known farmer, who has spent last week at the farm, says that the water is very low. DURUM WHEAT.

A Grain That Is Steadily Increasing in Popularity.

There is a steadily increasing production of durum wheat in northern Minnesota and North Dakota and in the arid or semiarid sections of other states.

The big flouring mills have not yet adapted their machinery to the proper grinding of durum wheat, says an expert. They find the grain too rich in gluten and too hard for their present installment of rollers. The elevator men don't handle it freely because it necessitates special bins. But the exporters take it eagerly.

Durum is sometimes called macaroni wheat because its main use up to this time has been for the manufacture of macaroni. The French, however, who are accounted the best cooks in the world, have employed it quite extensively in breadmaking, and it is asserted that the bread made from it is most nutritious as well as light and appetizing. There is no reason why it should not be.

Gluten is a muscle former. In 100 ounces of lean beefsteak there are eighteen parts of muscle formers. In 100 ounces of ordinary bread there are seven to eight ounces of muscle formers. In 100 ounces of potatoes two ounces, in 100 ounces of milk four, but in 100 ounces of macaroni or bread made from durum wheat there are said to be from eighteen to twenty ounces of muscle forming material.

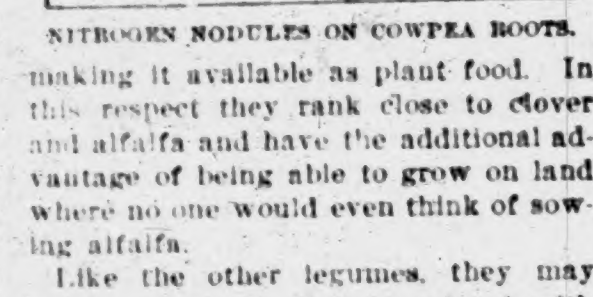

Admitting the food value of this variety of wheat, the temptation to the farmer to whose land it is adapted is almost irresistible when a wheat plant is chosen. It is a plant that stands drought much better than other wheat. It is so hardy and thrifty that it is usually exempt from rust and smut and bugs.

The average yield is high, often from 50 to 100 per cent greater than that of the old varieties of wheat grown in the same district. It seems certain that durum is destined to prove a blessing to the farmers.

NITROGEN FERTILIZING.

Cowpeas a Good Medium For Enriching the Wornout Soil.

Besides growing on most any soil, cowpeas are valuable from the fact that they are legumes and have the power of fixing through the agency of bacteria the free nitrogen of the air.

NITROGEN NODULES ON COWPEA ROOTS.

making it available as plant food. In this respect they rank close to clover and alfalfa and have the additional advantage of being able to grow on land where no one would even think of sowing alfalfa.

Like the other legumes, they may need to have the soil inoculated with bacteria, and this may be done either by scattering dirt from a good cowpea field over the patch to be sown or probably by scattering the manure of animals fed on cowpea hay. When inoculated they will fix as much nitrogen in the soil in 60 to 110 days as clover will in eighteen months.

The nodules on the roots of a cowpea, the top of which was thirteen inches high and bore ten pods, are shown in the accompanying picture. On stronger land the yield of peas was less per plant and there were fewer nodules on the roots, owing to the fact that the richer soil went more to the development of big vines, some of them being four feet long. From this it is easily seen that the fertilizing value of the root decreases as the soil increases in richness, while the contrary is true of the fertilizing value of the top.

The picture shows more plainly than can be told in words the benefit to be derived by leaving the cowpea roots in the ground when the crop is harvested. In order to prevent as much as possible the waste of nitrogen by evaporation and the washing of soil by storms the field can be seeded to rye immediately after harvest. The rye will absorb the fertilizing properties as they become free and keep them in storage till spring, when it can be plowed under, giving the soil not only the fertility gathered by cowpeas, but also that gathered by the rye, with the addition of humus, of which our poorer fields are greatly in need.

Cowpeas will not grow in a cold soil, but will lie there and soon rot. For this reason they should not be planted until two or three weeks after corn planting time. Stir up a good seed bed and double the rows with a corn planter, put in shallow and sow five to eight quarts per acre. These will have to be cultivated two or three times, but you should not plow them while they are wet either from rain or dew or the dirt will stick to them and they will rot. If you use the drill, sow three to five pecks per acre, putting them about one and one-half inches deep. They will need no further cultivation unless there comes a rain before they get through the ground. In case of rain harrow lightly to break the crust or most of them will fall to get through.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson (X) - Second Quarter, For May 31, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John xii, 1-18. Memory Verses, 15, 16—Golden Text, Rev. 1-18—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1908, by American Bible Society.] We should certainly be grateful for three resurrection lessons in succession, but even thirty such would do us no good if we do not see ourselves as crucified with Him and risen with Him and our life hid with Christ in God, that so our affections may be set on things above and our hearts upon the appearing with Him in glory (Col. iii, 1-4). The more fully we are grasped by the great truth of His resurrection the more earnestly will we pray the prayer "that I may know Him and the power of His resurrection" (Phil. iii, 10, 11), for unless our reception of Him as the one crucified and risen for us and our intimate acquaintance with Him as the ascended Christ, our great High Priest, lead to a reproduction of His life in us we are not having the right of way in our lives, as He desires to have. As His whole life was covered by the one word "submission," so must ours be. "Submit to God. Resist the devil."

That there is no salvation, no forgiveness of sins, no gospel to preach, if Christ be not risen is fully set forth in I Cor. xv. The emphasis given to it by the apostles in their preaching is seen in such passages as Acts ii, 24, 32; iii, 15, 26; iv, 10; v, 30; xii, 23, 33, etc. At His death the sun was darkened, the earth did quake, the rocks rent, the graves were opened, and all nature seemed to groan in abhorrence of such a deed; but, as we saw in the last lesson, the hardened heart of sinful man could scoff at and deride Him who was suffering for the sins of those very men. He died, the just for the unjust. His body was laid in Joseph's new tomb by the kind hands of two secret disciples, who in that hour of emergency became bold for Him. His enemies remembered that He had said that He would rise again the third day, and so with Pilate's approval they made the tomb as sure as they could, sealing the stone and setting a watch (Matt. xxvii, 62-66). To mere human eyes it looked as if the devil had the victory and the impostor, as the scribes and Pharisees thought, had been finally disposed of. But at all man's thoughts and purposes "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh; the Lord shall have them in derision" (Ps. li, 4).

At the appointed time on the third day He came forth victorious over sin and death and the grave, and He showed Himself alive by many infallible proofs during forty days, speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God (Acts i, 3). There is no topic more plain in Scripture and yet less understood by preachers generally and, of course, by the majority who listen to them than the kingdom of God or of heaven, which our Lord Himself described as the will of God done on earth as in heaven. It is described as including all the nations upon earth, all kings bowing down to Jesus as King of kings and all the nations worshipping Him as the Messiah of Israel, they having become a glorious nation at His appearing in glory and all nations blessed through them. Then we who now accept Him and serve Him and follow Him shall in our resurrection bodies reign with Him in His kingdom. Inasmuch as our mortal bodies shall be made like unto His glorious body, for we shall be like Him (Phil. iii, 21; I John iii, 2), it becomes to us a matter of the greatest possible interest to note the powers and the nature of His resurrection body. Our special lesson to day, although it mentions only one of His appearances, really covers four—that to Mary Magdalene, to the other women, to Simon Peter and to the two who walked to Emmaus. We have called attention to the fact of there being no redemption apart from His resurrection, but redemption will be found to include our bodies also at the resurrection of the just (I Cor. xv, 51). Although He forbade Mary to touch Him because, as He said, He was then on His way to His Father in His risen body, He allowed the other women to hold Him by the feet and to worship Him (Matt. xxviii, 9); therefore the resurrection body was a real, tangible, material body, as we shall see more fully in the two succeeding lessons.

We gather nothing of the nature of that body from His appearing to Peter, for we have only the record of the fact (Luke xxiv, 34), but from His appearance to the two who walked to Emmaus we learn that He walked as they did and sat at meat with them in the house and took bread and blessed and brake it. Then He did something which they in their mortal bodies could not do—He vanished out of their sight. This we shall also be able to do when we have bodies like His. One prominent truth in connection with His resurrection talks is that we grieve Him greatly when we fail to believe what is written concerning Him. The angels said to the women, "He is risen, as He said," and He Himself told the two men on the way to Emmaus that they were foolish not to believe all that the prophets had written of Him, which things He expounded unto them. It is written in our lesson concerning Peter and John that they knew not the Scripture concerning His resurrection (verse 9).

Sunday School Committee Meeting.

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your paper to request the members of the Executive Committee of Sunday school work to meet in the court house at Clanton, on Saturday, at 10 o'clock, June 6, for the purpose of preparing a program for our next yearly Sunday school Convention, to be held in the city and to attend to any other matter of Sunday school interest that may deserve our consideration.

We thank you for lending aid to Sunday school work through your paper. Sincerely, JEPHON O. WILLIAMS, Clm.

New Prospect.

There will be a children's day at New Prospect church, 5 miles west of Mt. Creek, on the 4th of July. Everybody is invited. We are anticipating a grand time that day, as there are several good speakers on the program, the children will also have fine recitations which will be very interesting. We would be glad to see a large congregation there that day, to enjoy the good things (both temporal and spiritual) that we aim to have, and also to help in the services.

S. C. POWELL, Sunday School Superintendent.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. ROSA POTTS, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

The Most Common Cause of Suffering.
Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest a possibility. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure could not be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. A Chinese Delicacy.
The tips from the topmost shoots of the bamboo tree are culled when they are not more than three inches long, peeled and preserved much as pineapple is, though the tips are cut in quarters. This fruit has a remarkably delicate and pleasant taste and is largely used as a flavoring for meat, though it can be eaten in the raw state, being rich and juicy. The edible is expensive on account of the difficulty in securing it from the tops of the tall, slender trees at just the right time.

A double barreled, triple action meeting of the two wings of the Republican party and what is left of the good old Populist party was held at Clanton last Saturday, the result being the ordering of a double barreled, triple action primary for August 17, 1908. With remarkable unanimity all three "parties" merged into one for the purpose of attempting to again capture the county offices. Nothing more is to be expected, of course.

How to Build and Use the Split Log Drag.

Office of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture issues a Bulletin on this Simple Road Building Device.

One of the latest publications issued by the Office of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture treats of the split-log drag, an implement which numerous experiments have conclusively shown to be the greatest possible boon to keep earth roads smooth and passable. Because of its simplicity, its efficiency and its cheapness, both in construction and operation, it is destined to come more and more into general use. With the drag properly built and its use well understood, the maintenance of earth roads becomes a simple and inexpensive matter.

At the present time there are approximately 2,000,000 miles of earth roads in the United States. Some of the most important of these roads will eventually be improved with stone, gravel and other materials. Many others which are equally important cannot be so improved on account of lack of funds or suitable materials, while still others will not require such treatment because of the light traffic to which they are subjected. For these reasons the majority of our roads must be maintained as earth roads for many years to come. This must be done by inexpensive methods and the split-log drag will be a powerful aid if economy is the criterion demanded.

The cotton planted this spring is estimated at 32,081,000 acres, and its condition May 20 last is given as 79.7 per cent., in the first cotton reports for this season, made public at the Department of Agriculture today. The acreage as estimated is against 32,060,000 acres last year and the condition on May 25 is against 70.5 last year.

The area as given includes that already planted and expected to be planted, and is about one-tenth of 1 per cent greater than area planted in cotton last year. The condition of the growing crop on May 25, 1906 was 84.6 per cent of a normal, and relative condition on May for the past ten years was 82.3 per cent.

In Alabama the estimated area planted is 3,509,000; condition So.

ATOMIC WORLDS.

There May Be a Billion of Them in a Speck of Dust.

How would you like to live in a speck of dust? It is the thought of a world so small that you cannot even see it beneath a microscope.

The scientists tell us that each atom is a solar system, with its central sun and revolving planets in their orbits, and that little atom people live and love and fight and die there and never know but what they are just the biggest and most important folks that live. There are military atomites there, no doubt, who strut around and get tangled up in their swords and give orders in gruff voices; actor atomites who star in atomic theaters and are adored by lovely atomite maidens and criticized by the trenchant pens of the newspaper men.

There is every reason to believe that life in the atom is much like life in the earth and that the kings and emperors there make war on their distant enemies and have their peace conferences and their periods of financial stringency. The joke of it is that they probably take themselves seriously, and, though there may be a billion atomic worlds in a speck of dust, there is never an inhabitant of one of them that knows how small he is and how much he misses by not being a man instead of an atomite.—New York World.

DEAN SWIFT'S CHANCE.

His Marriage of a Country Couple Caught in a Storm.

It is related of the whimsical Dean Swift that on one occasion when caught in a shower of rain he took shelter under a wide spreading tree, where he found a party of young people waiting for the storm to cease.

One, a girl, was weeping, and the dean learned that she was on her way to church to marry a young fellow who was with her.

The party were walking, as was then the custom in country districts, but owing to the storm it seemed very much as if the ceremony would not take place that day.

"Never mind," said the dean; "I'll marry you."

He took up his prayer book and there and then performed the ceremony. At the finish he tore a leaf out of his pocketbook and with a pencil wrote and signed a certificate, which he handed to the bride. Besides the names and the date, there was the following:

"Under a tree in stormy weather I married this man and woman together. Let none but him who rules the thunder sever this man and woman asunder."
 —Reynolds' Newspaper.

Related.

Persons profoundly concerned with the present perhaps lack sympathy with those genealogists whose souls are obsessed with a worship of ancestry. A number of these unregenerate found amusement in the remarks of two clubwomen with a long line of forefathers. The two women were cousins. They were discussing a new acquaintance.

"By the way," said one, "what did Mr. Blank mean by saying he is related to us? How is he related to us?"

"Oh, yes," answered the other in deadly seriousness; "we are both descended from the Plantagenets."

Several heathen near by actually snickered, but the daughters of the Plantagenets couldn't see anything to laugh at.—New York Times.

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

MARTIAN LIFE.

Conditions Make For Creatures of an Advanced Order of Intellect.

Whatever its actual age, any life now existing on Mars must be in the last stage of its development—on the whole, a much higher one than the marine. But, more than this, it should probably have gone much further if it exists at all, for in its evolving of terra firma Mars has far outstripped the earth. Mars' surface is now all land. Its forms of life must be not only terrestrial as against aquatic, but even as opposed to terraqueous ones.

The struggle for existence in the planet's decrepitude and decay would tend to develop intelligence to cope with circumstances growing momentarily more and more adverse. But, furthermore, the solidarity that the conditions prescribed would conduce to a breadth of understanding sufficient to utilize it. Intercommunication over the whole globe is made not only possible, but obligatory. This would lead to the easier spreading over it of some dominant creature—especially were this being of an advanced order of intellect—able to rise above its bodily limitations to amelioration of the conditions through exercise of mind. What absence of seas would thus entail absence of mountains would further remove life there would tend the quicker to reach a highly organized stage. Thus Martian conditions themselves make for intelligence.—Percival Lowell in Century.

RAYS AND SKATES.

They Are Known to Fishermen as the Jokes of the Sea.

The rays and skates are the jokes of the sea. Their bodies are as flat as the pancakes made by the man in white on a griddle in the window of a "beef and" restaurant. Their eyes look upward, and they have tails as slender and tapering as the whip of a ringmaster of a circus.

In the United States the most common rays are called "skates." The whip tailed rays because of their long, slender tails with their erectile spines at the end, capable of inflicting severe and dangerous wounds, are frequently called sting rays. The common sting ray feeds on oysters, clams and other valuable mollusks and in the Atlantic waters is known as the "clam cracker."

Of the skates the commonest as well as the smallest species on the Atlantic coast is known as the tobacco box; the largest is aptly called the barn door. On the western coast the big skate, which reaches a length of six feet, two feet larger than its eastern relative.

Because of its habit of rolling itself up when caught the common skate has been called "bonnet skate." It is also known as the "hedgehog ray."

On the New Jersey coast the trawl fishermen cut off the broad, fleshy "wings" and they are sold for "sandwiches," sometimes bringing 5 and even 10 cents a pound. These men call the fish "possum," "sea possum" and "bob-tailed skate." As a rule, anglers throw the fish back into the water as being of no value.

Not at All Like Him.

To the studio of an artist who had just finished a portrait of a distinguished resident of a neighboring city a friend of the sitter came to look at the newly painted canvas. The visitor was nearsighted and not particularly well acquainted with studios. He wanted to see how good a likeness had been made of his friend. He kept walking nearer and nearer to the painting and finally put out his finger as if to touch it. The artist was getting nervous at the approach of the finger to the paint, and he asked the visitor not to touch the portrait, as it was not dry. The nearsighted man put down his hand and walked to the door, turning only to say, "If it isn't dry it isn't my friend." And he walked out.—New York Sun.

Selfish Etiquette.

Some rules in an old book on etiquette seem to encourage a practice commonly called "looking out for No. 1." Here are two of them:

"When cake is passed do not finger each piece, but with a quick glance select the best."

"Never refuse to taste of a dish because you are unfamiliar with it or you will lose the taste of many a delicacy while others profit by your abstemiousness, to your lasting regret."

An Electric Dance.

Take a pane of glass—a broken one will do—and secure it by placing the ends between the leaves of two large books, letting the glass be two inches from the table. Cut from lightweight writing paper, or, better still, from tissue paper, dolls, dogs and other figures. Place them on the table beneath the glass. Rub the glass vigorously with a silk handkerchief, and the figures will cut all kinds of antics.

Sore Nipples.

Any mother who has had experience with this distressing ailment will be pleased to know that a cure may be effected by applying Chamberlain's Salve as soon as the child is done nursing. Wipe off with a soft cloth before allowing the babe to nurse. Many trained nurses use this salve with best results. For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorby.

A GREAT WRESTLER.

His Encounter With the Bear and His Ignoble Reward.

One of the stories of Peter the Great which are current at the court of St. Petersburg is of the great czar's wrestling match with a young dragoon. Once in the imperial palace—so the story goes—Peter was at table with a great many princes and noblemen, and soldiers were posted within the hall. The czar was in a joyous mood, and, rising, called out to the company: "Listen, princes and boyars! Is there among you one who will wrestle with the czar?" There was no reply, and the czar repeated the challenge.

No prince or nobleman dared to wrestle with his sovereign. But all at once a young dragoon stepped out from the ranks of the soldiers on guard. "Listen, orthodox czar," he said. "I will wrestle with thee."

"Well, young dragoon," said Peter, "I will wrestle with thee, but on these conditions: If thou throwest me, I will pardon thee; but if thou art thrown thou shalt be beheaded. Wilt thou wrestle on those conditions?"

"I will, great czar," said the soldier. They closed, and presently the soldier with his left arm threw the czar and with his right he prevented him from falling to the ground. The sovereign was clearly bent. The czar offered the soldier whatever reward he should claim, and he ignobly claimed the privilege of drinking free as long as he lived in all the inns belonging to the crown. What became of him history does not say.

Mrs. S. L. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Remedy works wonders where there is a total failure. Upchurch Drug Co.

Union Point.

Editor Banner—Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words. Health of this community is very good at present.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the careful management of Mr. W. H. Parrish.

The farmers are all about done chopping cotton.

I wonder what has become of the Two Chums as we haven't heard from them in a long time. Come again, we would like to hear from you.

Miss Rosie Franklin visited Miss Silla Franklin Sunday.

Well, as this is my first attempt I will ring off and come again. Success to the Banner and its readers.

WE CAREFULLY FILL PRESCRIPTIONS

You have to depend on the druggist almost as much as on the doctor.

The best doctor's efforts are set at naught if his prescriptions are not carefully, accurately filled.

We know how important the filling of prescriptions is—it means to you and to the patient. We fill prescriptions right compound them from the best grade, purest drugs—the only way to keep in the store, and our re-checking system eliminates mistakes.

Buckley's Arnica Salve Wins.

Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot and could find nothing that would heal it until I applied Buckley's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25 cent box won the day for me by affording a perfect cure. Sold under guarantee at Upchurch drug store."

All-Day Singing.

There will be an all day singing at Mount Pisgah church, the third Sunday in June, and everybody is invited to come and bring books, and baskets filled with good things to eat.

Stomach Troubles.

Many remarkable cures of stomach trouble have been effected by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. One man who had spent over two thousand dollars for medicine and treatment was cured by a few boxes of these tablets. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorby.

The above examination postponed until June 6.

IN MEMORIAM.
The death angel visited the home of A. C. Clackler on Friday night, May 29, near Falakto and took the dear wife and mother of that family, who had been an invalid for quite a while. She has been a member of the Baptist church for many years, which she did love and lived loyal to same. She has many friends, and relatives to mourn her loss, but we have many reasons to believe that our loss is heaven's gain. The remains of the dear sister were brought to Providence, her home church, on Saturday and laid to rest, Bros. W. W. Robinson and M. J. Parrish conducting the funeral services.

BE COMFORTED.
Weep not dear ones, though thy afflictions come, In terror's dreaded form, Trust him who speaks the words be still, Whose ways are in the storm.

How sweet to rest in Jesus' care, Safe be, the dust doth keep, Until the resurrection morn, He giveth his beloved ones sleep.

Where tears are wiped from every eye, By our dear Savior's hand, Where over more all shall rejoice Over in that happy land.

Lock up, husband, lift up your bowed head, Let not sorrow be your fate, Look onward and ahead, And meet your loved one at heaven's gate.

Since looking for such glorious things, May waves of grief be still, Thy dearest friend, the King of Kings, Most blessed is His will.

There is only one effective way to Stop Indigestion

Most digesters rely on pepsin. But pepsin digests albumen only. It is but one of the elements needed.

Starch, fats and phosphates each require something else. Then half of digestion is done in the bowels, and pepsin can't do that.

It requires many ingredients to form a perfect digester, and they must be in liquid form. Kodol has all those ingredients.

It does all that the stomach does—all that the bowels do. It digests any food—any mixture of foods—completely.

Partial digesters give only half-way help. There is always some food left to get hard, and irritate the stomach lining.

That irritation, even though slight, continues the inflammation. That is why the stomach fails to regain its strength. A weak stomach is like a lame ankle. Use or abuse it and it will never get well.

But, give it complete rest—do all its work for it—and Nature very quickly restores its normal power.

You can't do this by dieting, for there is always some food that doesn't digest. You can't do it with partial digesters.

You can't do it with tonics, for they spur the stomach to but temporary activity. It must be done with Kodol.

The results then are instant and complete. Every food that you eat is digested. You get your full nourishment, yet the stomach gets absolute rest.

Our Guarantee
On the first dollar bottle of Kodol your druggist gives a signed guarantee. If it fails to do all we claim, your druggist returns your money. You take no risk whatever. This $1.00 bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the 50c bottle. Made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

RACE IS WON BY JOS. M. BROWN

Elected Governor Over Governor Hoke Smith.

BY A MAJORITY OF 12,000

Hot Campaign in Georgia Was Brought to a Close.

CONTEST WAS A BITTER ONE

Battle of Ballots for Governor Is Over and All Indications Point to Election of Joseph M. Brown by a Hand-some Majority

Atlanta, June 5.—One of the bitterest and hardest fought gubernatorial campaigns in many years in the state of Georgia has been brought to a close by a battle of ballots in which practically the whole voting strength of the state was brought out.

There were statewide officers, congressmen and county officers elected, but the interest centered at white heat throughout the state in the contest of Joseph M. Brown for governor and Governor Hoke Smith for reelection to that office.

The battle is now over and "Little Joe" Brown, as he has been called, who has never before been in politics or ran for an office, has won over his opponent, Hon. Hoke Smith, a veteran campaigner, present governor of the state, and the holder of many important public trusts in the past.

Returns from all parts of the state indicate practically beyond a doubt, that Joseph M. Brown has been nominated for governor by a majority approximating 12,389 votes.

This victorious sweep of the state over his opponent is somewhat of a surprise even to the friends of Mr. Brown.

Returns show that he won majorities in counties that were supposed to be for Governor Hoke Smith. Even in Fulton, the home county of his opponent, Mr. Brown is accredited with a majority of 1,720 votes, also carrying seven of the eight wards of the city of Atlanta, including his opponent's own ward. In fact, all of the large counties of the state give more or less majorities for Brown.

Sketch of Mr. Brown. "Little Joe" Brown, who was chosen by the sovereign voters of Georgia as their chief executive, is fifty-seven years of age and the son of Georgia's war governor.

In politics he is a democrat; in religion a Baptist.

He is descended from Scotch-Irish Protestants, who came to this country in the seventeenth century. His ancestors were hardy, honest and true men. His father was a contemporary of such illustrious Georgians as Lucius Q. C. Lamar, Thomas R. R. Cobb, Benjamin Harvey Hill, Robert G. Harper and John Stephens.

Governor-elect Joseph M. Brown inherits many of his father's traits. He is calm, deliberate, slow in making up his mind, but determined and unflinching once he is satisfied as to his course.

The expectations of Joseph M. Brown as a laborer, law student, railroad, business man and farmer, should qualify him to appreciate the struggles and sympathies with the needs of every class of Georgia citizens.

He has had a taste of almost every field of business activity. He is a profound student, an author, a business man and a reformer. Of an extremely reserved and retiring disposition, his various activities were not widely known until the present remarkable campaign for governor. It is inevitable that in a hot and spirited political struggle, a man's accomplishments will be discredited by the opposition and his abilities called into question. This is the fate that met Joseph M. Brown.

Mr. Brown was born in Canton, in Cherokee county, on December 23, 1831. His father was Senator Joseph R. Brown, and his mother, Elizabeth Grisham Brown.

Returns indicate the following elections for congressmen:

Charles Gordon Edwards elected in the first district, defeating B. K. Overstreet and W. W. Sheppard.

Judge J. M. Griggs won hands down in the second district.

E. B. Lewis was defeated in the third district by Dudley M. Hughes. This will be the only change in the present Georgia delegation in congress.

Colonel L. F. Livingston was re-elected in the fifth district over Jas. L. Mayson.

In the sixth, the indications are that Judge Charles L. Bartlett is successful, but the race was extremely close. O. H. B. Woodworth won in several counties.

In the ninth, T. M. Bell carried every county in his race for the commission to succeed himself.

ACCIDENT ON WARSHIP

Fatal Explosion on the Armored Cruiser Tennessee.

FOUR SAILORS MEET DEATH

Steam Pipe Bursts Under 235 Pounds Pressure, Killing Four Men and Injuring Ten Others—Government to Investigate Accident.

San Pedro, Cal., June 6.—A terrible accident occurred on board the United States armored cruiser Tennessee Friday morning. While the ship was steaming at 19 knots on a speed trial off Point Puenese, Cal., a steam pipe in the starboard engine room burst under 235 pounds pressure, killing four men and injuring ten others, all of the men in the compartment at the time.

The explosion, the cause of which is unknown, occurred only a few minutes after Admiral Uriel Sebree, Captain F. B. Howard and Chief Engineer Robertson had left the engine room on a tour of inspection.

Four of the men were instantly killed and two of the injured are expected to die.

Rear Admiral Sebree himself escaped death or serious injury in the fatal fire pit by a mere moment's time.

He had left the room where the explosion occurred not 50 seconds before the fatal blast. The admiral stood in the engine room adjoining the fire room with Chief Engineer Robertson and Captain Howard. His first intuition of the tragedy was as he mounted the ladder and a half-naked fireman leaped past him suffering from severe scalds.

Washington, June 6.—The cause of the accident on the armored cruiser Tennessee, in which four men were killed and a number injured, caused by the bursting of a steam pipe, while the vessel was off the California coast, will be thoroughly examined into by a board of investigation or court of inquiry to be appointed by Admiral Sebree. Upon the results of this inquiry will depend the question whether any of the officers are responsible for the accident and will also serve as a basis for any improvement in the machinery necessary to prevent a repetition of the accident. Admiral Sebree has telegraphed a report saying that the accident occurred at 11 o'clock in the morning, while the vessel was under full power, the four inch boiler tube bursting. He said that the injured men were to be transferred to the hospital at Los Angeles.

The admiral's report gives the list of dead and injured practically as given in the press dispatches.

There have been a number of serious accidents to naval vessels in recent years, but the officials claim that the number is smaller and the results less serious than in foreign countries.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS AUTO.

Death Strikes Alabama Specialist While Out Riding.

Birmingham, Ala., June 6.—Dr. V. E. Holloway, a specialist here, dropped dead in his automobile while on a spin out in Woodlawn, a suburb. Heart disease was the cause of his death.

The man's foot slipped off a pedal of the automobile when he received the attack which caused the machine to back up against a fence alongside of the road. Passersby found the dead man in the car.

Dr. Holloway was about sixty years of age and is survived by a family.

Mme. Gould Asks Delay.

Paris, June 5.—Counsel for Mme. Anna Gould has applied to the civil tribunal to grant her a delay in the payment of $24,000 to Mme. Nemidoff, a singer, for a necklace purchased by her former husband, Count Boni de Castellane, pointing out that her income now is only $8,000 per month and that it would be impossible to pay such a large sum immediately. The court consented to the payment of $8,000 each three months to the singer.

Pistol Duel at Mobile.

Mobile, Ala., June 6.—In a street duel in the "restricted districts" Friday night, Thomas Barry, a river pilot, was shot three times, once seriously, and Peter Jackson, a river boat engineer, was shot once in the calf of the left leg. The difficulty originated from a misunderstanding which took place several weeks ago. Both parties refused to discuss the matter other than, after a few words, the shooting began.

Parole Post Convention.

Washington, June 5.—A parole post convention between the United States and Uruguay was finally approved at the cabinet meeting and becomes effective by being signed in the new future.

Emory College Commencement.

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., June 6.—The seventy-second annual commencement of Emory college is now in progress, having been begun with appropriate exercises Friday.

DEAF MADE TO HEAR.

Johnson, Great Specialist, Treats Two

Months of the Deafness. Chicago, June 5.—Operating the gold of millions, Dr. Albert Johnson, of Berlin, one of the greatest eye and ear surgeons in the world, operated out of pure mercy and without price on two unfortunate walls of the deafness.

The skill of the famous surgeon, for which the wealthy men and women of Chicago have in vain begged and pleaded with offers of fortunes and which at last was given for nothing, resulted in two cures. The children, who had been deaf, were made to hear.

Dr. Jansen came across the sea to attend the recent sessions of the American Medical association. The children upon whom Dr. Jansen operated and to whom he restored their hearing, are Willie Simpson, eight years old, and Marion Stuhler, three years old.

It was impossible for the fathers and the mothers of these children of poverty to gain an audience with the world-famous Berlin surgeon, but they wrote him two pathetic letters in which they told him of the great affliction that had befallen their little ones and begged him to cure them.

GATHERING OF VETERANS.

Every Train Carrying Crowds to Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala., June 6.—Many veterans and visitors are arriving on every train for the confederate reunion here next week and the indications now are that the attendance will be the largest at any reunion ever held.

The decorations of the city already cover several blocks and one hundred men are at work putting up bunting and the pictures of generals and hundreds of little flags.

The police department has placed men in citizens clothes at the depots to meet all incoming trains to keep out of catch the light-fingered gentry if possible. Peddlers will be arrested except they have a year's license. Hotel Gordon at the fair grounds will open Monday.

Howard Carried to Montgomery.

Mobile, Ala., June 6.—A special train from Montgomery, Ala., says that Kinley Howard, the young man who killed George Bagley, of Andalusia, claiming defense of his sister, and who was at his recent trial at Andalusia sentenced to fifty years' imprisonment, was brought to Montgomery and lodged in the county jail. Howard will remain in Montgomery until his attorneys take their case to the highest courts in their efforts to free their client. Howard, since the sensational killing of Bagley, has been on the second floor of the new jail in Montgomery county, the sheriff of Covington county being afraid that mob violence would be attempted.

Brushing Up For Long Voyage.

San Francisco, June 6.—The various battleships of the Atlantic fleet are rapidly being put in shape for their long voyage to the antipodes. The Connecticut came off Hunter's point dry dock Thursday and Friday the Louisiana was towed into the dock. The Louisiana will be cleaned and painted by her own crew under the supervision of an officer in the Mare Island yard. The Minnesota will go into dry dock June 11 and will be followed June 15 by the Vermont and on June 19 the Kansas will dock.

Former Senator Jones' Funeral.

Washington, June 5.—The funeral of former Senator James K. Jones, of Arkansas, was held at the family residence in this city, many of his colleagues and representatives of the Washington bar attending. Floral tributes were received from every part of the country. Rev. J. W. Duffy of Harrisonburg, Va., officiated. The burial was in Rock Creek cemetery.

Called to Atlanta Church.

Mobile, Ala., June 6.—A special from Selma, Ala., says that Rev. A. A. Little, pastor of the Broad Street Presbyterian church of this city, has been tendered a call by the Westminster Presbyterian church of Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Little has been the pastor of the Broad Street Presbyterian church for the past six years.

Dropped Dead of Heart Disease.

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—Hon. Peter White, of Marquette, one of the most prominent men in the upper peninsula of Michigan, dropped dead here in front of the city hall. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause of death.

Sporting Man Near Death.

Chicago, June 5.—George Siler, the well-known sporting man and prize fight referee, is said to be at the point of death. He has suffered for some time from angina pectoris, which has recently assumed a critical phase.

Fierce Cat Attacked People.

New York, June 6.—Five persons suffered severe injuries at Brooklyn when a large cat ran wildly through the street attacking everyone it passed until it was killed. All persons who were bitten were advised to seek the Pasteur treatment.

KILLED FATHERLESS WIFE.

Convict Released, Had His Revenge and Then Returned to Prison.

Remo, June 5.—A convict named Brandolesio, aged twenty-seven, succeeded in escaping from prison at Canaan, near Bari. All efforts to catch him proved fruitless, although the police sent telegrams throughout Italy, watched all the railway stations and airports, and searched the woods.

Recently, to the great astonishment of the prison, Brandolesio returned to the prison, and calmly asked to be taken back. At first he refused to explain his flight or his return, but at last he gave his reason. While in prison he had heard that his wife was unfaithful, and he conceived it to be his duty to punish her.

He escaped from prison, went to his native village, and killed his wife by means of a hatchet, and threw her body into a ditch. His task accomplished, he returned to prison.

Brandolesio's story was at first disbelieved, and he was regarded as being mad. However, inquiries established the veracity of all the details, and led to the discovery of the victim's body.

Brandolesio assured the governor that he was quite willing to spend the remainder of his life in prison, and he promised never to attempt to escape now that his accounts are settled.

MURDER MANIA SEIZED BOY.

Tells Police That He Killed Two Boys and a Girl.

Norwood, Mass., June 5.—After startling the police by declaring that he had killed two boys in Brooklyn last March, Anthony Santo, a fourteen-year-old boy, later told the authorities that he was guilty of the killing of six-year-old Louise Staula at Dedham, on May 11.

The death of the Staula girl has been a mystery and an inquest is now in progress. Her body was found in a field. Santo made his statement about the Staula girl while being questioned regarding his earlier confession, in which he said that he killed James and Frank Meriso in Brooklyn. The police believe the boy's mind has been affected by illness during the past few years, but they will hold him pending further investigation.

In his statement about the Staula girl young Santo said:

"When I saw her I had a mad spell. I struck the girl once. Then I picked up a rock and she jumped when I threw. When I struck her with the rock she fell. I thought she was dead. I started to pray to help her and make her get better. When she fell she wasn't quite dead. I stayed there awhile."

TENNESSEE FOR BRYAN.

Nebraska Appears To Be Unanimous Choice for Presidency.

Nashville, Tenn., June 5.—That W. J. Bryan is the choice of Tennessee democracy for the presidential nomination at Denver was demonstrated Saturday by the practically unanimous action of the executive committees of the ninety-six counties in the state.

The sentiment is very generally voiced in resolutions adopted. Instructions to the various delegates to the state convention here June 27, which selects national delegates, indicated that the delegates-at-large from Tennessee will be L. D. Tyson, of Knoxville; G. T. Fitzgibbon, of Memphis, and United States Senators Jas. B. Frazier and Robert L. Taylor.

Boat Capsized; Young Lady Drowns.

Florence, S. C., June 5.—Miss Kate Knoblock, formerly of Macon, Ga., but lately a stenographer in this place, was drowned Saturday afternoon by the overturning of a boat in a mill pond near here. She had gone out with a party of friends for an outing, and had then embarked in the boat for a row. Miss Knoblock was very popular here, and her death was cast a gloom over the town. She was about twenty-three years of age.

Child's Body Found in Box Car.

Mount Pleasant, Pa., June 5.—The dead body of Anna Lucinski, nine-year-old daughter of Michael Lucinski, a Polish miner, of Standard, Pa., was found in a box car at that place. Her throat indicates that she was choked to death after having been outraged. Charles Williams, a young negro, who found the dead girl, is being detained by officials who hope to obtain from him more about the crime than he has yet revealed.

Commencement at Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., June 5.—Commencement week at Princeton university was formally ushered in when the time-honored baccalaureate sermon to the senior class was delivered by President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university. The town is full of visitors drawn here to attend the commencement exercises this week, and many of them attended divine services in Alexander Hall, where the baccalaureate sermon was delivered.

Fire Destroys Machine Plant.

Gallipolis, O., June 5.—Fire of unknown origin has destroyed the plant of the Gallipolis Foundry and Machine company, entailing a loss of $50,000, with insurance of $15,000. The firm is one of the oldest establishments of its kind in the Ohio valley.

REVIVED INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY.

Prospect of the Iron Industry of United States Is in the South.

Birmingham, June 5.—The future of the iron industry of this country is in the south, was the statement made by Mr. W. P. Snyder, a leading ironmaster of Pittsburgh, Pa., in discussing conditions recently with the Manufacturers' Record.

In pointing out reasons for his faith in the great future of southern iron interests Mr. Snyder said that within six years the shipments of lake ores will reach as much as 60,000,000 tons a year, and, in connection with reference to the rapid depletion of the Lake Superior supplies under this tremendous drain, he spoke of the very great development which is taking place in the south based on the iron ore and coal resources of this section.

The heavy sales of iron at Birmingham during the past two weeks to probably 500,000 tons, indicate the steady expansion at that point, and the announcement, made at the celebration of the opening of the Illinois Central line to that city, that that road had given a contract for 40,000 tons of Birmingham rolls, is a significant illustration of how railroad and industrial development in the south go hand in hand and is suggestive of a turning toward revived industrial activity.

STRIKE OF SWITCHMEN.

All Those Employed by N. C. & St. L. Are Called Out.

Atlanta, June 6.—Val Fitzpatrick, vice grand master of the Brotherhood of Railway trainmen, has sent orders to all the switchmen and yardmen employed by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad ordering them to strike immediately. He said that about 400 men would be affected. The order followed a telegram sent to J. W. Thomas, president of the road. This telegram read:

"Unless you reinstate all men who left the service Tuesday and those who were discharged for being members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, strike will be extended to your entire system. Answer by 6 o'clock."

CUT WOMAN'S THROAT.

She Was Retiring When Assailant Slipped Under Her Bed.

St. Louis, Mo., June 5.—As she slipped her night gown over her head preparatory to retiring Thursday night, Mrs. Elizabeth Garling was seized by a man, who had scrambled from underneath the bed, and her throat was cut. She lost consciousness and is not expected to recover.

Her assailant, who is said to be a former sailor, escaped.

Believes Sight Will Be Restored.

Washington, June 5.—Thomas P. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, who is undergoing treatment at the Episcopal hospital here, firmly believes, it is said, that his sight will be restored. In the event of any improvement through the treatment, a slight operation will probably be performed. The treatment supplies nourishment to the retina of the left eye, which is separated from the optic nerve.

To Complete Continental Hall.

Washington, June 5.—Continental hall, the home of the Daughters of the American Revolution in this city, will be rushed through to completion a loan of $200,000 having been negotiated. The money is to be repaid with interest at 5 per cent at the rate of $25,000 a year. The amount already spent in the construction of the edifice is about $265,000.

Ovation to Fleet.

Victoria, B. C., June 5.—Mail advices from Australia state that great preparations are being made to receive the American battleship fleet. There will be a round of banquets, balls, picnics, regattas, cricket and baseball matches. Sydney and Melbourne propose to spend $250,000 each to entertain the fleet.

China Refuses Request of Japs.

Peking, June 5.—China has refused the request made by Japan for permission to station twenty men in Chinese territory, over the Korean border, for the purpose of apprehending leaders of the Korean insurgents seeking to make their escape in that direction.

Dam Broke, Much Damage Done.

Enid, Okla., June 5.—Mosier's dam, one mile west of Enid, broke, driving 200 people in the neighborhood of Enid from their homes and flooding real estates. A heavy rain preceded the breaking of the dam. Fifty bridges were washed out in Garfield county.

Was Given Fifty Years.

Andalusia, Ala., June 5.—After being out twenty-four hours, a jury returned a verdict of guilty, second degree, against Henry Howard, and fixed his punishment at fifty years in the penitentiary. Howard shot and killed George W. Bagley at Andalusia last summer.

Ship Taken to Hills.

Tobacco, Pa., June 5.—The ship left here Thursday for his residence in the hills outside of Tobacco, where he is accustomed to spend his summer.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson XI.—Second Quarter,
For June 14, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John xxi, 1-25.
Memory Verse, 16—Golden Text,
Matt. xxviii, 19—Commentary
Prepared by Rev. D. M. Moore.

(Copyright, 1907, by American Bible Society.)

All the Bible classes and those who gather at our Wednesday evening service have been remembering during the season of 1907 these last two chapters in John, from two to four verses a week, with a brief meditation from week to week upon the new portion. We have found it most profitable, and it has led at least some
to know Him better as the Risen One, having all power and speaking peace
to His own.

In our last lesson we dwelt upon the necessity and the result of believing, and it seems to me that we have here an evidence of the lack of that faith which is so essential in a life unto Him. It would seem that they had not seen Him for some time. They were evidently hungry, food was probably scarce, and money, too, and Simon Peter, who is always first in some things, says, "I go a-fishing."

(3) Six others readily join him, and they spend a night in fruitless toil.
They caught nothing. He said on that last night, "Without Me ye can do nothing" (xvi, 5), and our utter helplessness apart from Him is strongly set forth in the saying, "Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything as of ourselves, but our sufficiency is of God" (ii Cor. iii, 5). There is a possibility of a Christian's life being lost. I mean his works, his service and he himself saved as by fire, because he has been accomplishing
"nothing" in his own wisdom and strength (i Cor. iii, 13-15). However lawful and commendable a thing may seem, if it is not of God it will prove a fruitless effort, a nothing.

He had never lost sight of them. He had seen them toiling fruitlessly and pitied them and loved them, and in the morning He stood on the shore with the question, "Children—margin, 'disciples'—have ye any meat?" They confessed their emptiness, and then at His command they cast the net again, and He caused it to be filled with 153 great fishes. He has power over all creatures. A little fish brought a piece of money to Him; a great fish took care of Jonah; ravens brought bread and flesh to Elijah. The other day in Egypt a converted sheik who is working with a missionary friend of mine was like to perish of thirst out in the desert. He cried to Him who has said,
"Ask and ye shall receive," and was soon called by name by a friend of his who on a donkey was chasing another donkey which had run away. This friend had not only water, but bread and eggs. Thus the prayer for water was answered by this exceeding abundantly and a donkey to ride on. Let those laugh who please. We also will laugh and rejoice in the Lord our God.

Who prepared the fire of coals and the fish and the bread which the disciples saw when they came to land? Even the same One who prepared the meal for Elijah in the wilderness (i Kings xix, 5, 6). When the disciples broke their fast it was not upon the fish which they had caught, but upon the meal prepared for them. They might have waited and trusted, have prayed more and toiled less. See the Lord ministering to them (verse 13).
For He is ever ministering. He said, "I am among you as He that serveth." He is still our ministering High Priest, ever living to make intercession for us.
Let us trust Him fully and never doubt or question or be offended at Him.

In verses 1 and 14 note that Jesus showed Himself, for it is always Himself we need, knowing that having Him we have all. If any one should say or think I wish He would reveal Himself to me, let such remember
I Sam. xiii, 21, "The Lord revealed Himself to Samuel by the word of the Lord." There is no revelation of Himself that does not bring to us great searching of heart, as when Isaiah,
having seen Him, cried, "Woe is me,
for I am undone!" Job, having seen Him, said, "I abhor myself." Daniel and John were similarly affected by the sight of Him (Jas. vi, 5; Job xiii, 6; Dan. x, 8; Rev. i, 17). So now Simon Peter is searched by the thrice repeated "Lovest thou Me?" and the threefold commission, "Feed my lambs, sheep and goats." It did him good ever afterward, and he wrote in his first letter, "Feed the flock of God" (i Pet. v, 2). There are many flocks today who are but poorly fed, although there is such an abundance of living bread and strong meat and pure milk and living water. But the Chief Shepherd will see to it in His time, and He has already pronounced a woe upon the pastors who feed themselves and not the flock. As He looks upon us and upon the millions who never yet tasted living bread, can we not hear Him say, "Lovest thou Me? Give ye them to eat." He has put every believer in trust with the gospel and has appointed us stewards of the grace of God and of the mysteries of God, and for these things we must give account at His judgment seat. Then shall it be seen how much He has wrought in and through us and how much has been mere "nothings" in His sight—wood, hay and stubble to be burned up as dross.

When our thoughts turn to others and His way with them, may we hear Him say: "What is that to thee? Follow thou Me" (verse 22).

Camps.

Editor Banner—Will you please allow me space for a few words as I haven't seen anything from this place? Health of this community is good, and farmers are progressing very nicely with their work.
Corn is looking reasonably well,
cotton very sorry.

Well, I would just like to say a few words on present topics, that is, the ones of most importance to us, and not only us, but to our fellowman, for we are taught to do unto others even as we would have them do unto us. But oh how it makes us sigh and wonder when we reflect upon the great distance of which many are living and complying with this great command,
for Christ said love thy neighbor as thyself, and not only this, but to have such love for him as will enable you to forgive him of all his wrongs toward you, for Christ also said that we should forgive our brother even as our Father forgives us, and when he was questioned as to the number of times if it should be seven, he said not only seven but seventy times seven. So you see there is but comparatively few of us living up to this command,
for it seems in this day and time
that everyone is truly for self, regardless of his neighbor. This ought not to be, and how can we allow it to be, knowing as we do that we have not the life and body of a brute, therefore have a soul to save or lose, just which we choose?

Some educate themselves thinking by education to become great and famous men; others seek after wealth and after one thing and some another, but foolish is he who says I will first of all earn a competence and secure a good position in life, and will then give my mind to God and higher things. The man who places his horse before the cart, or expects a rose to bloom on a thistle bush is wise compared to him who seeks material things and comforts before he seeks God.
Seek God first and then all things will be added. All misery and unhappiness is due to man's foolish seeking of comforts before he seeks the Comforter, for truly one does not become a saint by discovering the sins of others, for if this was true then we would have a heaven of earth. Then the burden you bear for another is the best badge
you can wear as a Christian.

So let us be careful and watch and pray that our sin may comfort
us, which we are unable to bear,
for the Lord has said I will not tempt you above that of which you are able to bear. Yet we see many who give way to those temptations and therefore become an easy prey for Satan, for he is going about like a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour. So there is room for a waking up of all and a work for all to accomplish, for we were not created merely just for ornaments as some imagine, but to do God's bidding. Let us see and understand as we should and as God intended we should do, and I am sure all will be bettered thereby. Even in this enlightened time with all advantages for man's well-fare and future good, some will steal, rob and kill and buy without probability of paying, and some even think that a newspaper is like salvation—a free thing.

But from a view in general it appears that if salvation is free,
there will many lacking and wanting at the final roll call unless we live more adhesive to the Lord's commands in the future than we have in the past. Success to all.
THE CAMP BOY.

NOTICE

To the members of the Chilton
County Singing Convention:

You will please take notice that the date of the next annual session has been changed from July 4-5 to June 27-28. Prof. J. D. Patton has promised to be with us on Sunday, June 28. It is said that Prof.
Patton has broken the record of the world as a successful teacher and it will speak well for our convention to have Prof. Patton attend our meeting. Let us remember the date and all of the members try to be present both days. We are expecting this to be the grandest meeting of the kind ever held in Chilton county. The program of said meeting will appear later.

Yours in the work,
JAMES FRANKLIN, Sec.

A Mountain of Alum.

In China, twelve and a half miles from the village of Louche, there is a mountain of alum which in addition to being a natural curiosity is a source of wealth for the inhabitants of the country, who dig from it yearly tons of alum. The mountain is not less than ten miles in circumference at its base and has a height of 1,940 feet.
The alum is obtained by quarrying large blocks of stone, which are first heated in great furnaces and then in vats filled with boiling water. The alum crystallizes out and forms a layer about six inches in thickness. This layer is subsequently broken up into blocks weighing about ten pounds each.

There will be a children's day
at New Prospect church, 5 miles west of Mt. Creek, on the 4th of July. Everybody is invited. We are anticipating a grand time that day, as there are several good speakers on the program, the children will also have free recitations which will be very interesting. We would be glad to see a large congregation
there that day, to enjoy the good things (both temporal and spiri-

Editor Banner—May I have space in this issue of the good old Banner to tell some of the recent happenings over here in our little shady corner?

On last Saturday eve, a large crowd of enthusiastic boys and girls gathered at the home of Mr. L. B. Broadhead for the purpose of having an entertainment. At seven o'clock a nice supper was served, which was enjoyed by all present.

Supper being ended at about eight o'clock, Messrs. Hugh and Oscar Davenport and Clayton Kincaid of Mulberry made some delightful music on their stringed instruments, assisted on the organ by Mr. J. L. Malone. Then about nine o'clock we were summoned to the dining room again by Mr. Monroe Hayes where ice-cream and cake was served in abundance.

After a part of the catables had been exhausted we returned to the parlor and had half an hour of music and jovial stories told. We were glad to have those good people of Mulberry with us, and wish to thank those young men for the nice music. Come again.

Our literary school is progressing nicely under the management of Prof. Bone.

We regret to say that Mrs. McCary is very sick.

Messrs. J. L. and W. E. Hayes went to Clanton on business lately.

Mrs. Belle Campbell of Sumnerfield is with her mother.

Some of our young people went to Pilgrims Rest Sunday and report a nice time.

Well, the boys over here will be glad when leap year is gone, for our girls seem very timid.

Trusting that you, Mr. Editor, will not get worried at this foolishness, I will quit. Amo.

Badly Sprained Ankle Cured.

Three years ago our daughter sprained her ankle and had been suffering terribly for two days and nights—had not slept a minute. Dr. Stallings, of Butler, Tenn., told us of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. We went to the store that night and got a bottle of it and bathed her ankle two or three times and she went to sleep and had a good night's rest. The next morning she was much better and in a short time could walk around and had no more trouble with her ankle.—E. M. When food fails to digest, you must Help the Stomach

It is like a lame ankle. It will never get well while you use and abuse it. But rest it completely and Nature restores its strength.

You need a perfect digester. Not pepain alone, for pepain digests albumen only.

There are starch and fats and phosphates which must be digested too.

And half of digestion takes place in the bowels. You must supply what is needed there.

It is not an easy matter to create a perfect digester. It has taken us years.

There are plenty of ways to digest part of the food, but that isn't sufficient.

A digester must deal with a mixture of foods.

It must do all that the stomach does when well, and all that the bowels do.

Kodol alone will do that.

If any food remains undigested, it irritates the stomach lining. The pain tells you that.

That is why the stomach fails to recover—the irritation makes it impossible.

Kodol leaves no food undigested—leaves nothing to cause irritation or pain.

The result is, the stomach gets well very quickly.

Dieting is unnecessary.

The body requires a variety of food. If you stint it, some parts are robbed of their nourishment.

Eat what you need, and let Kodol digest it. For food will do more for weak stomachs than medicine.

Our Guarantee

On the first dollar bottle of Kodol your druggist gives a signed guarantee. If it fails to do all we claim, your druggist returns your money. You take no risk whatever. This $1.00 bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the 50c bottle. Made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

The Merry Widow

By ALBERT PAYSON TERNHUNE

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY HENRY W. SAVAGE

CHAPTER II. Old Love and New.

"Well, here I am," announced a tall, slender youth, entering the deserted salon a few minutes later with Nish at his side. "I'm here at my country's call, all right, but my confounded country doesn't seem to be on hand to meet me."

His graceful walk was not wholly steady, and there was a flush on the handsome young face. The late arrival was Prince Danilo of Marsovia, attaché of the Marsovian legation at Paris. As a diplomat he had scarcely secured a success, for he had a delightful normal aversion to work and a simple, unassuming joy in the amusements of Maxim's and his clubs.

"I'll hunt up his excellency at once,"

"No," replied the widow, "but I'm lost in this room if you haven't made a thorough search here already."

Nish, thinking her hurried back with her cavalier to the doorway, Nish idly began her search, but Casca interrupted her.

"That can wait," he pleaded, "but I cannot. Won't you hear me?"

"Certainly," answered Sonia cheerfully. "You are going to propose, aren't you?"

"Ah, you read my secret!"

"It required little cleverness. You men are all alike."

"But no man ever before loved as I love!" protested Casca, his voice unconsciously rising in his emotion. "You are all the world to me. Until I met you I never thought I could—"

"Ring off!" grumbled Danilo in his sleep, vaguely bothered by the loud voice.

Sonia started.

"Some one is here!" she whispered, pointing toward the hidden couch.

"You are mistaken," contradicted Casca, "and even if it were so I am willing for all the world to know how I feel."

"I'll hunt up his excellency at once,"

THE LATE ARRIVAL WAS PRINCE DANILLO.

Nish was assuring the prince. "Are you quite in condition to see him, if I may?"

"Oh, I'm all right enough," yawned Danilo, "only I forgot to go to bed last night. If I could reel off a few yards of sleep—"

"Perhaps I could find you some place to—"

"I'd prefer a desk, if you can find one. I always sleep best at my desk. But I suppose—"

"There is a couch, sir, over in the corner behind the palms. How would that do? You could get a nice nap there, and in a little while I'd find the secretary for you. But, sir, if I may say so, why do you waste your life in dissipation when you might marry and settle down? Just think, now! Would you own a better world while than all your clubs? I leave it to you!"

"You leave it to me?" retorted Danilo. "Then I make it clubs."

"But, if I may say so—"

"You may not," interrupted Danilo, crossing to the couch and throwing himself at full length among its cushions. "By by! If you're waking, call me early!"

He spread a handkerchief over his face and in a moment was sound asleep, leaving Nish to tiptoe out in search of Popoff.

For a few minutes no sound was audible in the empty salon save the faint swell and fall of dance music, emanating by the stumorous prince's heavy breathing.

Jolidon. Both looked anxious.

"How careless of me!" the ambassador's wife was exclaiming. "Where can I have dropped the miserable fan? If my husband should pick it up and find on it those words you were foolish enough to write— I wonder if I left it in the niche on the stairs when we were sitting there. Let's go back and see."

They turned back, almost colliding with Sonia, who was entering Casca directly behind her.

"Oh, Mme. Sadova," asked Natalia, "you haven't seen anything of a white frock fan? I've looked everywhere, and—"

A long, blisful, sonorous snore from the couch.

Sonia laughed, her eyes alight with amusement.

"Snoring and romance don't go well together, marquis," she observed, "and as the snoring doesn't seem likely to stop the romance must. You say you are in love with me, and I know you are in love with my fortune. Good-by."

"You misjudge me cruelly!" Casca protested.

"Oh, no, I don't! Men are all alike. Good-by."

As the discomfited marquis made his way wrathfully from the room Sonia mischievously crept across to the couch. There lay the man, sound asleep, his face still covered by the handkerchief. Sonia touched his hair.

"Scat!" roared Danilo, giving his head a shake that let the handkerchief fall from his face.

"Danilo!" jumped the widow, starting back.

At sound of his name the prince sat up, dazed and blinking. His wondering eyes fell on the woman, and, with an exclamation of utter amazement, he stumbled to his feet and stood staring incredulously at her.

"Sonia!" he exclaimed. "Sonia!"

Then, recovering himself, he bowed stiffly and said:

"I beg your pardon, madame."

"No, I beg yours," she replied. "Pray go on sitting."

"You don't remember me?" he asked, surprised.

"Not in the very least," she answered, moving away.

"You called my name."

"You were asleep then. That was different."

"And now I am awake—to the joy of seeing you again."

"The joy is all your own. Is it an surprise to find me in Paris? I am here enjoying my wealth and freedom."

"I congratulate you on both, especially the freedom."

"Yes, freedom is one of your fads, I believe," remarked Sonia, "especially freedom from marriage. Do you still make a habit of avoiding marriage—at the last moment?"

"Sonia, you are unjust. If it had been with me you should be my wife now, not another man's widow."

"If it rested with you?" she mimicked. "Well, let the whole story rest now. It's forgotten."

"By you, perhaps—never by me."

"Oh, no! I remember it every now and then for my own amusement. But it is hard to think of myself as the little Marsovian peasant maid to whom the dashing cavalier officer, Prince Danilo, was once engaged and whom his rich old uncle at the last moment forbade to marry because of her poverty. How differently that same rich old uncle would look on the match today! Twenty millions is a pretty dowry."

"At least it seems you didn't break your heart over losing me," sneered Danilo.

"No; my plebeian heart stood the shock excellently. I soon found consolation in an elderly husband who lived just one week after the wedding and left me all his wealth."

"Yes, I heard how your father forced you into the match. Next time you can choose a husband to suit yourself."

"Why should I marry again? I am rich, free. I have everything."

"Including love?" he asked, his eyes devouring her fragile beauty.

"I don't believe in love," scoffed Sonia. "All men are alike. Dozens of them are after my money and make love to me because they can't get it without me."

"Men are not all fortune hunters," he denied hotly. "I for one."

"So they all say. Each says 'I love you!' Each means my fortune."

"They do?" cried Danilo, in rage at the strong insinuation. "Well, here's one that doesn't. I for one shall never say to you, 'I love you!'"

A strange smile stole across her face. She came very close to where he stood; so close that his nostrils; so close that her breath was warm upon his lips; so close that his bewildered soul staggered in vain to hide from the glory in her eyes. Her voice was a musical whisper as she asked:

"You'll never say to me 'I love you'?"

"There was an infamy of allurement in the tempting words. Danilo, with a mighty effort, shook off the spell and shouted:

"Never! Never! Never!"

"That's a comfort!" she said coldly, drawing away and seeking to veil her keen disappointment. "But," she added more softly, "why not say it if you really want to?"

"I don't want to," he declared sulkily.

"And you promise faithfully you'll never say to me, 'I love you'?"

Again she was perilously close to him. Again his eyes tore themselves free from the pleading seductiveness of hers as he reiterated:

"I promise! I'm not going to make a fool of myself or be made a fool of."

"Is that a declaration of war?" queried Sonia.

"No—of friendship. Do you mean to say if I asked you to be my wife you would merely laugh at me?"

"Probably. All men are alike."

"They are not, and in time I'll prove it to you."

Before she could answer the ambassador and several of the guests came into the room. At first opportunity Popoff drew Danilo aside.

"Prince," said he impressively, "you have now been attached to this legation nearly four months and—"

"Few of my attachments last so long," observed Danilo.

"You refer to your love affairs? I have heard of them. They have brought you to the brink of ruin. You are almost penniless. Here is my plan to save you, also to give you a chance to save your country from bankruptcy. To what?" cried Danilo.

"To marry—beautiful woman, my boy—twenty millions—Mme. Sonia Sadova! Hey?"

"Never!" returned Danilo, angrily, as he rose to end the interview.

"Then a Frenchman will marry her, and her fortune and our country will be ruined."

"I won't marry her," repeated Danilo, "and she won't marry me. But for my country's sake I'll keep any Frenchman from marrying her."

"But how?"

"You shall see!"

POSTAGE STAMPS

Wash. and Gov. and the

"If we waste time, we do stamps," said a man the other day. "We Americans are about the most wasteful people on the face of the earth."

"Uncle Sam is worth more than a million dollars in pocket stamps. The government stamps anything by such carelessness ways gains."

"How many stamps do you have in a drawer of your desk or in a box of your pocketbook and never again until you come across one and then, while rummaging months later? Then they are into the wastebasket."

"Lots of people are careless about putting stamps on envelopes and wrappers. The result is that before the stamp has been put on, the letter has been thrown away at the other end of the line."

"A great many more folks put much postage. They stick three stamps to a package and then they are too indolent to take the trouble to have the package weighed and to see how much postage it requires."

"If too little postage is put on a letter, Uncle Sam simply holds it and the other end until the postage has been paid. But if too much is put on, Uncle Sam simply pockets the excess to which he is not entitled."

—Chicago Tribune

FOR REALISM

Robert Louis Stevenson's

A story about Robert Louis

son not generally known, says

the New York Sun, is told

Stevenson's grandson, Auld

When Mr. Strong was a boy, he used to watch him at the "text room." And often it was that the blither boy of the time would suggest to the man that he should make the floor positively bare

his feet.

Mr. Stevenson looked at him, but complete absolute playing the whole thing

the harder of the two. Finally he tried his vessel, closed

the door and began walking to some object which he had in mind.

"This was too much for him. He was in the name, Mr.

Stevenson, in his sickbed, and he died at the recollection of

"Swim, you swim."

CORRESPONDENCE.

Jacksonville, Ala., June 22, 1908

Editor Banner—Will you please allow me a short space in The Banner?

I am sure that I have friends that would like to hear from this place.

Well I can say that the weather is hot up here, and we are expecting rain soon. I don't think I have heard any of the farmers speak of needing rain, as rain has been plentiful up here.

I believe Chilton county is the first to report having cotton blooms.

I often go up on the mountains to get a view of the berries. People gather them in large quantities.

It won't be long until my school will close and I will get to be with you all in the watermelon cuttings.

I will try to visit you all so look out for me. I will leave Jacksonville about July 6, and I will feel like a bird just out of his cage, for
